ALLIES REPORTED VICTORIOUS AT TIRLEMONT AND ST. FROND

AMERICAN RED CROSS APPEAL

Reassuring Reports Regarding Americans, Who Are Now Able to Get Money--German Atrocities as Seen By An American Newspaper Man--Officials Investigating Rise In Cost of Food Products.

Brussels, Aug. 13. (Central News Cable.)—The fighting yesterday between the allied armies and Germany in the neighborhood of Tirlemont and St. Trond resulted in a complete victory for the allies. It is officially stated that the Germans lost three-fifths of their fighting force, while the remainder of them were driven eastward across the river in great disorder during the melee.

A Belgian cavalry division became engaged with a mixed Geman brigade but sustained little loss. The German forward movement reported earlier this morning was nothing more than a small force sent out to collect the wounded.

It is announced that the 1914 class of Reservists will soon be called to the colors.

Washington, Aug. 13.—President Wilson, in his capacity of President of the American Red Cross, today issued an appeal for funds addressed to the people of the United States.

Brussels, Aug. 13.—From A. J. Rorke, Central News Correspondent.)—I spent the whole of yesterday interviewing civil fugitives from the front, many interesting and blood-curdling experiences being related to me.

One of the most amazing stories of German atrocities was that told by M. Micher de Smeth, mayor of the village of Pontillas, situated between Liege and Namur, who arrived here yesterday. He says that five thousand German soldiers belonging to the Seventeenth Macklenburg Hussars, entered the village of Pontillas yesterday morning without resistance. They demanded food and although this was freely supplied to them they suddenly ran amuck shooting their carbines through the windows of the cottages like drunken cowboys. Two Belgian soldiers who were hidden in the village heatedly returned the fire whereupon the Germans in revenge killed an innocent man. They also put a rope around the neck of Joseph La Haye, a member of the village council, and dragged him through the streets.

They entered several houses and roughly ordered the residents whom they terrorized with revolvers, to telephone false news to other villages to the effect that everything was safe and that no Germans were in the neighborhood. The Mayor had previously warned the people in the event of such an occurrence to telephone in the Waloon patois, of which few Germans possess any knowledge. By this means other villages were warned of the approach of the foe.

The Mayor asserted that the Germans looted the stores and houses of the villagers in wholesale fashion. They also compelled some of the villagers to assist them in digging trenches and forced a number of old men to march before them with the object of preventing Belgian troops firing on them. The Mayor further declared that the Germans, finding that smooth pointed cartridges were inefficient, filled the ends until they were jagged, practically converting them into dum-dums.

Washington, Aug. 13—Secretary McAdoo, Chairman Underwood, of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee conferred for some time today on the best available method of raising $100,000,000 in revenue a year made necessary by the European war. The leying of a tax on patent, or proprietary medicines, on beer and the ordering of a stamp tax were canvassed.

It was the unanimous belief of the conferees that an increase in the income tax would be impracticable for reason that it could not be readily collected. Mr Underwood and Senator Simmons will confer at the Capitol later in the day on the draft of a general bill which will be submitted to Secretary McAdoo and probably be laid before the President before it is introduced.

President Wilson, today, called attention of Attorney General McReynolds to the rapidly soaring prices of foodstuffs. The administration announced its intention of proceeding rigorously and swiftly against any who conspired to raise the prices of food artificially.

Attorney General Mc Reynolds lost no time in replying to the President's communication on food prices. He informed the President that special agents of the department already had instructions to investigate the alleged situation and report at once.

Word was received today from Paris that official assurances had reached there from Germany that all Americans in Neuremberg are safe and well and that Archer M. Huntington, president of the American Geographical Society, reported to have been placed in confinement there, on suspicion of being a spy, is not being detained.

For nearly forty-eight hours not a word has reached the United States Government from Germany, according to the office of the Secretary of State. The counselor of the German embassy, acting in the absence of the ambassador, called at the department again today to urge that he be permitted the use of the commercial radio stations for the transmission of cipher diplomatic despatches. The German diplomat has also asked that the United States use its good offices for the transmission of such despatches via the London cable.

Reports that Ambassador Gerard had left Berlin for Amsterdam on his way to the United States at the instance of the State Department were denied by Sevretary Bryan today. He said that if Mr. Gerard had left Germany it was without the knowledge of the department.

The conferees on the shipping bill today made public their agreement on that measure. Following a final meeting this morning, the following provision was inserted and adopted: "Foreign built vessels may engage in the coastwise trade if registered pursuant to the provisions of this act within two years from its passage." This substitute amendment adopted throws the entire coastwise trade open to foreign built vessels admitted to American registry.

London, Aug. 13 (Central News Cable)—A despatch from Paris says that the forts of Liege are still holding out.

Following the announcement that a state of war exists between England and Austria-Hungary, the British Government immediately despatched an Admiralty order to the Mediterranean fleet to begin hostilities at once against Germany's ally. The Austrian fleet is at present in the Adriatic Sea.

A Trinidad despatch to the Central News states that the British steamer Drumcliffe en route from Buenos Aires to New York, has arrived there. The captain reported that on the way up the coast of South America the Drumcliffe was chased by a German cruiser which fired on her and destroyed the vessel's wireless apparatus.

At Gibralter more than fifty vessels of all nationalities have been stopped and their sailing prevented.

The Royal Mail Packet Company has arranged to have the S. S. Arcadian sail for New York. According to a list compiled by the American Citizens' Committee here forty-three steamers will sail from European ports for America before the end of August.

Copenhagen, Aug. 13 (Central News Cable)—Notwithstanding the warning of the British Admiralty to all ship owners concerning the presence of floating mines in the North Sea placed there by Germans, the Danish ship owners and exporters have decided to take the risk and allow their vessels carrying agriculture products to English ports, to make the journey. Several ships left here last night.

A Danish steamer which arrived here this morning from Antwerp, reports that angry mobs rushed into the harbor there and after ransacking several German vessels burned them to the waters edge while the crowd cheered for the allied forces and shouted, "Death to the Germans and down with the Kaiser."

Germany has removed her tariff restrictions against Denmark, but requires that shipment be in large quantities.

Rome, Aug. 13 (Central News Cable)—The Messagero says that the Marquis Macchi, the Italian ambas-

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Wright, of Front streeet, are visitors in Brooklyn, today, being called there to attend the funeral of Mr. Wright's aunt who passed away Monday noon.

WILD WEST SHOW TOMORROW.

Dunellen will have its first Wild West and Circus tomorrow, when the Tompkins show will appear here. There are said to be real cowgirls, real cowboys, real Indians and real Mexicans that Mr. Tomkins has secured by contract from ranches near his home in Western Texas. Indian races on horseback; the way they had to handle the law in '49 to stop horse and cattle stealing; the trials and troubles settlers had in getting to some point in the West; how the Indians annoyed them, etc.; also the Great Mountain Massacre will be shown. The show carries one of the old prairie schooners and in the hold-up there is an old stage coach that has history too long to publish now. There are about one hundred head of horses and broncos used in this part of the exhibition and the circus is furnished by Cooper & Whitby, who have always had one of America's best circuses. There will be a parade at noon; and a free exhibition on the show grounds at 1 and 7. Performances will begin at 2 and 8.

MRS. CODDINGTON DIES IN 92D YEAR

Mother of Former Sheriff L. M. Coddington Passes Away At Mt. Bethel.

Mrs. Julia Coddington, aged 92 years, widow of the late Thomas Coddington, one time sheriff of Somerset county, died at her home at Mt. Bethel, last evening. Mrs. Coddington's maiden name was Miss Julia Mundy, she being the daughter of the late Lewis Mundy, who was among the first settlers of Passaic valley. The Coddington, Mundy and Bird families were probably the first to enter upon this fertile stretch of land for the purpose of settling and cultivating the soil, all of these families acquiring farms in the vicinity of Mt. Bethel. From old records, it appears that both the Coddington and Mundy families settled in that section as far back as 1796.

Mrs. Coddington is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Bird, also of Mt. Bethel, and one son, Louis M. Coddington, who, like his father, was at one time a sheriff of Somerset county. The funeral services will be held at her late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

SHAMROCK AT BERMUDA.

New York, Aug. 13—The Shamrock IV., Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge yacht for the America's Cup, is still at Bermuda, but is expected to proceed to New York in a few days. The distance from Hamilton to New York is about a three days' run for the Shamrock IV. Reply to the New York Yacht Club's cable to the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, sent yesterday, suggesting that the cup races be postponed until next year, has not been received yet. There is no doubt, however, that there will be an agreement, and that, when the war disturbances in Europe have subsided, the clubs will arrange another racing date. The races were to have been held beginning September 10.

AMERICANS ARE SAFE.

Officials in Washington today received word from Paris to the effect that the Americans in Neuremberg are safe and well. Among the Americans at the latter place are Charles Scwhed, of this city and number of his relatives who formed a tourist party that was stopped by the trouble in Europe.

WAR NEWS

sador to America, who is in Rome, has been instructed to start immediately for Washington, respecting the offer of President Wilson to use his good offices for mediation between the warring nations.

Paris, Aug. 13.—To encourage commerce during the war, the French government, it is announced, will cover war risks on importations and exportations by sea. Vessels under the French flag will be covered to 80 per cent. of their value, while the total value of cargoes under the French flags of allies or neutral states will be covered in consideration of a premium.

A newspaper despatch received here this afternoon states that the Germans had shot the Mayor of Igney.

Amsterdam, Aug.13 (Central News Cable)—Heavy and continuous cannonading was heard today at Ruremonde, which is in the Dutch province of Limburg.

Tokio, Aug. 13—Telegraph communications between Japan and Europe is interrupted. It is believed the cable has been tampered with as a result of the recent announcement that Japan was ready to join England and her allies in the war against Germany and Austria.

Ottawa, Aug. 13—There is little doubt that a second Canadian contingent will be sent over the seas from the 25,000 men mobilized at Valcartier Camp. 21,000 will be chosen for the first division and the remaining 4,000 will serve as a number for a reserve of from 5,000 to 10,000 to meet the call for a second contingent for the front if necessary.

San Francisco, Aug. 13—The German cruiser Leipsig has called here for coal.

Shanghai, Aug. 13—The Japanese steamer Shikou Maru was seriously damaged today and one of her crew killed by a cannon shot fired from the British fort at Hong Kong while the vessel was entering the harbor.

Rio de Janiero, Aug. 13—Brazilian warships have been despatched on station at Para, Permanbuco, Bahia and Santos. In order to assure that the neutrality of Brazil will be respected, the Government has taken steps to prevent merchant vessels from using their wireless installations in Brazilian ports, and will permit them to take on only enough coal necessary for their voyage.

New York, Aug. 13—J. P. Morgan & Company, today, received the following cablegram from their Paris house, Morgan, Harjes & Company: "Please announce that we have made arrangements to meet the financial requirements of all properly accredtied Americans throughout France. We have also sent a half million francs in gold to Switzerland for the use of Americans there, and we hope that our agents, the Credit Suisse, will also be able to help out in Italy."

Hallgarten & Company have received a cable from the Swiss Bank Verein, at London, announcing that for the information and reassurance of the friends and relatives that the committee of the New York Bankers' Trust Fund, have arranged with the Swiss Bank Verein for the payment in Switzerland, of all requirements of American citizens on travelers' checks and letters of credit.

A press despatch from Berlin, which has come via Copenhagen and London, says that the leading Berlin banks are now paying cash on letters of credit. The cable says that the president of the German bank has declared that he would grant $1,250,000 in credits to Americans against adequate security.

According to the Journal of Commerce, there were 149 foreign ships in New York harbor on Wednesday against 124 on August 5, and 105 on July 8.

Of the 149 ships, 17 belong to the German lines which have suspended service for the time being, and there are a number of Russian and Belgian ships similarly situated. Ships under the British flag in New York harbor, yesterday, numbered 81.

The S. S. Bermudian, which arrived here this morning from Hamilton, Bermuda, reported that the German tank steamer Leda was captured by a British cruiser and is being held at Bermuda. The Leda left Rotterdam on July 23 for Baton Rouge.

The Belgian vice-consul announced today, on receipt of a cable from the Belgian ministry, that the Antwerp office of the Red Star Line was open for business and that the Dutch schedule is available for commercial navigation, but that Dutch pilots are necessary for daylight passages.

The special committee of the North American Export Grain Association has decided to cancel all contracts for supplying wheat and other grain and foodstuffs to Europe and to refuse to make further contracts. The committee acted on the advice of the association's counsel, ex-Assistant Secretary of State John Bassett Moore.

The grain dealers also filed a strong protest with Secretary Bryan against the action of the British Government in diverting all cargoes of grain in British bottoms, wherever found and no matter where consigned, to British ports and ordering that perishable goods be sold by the port authorities and other goods stored. The committee will confer with Secretary McAdoo in Washington, Thursday, to see whether some arrangements cannot be made whereby grain men will be able to get paid for their shipments. If this can be done, the decision to cancel contracts may be rescinded.

The saloon passengers aboard La Lorraine reached Paris, last night. She left New York, Wednesday, August 5, with 200 saloon passengers, and about 1,200 French reservists. She made a fine passage. According to cables received by friends of some of the saloon passengers La Lorraine made the crossing with lights out and at top speed.

There is a German consul here, out of a job, and he does not know how he and other unemployed consuls are going to get back to the fatherland. Baron von Rudt, German consul-general at Winnipeg, arryived at the Waldorf, yesterday, after discontinuing his offices in Canada.

"It is true I was handed my passports in Winnipeg," said Baron von Rudt, "but I have many delightful friends there, and I have no discourtesy to complain of. Some of my friends wanted to arrange for me to remain in Winnipeg. Still the formalities required that I leave. And, to tell you the truth, I don't know where I am going."

Hull, Eng., Aug. 13—L. Colston, the American manager of a typewriting company, arived here today from Copenhagen on the steamer Flora, along with many other refugees from Germany. He declares that the treatment meted out to foreigners in Germany is shameful and that at Hamburg German soldiers confiscated the whole of his baggage.

BRITISH CRUISER ESSEX.

Waiting Outside of New York Harbor For Outgoing Ships.

© 1914, by American Press Association.

This picture was taken as the British cruiser was waiting for prizes around the Ambrose lightship. It was taken from a special tug hired to go out and verify the reports of warships stationde near New York harbor for outgoing ships. When the Essex sighted the tug she rushed for it, but when she discovered the American flag turned around and put to sea.

WAR NEWS IN BRIEF.

Belgium.

Complete secrecy has fallen over the movements of the armies of the allies —France, Belgium and Great Britain— and of Germany. It is believed that this indicates that a great battle is on, probably somewhere on the plains between Liege and Namur. Reports of skirmishes continue, and the Belgian war office announces that an attack on the center of the line of the allies has failed. Though it is stated that the losses in this encounter were heavy, it is believed to have been little more than an encounter between the outposts of the two immense armies.

France.

The French armies, co-operating with the Belgians and English in the north, are facing the Germans in parallel lines from Louvain, ten miles east of Brussels, across Belgium and the eastern French frontier, across the Vosges mountains to Neubreisach, in the German province of Alsace.

Germany.

Only a small part of the army of the Meuse has been left to continue the bombardment of Liege, but it has been re-enforced with heavy siege guns. The rest of the German army invading Belgium has pushed on to meet the allies. A statement which purports to be an official German explanation of the Liege operations, made by General von Stein, says that the assault on Liege was made only to cover the main movements of the German armies and that the kaiser ordered a cessation of the assaults in order to prevent further losses of his men, directing that the work of reducing the forts be left to the heavy artillery.

England.

The secrecy which has fallen over the land operations on the continent continues to rest over the fleets in the North sea. It is believed that a naval battle is imminent, but the location of the British and German fleets is not known outside of the respective admiralties.

Roumania.

This Balkan state denies the reports from Rome that she has thrown in her lot with the two remaining members of the triple alliance. Official announcement is made that she will maintain her neutrality.

Montenegro.

Montenegro formally declared war on Germany.

Servia.

The combined Servian and Montenegrin armies are operating on the Herzegovinian frontier. Servian artillery is bombarding Gorazda, on the Drina river, twenty-nine miles southeast of Sarajevo.

Russia.

The civilian inhabitants of Sveaborg and Helsingfors, Finland, have been ordered to leave. A bombardment of the fortress and the capital by the German fleet is expected.

London, Aug. 13.—The first great battle of the war is believed to have started between the forces of the allies and three German armies on the plains of Hesbaye, separating Liege and Namur.

The Belgian legation here has received no news from the front in twenty-four hours. This official silence is thought to indicate the beginning of a tremendous conflict, with hundreds of thousands of men engaged on either side.

A Belgian staff officer who has just arrived in London said that the silence of the war offices of the several countries involved probably would not be broken for some time. He expressed the belief already held in London that a great battle had begun. The officer confined himself to saying that the main Belgian army was moving on Louvain and Liege to join the French.

The battle lines of the allies in Belgium are stretched from Louvain, the Belgian army headquarters, ten miles from Brussels, in a southeasterly direction by way of Landen to Namur and from Namur on to Dinant to the south and thence to Givet, where the Meuse crosses the Franco-Belgian border.

Here the outposts of the allied army which is defending Belgium are in touch with the outposts of the French army, whose line extends to the south, through Mezieres to the strong French fortress of Verdun.

The German Army's Line.

The German army of the Meuse, a part of which stormed at the forts of Liege for days without success, has circled that fortress to the north and south and is advancing toward Brussels, defending which is the battle line of the allies.

The great German line, taking in the three armies which are co-operating against France, begins to the north of Liege, circles to the rear of the forts of that city and on the southern bank of the Meuse approaches near to Namur.

From Namur it turns south, following the course of the Meuse, then turns to the southeast when east of Dinant and runs down to Longwy and the junction of the Belgian, French and Luxemburg borders. It then continues in a similar direction to Thionville, Metz, Strassburg and on down to Neubreisach, the last three points in Alsace-Lorraine.

The French army which has invaded these "lost provinces" faces the southern part of this long German line.

Brussels, Aug. 13.—The war office announced that the general attack on the Belgian-French center had failed. The Germans are declared to have retreated all along the line, with the exception of at one point where the fighting continues.

The announcement was accompanied by a statement that the fighting had been serious and that the losses were heavy.

The war office also announced that the attack of the Germans on the Liege forts had been renewed with great vigor. The exchange between the forts and the Germans was said to be very heavy.

The fire of the Belgian forts is declared to be hampering the transportation of German troops across the river Meuse.

It is stated that the Germans are using a horde of peasants to open the routes southward from Liege toward Luxemburg. The French are massing in great strength before them, and the war office believes that the attack in force of the Germans upon the main Belgian center was designed as a mask for a main German advanee through Luxemburg and Belgian Luxemburg into French territory.

One reason for this belief was the report received and not confirmed that the Germans had been operating near Givet, on the extreme northern frontier of the department of Ardennes.

Generals Favored Assault.

Berlin (via Amsterdam, Aug. 12. Delayed).—Kaiser Wilhelm himself interfered to prevent the carrying of the Liege forts by storm.

In doing so he went counter to the wishes of his generals, who believed they could take the strongholds by assault.

When the news reached him that the German losses were heavy, consequent on the necessity of assaulting modern steel fortifications with infantry, he sent word to the front to change the tactics. He directed that the assaults in force be stopped and that the lines of communication be restored immediately so that the heavy siege artillery

EUGENE O'CONNOR'S FUNERAL IS HELD IN BROOKLYN

Brooklyn, Aug. 13.—Following death from heart trouble, Eugene O'Connor, brother of Mrs. Henry Nicolay, of Plainfield, was buried this afternoon following services over his remains conducted by the Rev. Dr. John Humpstone, of the Emanuel Baptist church, of which the deceased was a member.

The deceased, an accountant, was a native of New York city, where he was born July 29, 1846, and was the son of Francis Burdee and Emily O'Connor. A wife, Mary Watson; three sons, Watson B., Eugene and Lester W., the Plainfield sister, and a brother, Charles O'Connor, of Montclair, survive. Interment which was in Greenwood cemetery, was private. The value of Mr. O'Connor's estate will not be known until his will is offered for probate.

Plainfield, N. J., August 13, 1914.

A NEEDED CHANGE.

Yesterday the Daily Press had occasion to inquire at the office of the local Board of Health about the wedding of a local couple, which was supposed to have taken place in this city last August. The names were known, and the approximate date, but information as to whether or not the marriage took place here was refused. After going to the expense of 'phoning to Trenton, the information wanted was immediately secured from the State Registrar of Vital Statistics, and it developed that the wedding did not take place in this State at any time during 1913, according to the records of that office. The local officers could have saved all of this trouble and annoyance by saying that there was no such marriage on record.

The reason for the refusal by the local authorities was based on a rule of the Board that this matter is not public property, and such information can only be given when a definite and legitimate need for the information is shown. For publication it was ruled that the need was not definite and legitimate.

Evidently the local Health Board and the State department are very much at variance. The Trenton authorities stated that such requests were legitimate and there is no reasonable excuse for withholding such information. It was stated that if an effort had been made to copy all of the records of weddings, to be used for commercial purposes such as sending furniture circulars to new brides and grooms, the refusal to display the records would have been excusable perhaps, but the State Department head could see no reason for the local action.

Records such as marriages are public property. There is no excuse under the law for refusing information about matters of this kind, and the local Board of Health should immediately rescind the rule which was placed in force six years or more ago, under the advice of the old State Board of Health, which was legislated out of office in 1908. It would be more in keeping with the proper handling of public business to publish every marriage recorded, as is now done in Pennsylvania.

ONE EFFECT OF VANDALISM.

Because certain thoughtless youngsters, and some grown persons, saw fit to abuse the opportunity, the owner of Holly Park has withdrawn the generous privilege he has allowed outsiders to enjoy the pond on his premises during the past two summers. The lake, with its excellent bathing facilities, was turned over to the public last year and since that time has become a mecca for young and old during the daytime and in the evenings. The lake was cleaned and put in first-class condition by the owner so that bathers might enjoy it to the fullest extent as long as they conducted themselves in a proper manner.

Holly pond has been the only place near this city where youngsters could take a dip during the hot summer days, and the discontinuance of its use will be keenly felt on all sides. The clean water, with the sandy bottom, afforded a pleasing contrast to the muddy water in the brook that was formerly frequented by swimmers. The closing of Holly Park will mean a return to the brook, which, in its present condition, is a menace to the health of any individual who baths in it.

Vandalism and petty thievery has been the cause for the closing of the pond to the public, and it is to be regretted that a handful of troublemakers have been responsible for the loss of a privilege enjoyed by many young men and women who respected the owner's interests.

Parents of young children living on the streets adjacent to the Central Railroad tracks should be made to keep their charges off the railroad right of way. Recently there has been a general complaint among local commuters who allege that boys frequent the tracks and throw stones at passenger trains. Monday night one of the commuters' trains arriving in this city in the early evening was struck by one of the stones and a window smashed. The occupant of the seat near the broken pane of glass had a narrow escape from injury. Parents who allow their children to engage in this deplorable practise should be punished by the city authorities, as repeated annoyance of this nature may eventually lead to a serious accident. The railroad tracks are no place for children anyway, as they are constantly in danger of being struck and killed by the cars. In a majority of the cases the offenders are of the thoughtless age and are not old enough to know the wrong they are doing, so the parents are to blame.

FORM BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

Citizens of Borough of Middlesex Elect Officers at Preliminary Meeting.

Under the auspices of citizens of the Borough of Middlesex, steps were taken at a meeting held at that place, last night, to organize a building and loan association. W. C. King was appointed chairman of the meeting and during the preliminary transaction of business W. B. R. Mason was chosen president and W. D. Voorhees secretary.

David Hastings, who has been greatly interested in the proposition, addressed those present, explaining in detail some of the advantageous features to be found in such an association. Mr. Mason also gave a short talk, and assisted in the preliminary plans. Following a suggestion, the chairman appointed a committee to complete the work of organization.

This committee was named: W. C. King, M. F. Wirtz, O. A. LaPointe, W. D. Voorhees, Van Polhemus, Charles Douglas W. F. G. Davidson and M. S. Burnstein. The committee will hold a meeting at the Lincoln postoffice on Wednesday, August 26, to further the interest of the organization and at that time a date will be fixed for a meeting of all the members. Before the meeting adjourned a vote of thanks was extended to both Mr. Mason and Mr. Hastings for their kindness in being present and lending their assistance.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Assemblyman A. M. Beekman, of Somerville, who was speaker of the House, last year, has announced his candidacy for the State Senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket. His petition is now being circulated in North Plainfield.

Friends of former Congressman Fowler, who has been guaging his strength in Morris county, are confident that he will poll as many votes there in suupport of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Congress as will John H. Capstick, the Morris county nominee. Fowler supporters make this the basis of their predictions of victory for him at the primaries, contending that he will far outrun Capstick in Union county. William T. Stuchell, of Rahway, undoubtedly will lead Fowler a strong race in Union, however, if not in the entire district, it is said.

Thus far eleven United States Senators have been renominated—eight Democrats and three Republicans. Two Republicans, Crawford, of South Dakota, and Bristow, of Kansas, have been defeated. Four Republican Senators, Root, of New York; Burton, of Ohio; Stephenson, of Wisconsin, and Perkins, of California, have announced that they will not be candidates for re-election.

The California primaries will be held on August 25. The Republican candidates for Senator are Representative Knowland and Samuel Shortridge, the Progressive; Francis J. Heney and Chester H. Rowell, while James D. Phelan has no Democratic opposition.

The Maine election will be held on September 14 and for the two weeks prior to that date it will swarm with orators of all three parties. Theodore Roosevelt is slated to speak for the Progressive ticket and it is said Vice-President Marshall and Secretary Bryan will endeavor to persuade the Maine voters to repeat the Democratic victory of two years ago. The Republicans express confidence of victory.

Headquarters have been opened at Irving street and Elm avenue, Rahway, by Sheriff Wright and William T. Stuchell, Republican candidates for the county clerk and Congressional nominations respectively. A stenographer and typewriter has been installed to handle the communications the candidates propose sending out and to answer those which come in. They will have daily conferences there and in all other ways use the place as a base for carrying on their campaign.

Joseph H. Neil, of Elizabeth, one of the G. O. P. shrievalty candidates, is living up to the reputation he made as a campaigner in the last campaign, when he was also a candidate. There is not a place in the county he has not been several times, looking to his fences. These visits are in no sense of a "gum shoe" nature either for in each place his friends soon learn of his presence and are conducting him on a handshaking expedition.

Hillside, Union, Springfield nad New Providence are the places Sheriff Wright and William T. Stuchell will invade this week in their campaign of publicity for their respective candidacies for the county clerk and Congressional G. O. P. nominations. The trip to each place will be made by automobile and the speaking will be from the auto on some of the prominent corners, weather permitting.

Julian Zelchenko, superintendent of the Union county branch of the Anti-Saloon League, after a visit to other officials of the League, declares that the latter is surely bringing about the defeat of Senator Smick, of Salem county, for renomination on the Democratic ticket. The league has unusual political strength in South Jersey. The peculiar feature of the situation is that Smick has always been an enthusiastic supporter of local option, and fathered the league's bills for this in both the Assembly in 1913 and the Senate in 1914. However, Mr. Zelchenko explained that the league's wrath was brought down upon Swick because he missed an opportunity to have the Senate vote upon the bill last winter. At least nine Senators could have been put on record for the bill if he had done this, it is claimed. Salem is a close county, and the real result of the fight instituted by the league, Democrats say, will be to elect a Republican in November.

SEVEN MONTHS' MOTOR FEES MORE THAN TOTAL FOR 1913

Trenton, Aug. 13.—Receipts of the State Motor Vehicle Department for the first seven months of the present year amounted to $734,573.31, as against $589,008.13 for the corresponding period last year, an increase of $145,565.18. The total receipts in 1913 were $661,446.31, so that the revenues of seven months this year exceed those for all last year by $73,127.

The receipts for last month amounted to $53,175.26, as against $48,510.65 for July, 1913. Up to July 31 last, licenses had been issued to 63,097 cars, or 9,554 more than were licensed during the corresponding period last year. Licenses were issued to 8,854 motorcycles during the first seven months of this year, an increase of 1,571 over the first seven months of 1913.

An even greater proportionate increase is shown this year in the number of licenses issued to drivers, this apparently bearing out the contention of Commissioner Job H. Lippincott that prior to the present year a large number of drivers were operating without licenses. For the first seven months this year 60,626 licenses were issued to drivers as against 48,475 during the corresponding period in 1913, an increase of 12,151.

Fines collected to July 31, 1914, amounted to $12,206.70, as against $9,024 for the same period last year, an increase of $3,271.79.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 71 degrees; 11 a. m., 79 degrees; 1 p. m., 83 degrees.

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

May I through your courtesy give a word of encouragment to our anti-suffrage friends who may fancy that because we are making no great noise we are doing no work. If they could realize the work that is being done they would feel even more encouraged than they have reason to be with the results obtained here in Plainfield. Reports from the seashore resorts are full of enthusiasm. In Manasquan, last Saturday, much interest was aroused and the men, as well as the women, attending the farmers' picnic were evidently impressed. The literature distributed, consisting largely of our Plainfield output—the anti-suffrage supplement and several hundred copies of "Anti Suffrage in a Nutshell," etc., was gladly taken, and in a very great number of instances carefully folded and put away for more deliberate consideration. Requests have been made for speakers at meetings to be held at Asbury Park two days next week and vigorous work is reported all along the line. All indications point to a quiet, but steady growth of anti-suffrage sentiment, and certainly now when the whole world is facing a long period of financial distress is not a time for doubling our electorate which means doubling election expenses. Our men may well look to the economic as well as the theoretic side of the question.

Thanking you for space used, I am
Respectfully yours,
ELIZABETH B. SYKES.

SPIRITED CONTEST WAGED FOR OFFICE

Wright and Stuchell Are Visiting Every Nook and Corner In the County.

The spirited contest being waged by Sheriff William H. Wright, of Rahway, for the Republican county clerkship nomination, is one of the most active ever carried on in the party's lines. Starting several weeks ago, with William T. Stuchell, a G. O. P. candidate for the Congressional nomination in the Fifth District, the canvass by both men has been a part of their daily program.

During this time separately and together they have been at every cross roads in the county, have attended meetings held in their behalf, talked with men while at their work, and others have been seen individually at their homes in the evening. To get about in this manner an automobile, the property of the congressional candidate, has been indispensible.

Sheriff Wright said the other day, the car knows the county so well now that all that is necessary is to start it and tell it where to go and it speeds directly to the place, stopping at intervals to allow the occupants to shake hands with some one who has hailed them from a passing vehicle or still more often, by some agriculturist who has come to the end of the row and is taking a brief rest against the rail fence in the shade.

The sheriff is naturally more widely acquainted than Mr. Stuchell, because of the office he now holds. A gratifying feature to him is to have many residents in the outlying section remember him through business they have had with his office, either on juries, as witnesses or in some other connection, and while he is probably unable to call them by name, the fact remains that the impression they carried away from the Court House concerning him and his office has been encouraging.

The same method will be used for the direction of affairs in the county clerk's office, Mr. Wright assures the men, in the event of his securing the nomination and election.

WANTS EDUCATIONAL SUNDAY OBSERVED

Commissioner C. N. Kendall Makes Appeal to Clergy and People of the State.

Calvin N. Kendall, commissioner of education of the State, with the hearty endorsement of Governor James F. Fielder, has made an appeal to the clergy and people of New Jersey to observe Sunday, September 13, as "Educational Sunday," and sets forth the reasons for so doing in the following announcement made today:

"Upon the opening of our schools and colleges, public and private, during the month of September, hundreds of thousands of young people in the State will return to their studies. Though these educational institutions afford numerous and various means of securing an education many of those enjoying the privileges cannot fully appreciate the provision that is being made for their training.

"In order that pupils, teachers, parents and citizens may more fully realize the aims and advantages of our educational institutions the clergy of the State are invited to join with their respective congregations in observing Sunday, the thirteenth of September.

"In such a service the opportunities provided for securing an education might be explained and the value resulting therefrom set forth. The need of co-operation on the part of parents and teachers might be emphasized to the end that both may endeavor to search out and respect the individuality of pupils in the effort to develop those habits of mind and traits of character which distinguish the efficient citizen.

"The home, the church and the school are three great factors in human uplift and development. Such a service would tend to unify the aim and effort of the home, church and school and would impress upon the young the desirability of taking advantage of their educational opportunities and be helpful in increasing the efficiency of our educational institutions."

THE AUGUST FURNITURE SALE

(ORIGINAL)

One man's idea of great good fortune is to need furniture when so remarkable a collection at such little prices is here to choose from

"Just to see it is an inspiration," he said. "William Morris* would have been glad to see it. But he never would have been able to understand the moderate prices."

Prices are what make the August Sale—here.

The quality of Wanamaker Furniture never changes, the year 'round, except for the better as improvements are worked out by the makers or by us.

That is one reason why this August Sale grows, and grows, AND GROWS.

The other reason is that it covers the needs of every home-maker, whether in small apartments, or large city or country houses. Following is the range of, for example,

Furniture for Living-room, Drawing-room, Parlor and Library

(1) Suites made in France, of walnut and gold, upholstered in tapestry, damask and velvet.

(2) Suites and odd pieces made in England; on Jacobean, Charles II., Adam, William and Mary lines.

(3) Some choice pieces collected in Europe by Cowan and by us.

(4) Tapestry-covered American suites and separate pieces.

(5) Library tables, from a mahogany-finish birch table at $8, regularly $9, to a 6-ft. period table at $787, regularly $875.

(6) The mission furniture, leather-covered.

(7) Desks in a variety of woods; from a maple drop-lid desk at $6.75, regularly $8.50, to a Colonial secretary desk at $176, regularly $196.

(8) Bookcases, from a mahogany-finish birch case at $6.75, regularly $7.50, to a three-door carved mahogany case at $157.50, regularly $315.

It may be your pleasure to see it tomorrow, and to find in it what you need.

MT. ZION CHURCH PASTOR GOES TO ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS

It was learned today that Rev. William H. Hicks, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church during the past fifteen months, had been transferred by the Bishop of the New Jersey conference of his denomination to Queen chapel, located at Atlantic Highland. He will preach at his new charge Sunday morning, succeeding Rev. J. W. P. Collier, who will become the pastor of the local church. Mr. Collier has been stationed at the Highlands for the past three years, and comes to this city with a reputation as an excellent preacher.

Mr. Hicks has occupied the pulpit of the Mt. Zion church for the past fifteen months, and has accomplished much in building up that institution. He has made many friends among the colored population of the West End, among whom he has labored during his stay in this city. He will leave this city tomorrow to take up the work in his new field. Mr. Collier will come to this city, and occupy his new pulpit at the eleven o'clock service Sunday morning.

WILL PICK ANOTHER DATE.

As soon as possible the Dutch Arms Band, which was obliged to postpone its concert on Tuesday night owing to the weather, will announce another date. The program announced for this week will be given at the newly appointed time. Last night the band played at a festival held at Readington.

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

A FEATURE OF STEEL FRAME CONSTRUCTION WORK.

Just at this season of the year when the youth of the country, as well as the elder male population, are daily working themselves into a frenzy over baseball, discussing batting records of this, that or the other player and the pitching ability of Mathewson, Johnson, Bender or Caldwell, it is interesting to call attention to another style of pitching which can be seen almost any time while the steel frameworks of a skyscraper or other structure is being put together. The question naturally arises could any baseball experts pitch and catch red hot rivets standing on planks on the eighteenth story of a rising skyscraper as cleverly as they juggle with the baseball in a match game? It is just as absorbing and interesting to many folks to watch ironworkers pitch and catch red hot rivets as it is to watch two baseball teams in action. Undoubtedly it requires a great deal of cleverness. Then danger in two forms is ever near the ironworkers. They may have a bad fall or be severely burned by a misdirected red hot bolt. Judging by the manner in which they work, one would imagine they had as many lives as a cat. A new steel skyscraper is being erected at Franklin, White and Lafayette streets, in New York city, and the ironworkers engaged in putting the frame together are always successful in causing a crowd to gather by their expertness in pitching and catching red hot rivets. Spectators watch the ironworkers hour after hour. The men who are in charge of the actual riveting are continually supplied with red hot bolts by a young man who stands near them with an empty keg in his hands. His duty is to catch the flying rivets as they are thrown through the air by another young man who heats the rivets at a small furnace situated some distance from the man with the barrel. The pitcher never makes a wild pitch and the catcher never a miss, hence an "error column" on the score card is superfluous.

We noticed a new name in the box score Saturday afternoon, where DeBey's has been all year. Coriell may be substituting while the "regular official" is on his vacation, but he will be there for a few more Saturdays at least. Not one decision was disputed Saturday, and that's going some.

One of the Elizabeth papers stated recently that Nelson, who played on the cops' baseball team at that place, was Walter Nelson, catcher for the Pets. Walter is too busy to think about offers from the coppers. The man in question, who played first base, is a member of the Westfield police force and belongs to the local association, which is made up of several forces.

The local cops have a new man to spring on the All Stars this afternoon, when they meet on Parker Field. He is a pitcher. Who this man is nobody outside of the force knows, but he is heralded as a wonder.

We have heard that there is a big league scout as near to this city as New Brunswick. He might possibly wonder over this way some Saturday, when the Pets, the Sunday-school leaguers or the cops are in action and take away a whole team. All managers are warned to sign up their good men for at least a few years, as there might be some offers to jump at in the near future. This man might also hook the Pets' former umpire.

After the thirty-first of this month the cops will be without the services of Jack Fritts, as he believes that it is best to sleep at night and will be on duty in the day time. This new find may be able to take his place on the mound, but there is some doubt as to that.

BASEBALL ON SUNDAY? NO! GOLF, THAT'S DIFFERENT

Christy Mathewson, of the Giants, is a sad example of what golf will do to an otherwise perfectly Christian-like gentleman.

Matty, as most every one knows, does not play ball on Sunday. Such an act would conflict with his religious scruples. He made it a condition when he joined the Giants that he never was to participate in a Sunday game.

Hearing of Matty's stand, and admiring it, a St. Louis clergyman called at the Giants' hotel to congratulate Matty, when the Giants were in the Mound City recently. It was on Sunday.

"Mr. Mathewson is out sir," the hotel clerk told the minister.

"Could you tell me, please, where I can find him?" asked the clergyman.

"Yep, he's out playing golf—his second round today," was the reply.

PROTEST OF 21-INNING CONTEST IS DISALLOWED

The Pittsburgh club's protest of the game won by New York in Pittsburgh, July 17, was yesterday disallowed by President John K. Tener, of the National League. In disposing of the protest, President Tener held that Umpire Byron was acting within his rights and in accordance with the playing rules of the game in determining whether or not an interference had occurred. The umpire's decision, therefore, having been based solely on his accuracy of judgment, there could be no reversal of same. The game stands as played.

The disputing play prompting the Pittsburgh club's protest occurred in the sixth inning of the 21-inning game played in Pittsburgh. With one out, Wagner singled, taking third on Viox's hit to center. The throw by Bescher to third went under Wagner as he was sliding. Wagner picked up the ball, but dropped it after carrying it some distance, thus allowing him to reach home safely. Wagner was declared out for interference, and Viox, who had reached third, was sent back to second.

FANS EVERYWHERE ARE PULLING FOR THE BOSTON BRAVES TO WIN NATIONAL FLAG

Sporting sentiment usually favors the under dog, and for this reason the general public throughout the major league territory is pulling for George Stallings, and his Braves. The Boston Nationals have become a real menace to the aspirations of McGraw and if they continue two weeks more at their present clip may even nose out the three-time pennant winners and present leaders.

Stallings is within easy striking distance of the team which has been conceded an excellent chance for a fourth consecutive pennant. Through a drive of over a month he has kept up his mad pace, and there are no evidences of his machine weakening in any part.

When the Pirates scored three runs in the third inning of Thursday's game they broke a chain of 30 consecutive shutout innings by Boston pitchers. This record started August 1, in the tenth inning of the game in which Boston beat St. Louis. It was followed by three consecutive shutouts—one against the Cardinals and two against the Pirates—and end after the first two scoreless innings of Thursday's fray.

Such strenuous work gives a pretty fair line on the mettle of a club. If there had been any disposition on the part of the Braves to falter or break, it is quite likely that such a test would have brought it out.

Boston is not going to go along all the rest of the season shutting out clubs. Stallings has pretty good pitchers, but they could not be expected to do the miraculous. But if those pitchers can maintain their present high standard of efficiency the team is one which can generally furnish a working margin of runs. There is absolutely no question of Boston's gameness. Since Stallings straightened out his forces in the present spurt the Braves have come from behind quite as often as not.

Should Stallings win a pennant he will have accomplished that which approaches the miraculous. Almost to the middle of the season he trailed Jones, in 1906, won a pennant after he appeared distanced in the early going, but Jones was never worse than seventh and he did not have such a well balanced field to oppose him.

Brilliant as has been his recent dash and more threatening as he becomes daily, there is no reason even now to concede Stallings better than an outside chance for the pennant. He has had to make up too much ground. The strain has not told yet, but the tension will tighten with every game he closes on the leaders.

Besides, the Big Chief has been winning so often by using Rudolph, James and Tyler in turn. No three pitchers in modern times have been able to survive such constant use through the drive which usually starts about this time. Stallings has several other pitchers that he regards highly. He is particularly impressed with the possibilities of little Crutcher, who has been rather unlucky this season. But none of the surplus talent compares to any of the trio now shouldering most of the pitching burden.

Nobody has ever accused George Stallings of being foolish. Certainly he has had experience enough to know better than to ruin his most reliable riflemen through overwork without having some reliance to fall back upon. His friends and boosters who now jam Fenway Park to capacity for the Saturday and holiday attractions of the Braves would be the first to turn against Stallings if the team buckled and went to pieces, now that it has become so prominent in the National League argument. Probably, Stallings is holding one or more reliable men in reserve while he sends his trio of stars as far as they can go.

James is a big fellow who is not likely to feel the effects of two or more games a week. But Dick Rudolph is none too rugged. Tyler is a rangy, loose jointed fellow who does not appear to be any physical giant. These three pitchers may be able to go through to the end at their present gait, but the odds are very much against it.

ROD AND REEL

Not for many years has Raritan Bay enjoyed such excelent weakfishing as at present. One man characterizes the fishing as wonderful, and best of all, he says, the fish are quite likely to stay in the bay until cold weather. The fish are all over the bay. Boats out from Morgan Station bring in big catches every tide. The best place thus far has been close to the lines of stakes off Keyport Cove. Good catches, too, have been made in front of Seidler's Beach and near the monument. A few croakers, and an odd bluefish were also included in the catches. The boats out from Perth Amboy that anchor near the Great Beds light and the black stick, are also doing well, but the catches are not so large as those made farther down the bay. The weakfishing at Ackor's place, Sewaren, is the best in years. The grounds are only a short row from the float, and this is an excellent place for those who like smooth water. Barnegat Bay catches during the last ten days have not been up to their usual mark, and many local anglers are passing up the long trip and confining their efforts to fishing in Raritan Bay.

The fishing banks boats are carrying a lot of men who take these trips during their vacation instead of going far from home. It is a cheap as well as a good way to put in the time, especially as the fishing is very good. The cost of an outfit is small and one will last a man a lifetime.

There is fine fishing in the surf from Sandy Hook to Cape May, and many men are taking advantage of it because there is no other expense other than the carfare to the place they select. Fluke, weakfish and croakers are biting best, and the striped bass are there if they are properly fished for. A long leader is required for striped bass, as they will not take bait close to the line. A green line is the fashion now, and it works very well.

Fresh water bass, croakers and weakfish are being caught in large numbers at Morgan Station. Most of the fishermen are using light tackle.

Weakfish are biting well at Keyport and there are a few fluke being landed.

Large catches are still being made off the Long Branch fishing pier and good sized fluke hooked.

Barnegat Bay fishing is away off, according to reports of those who have been down recently. No one seems to know where the weakfish have gone, although the bay was full of them until two weeks ago.

The Freeport fishermen are catching a great many weakfish and some of the largest fish that it has been their good fortune to get there. When weakfish run to six pounds they are big for rod and line fishing.

STRONG MARCONI NINE VS. SAURERS

Sunday Baseball Card of the First Class Arranged By Manager Britt Martin.

Manager Britt Martin, of the Saurer baseball team, announced this afternoon that he had signed the Marconi Wireless team to play on the Woodland Park field Sunday afternoon. The wireless aggregation is recognized as one of the fastest factory teams in this State and has victories to its credit over several of the fastest semi-professional aggregations in and about the metropolitan district. The Elizabeth factory teams, a strong set of ball clubs, have all fallen victims to the Marconi players and it goes without saying that the Plainfielders will have to go the limit in order to pull out on top, Sunday.

Warry McLaughlin, who in himself is always an attraction for local fans, is Martin's choice for the mound work and he will probably be signed for the Sunday encounter. McLaughlin will work Saturday for the Saurers when they lineup against Plainfield and it is thought that he will consent to pitching the Sunday game as well. In the event that he cannot be secured, Eddie Conshay, a well-known local performer and one of the Saurer regulars, will do mound duty. The remainder of the lineup will be the same as last week. The trolleys run direct to the Woodland Park grounds and it is anticipated that a record attendance of Sunday fans will be on hand to witness the stellar attraction arranged by Martin.

Saturday afternoon the Saurers line up against Manager Ernie Dorflinger's Plainfield Pets in the second of a series of five games. Those who witnessed the opening encounter well remember the calibre of ball played in the memorable 1 to 0 Saurer victory and the Plainfielders are out with their fighting togs to regain their footing with the factory ballists.

Manager Martin has a number of games with fast semi-pro teams in this section up his sleeve for Sunday exhibitions and from now on Woodland Park is expected to be a mecca for fans.

PHILLIES PLAN BIG "JACK MARTIN DAY"

Local Shortstop to Be Accorded Marked Honor During Boston Series Next Month.

Tentative plans have been made by the baseball fans of Philadelphia for a "Jack Martin Day," to be held in that city in September when the Phillies play the Boston Braves, a team which Jack was a member of the fore part of the season. Martin returned to his home in this city last night and will make his headquarters in Plainfield during the Philadelphia team's stay in Brooklyn for a series of games. Jack will commute back and forth to the Dodgers' ball park.

Martin "dropped in" to the Daily Press office this morning and when interviewed by a reporter appeared to be enthusiastic over his prospects of making good with his new club. Local fans are well aware of the fact that Jack has been hitting the ball at a lively clip since he was sold by the Boston Braves and seldom does a day go by but what he annexes a pair of bingles and does some sensational fielding.

In speaking of the treatment accorded him by the Quakertown management and by the fans of that place, Martin was highly complimentary. He has been given an excellent opportunity to display his worth to that club and from all indications has taken advantage of the chance. Spectacular work in the field and some timely hitting has earned for him a place in the hearts of the ardent admirers of baseball in the sleeptown and there remains little doubt but that he will be retained as puermanent shortstop for the Philadelphia aggregation.

HAND SLUGGING SECOND, CLIFF LEADS PITCHERS

During the past week "Nibs" Hand, the Scotch Plains ball player, climbed into second place in the swatting department of the Perth Amboy team of the Atlantic League. The Plains catcher now has an average of .304 which is a seven point raise over this time last week. He has been hitting the ball hard lately and is now twenty-seven points behind the leader who has an average of .331.

Cliff Randolph, of this city, who is with the same team, is batting .194 but is leading the pitching staff by a lage margin and has pitched more games than any other of his teammates. The local player has been in twenty-one games and he won twelve and lost nine. Sheaffer has pitched the same number of games but has lost eleven and only won ten. Cliff generally works at least twice a week and sometimes more while Hand's name is in the score nearly every day.

The batting averages of the leaders:

PLAINFIELD AND SAURERS AGAIN ON PARKER FIELD

Another record breaking crowd is expected to go to Parker Field Saturday afternoon, when the Plainfield Pets and the strong Saurer aggregation meet in the second match of a five game series. Those who saw the first engagement will undoubtedly cancel all other dates and wander out Randolph road, as the initial battle was one that would coax a baseball fan to take in another game between the same two teams. In the first encounter the Saurer team won by a score of 1 to 0, and it certainly was a big league game. Townley and McLoughlin had a regular pitcher's duel for nine long innings and it was "Heinie" Alberts that dislodged matters with a pretty hit.

After three weeks of good experience since the first meeting, these teams will clash in a bloody encounter and the Pets are going after this game to make matters even. Both teams will use their regular lineup with George and Warry on the firing line. Nelson and Alberts will do the backstop work for their respective teams. The city team has lost three times this season, two of these being extra inning losses and the other to the Saurer nine. That club has only felt defeat once and has a large number of creditable wins. There is no doubt that the teams are very evenly matched which was shown in the first game and the one this week will probably be the best that has been played in these parts this year. The Pets are looking for revenge and the Saurer boys are out for the second of the five games.

LEAD AT STAKE IN GAME SCHEDULED FOR MIDDLERS

Standing of Parker Field Middle League:

	Won	Lost	Tie
Laurels,	14	4	1
Red Stars,	13	4	1

Tomorrow morning at 9:30 the Laurels and the Red Stars will clash for the lead in the Parker Field Middle League. This is a keen rivalry between these two teams. Up to date the Laurels have beaten the Red Stars four games and have suffered the same number of defeats from them. "Kid" Brennan will occupy the mound for the Laurels and in him the Red Stars will find a hard proposition to beat as he has a large assortment of curves. V. Mullin will be the slab-artist for the Red Stars and when he gets going right the Laurels will have to work hard to win. The teams will lineup as follows:

UNIQUE EVENTS FOR ANNUAL FESTIVAL OF WATCHUNG A. A.

The annual festival of the Watchung Athletic Association will be held at Watchung, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, and an elaborate program of entertainment has been planned for the occasion by a committee that has been busy working on the affair for some time past. The festival is expected to be one of the best ever given under the auspices of that organization.

One of the leading features will be a watermelon contest between picked teams of Watchung negroes, for which prizes have been donated. The one disposing of a watermelon in the shortest length of time will receive the first award. Last year's festival proved to be a monster success and this year's program is said to eclipse that of last year.

Tell Harrowing Tales of War Experiences.

MANY LOST ALL BAGGAGE

Conditions on the Continent Are Called Terrible—American Liner Jammed and Many Have to Sleep on Saloon Floor Throughout Voyage.

New York, Aug. 13.—The American liner Philadelphia arrived with more than a thousand men and women who fled the home land at the war cry in Europe. They were a gay company, bringing grim tales of the call to arms, and while their faces brightened at the gleam of lights along the American shore, their thoughts were of those who had been left behind.

They had seen the confusion that followed the order to mobilize the troops of France. They were in England when the word came that Germany had invaded Belgium, and they saw the streets of London fill with men clamoring to be off to the front. In those moments when patriotism was firing the French and English people they heard the sober minded saying that in the crisis all men looked to America as the country which could save the civilization of Europe.

Joseph Baker Bourne of this city, who was one of the committee of twenty formed on board the ship and called the American refuge committee, said:

"We were the last boat to leave Southampton. The harbor was all mined, and a torpedo boat showed us the way out. After we had left the port was closed. During the entire trip there was no distinction of class among the passengers. In the steerage there were 113 aliens and 198 American citizens. Practically all of the Americans had the run of the entire ship during the voyage.

"Hundreds of the passengers on board never expected to get home to their native land, and there are hundreds of Americans now in Europe who never expect to reach here again.

"Coming across the channel from Havre we were challenged by an English torpedo boat, and during the trip across the ocean we were hailed three times, twice by French torpedo boats and once by an English one. They held us for only a short time until they ascertained who we were."

Many Women Hysterical.

Martin Vogel, assistant subtreasurer of the United States, stationed in New York, who was a member of the committee formed on board, said:

"Personally, I have had no harrowing experiences. When things broke out in London I joined the American citizens' committee and did all I could to help the ambassador. Many hundreds of persons came to the embassy, apparently to tell the staff there what ought to be done. Most of these were women in a hysterical condition who were without ready money and without any knowledge of what the situation really meant.

"The embassy and its staff did excellent work calming the people and giving what information they could. The main trouble was that all the banks were not able to use them. French and German money could not be used at all. No change was to be had for a five pound note. It was an awful mixup, but stranded Americans as a general thing helped each other out in a spirit of good fellowship.

"We have been sleeping on deck, in the smoking room and dining room and in any place we could find. Many passengers did not have bunks at all throughout the passage.

"A general idea of the situation in Paris can be obtained when it is known that when the travelers came to the railroad stations a certain number were allowed to enter and then the door was shut. Thereupon they sat on their trunks all night, only to get the order in the morning that no baggage would be allowed. Thus there are not a few among us on board boat who have no baggage at all; who have lost all they took abroad with them."

Dr. Henry W. Frauenthal, a survivor of the Titanic disaster, who is connected with the Hospital For Deformities and Joint Diseases in this city, said that he was waiting in London with his wife for a remittance to come from America when the trouble started. He did not have a cent and was nearly starved when he went to American Ambassador Page, whom he knew personally, and asked for assistance.

"Mr. Page," he said, "only had $10 at the time, but he readily gave me five of it. I made that money last three days."

WHOLE BRIGADE WIPED OUT.

Cossacks Deal Austrians Severe Blow Near Russian Frontier.

Rome, Aug. 13.—News of the complete wiping out of an Austrian cavalry brigade by Russian Cossacks at Rietgerai, near the Russian frontier, is contained in a dispatch to the Corriere d'Italia from Trieste. The dispatch states that the Austrian brigade had invaded Russian territory when it was attacked by a large force of Cossacks supported by artillery.

The Austrians, finding themselves outnumbered, sought to regain the Austrian frontier, but their horses floundered hopelessly in the intervening marshes.

ALONE IN THE WILDERNESS

JOSEPH KNOWLES

COPYRIGHT, 1913, BY SMALL, MAYNARD & CO.

CHAPTER III.

My First Adventure.

SO far my life in the wilderness had been very commonplace. I felt in the best of health. I had had no adventures, though unknown adventures were in store for me and they were to come quickly.

One late afternoon some time after my arrival at Big Spencer stream, I returned to the burnt lands to gather berries. On the way I stood on a slight elevation, looking down into a small gully. From somewhere afar came the sound of a rifle shot, which brought back to me the thought of human beings, but I did not dwell upon it.

I worked overtime picking berries and soon gathered two birch bark dishes full.

The light was beginning to fade, so I made up my mind it was time to start for my camp, which was some distance away. Just as I was stepping over a charred, fallen trunk I heard a crash in the bushes behind me.

Whirling sharply about I saw, down in the gully below, a deer come tearing through the brush with two bears at her heels. The deer was evidently wounded, as she would stagger and fall, then get to her feet again and dash along.

The two bears looked like galloping balls of fur. They would almost reach the deer when she would fall, but she always managed to scramble to her feet in time to keep just out of their reach.

Instinctively I wanted to go to the aid of the deer, but better reasoning held me back. Even in the presence of death I experienced a bit of joy, for I knew the bears would eventually get the deer.

The battle for life had carried the deer and her pursuers well out into the burnt lands. I stood close by, watching every move. I could see that the deer was weakening. Suddenly one of the black fur bodies hurled itself on to the frail creature. A bear never seemed so powerful to me before.

Here I made my first mistake. I had been so glad that I might be able to get a deerskin without breaking the game laws of the state that I did not stop to figure that by waiting I might also get a bearskin. I didn't take into consideration that when once the deer was overcome the two bears would fight it out between themselves as to the possession. I should have reasoned that they would fight, as they did.

Scarcely had the deer ceased her pitiful struggles when one of the bears flew at the other. Had they been allowed to continue one would surely have killed the other in that mixup. But I was so excited I ran down into the gully, across the open space toward the scene of battle. The bears saw me at once, for in less than a second they were streaking for the cover of the woods, leaving their prey behind.

As I leaned over the deer I found that the skin had hardly been torn. High up on one shoulder blood was streaming from a wound made by a bullet. "Probably that gunshot I heard about half an hour ago," I said to myself. No doubt some woodsman in need of food had made an attempt to get her, even though it was August, when deer are protected by law.

I knew I wouldn't have time to skin the creature that night through the slow rock tearing process, so I dragged the body for some distance into the woods, where I buried it with earth, branches, leaves and stones.

Then I went back over the ground where I had just dragged the animal and covered up the tracks with leaves. The trail was completely obliterated or at least I thought it was, so that the bears would not find it.

It was quite dark when I started for my lean-to, resolved to come back and skin the deer in the morning.

As soon as the sun was up I made for the place where I had hidden my deer. I had one regret—that I had not made the most of that situation the night before and obtained a bearskin as well.

But soon I had something else to think about, for upon arriving at the spot where I had interred the carcass I found leaves, branches, rocks, earth—everything scattered about. The bears had been there before me. I had lost even the deerskin!

I wanted that deerskin badly. I needed it. However, it was gone, and that's all there was to it.

I had counted a whole lot on the deer meat also, for my food thus far had not been very hearty, though it had answered after a fashion.

In one of the marshes I had hit a couple of frogs over the head and tried eating the hind legs. But I couldn't go the taste of these luxuries and never tried them again.

In the clearings and along the streams I found plenty of raspberries and blueberries. Getting tired of these, I ate some bunchberries, which grow in scarlet clusters; also checkerberries and berries of the mountain ash. Almost everywhere in the deep woods skunkberries were to be found. I ate a lot of these, which contain much nutriment. These berries are black and fuzzy and probably receive their name because they resemble the fur of the skunk. They grow on high bushes. I chewed a great deal of spruce gum.

But, as I said before, such food was not very substantial. It was enough to get along on for awhile, but I needed something more. While that first trout had not been particularly palatable without salt, I realized that it had given me strength and made up my mind that I must get some more.

The loss of that deer meat was a great loss indeed.

Once again I headed for the Big Spencer stream country. I knew, or thought I knew, where I could find some good spring holes, in which I hoped to catch some trout. After a long time my search was rewarded. I found a spring hole which was alive with them.

I went downstream a little way, where with rocks I made a small pool. Then I went back to the big pool and began to drive the trout into the small pool. Down they went into my trap! All I had to do was to wade in and just pick them up with my hands. I gathered up as many as I thought I needed and carried them to a rough lean-to—one which I had thrown up the night I came to this region from the Lost pond district.

Doubtless people who have always fished with a line and hook can scarcely conceive catching fish with the bare hands. But it is the simplest thing in the world. In some instances during my life in the forest I could have obtained barrels of fish in this manner had I seen fit.

I remember one day when I crossed the beaver dam previously mentioned. I wanted some fish, so I promptly let the water out of the dam. In the shallow pools were stranded quantities of fish. I did this out of necessity, and as soon as I had all I needed I immediately dammed up the broken places so that the fish left behind would not die.

Of course many of the fish I caught in the Big Spencer stream country would not have kept very long without some sort of preparation on my part. To cure the fish I selected several flat rocks and built a smoke hole with them, in which I hung the fish on sticks to smoke. I let them smoke for several hours, after which they would keep for days.

When I had an abundance of raspberries I would spread them out on pieces of birch bark to dry and shrivel up. In this way I preserved many berries.

By this time I was satisfied in my mind that I would not suffer physically from the experiment. I had fire and shelter and was getting enough to eat. Already I began to feel that I would never again think of such a thing as "calling it off," but that I should be able to stick it out the full time. Perhaps it was because I had the companionship of a fire.

Fire was my greatest asset in the woods by far. With a fire you have got about everything. It would be difficult—in fact, I do not believe a man could get along for any length of time in the wilderness without it. First of all, it aids you in a hundred ways. Next, it is a comfort—a wonderful comfort.

When I made my fire bigger I would say to myself, "Here, I am making room for another fellow." Then for hours I would sit in front of it, thinking of my friends and of the outside world. From time to time I would catch myself talking out loud to myself. The mere fact that I felt that imaginary people were there made it so much easier to be alone.

As a comfort producer fire is second to nothing in the world. As I look back on it now it seems as if it did about everything for me.

Ofttimes I would run across a log, which was too heavy for me to carry. I would get busy making a fire beneath it and burn it in two. Then, if the pieces were still too large, I would burn them in two again and so on until I had chunks light enough to carry.

I hadn't been in the forest long before the vision of a bow and arrow danced before me. I realized that it would, of course, require a lot of patience to make such a weapon, but I knew I could do it. Until I could obtain some rawhide I knew I should have to use the twisted lining of the inner bark of the cedar for a string. But, such as it was, it would be vastly better than nothing.

Here the fire came to my aid again. In the midst of a tangle created by the uprooting of a maple tree which as it fell had crashed into a hornbeam, carrying it with it, I found a hornbeam sliver, which I knew was the best kind of wood with which to make my bow. Such a stick in the rough hasn't the slightest resemblance to a bow.

Then I built a fire and let the stick burn for awhile, turning it now and then to get an even char. With a sharp rock I would then begin to scrape off the char, after which process the stick would be returned to the fire until a new char had burned. I scraped and charred that stick until I had reduced it to one inch in thickness. And all the while the fire had been seasoning it nicely for me. With the rocks I smoothed and rounded it perfectly. When it was done I had a formidable weapon, which aided me greatly in after days.

It would be impossible for me to enumerate the things fire will do for a man if he will only let it and steer it. It will cook his food, as it cooked mine. If there are vicious animals in the forest it will keep them away. All a man would have to do, if attacked, would be to throw a burning brand into the bushes, and the creature would run quickly away. It might be starving, but it would not come near the fire.

Again, fire made several clearings for me when I wanted to get rid of the tangle and underbrush. It smoked my fish, and it even broke my rocks. Many times I cooked my food on heated rocks, which were perfectly clean and very handy.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

EARLY pears, even if they are a little green, may be sometimes served to advantage. They are nice stewed, especially if a little lemon is added to bring out the flavor of the fruit.

Suggestion For Stewing.

Stewed Pears.—Pick baking pears with a fork in several places and put them in a baking jar—about half a dozen, say. Put in half a pint of sugar, half a pint of water and a tablespoonful of molasses and bake the fruit as for apple sauce. For dainty palates two cloves and a bit of lemon peel may also be added.

Pear, Banana and Lemon Salad.—Peel the pears and thinly slice the lemons, removing all white pith and pips. Surround a dish with alternate slices of pear and lemon. Skin and cut the bananas into lengths, then into squares and arrange them in the center of the dish. Cover the whole with gelatin. When nearly set scatter over the blanched and split almonds. Lastly, over all, through a forcing pipe, decorate with cream in different forms.

Putting Up Pears.

Ginger Pears.—Peel and cut thin eight pounds of hard green pears, add a fourth of a pound of candied ginger, the juice of four lemons, a glass of water, four pounds of granulated sugar and the rind of a lemon cut in long, thin strips. Boil three-quarters of an hour and put away in glass jars or glasses.

Spiced Seckel Pears.—Take nine pounds of seckel pears and cut out the blossom end with a sharp penknife. Leave stems and skins on. Put five pounds of granulated sugar and a pint of vinegar in the preserving kettle with a teaspoonful each of cinnamon, cloves and mace tied up in thin muslin bags. When the sirup has come to the scalding point throw in the pears, a few at a time, so as to keep them whole, and cook until tender. Remove with a skimmer and put in others. Pack the pears in cans, boil the sirup until rich and thick, pour over the pears and seal.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Bear Up on the Mountain.

A Bear Came From Behind the Bush.

"WILLIE JONES was saying today that when he grew up he was going to kill bears, like Colonel Roosevelt," said Jack, while Evelyn looked, as most little girls look when their brothers speak of taking life in any way. "That must be an awfully brave way to spend your time," Jack added.

Daddy laughed. "Well, sometimes it is and sometimes it isn't. It depends upon circumstances. I'll have to tell you a little story to illustrate my point.

"It happened up on big Owlface mountain, in the Adirondacks. They called it Owlface mountain because its summit, which was a big granite cliff, looked just like an owl's face when seen from a certain direction.

"This story happened a good many years ago. There were not many people who lived near the mountain then—just a few scattered farmhouses. In one of these houses lived a family that had ten children of all sizes.

"Now, these children had a little boy cousin who lived in the city, and he came to see them one summer, and he had the finest time he'd ever had.

"One day the children's father proposed to all the children that he would take them up Owlface mountain to pick blackberries. 'But we won't go up so very far,' he said, 'for there have been bears around lately, and I will take my gun along. We might need it.'

"So they all went berrying and picked a great many. They kept all together and had just come to a great bush that was loaded down when the little city boy gave a big yell and turned and ran, with every other one of the ten little cousins at his heels.

"For what do you think he and the other children had seen, Evelyn? A great big black bear had risen from behind that big bush and glared at them. Yes, sir! You know bears like berries, and the children had disturbed him at his feast. Oh, how they ran down that mountain, crying and yelling! And they listened for the gunshot that would tell them that daddy had shot Mr. Bear, but it didn't come.

"And by and by they heard a great crashing behind them and ran the faster, thinking it was the bear. But then they heard somebody laughing ever so hard and calling to them to stop, and it was the ten children's papa, all out of breath with running and laughing.

"'Why didn't you shoot the bear, daddy?' asked the fifth child.

"'I didn't get the chance,' he replied. 'He was as scared as you kids were and ran the other way into the woods as fast as he could.'

"So you see," finished daddy, "you can't shoot a bear unless he's brave enough to let you."

ELIGIBLES NAMED FOR ELECTION WORK

Civil Service Commission Certifies the List to Somerset Authorities.

The State Civil Service Commission has certified to Judge Daniel H. Beekman and the Board of Elections of Somerset county the list of those men eligible for appointment to the local boards of registry and election throughout the county. The list comprises those who passed the examinations in 1911-1912-1913, and who were not appointed, together with those who passed the recent test conducted by the commission under the Geran election law.

Those named for North Plainfield are as follows: Republicans—First district, Clarence Smalley; Second district, W. W. Rowley; Third district, William J. Trembath, Frank E. Kesselring; Fourth district, Horace Conover; Fifth district, David C. Allen. Democrats—First district, James C. Walker, Andrew Love, Jr.; Second district, Chauncey F. Colthar; Third district, Peter W. Fisher; Fourth district, Levi C. Kline. In North Plainfield township there were no eligibles among the Republicans, but David Mogey, Democrat, is named for the Democrats. In Warren township, these are named: Republicans—John V. Brockway, Plainfield, R. D. 3; W. Howard Toms, Warrenville; J. Raymond Adams, Plainfield, R. D. 3; Democrats—First district, Adam Betzold, Millington.

"P. F." CONTRIBUTES $5 TO THE SUMMER FUND

Although the subscriptions have been coming in rather slowly for the City Union of the King's Daughter's summer fund, the receipt of $5 from "P. F." today is most welcome and will be appreciated by the organization which is carrying on such an excellent work. It is hoped that the people of Plainfield and Noth Plainfield will not overlook this worthy charity while they are enjoying their vacation and thus help the King's Daughters to bring back health and strength to those less fortunate than themselves. The contributions received for this fund to date are as follows:

"Wellwisher"	$20.00
Mrs. Louisa L. Riley	$10.00
Mrs. E. E. Parvin	$10.00
Isaac W. Rushmore	$10.00
Mrs. Julia M. VanBuren	$10.00

WARREN CHAPEL EXCURSION TAKES 1,000 TO THE SHORE

Twenty car loads of happy excursionists left the North avenue station this morning to take advantage of the last opportunity to enjoy a day's outing at Asbury Park this year under the auspices of a local Sunday-school. The Warren chapel Sunday-school conducted the outing today and about 1,000 persons went to the shore.

Ideal weather conditions greeted the pleasure seekers both here and at the shore and the bathing, which is one of the principal anticipations of those who go, is excellent at the present time. Both sections that went from here this morning made stops at Netherwood and many more were picked up at this place. The trains will probably arrive in this city on the return journey tonight about 9 o'clock.

Sale of Lands for Unpaid Taxes

Collector's Office, City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, will on at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the said Collector's office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said city, expose for sale and sell the several tracts or parcels of land hereinafter specified, or any part or parts thereof severally sufficient for the purpose, on which taxes for the year nineteen hundred and thirteen remain in arrears, to such person or persons as will purchase the same for the shortest term and pay the tax lien thereon, including interest and costs of sale, or in fee where no one will bid for a shorter term.

This sale is made under the provisions of the act of the Legislature of this State, entitled: "An Act for the assessment and collection of taxes," approved April 8, 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the land to be sold, as shown on the City records, may be obtained at the office of the subscriber any week day prior to the day of sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The folowing is a list of the several tracts and parcels of land to be sold, which shows the names of the delinquents, the supposed owners thereof as the names of the delinquent owners appear on the books of the taxing district, together with a statement of the wards of the city wherein said lands are respectively situated, and the street in which each lot is situated, the block and lot number of each lot as they appear on the Official Assessment Maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, and the amount due from each of the said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot and parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum from the twentieth day of December, 1913, to the day of sale, and the fees provided by said act of the Legislature, viz.: for preparing and publishing notices of sale twenty-five cents for each parcel of land advertised; and for selling twenty-five cents for each parcel sold; and for each certificate of sale, fifty cents, besides necessary disbursements for printing, postage, affidavits and acknowledgements, which are hereby estimated at three dollars for each item of arrearage, and the City Clerk's fee for recording report, ten cents for each parcel of land sold, and all said fees and expenses shall form part of the tax lien and be paid by the purchaser at the tax sale.

Sale Number.	Supposed owner or person to whom assessed.	Ward.	Block No. City Assessment Maps.	Lot No. City Assessment Maps.	Street or Avenue.	Year.	Amount of Tax.	Date from which interest will be added at 10 per cent. per annum to date of sale.

BORO ENDORSES LABOR EXHIBIT

Monster Demonstration By Building Trades Favored By Council.

WILL BE REPRESENTED

Police and Firemen to Parade With City Departments—Line of March Will Extend in North Plainfield.

Members of the North Plainfield Council entered into the proposed plans for the Labor Day demonstration of the Building Trades Council with enthusiasm last night and the project was heartily endorsed by each of the borough fathers following the adjourned meeting, called for the purpose of adopting the 1914 budget. Councilman Edmund Rushmore introduced a resolution officially endorsing the scheme, but, owing to the fact that the meeting was called solely for the purpose of passing on the budget, the motion was deferred until after the meeting had adjourned.

It was stated last night that the merchants of Somerset street would probably enter into the plan for decorating their buildings and all borough residents are urged to provide flags or some other decorations for their homes on that day. The proposition was accepted on the part of the borough and the co-operation of the municipality assured on the condition that the line of march lead into that borough. Representatives of the Building Trades Council, present at the meeting, stated that the line of march would extend to streets as far north as Mountain avenue. Members of the Borough Council were also requested to witness the parade in a body and it is probable that some steps will be taken to provide a reviewing stand in Somerset street.

Councilman Julius Stahl, on behalf of the fire and water committee, stated that the borough police and fire headquarters would be decorated for the occasion and any assistance that the organizers might require in North Plainfield would be cheerfully extended. A delegation of borough firemen and policemen will be entered in the demonstration. As a means of safe guarding the borough against any possible loss by fire while the firemen are taking part in the demonstration it has been arranged to have a hired team of horses and the old hose wagon in readiness to answer emergency calls at headquarters and four callmen will also be on hand.

The North Plainfield engine will be put in first-class condition for the occasion and it is proposed to get possession of one of the oldest engines in the State to serve as a runningmate for the up-to-date piece of apparatus. The object of the parade is to show the contrast between conditions as they existed here in the middle of the nineteenth century and the conditions at the present time. Chief Doane, of the Plainfield fire department has assured the committee in charge of the parade that he will have his modern Nott auto engine in line on that day and will probably team it up with the old Alert silver hose wagon, now in storage. North Plainfield fire laddies will probably ressurrect their old engine which they recently loaned to the South Plainfield fire department and which is doing duty at the present time in that department.

EMPLOYES OF WHITE STORE ENJOY OUTING

Employes of A. E. Force & Co., to the number of thirty-five, enjoyed the outing yesterday, which is given annually by the proprietors of "The White Store." The objective point was back of Scotch Plains, near Camp Endeavor, the trip being made in automobiles, wagons and trolley cars. The start was made at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and the party returned at 8:30 o'clock in the evening.

While in the mountains the clerks enjoyed playing all kinds of games and at noon all sat down to a fine dinner, which was arranged under the direction of the committee in charge, comprising Miss May Hughes, Miss Elizabeth O'Keefe and H. R. High.

During the afternoon the time was divided between playing games and enjoying a ramble through the woods. It was an ideal day for the outing and all agreed that it was the best one yet given by the firm.

FUNERAL RAYMOND FORCE.

The funeral services of Raymond B. Force, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Force, of Mountain avenue, who died at Ocean Grove, Tuesday afternoon, will be held at the home of his parents Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Franklin Council No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., of which he was a member, will attend the services.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE TO OPEN AUGUST 20

"What Happened At 22," Will Be the First Attraction.

William J. Counihan and Michael Shannon, managers of the Plainfield Theatre, succeeding Proctor & Sanderson, lessees, who tomorrow will again take charge of the local playhouse, were in town today making preparations for the opening of the theatre on Thursday night, August 20, when "What Happened at 22," by Paul Wilstach, will be the initial attraction. The scenes of this new play are laid in New York city and the time it the present. The principal character is a forger, an extremely clever personage. The cast is headed by Reginald Barlow and Carrall McComas. After its presentation here the play goes to the Harris Theatre, New York.

Mr. Counihan is optimistic as to the coming season and declared today that he would follow his previous custom here, that of presenting all of the best plays, well-known metropolitan success, and he felt sure of receiving the support of lovers of high-class productions. Within a short time a list of the coming attractions will be announced. The management has arranged for several improvements at the theatre which will add to the comfort and pleasure of patrons.

COMPLETE DETAILS FOR BIG PARADE

Many Floats Already Entered For the Demonstration Here September 7.

The Labor Day committee of the Allied Trades of the city held a large enthusiastic meeting, last evening, at which time much progress was made in the arrangements of the details of the Labor Day celebration. Reports from the various committees indicated that the arrangements are near completion.

Many floats have already been registered with the committee, the carpenter's union float being among the notable ones already entered. It was stated that all floats should be registered with the committee by the next meeting to be held Thursday evening, August 20, when the entries will be closed. The committee on decorations reported that many of the merchants of the city had already made arrangements to decorate their places of business, while others would be approached on this matter during the course of the coming week.

Several prominent speakers have been secured for the picnic to be held during the afternoon, among whom is Hugh Rielly, of Newark, business agent of the International Association of Machinists. Mr. Reilly is well known in this city, and the general public will be privileged to hear this able labor speaker upon this occasion.

The Borough Common Council, at its special session of last evening, accepted the invitation to review the parade in conjunction with the governing bodies of this city and the borough of Dunellen.

WILL ATTEND CONFERENCE.

Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Shaw, Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardner, L. A. Worden, Miss Annie Stillman, Mrs. J. P. Allis and Mrs. Arthur Hunting are among some of the members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, who will attend the general conference of the denomination to be held at Alfred, N. Y. next week.

MAY NAME AMBASSADOR.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The White House today evinced the greatest satisfaction over the manner in which the Mexican situation was worked out. Although not announced officially, it was strongly indicated that John E. Lamb, of Indiana, would be nominated as ambassador to Mexico.

ADMITS HE FORGED NUMBER OF CHECKS

Jay Van Arsdale Being Held In $1,000 Bail For Grand Jury.

When put through the "third degree" by Police Chief Kiely following his apprehension by Patrolman Martin Flatley, yesterday, on a warrant charging him with forgery, Jay Van Arsdale, an insurance collector in the employ of the Prudential Company, broke down, it is said, and made a confession that would appear to class him as a first rate forger, whose arrest is an important one. Startling revelations were made by the prisoner, yesterday, according to the police, and when arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning he was held in bonds of $1,000 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Van Arsdale's own story, it is said, makes him liable to a State's prison sentence and in default of bail he will be committed to the Union county jail at Elizabeth this afternoon. Two checks have been located by the police which the forger failed to make good, one given to Mrs. Schlick, of West Third street, for $3.50, and another to W. W. Wilson, a local grocer, for $16. The latter check, it is said, was made out to Jay Van Arsdale on the account of Charles Thornton, a South Plainfield hotel keeper. Among the other alleged bogus checks made out by Van Arsdale was one on Adam C. Blair for $20 and another on Fred Ivamy for the same amount. He also admits the police say, forging the name of his sister-in-law, Nellie Hall.

The accused is well known in this city and South Plainfield, where he has lived and worked all his life. He was formerly employed as a blacksmith by a number of local shops and later worked in South Plainfield for William Hamilton. Lately he has been working for the Prudential. Van Arsdale was one of the recent applicants for one of the vacancies on the local police force but his name was turned down.

SEAL IS RELEASED ON MOTHER'S BOND

Local Youth, Implicated In Auto Theft, Freed to Await Trial.

Ralph S. Seal, the twenty-year-old Plainfield youth who was arrested by the Monmouth County authorities for automobile stealing last Saturday, was released from custody this morning upon the furnishing of $750 bail by his mother, of this city. The parent went to Freehold yesterday afternoon to arrange for the bonds and retained former Judge Conover, who also is attorney for James L. Ansboro from whom seal and R. W. Gildersleeve, of Centre Valley, was alleged to have stolen the car.

According to Mrs. Seal the Gildersleeve man is much older than heretofore stated and has been mixed up in several similar escapades. It is her supposition that the Centre Valley prisoner led young Seal into the scheme for stealing the machines and efforts are being made to trace his former records. Seal will not return to this city but will await trial at the shore.

PLANS FOR NEW SCHOOL READY

Modern Eight Room Building to Be Erected On Ever-Green Avenue.

IT WILL COST $80,000

Accommodations For 500 Will Be Provided at First—Detailed Description of Specifications Furnished By Architects.

Plans for the new school to be erected on Evergreen avenue are practically completed and it is expected that the Board of Education will advertise for bids for the construction of the building to be received during September.

As will be seen from the accompanying illustration the new school is to be in the Elizabethian style of architecture, and two stories in height, with a high basement. The dimensions of the building are approximately 181 feet by 85 feet and its construction will be of reinforced concrete with a facing of brick and terra cotta.

A feature of the building worth commenting on is the fact that while as originally built, it will accommodate only about five hundred children, it will be possible at any time to increase its capacity to between 750 and 800 children without adding to the size of the structure.

This is due to the fact that the glass area for the basemen rooms, at present intended as play rooms, has been designed to permit the two play rooms to be converted into four class rooms by merely putting a partition in each. Thus the school will not only meet the immediate needs of the city but will provide, at an inconsiderable cost, for the growth of the school population in Plainfield in the Evergreen avenue section for several years at least.

Should it ever become necessary to further enlarge the building it will be possible by adding two short walls in the rear to provide four more classrooms capable of accommodating 160 children.

The total possible capacity of the school will then be between 950 and 1,000 pupils.

Messrs. Wilder and White, the architects, have combined the maximum accommodation with a minimum of construction cost in designing the school and while it is, of course, impossible to state exactly what the building will cost before the actual bids are received, it is believed that eighty thousand dollars or less will cover all expenses except the furniture and the grading of the lot. The school will face south. At each side and rear ample room is left for the school play grounds.

On the first story there are located a library, a principal's office and waiting room, and the teachers' room with lavatories. Seven class rooms, each planned to accommodate forty pupils, occupy the rest of the first floor and each class room in the building will have a separate coat room adjoining it.

On the second floor are six class rooms and the general assembly room. The latter will have a seating capacity of seven hundred and will contain a small stage with the usual anterooms.

In the basement the heating and ventilating plants are located. These are of the most approved design, including intake and exhaust fans, thermostatic regulation and an apparatus for cooling and moistening the air. The mechanical plant is so designed that in the event of the building being increased in size it can be added to sufficiently to handle the increased

VICTIM OF A GANG BALKS THE POLICE

Italian Black Hand Mark Refuses to Assist Authorities to Prosecute.

Although knowing he is the victim of black-handers of the most desperate type, Pasquale Diano, of 305 Watson avenue, refuses to co-operate with the local police authorities in bringing them to account and as a result the wheels of justice have struck a snare. Dr. Howard E. Winter, a veterinary surgeon, of this city, reported to the police yesterday that a horse belonging to Pasquale had been horribly maltreated by some miscreant Wednesday night and asked that an officer be sent to the place at once.

Sergeant Maurice Higgins was sent to the place and found the equine under the care of Dr. Winter. Someone had entered the barn the night before and slashed the left flank of the animal with a sharp instrument, supposed to have been a razor. The fleshy part of the animal's flank was raw and it is a wonder to those in charge of the case that the beast did not bleed to death before assistance came. According to Chief of Police Kiely, the cut is typical black-handers' slash.

Diano has been "in bad" with a gang of black-handers for sometime past and is afraid of violence. When the police started an investigation the Italians in that section closed up tight and refused to give out any information.

EXTRA ATTRACTION FOR BAND CONCERT

Colored Male Quartet Will Sing Popular Songs at Weekly Entertainment.

With the prospects of fine weather an unusually large crowd is expected at the weekly band concert to be given at West Fifth street and Monroe avenue, by the Dutch Arms Band, under the auspices of the West End Civic Association. The band has been filling a number of engagements recently and has added several popular selections to its repertoire, some of which will be heard at tonight's concert.

An additional attraction will be the singing of popular selections by a male quartet of colored singers. This should prove to be a big feature. The association has provided every convenience for patrons, including plenty of seats for those wishing to sit down. There will also be a refreshment booth where, for a nominal sum, one can obtain ice cream, soft drinks, etc. The program for tonight will be as follows:

America; march, The World's Fair, Shotwell; medley, Yankee Hash, Miller; male quartet; march, National Emblem, Bagley; serenade, Twilight Echoes, Miller; intermission; march, The Thunderer, Sousa; Hesitation Waltz, Kruseman; gallop, Shooting Stars, Losey; male quartet; waltz, Sea Breezes, Losey; Hail Columbia.

SCRIBE AT BIG MATCHES.

Frank O. Dunning, Jr., of the Plainfield Daily Press sporting department, was one of those who witnessed the open singles' matches of the International fight between America and Australia, on the Forest Hill courts yesterday afternoon.

FRENCH MAINTAIN POSITION AT VOSGES HEIGHTS, TAKING PRISONERS; FIGHT AT NAMUR

Rothschilds Give 1,000,000 Francs to Relief Fund--Russia Reported to Have 8,000,000 In the Field or In Reserve--May Extend United States Censorship Over Cable Lines as Well as Wireless Stations.

Paris, Aug. 14 (Central News Cable).—The positions gained by the French army five days ago on the Vosges Heights are still maintained, despite the greatly superior numbers of the enemy. A reconnoitering party of Germans at Col Saales found themselves surrounded by Frenchmen and were compelled to surrender, the French capturing a quick firing gun, which was in their possession. It is officially announced that the French are now complete masters of the Bruch Valley.

More than two thousand prisoners captured by the Belgian army are, at the request of the Belgian general, being received in France for confinement with the prisoners captured by the French army. It is further officially announced by the French War Office that more than 1,500 Germans have been taken prisoners on the French frontier.

Official confirmation of the Belgian success at Diet, yesterday, when the German troops were repulsed with heavy losses has been received here. While reconnoitering over the Province of Lorraine today, a French aviator was suddenly pursued by armed German aeroplanes, but owing to his superior knowledge of flying he evaded capture and reached French territory in safety.

The Brothers Rothschild, the famous bankers, have given 1,000,000 francs to the fund which is being raised for the relief of the French families who will suffer in consequence of the war.

Considerable protest is aroused here by the methods of the Government's censorship. The cable companies are charged by the Government according to the number of words filed, but the censor cuts out words before they are sent, and then the cable companies in New York receive payment only for the number of words received here.

Cable companies in Paris are considering demanding the full amount from the senders in advance, rather than await a settlement after the war through governmental adjustment.

London, Aug. 14.—It is reported here that the big German armies are pushing against the allied armies between Namur and Hasselt, Belgium. Sharp fighting is already reported between the advance guards.

The Government has advised the railways that it is not desirable to withhold the payment of dividends that have been declared.

It is announced by the British War office today, that the Royal Army Medical Corps has established a branch corps for the special purpose of supervising the important work of sanitation in the field. This special corps will be commanded by trained officers, and a number of men will be allotted to each army brigade to test the food and water supplied to the troops. The members of this special corps will be provided with apparatus enabling them to promptly detect the presence of poison in the water supply of the army.

Owing to the close affiliations of the Spanish banks with the French institutions, the financial houses in Spain, says the Economist, have been paralyzed by the lock-up of gold in Paris and by the Italian moratorium.

The payment of the colony debt of Jamaica has been deferred because of the war, according to a despatch from Kingston, Jamaica, to the Morning Post. The despatch says the government has arranged to suspend payment for a time on the interest and sinking fund. This involves about £200,000 a year.

The British newspapers have been warned by Field Marshal Karl Kitchener, secretary of State for war, that the publication of military or naval movements outside the announcements issued by the official news bureau, will be followed by the suspension of the offending paper.

A St. Petersburg despatch to the Central News reports that fierce fighting between Russian and Austrian forces took place yesterday at Tusora, on the River Dnister, in Eastern Galicia. The report states that the Austrian forces met with severe defeat, four infantry regiments and one cavalry regiment being practically wiped out.

The committee of the Metal Exchange met today, but did not decide upon re-opening the exchange for business. The committee will hold another meeting Monday, when it is expected the re-opening of the exchange will be decided upon, not for official dealings, but to facilitate adjustments.

Rome, Aug. 14 (Central News Cable).—From a trustworthy source in St. Petersburg comes the announcement that Russia has mobilized an army of 2,000,000 men on the German frontier, a similar number on the Austrian frontier, and an army of half a million on the Turkish boundary and the Roumania frontier, respectively, while holding 3,000,000 additional men in reserve.

The Messagero says that the blockade of Montenegro by the Austrian fleet has been abandoned.

A despatch from Sofia published in the Tribuna today, states that Bulgaria has declared her intention of remaining neutral unless Turkey goes to the aid of Germany, in which case Bulgaria will immediately attack Turkey. A despatch received here from Trieste states that it is officially admitted that the Austrian steamer Baran Gautsch has been blown up by a mine off the Island of Lussin, on the Dalmatian coast, twenty of the vessel's crew were killed.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Extension of the Government's strict censorship over wireless stations to include the Trans-Atlantic cables may follow Germany's insistent demand on the United States that it be permitted to use the big wireless towers at Tuckerton, N. J., and Sayreville, L. I., to establish communication with the Western hemisphere. It was intimated at the White House today that this step might be taken as a matter of compensation to Germany for the administration's refusal to open the wireless for code messages. Germany is cut off from communication by cable.

Despatches from London received by the Southern Commercial Congress from the American Commission of Municipal Executives, headed by Senator Fletcher, of Florida, announced they had sailed from London last Sunday and will arrive in New York next Sunday. The commission was marooned in Paris at the outbreak of the war but got to London last week.

President Wilson, it was intimated today, would not interfere in any way with the plans of J. P. Morgan & Co. and other bankers to underwrite a loan of several hundred million dollars to France or to any other nation. It was said the President believed the safest course for the United States to pursue was to keep entirely out of the matter, leaving to the bankers, both American and foreign, the responsibility of negotiating the business deal at their own risk and in their own way. It is understood that this decision will be conveyed to Morgan before he leaves here for New York. The President made up his mind, it was said, after he had conferred with Secretary of State Bryan and Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. It was not believed Mr. Morgan would call at the White House in regard to the matter, no engagement for his reception having been made.

Men representing great fleets of ships and others who handle the grain crops met today, with Secretary McAdoo in the Treasury Department to discuss means of getting the food supplies to war-stricken Europe. Before the conference is ended it is hoped that some means will have been found to move the grain. J. P. Morgan and James J. Hill took part in the deliberations.

Following a conference at the Treasury Department between Secretary McAdoo, Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Representative Underwood, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, the latter left for the Capitol to draft a bill increasing the internal revenue taxation by $100,000,000 a year. Mr. Underwood said he would call his committee together immediately and that work on preparing the necessary legislation would be undertaken at once.

Ambassador Page, in London, cabled the State Department today that at the request of the Austrian SCOUT OFFICIALS MEET.

The officials of the local council of the Boys Scouts of America met in the Whittier School, last evening, with Scout Master William Elliott. They report the ranks of Troop No. 1 as being practically filled and that good progress is being made with the formation of another troop. The endeavors of Scout Commissioner Beals, of Plainfield, to secure the local organization of scouts an allotment of ground at "Camp King," Plainfield, have been successful and the boys can now go down there under the supervision of Scout Master Elliott, raise their troop and American flags and camp out as long as they may care to. The local organization has received an invitation from Scout Commissioner Beals to participate in the Boy Scout parade at Plainfield on August 30. The boys are planning a hike over the mountains tomorrow. The program of Boy Scout Day in Dunellen on Labor Day has not been formulated as yet.

Miss Doane, formerly of Plainfield, who is a student at Earlam College, Ill., has been spending a few days in the borough, as the guest of Miss Meta Pennock and Miss Grace Parker.

YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS BEFORE RECORDER CAMPBELL

William Barnard, Archie Munn, Edward Murphy, Percy Vroom and Richard Sullivan, ranging between twelve and fifteen years of age, were arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell in the borough hall, Dunellen, last night, on a charge made by the parents of Stephen Helt, aged fifteen years, of Prospect avenue, that borough, who accused the lads of assault on August 12.

According to the testimony the alleged assault was the culmination of a "plaguing" on the part of the quintet during the past year. It was said to have taken place in front of Taylor's Hotel. The lads had gone to the water faucet in front of the hotel, where young Helt was standing, to get a drink, when Barnard, according to the testimony of the complaints, squirted a mouthful of water into Helt's eyes. Then the latter is said to have thrown a pail of water over Barnard and his companions.

Helt was then pounced upon by the sons of Africa, and the onewhoeats was stated. After severely reprimanding the youthful defendants, Recorder Campbell allowed them to go with the understanding that they would be given the full extent of the law if arraigned before him again.

government he had taken charge of its embassy there.

Thousands of Cuban cigar makers have been thrown out of work as a result of the European war, according to advices received here.

Amendments to the shipping law designed to open American registry to foreign ships in the European crisis as agreed upon by House and Senate conferees and up for final action in both houses today, have approval of President Wilson.

Brussels, Aug. 14 (Central News Cable)—According to a report published in a Brussels evening paper today, the Belgian artillery yesterday succeeded in bringing down three German aeroplanes which were discovered flying over Dieste, making observations of the positions occupied by the Belgian forces.

Two of the German aviators were dashed to pieces and the third suffered such serious injury that he is not expected to live.

Amsterdam, Aug. 14 (Central News Cable)—A despatch from Maestricht states that heavy cannonading is being heard today towards the southeast and it is assured that the bombardment of the forts at Liege by the heavy siege guns of the Germans has commenced. According to a report received here from Cologne the Germans claim they have captured the Belgian fort at Pontine, four and a quarter miles north of Liege.

Springfield, Mo., Aug. 14.—The St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad Company has placed its 2,000 employes in its car and locomotive shops here on a forty-four hour, instead of a fifty-two hour, a week schedule. The retrenchment is said to be due to the European war having placed an embargo on grain shipments.

New York, Aug. 14.—That one of the European nations now at war was making preparations last winter for the conflict is the conclusion drawn by Julie F. Sarzano, president of the Pan-American Chamber of Commerce, who said today that he was approached by the nation's representative in the matter.—"He asked me if it was possible to obtain 20,000 mules in South America," said Surzano "He did not explain what the mules were wanted for, but it was not likely they would be of any other service in Europe than for war. Shortly afterward another representative made inquiries for an enormous quantity of cotton ducking.

Britain's North Sea fleet, which is said to be in need of oil, will apparently be supplied by the Standard Oil Company, which is making ready two tank steamships, the Tonowanda and the Watello, for the voyage to England, under the convoy of a British cruiser. Both are being coaled and provisioned now at the Constable Hook depot, Hoboken, for a six weeks' voyage.

The Standard Oil Company's Bayonne plant has been working its 5,000 men half time and has not shipped a gallon of oil from there since the outbreak of hostilities in Europe, but the resumption of British shipping may increase the activity there.

Fifteen oil boats, owned by the company, are loaded with oil, but lying idle in the lower bay. Nine of this fleet fly the German flag, five the British and one the Netherlands.

Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—Orders have been issued to four Winnipeg infantry regiments to proceed Monday to the Mobolization field near Quebec. The Winnipeg battery of artillery has also been ordered to the mobolization camp. This battery participated in the relief of Mafeking.

Rotterdam, Aug. 14.—As a precaution against possible German invasion, large areas of Holland have been flooded, and 60,000 troops have been massed on the Belgian frontier. It is feared that a German defeat at Tongres may force the Germans over the border into the Dutch provinces of Brabant and Limburg.

The Hague, Aug. 14.—Now that the German troops are working to the southward away from the Dutch frontier, there is considerable relief in Holland. The queen, however, still makes her daily inspection of the Dutch troops. She leaves the palace every morning at seven o'clock in an automobile for a tour of military inspection, and is active for long hours every day.

The Prince Consort is assisting in the work of the Red Cross Society. Already there are hundreds of wounded soldiers in Holland.

WAR NEWS IN BRIEF.

Belgium.

The fighting between the combined Belgian and French forces and the German invaders in Belgium continues. Brussels advices say that the German advance was checked in the fighting already reported centering about Diest and Haelen. Official communications say the Germans lost three-fifths of their men who were engaged in the battle. The German advance, according to the Belgians, also has been checked in the province of Limburg, to the northeast. The Germans are reported also to have lost another engagement between cavalry forces at Tirlemont on Wednesday. No information is given out regarding the situation at Namur, where French and British armies are supporting the Belgian defenders. It is believed in Brussels that a battle already is on at this fortress.

France.

The French assert that they have been victorious after two days' fighting near Pont-a-Mousson, north of Nancy. The French war office denies that the French army has been driven out of Alsace and says that the lines have been reformed just behind Muelhausen and are holding their own against the Germans. French advices also say that the French have driven the Germans back with heavy losses at Spincourt, south of Longwy, on the northeastern French frontier, after desperate bayonet fighting.

Germany.

The German army is reported to be advancing slowly along the entire line of its attack on Belgium and France and to be concentrating for attacks at Namur and other points. The Germans say they have driven the French out of Alsace and have taken a large number of prisoners. Their plan in Belgium seems to be to isolate Liege, whose forts are still intact, according to reports, and to press on into the center of Belgium.

England.

In a statement reassuring British commerce, the British admiralty excepts the North sea. Heavy firing has been heard as far south as Dover, but no news of the British and German fleets has yet been given out. The British fleet in the Mediterranean has been ordered to attack the Austrian fleet, which was last reported in the Straits of Otranto. A strong French fleet, which is now in the Mediterranean, may co-operate with the British ships in this attack.

Russia.

It is announced in St. Petersburg that Russian troops have captured the town of Sokal, in Galicia, leading to Lemberg. Russian advices say also that the Russians now holding Eydkuhnen, on the east Prussian border have repulsed an attempt by the Germans to recapture the town. The Russian fleet is said still to command the gulf of Finland, although German ships have been seen in the Baltic near the mouth of the gulf.

Paris, Aug. 14.—The French war office in an official communication confirms the reports that the German advance was checked near the fortress of Diest. The communication was as follows:

"A division of Belgian cavalry supported by a brigade of infantry and by artillery engaged and defeated near the fortress of Diest, eighteen miles northeast of Louvain, a division of German cavalry, also supported by infantry and by artillery. The fighting was extremely fierce and resulted in the Germans being thrown back toward Hasselt and St. Trond."

Louvain is the headquarters of the main Belgian army. Hasselt is thirteen miles east of Diest on the railroad to Maastricht and about twenty-two miles northeast of Liege. St. Trond is about twelve miles southeast of Diest and twenty-one miles northwest of Liege.

Germans Lose Heavily.

Brussels, via London, Aug. 14.—Further details of the fighting northwest of Hasselt, centering about Haelen and Diest, confirms the earlier reports that the Belgians were successful in checking the German advance. An official communication says that the German casualties were very heavy and that three-fifths of the German troops engaged in the battle were killed or wounded. The Belgian casualties, according to the official statement, were relatively small.

Reports received by Le Soir give the German loss as about a thousand killed and the same number wounded. The same paper says that the Belgian losses are not definitely known, but that the number of killed was small, but many Belgians were wounded.

Official communications announce that the German advance has now been checked both in the province of Brabant, where yesterday's fighting occurred, and in the province of Limburg, to the northeast. The war office says that the Germans were driven back in an engagement in the latter province, but the place and details of this engagement are not given. Belgian and French troops have effected a junction south of Brussels, according to the Belgian officials. The present location of this combined force is not more definitely given.

Fighting All Day.

The advices received in Brussels indicate that the fighting in the vicinity of Diest and Haelen lasted through the entire day, and reports from the vicinity say that shells were still falling on the roads near Diest at 7:30 o'clock last night. The center of the battle was at Haelen, four miles southeast of Diest. The latter is one of the five fortified towns of Belgium.

According to the reports the German troops had been driven back from the line of the fighting about Haelen by 7 o'clock last night and steps were at once taken to collect the dead and wounded. As an instance of the heavy casualties, it is reported here that the bodies of 200 dead German soldiers were counted within a space of fifty yards square. The Belgians gathered a great quantity of arms and ammunition and other booty on the battlefield and brought it back to Diest, where they stacked it in a great heap in front of the town hall. Many horses were captured from the German cavalry.

Haelen suffered heavily from the artillery fire. A church and a brewery were set afire and a number of dwellings were destroyed. Belgian engineers destroyed two bridges over the Demer to impede the German advance.

5,000 Germans in Fight.

It is estimated that the Germans engaged in the fighting at Haelen and Diest numbered about 5,000 men.

The Belgian losses at Tirlemont between a body of Belgian lancers and German Uhlans, are placed at twenty-five killed. The number of wounded is not stated. The Germans checked the charge of the lancers with machine gun fire, but were in turn driven back by a body of Belgian infantry which came to the aid of the lancers. It is stated here that the Germans lost 250 killed out of about 2,000 Uhlans in the engagement.

No official news is available of the big battle which all Brussels believes is already on. Outside of the minor engagements mentioned, the war office gives no reports of other places where fighting is going on. There is an impression that the German main army in Belgium will endeavor to circle Louvain, where the Belgian main army has entrenched itself.

The movements of the Belgian main army and the armies of the allies are kept carefully guarded by the war office. Even officials of other branches of the government are said to know little of the situation aside from such official reports as are given out by the military authorities. Even the members of the chamber of deputies are kept in ignorance of the location of the larger bodies of troops, according to one member of the chamber.

King Albert In Uniform.

King Albert, wearing the uniform of a general, passed through Louvain yesterday in an automobile. The machine was covered with dust. The king was unescorted and few recognized him as he passed.

Much is being said of the disadvantage of the Belgian troops in the matter of uniforms. They are not provided with the brown or gray service uniforms such as many armies use, but wear in the field the traditional uniforms, many of which, especially in the cavalry branch of the service, are of bright colors. The Germans of all ranks wear a service uniform of gray, which is difficult to distinguish at a distance against the background of fields and roads. The first group of German prisoners to be seen in the streets of Brussels arrived yesterday. It was made up of young German officers. Their spiked helmets were covered with brown Holland cloth to make them less conspicuous, and they wore the new gray field uniforms.

Reports are current in the capital that the Belgian government, through the diplomatic representatives of the neutral powers in Brussels, will ask the nonwarring nations to intervene in the present conflict with reference to alleged violations by the German troops in Belgium of the provisions of the Geneva and Hague conventions.

M. Davignon, the Belgian foreign minister, has prepared a long list of instances which the government asserts are thoroughly proved in which the Germans are charged with having killed the wounded, abused the white flag, killed civilians and seized both private and public funds.

Germans Brutal, Is Charge.

Reports current in Brussels accuse the Germans of many brutalities. Belgians allege that when a body of German cavalry enters a town it goes first to the muincipal treasury and then to the various banks and takes all the cash it can find. Reports received from the war zone accuse the Germans of pillaging and burning villages and shooting down their civilian inhabitants without provocation. Whole villages are thus being wiped out, according to the peasants. Even priests are being fired on by the Germans, they say, in what the peasants insist is being carried on by the invaders as a war of extermination.

Much anxiety is felt for the safety of Baron de Favereau, president of the Belgian senate, who left Brussels on Aug. 4 for his chateau in the northern part of the province of Liege and has not been heard from since.

Heavy Casualities.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 14.—A semi-official announcement was made of the capture of Sokal, in Galicia, about eight miles from the frontier, on the Bug river. Sokal is fifty miles northeast of Lemberg and is the terminus of a railroad which connects with that city. The valleys or tributaries of the Bug lead direct to the hills to the north of Lemberg. The Russians have already taken Rodziviloff and Zalosce, on the northeastern part of Galicia.

The announcement says that the Russian assault resulted in heavy casualities to the Austrian garrison of the town, which comprised two battalions of infantry, a regiment of lancers and a regiment of hussars. The Russian cavalry dislodged the garrison from the city and then drove them across the Bug. The Russians destroyed two bridges and a viaduct.

Several houses in Sokal were burned by the Russians because civilians had fired upon them from the windows. The invaders captured pontoons, military building material and telegraph instruments.

The Russian war office has issued this official announcement:

"On Aug. 10 and 11 the enemy made careful reconnaissance on the frontiers of the governments of Kovnoland Suwalki. A German detachment of four battalions of infantry, three squadrons of cavalry and eighteen cannon attacked Eydtkuhnen, but was repulsed."

Kovno and Suwalki are immediately to the south of the Russian Baltic port of Libau, on the Russian-East Prussian frontier.

The announcement says that small skirmishes continue on the Russian-Prussian and the Russian-Austrian frontiers.

DUTCH LANDSTRUM READY.

Warned to Prepare For a Call to the Colors.

London, Aug. 14.—The Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Star wires that the members of the landstrum, the last line or home defense corps of the Dutch army, has been warned to be prepared for a sudden call to the colors. This is taken to mean that Holland believes Germany plans to violate her neutrality.

OFFICIALS DENY WASHINGTON REPORT

Say That Authorities of Carranza Did Not Prevent Shipment of Ammunition.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 14.—Officials here today denied reports from Washington that the authorities of Carranza in Tampico recently had prevented a cargo of ammunition from reaching Gen. Villa's representative in Juarez. It was stated further that Villa had received the ammunition from the Tampico steamship in question.

Today saw no change in the threatening outlook for early division between Carranza and Villa. There are rumors here that the States of Chihuahua, Durango, Zacatecas, Sinaloa and Sonora would combine their armies and give Villa the leadership in case of a breach with Carranza.

In the State of Sonora, the civil governor, Maytorena, is already in the field openly against Carranza's forces, which forms the State garrisons of the five north central States that would act to gether in case of revolt. They could place 50,000 men in the field, is the statement of military men here. Villa himself has 30,000 men.

Gen. Carranza left La Tuia, Hidalgo State, yesterday, according to a despatch received here today by the Constitutionalist consul, Rafael Muzzuis. It is the belief among the Constitutionalists here that the revolutionary "First Chief" has already joined Gen. Alvare Obregon within twelve miles of Mexico City.

SOUTHERN COMMERCIAL CONGRESS COMING HOME

Washington, Aug. 14.—Despatches from London, just received by the Southern Commercial Congress from the American Commission of Municipal Executives, headed by Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, of Florida, announced they had sailed from London last Sunday and will arrive in New York next Sunday. The commission was marooned in Paris at the outbreak of the European war but got to London last week.

The tour of the commission to study municipal governments in various European countries had to be abandoned but the commission attended the first International Congress of Municipal Executives at the Anglo-American Exposition in London before the war began and also the International Urban Exposition at Lyons, France.

One result of the commissions' journey was the election of Washington for the second International Conference of Municipal Executives, which will be held in September, 1915.

POINTS ELIMINATED BY WESTERN UNION SERVICE

Points reached through Hong Kong, China, are eliminated from the Western Union service because of the interference of the warring nations. All messages, including code, are still acceptable for Cuba, Porto Rico, Hayti, Santo Domingo Honolulu and the Philippines, and $5 for Central and South America, except British Honduras and British Guiana.

The French company has the only direct wire to the continent, and the service is taxed to the utmost with the flood of despatches from this country.

PRIVATE BANK FAILS.

New York, Aug. 14—The private banking firm of M. and L. Jarmulowsky is named in a petition of involuntary bankruptcy filed today in the United States District Court. The petitioners alleged that their liabilities were $1,000 and their assets $1,000,000. The firm's affairs were recently taken in charge by the State Banking Department.

MRS. MATILDA SQUIRES DIES AT HOME OF SON

Mrs. Matilda Evelyn Squires, wife of the late Henry C. Squires, formerly of this city but now of Binghamton, N. Y., died at the home of her son, Dr. Charles Squires, of that place, this morning. Mrs. Squires was a member of the Crescent Avenue church and was well known in this city, having lived here until the death of her husband. Mr. Squires was founder of Hope chapel and was the superintendent of the Sunday school for a long time.

Mrs. Squires is survived by two daughters of this city, and three sons, Dr. Charles Squires, of Binghamton, N. Y., and Fred and Walter Squires, of Zanesville, O The funeral services will be held at the home of her late son, Lewis Squires, 732 Dixie lane, Sunday afternoon.

EAST END BAND CONCERT A SATURDAY NIGHT EVENT

Although many confusing announcements have been made concerning the band concert that was postponed from Tuesday night, it was definitely stated this morning that the regular Tuesday night affair will be held on the East Front street grounds tomorrow night. The Dutch Arms band is scheduled to play in the West End concert tonight and also in the East End one tomorrow night.

Through an error it was originally announced that the East End band concert would be held tonight, but this is not the case. Complete arrangements have been made for a fine program of music to be rendered on the grounds at East Front and Washington streets tomorrow night, and those in charge look forward to having a record attendance on hand.

WAR EXTRAS.

Yesterday was the quietest day yet, so far as war news was concerned There was virtually nothing definite in the despatches from abroad, which by any twist of the imagination could be used to provide a scare head story for the newspapers. And yet several times during the day big bundles of "war extras" of sensational New York newspapers arrived at the Plainfield station, via accommodation train, and were soon being hawked about the streets by boys. And they apparently had quite a sale.

By this time the man of average intelligence has awakened to the fact that there is mighty little being printed in these special editions that is true. The battles which they record are not fought; fleets have not been sunk; assassinations of prominent rulers have not taken place, and ninety per cent. of the "special cables" never went through the hands of a telegraph operator, but are pure fiction. The linotype operators on the big papers must be tired of setting up "it is rumored."

A well-known owner of a sensational paper is credited with saying, "Raise H—— and sell the paper!" It makes the decent newspaper man dealing with his readers as an honest merchant deals with his customers weary, but what of it? People who like that sort of thing, like it not because of the information it gives them, but because of the emotional stir psychologically created by the big type, the vivid words and the glaring incredibility.

THE DREADED CANCER.

Not so very long ago the American people were hopeful that a cure had at last been found for cancer, in the use of radium. Now the American Society for the Control of Cancer comes along with a circular, in which it takes away all hope that the desired result will ever be attained by the use of this precious metal. However, at the same time it is said that if taken early enough, either the knife or radium will do the work, if properly used. So far as the radium is concerned, however, its curative effects are practically limited to superficial cancers of the skin. It has been shown to exert a definitely curative effect in some cases, where the disease is still local and in the early stages.

The circular warns us that in most cases we do not realize a cancerous growth until it is too late, and even though it is discovered in time it is said that "the best results of radium therapy can be secured only when comparatively large amounts are available for use, and the present limited world's supply of this metal places it out of reach of the great majority of patients."

Seventy-five thousand persons died from cancer in the United States during the year 1913, according to the bulletin. About 30,000 of these were deaths from cancer of the stomach and liver, 12,000 from cancer of the organs of generation, 7,500 from cancer of the breast, and about 25,000 from cancer of other organs and parts. As the circular says, cancer respects neither race, creed nor social position. It is the common enemy of all mankind, attacking rich and poor alike, and though the scientists have puzzled over it for generations we have no effective weapons with which to fight it.

All that we can do is to guard against its development, once it strikes us. The advice of the authorities is that if you notice a wart, a mole or other "mark" beginning to change in appearance or showing signs of irritation, go to a physician and have it completely removed. Do not wait until you are sure it is cancerous. Fear the beginning of a cancer, but do not be afraid to know the truth. By the time a cancer has become painful the best chance for its cure has passed. The early and hopeful stages of cancer are usually painless.

HOME TRADE ARGUMENTS.

The Trade in Plainfield contest conducted by the Daily Press brought forth many interesting letters. One reader of the paper, whom we fear does not really realize the splendid line of goods procurable in local stores, writes, not in a spirit of sarcasm or malice, that she "would much rather give reasons for shopping in Plainfield, but it is so much easier for me, and lots of others, to say why they do not shop in Plainfield."

It is only by such criticism that the Plainfield merchants can better conditions. We cannot agree with all that is said in the letter, but if the complaints are true, would not our correspondent help local business by calling attention to the shortcomings whenever they may occur, so that others would not make the same complaint?

The truth sometimes hurts, but by its telling often brings about a correction that is beneficial afterward. There is no real argument presented against buying in Plainfield that cannot be fairly answered by the local merchants, but the complaint about delivery which is made in the letter mentioned is certainly worth looking into.

"The goods bought in New York are delivered as early as 8 a. m. the following morning, and not later than 12 from any store. My experience has been that goods bought in Plainfield are delayed in delivery very often from one to two days," says the correspondent. That this is general seems impossible of belief, but the condition is one that needs correcting, and needs it in a hurry if the indictment is true. The series of letters, which will be published daily, beginning with tomorrow night, will present the finest line of arguments in favor of buying in Plainfield that we have ever been able to present, and none of them come from shopkeepers.

Allen E. Beals, head of the local Boy Scouts; Charles A. Sminck and the editor of the Daily Press have tackled the job of deciding who shall be the prize winners in the contest The answers are all good ones, and we wish we had enough prizes to go to every person who took the trouble to write a letter. The prize winners names will be announced tomorrow.

Rev. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, and probably more popular as an after-dinner talker than any other resident of Plainfield, will be the contributing editor for tomorrow. Dr. Eaton has been writing for the Toronto News for some time, and this week's article will appear simultaneously in the News and Daily Press. In it he discusses the present struggle in Europe, the article being the most timely that we have been able to present to our readers. While the situation is bad from every point of view at the present time, Dr. Eaton sees a great benefit to the world at large as a result of the struggle. Every line of the editorial will be read with intense interest.

CHURCH CARNIVAL A GREAT SUCCESS

Many People Attend Novel Affair at the Netherwood Reformed Church.

The carnival at the Netherwood Reformed church drew a large crowd of interested people, last evening. The brightly illuminated grounds, the happy crowds of people, the music of the orchestra and the variety of entertainments offered made the scene very attractive. The wagon was kept busy carrying its happy loads of straw rides. The candy and cake tables were soon stripped of their contents. The hot dogs soon disappeared, while Mr. Adams' hot corn met with approval. The laughing throng about the cocoanuts and the "negro" showed their enjoyment of the fun. Others hurried from the "Seven Wonders of the World" to the "Siamese Twins," who dance, and then to the lair of the "Snake Charmer," while the ice cream cone and candy girls circulated about the grounds delighting everybody with their attractiveness and their wares.

Throughout the evening great numbers of the people were visiting the large enclosure in the corner of the lawn, and taking the "safe and sane" trip around the world, where the conductor and the clown led them with laughter and fun to visit the representatives of the principal nations, without fear of hostile cruisers, while above them stood "Liberty" with her light. The entertainment will be repeated this evening with new and varied attractions. All are invited to come, as this is the last opportunity. The church is on Leland avenue one block from the Main Line cars.

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO FIND SCHOOL TEACHERS

County Superintendent of Schools Johnson is endeavoring to ascertain just how many of the county teachers are marooned in Europe on account of the war and may not be able to return in time for the opening of the schools next month. The list is incomplete, owing to his inability to get in touch with all of the county supervising principals, many of whom are away on their vacations. They will all be home during the last week of this month, however, and at that time definite information will be available.

A circular letter is to be sent to the head of each school district for information relative to the teachers who went abroad, and in addition to helping them in any way possible, arrangements will be made to fill their places if they are unable to get back and take charge of their classes. At the present time only one of them, Miss Stewart, of Cranford, is known to have been registered at the consulate in London. She will probably be able to return tomorrow, as another boat load of refugees will sail from that city at that time.

"PENNSY" TO BURY TELEGRAPH LINES

Elizabeth Concern Gets Contract to Build Conduits Along Railroad.

The announcement that the William J. McCloud Contracting Company, of Elizabeth, has been awarded the contract for building conduits from Jersey City to Rahway, along the Pennsylvania Railroad, for the burial of overhead wires, recalls the fact that the Western Union Telegraph Company has not yet fully restored the telegraphic service along the New Jersey Central, which was so badly crippled in the blizzard last March. The wires and poles on the eastbound side of the railroad has been restored to complete service, and a gang of men is now engaged in re-building the westbound line. It is said that this will take the rest of the summer.

The enormous destruction to overhead wires during the storm in March was a striking example of the need of burying them. Not only was communication by telegraph and telephone destroyed for several days but the operations of all railroads in the East were stopped. It was because of this serious crippling that the Pennsylvania has decided to build an underground system of wires from New York to Philadelphia.

The McCloud Company will start work very soon. It is estimated that the work will consume the remainder of the summer and fall. The contract is only for laying conduits, the work of burying the wires not being included in the agreement. The conduits will be laid along the side of the railroad tracks on the railroad right of way.

It is probable that the railroad will begin work on the system from the Philadelphia end also. Different sections of the work will be built by different companies, presumably to hasten the work or for economy's sake.

ENTERTAINS AT OLD-FASHIONED "CORN ROAST"

Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough police force, who has been spending the last ten days camping on the Watchung Mountains in the vicinity of Washington Rock, entertained a score of his friends yesterday afternoon and evening at his camp, at which time an old-fashioned "corn roast" was the feature of the occasion. A bountiful repast was spread early in the evening, all the necessary fixings to make the spread the ideal of perfection being included.

After the "banquet," a camp fire was started and kept alive throughout the entire evening, while stories of the type you read of in books were exchanged. Among the notables present were Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., Collector George F. Brown, Councilman Julius Stahl, Health Inspector Louis Oliff, Marshal Charles Keller, Dr. P. J. Zeglio, Maximus, "the strong man," and Street Commissioner William Uhrhahn.

RECREATION NOTES

The Italian Educational and Social Club, which met last night, in the Lincoln School, is proving to be a very entertaining and successful club. The music furnished by some of the members is unusually good and much enjoyed by all. The attendance too so far has been quite noteworthy, there being about fifty present at last evening's meeting. Among those present last night were Mr. and Mrs. Champlain Riley, representing the Public Recreation Committee.

The Dunbar Club will meet tonight in the Washington School. The program for the evening, besides several musical numbers, is to be a shirt waist dance, and as a reward for interest in making the affair a success there will be given a prize for the neatest and best dressed man and woman present.

SCHOOL PLANS READY

demands on it.

The rest of the basement is occupied with the lavatories, the manual training room, a gymnasium and separate play rooms for the boys and girls. As required by the city building code, the new school will be thoroughly fireproof, "Safety First" being the occasionally criticised, but, admittedly far-sighted policy of our city fathers when it comes to housing the children. Fireproof walls and partitions enclose the stairways and a minimum of wood is used throughout the building.

Light, another important feature in school design, has received special attention. The auditorium will have direct light on three sides and the gymnasium on two sides. The class rooms as required by the State authorities have one foot of window for every five feet of floor space; the figures being for the net glass space of the windows. In practice this will make the area of the window frames about twenty-five per cent. of the floor space.

Among minor, but desirable features are vacuum cleaner piping, standardized time clocks and a telephone system connecting each class room with the principal's office.

Several local contractors are already preparing to figure on the work which will be particularly welcome in these days of business uncertainty caused by the European wars. A number of outside bids are also expected. Since, under the law, the work must be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, all will have to figure closely to have a chance to secure the contract.

Eight or nine months will probably be the time allowed by the contract for completing the building, which will make it available for school purposes at the beginning of the school year in September 1915.

While built at a low cubage cost and one of the least elaborate of the new school buildings, the Evergreen avenue building promises to be as sightly and convenient as any school of its size in the State.

SUGAR UP AND OIL DOWN.

New York, Aug. 14—The American Refining Company has advanced its price of refined sugar ⅛c to 7.50c, regular way for fine granulated. All refiners now quote on the same basis. Raw sugar continues firm with centrifugal 6.52.

The Standard Oil Company of New York, has announced a cut in refined barrel slots for export of 15 points, making the price 10.60. There is no change in cases or bulk oil.

JOHN H. CAPSTICK A BUSINESS MAN

Congressional Aspirant Has Retired and Seeks Election.

HOME IS IN BOONTON

Was Head of Big Print Works, Which Was Destroyed By Fire—Has Served On State Sewage Commission.

John H. Capstick, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fifth New Jersey district was born in the City of Lawrence, Massachusetts. September 2,

John H. Capstick.

1856, the son of John and Mary Capstick. He attended the public schools in Lawrence until twelve years of age, when his parents moved to Providence, R. I., and in that city he attended a military school. Shortly thereafter he joined the Rhode Island State Militia, becoming a member of the First Light Infantry Regiment of that State.

Prior to his taking up his residence in New Jersey, where he has lived for upwards of thirty-two years, he was married to Miss Ella F. Blake, daughter of the Hon. William Wells Blake and Helen Harrod Blake, of Boston, and grand-daughter of a soldier of the War of the Revolution. Mr. Capstick's home now is in Montville township, Morris county.

The business undertaken by Mr. Capstick as a young man, and in company with his father who was a practical chemist and colorist, and his brother, was that of bleaching, dyeing, printing and finishing of textile fabrics, a small plant in Montville being established for that purpose.

From this slender beginning, and owing to the constant and hard work of Mr. Capstick, one of the largest industries of its kind in the United States, employing several hundred men, grew until on the seventeenth day of February, 1913, the plant was destroyed by fire. While it was decided not to rebuild the plant, for some time to come at least, Mr. Capstick's interest in his employes' welfare, which at all times had been intense, was to find re-employment in other places for those who had faithfully helped him in building his great business. In this task he was finally successful.

In local affairs at home, Mr. Capstick has at all times taken a lively and devoted interest, counting no sacrifice of time and effort too great, where his community's welfare was concerned. He is at present serving his nineteenth year as a township committeeman, and has also served fifteen years as a justice of the peace. For eleven years he was President of the Boonton National Bank, while at present he is vice-president of the Morristown Trust Company.

In State affairs also he is no stranger, having served New Jersey for three years on the State Sewerage Commission, and for six years thereafter having been president of the State Board of Health.

His membership in fraternities, business and social associations, is likewise of wide and varied character. He is a member of all branches of the Masonic fraternity; of Dover Lodge, No. 782, B. P. O. Elks; of Towaco Grange, No. 194, of Towaco; the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce; the Washington Association of New Jersey; the Towaco Building and Loan Association; the Morris County Golf Club; the Hopatcong Yacht Club; the Boonton Business Men's Club and the Montville Civic Association. He attends the Presbyterian church.

Retired as he is from active business, and in consequence with ample time at his disposal; of strong, aggressive and forceful personality; decisive in action, yet fair and just; his own master absolutely; Mr. Capstick goes before the voters asking their support for the Republican Congressional nomination at the primaries next month. He has been making an active campaign in Plainfield.

POLITICAL NOTES.

August 15—Union County Republican outing.

August 19—Elizabeth Democratic City Committee outing.

August 23—Last day for filing Congressional petitions.

August 25—Last day for filing county petitions.

September 2—Last day for filing petitions for local offices.

September 8—First registry day. Also last day for filing petitions to fill vacancies in all offices except Governor and Congress.

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

Ex-State Senator John D. Prince, of Passaic, who has spoken in this city several times, has formally become a candidate for the Republican Congressional nomination in the Sixth district, which includes Bergen, Sussex and Warren counties, and two townships in Passaic county. This is usually claimed to be Democratic territory, but the present representative, Archibald M. Hart, has had far more than the usual amount of trouble in patronage matters. The fights got beyond the usual narrow circle, in several cases. Mr. Prince is a professor of languages in Columbia University.

While little has been heard recently of the boom of Kenyon Messick, of Cranford, for the Democratic nomination for county clerk, one of his supporters who visited Elizabeth yesterday, declared that Mr. Messick would be on the Democratic outing with an armful of petitions, and that from then on he will keep things humming.

County Clerk James C. Calvert in his campaign for renomination, met a number of voters from points in the county outside Elizabeth this week. Mr. Calvert plans to make several more tours of the "interior" before election, as he realizes the benefit in a primary fight of meeting the electorate at first hand.

Ex-Congressman Charles N. Fowler's supporters refuse to concede William T. Stuchell, of Rahway, more than from 750 to 1,000 votes in Union county in the Republican Congressional race. The former Representative's workers are beginning to get things down to a mathematical fine point, and after another tour of the district they declare that they will be able to tell within 200 or 300 of his probable plurality on primary day.

Representative A. M. Hart, of the Sixth district, has followed Congressman Tuttle's lead in sticking to his duties at Washington, instead of going "back home" and mending the fences. Mr. Hart has cancelled several speaking engagements he had made some time for the latter part of this week. The emergency work at Washington because of the war is given as his chief reason for wishing to keep a quorum in the lower House.

The announcement by Speaker of the House A. M. Beekman, of Somerville, that he would seek the State Senatorship nomination on the Democratic ticket in Somerset county, has caused a lot of speculation among local Democrats on account of the possible effect it may have on the endeavors being made in behalf of Judge Connolly to have him elevated to the vacancy on the Circuit Court bench. It is known that Governor Fielder is inclined to favor the Speaker for the place and has been in conference with him concerning it. On account of the summer vacation in the courts, however, no appointment was made by the Executive. He announced that there was no reason for making the appointment, which would mean that the appointee would be paid during the months he did not sit, and said it could be made in the fall, when court business picked up and a continuance of the vacancy would be detrimental. This statement seemed to indicate that the Speaker would be named. Friends of Judge Connolly have been quietly working in his behalf in the meantime and now feel that the candidacy of the Speaker eliminates him and makes Judge Connolly's chances much better for securing the appointment.

TRANSPORTS READY.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The five army transports and the Panama Railroad steamers which are to be used in bringing Americans out of Europe will probably arrive at Newport News within four days and will clear for Europe about four days after that Secretary Garrison said today no progress in chartering ships abroad flying neutral flags was reported today.

SURE OF VICTORY, DECLARES FOWLER

Republican Candidate For Congress, In Interview, Is Very Optimistic.

CHANGE IS NECESSARY

Former Congressman Points Out Defects In Democratic Administration and Says That Tariff Revision Is Needed.

Charles N. Fowler, who, it is admitted, is waging a lively campaign in his efforts to secure the Congressional nomination at the Republican primaries this fall, dropped into Plainfield today, where he was cordially greeted by many of his friends who assured him of their support.

"We may cry peace, peace, and that is wise and well; but there will be no absolute guaranty of perpetual peace so long as the surface of this earth is the battleground of trade and commerce.

"This very afternoon the United States may be looking out upon a clear and peaceful sky. Even so early as tomorrow morning war clouds may curtain the rising sun, and before nightfall blacken the zenith of the heavens and hang low and lowering the whole horizon around, presaging the most titanic and wicked struggle in blood that has ever stained the history of the human race.

"Under the circumstances, let the United States put its financial house in order."

These prophetic words, uttered by Charles N. Fowler on March 29, 1910, in his last speech in the House of Representatives, were recalled to him today in a letter received from a Morris county Progressive. War indeed has risen in its fiendish form over night, he declared, and has found the United States' financial house in disorder just as Mr. Fowler had feared.

Asked by a reporter if the new banking and currency law would not eliminate the defects and menaces he had pointed out in the old system, Mr. Fowler denied with all his old-time vigor, that such would be the result. "The law recently passed," he said, "is the offspring of prejudice, partisanship, sectionalism and utter ignorance of economic law as applied to American conditions will prove, if allowed to stand, the most iniquitous piece of financial and banking legislation that ever cursed any civilized country. It should be wiped off the statute books at the earliest possible moment."

The country's financial system would be in no better condition to withstand the shock of a great war when the new law is in operation, he said, than it is now with the old system and the war emergency amendments added to the laws as they existed before this foreign law was passed.

"It is German in origin," Mr. Fowler continued, "alien to our institutions and utterably unadapted to our conditions. To demonstrate that the Wilson-Glass-Owen bill will cost the country $100,000,000 more every year than the right system would, is only a matter of addition and subtraction."

Besides the immediate and unqualified repeal of the Wilson-Glass-Owen financial legislation, and the adoption of a scientific, unprejudiced, nonpartisan, non-sectional, sound financial system such as Mr. Fowler has advocated during his long service as one of the country's financial authorities, the former Congressman believes are two big issues before the country.

One is "the immediate revision of the tariff for the purpose of protecting American labor and American agriculture, and the preservation of American markets for American producers," and the other is the establishment of a merchant marine. There are three ways the latter can be rehabilitated, he believes.

"First, by mail subsidies; second, by a differential in the duty on goods imported in American bottoms, and third, by the Government itself owning the boats." The Government ownership remedy he does not endorse, except as a dernier resort. A merchant marine today, Mr. Fowler said, would repay the country more than a hundred fold for all the necessary mail subsidies it would have cost the country to have built it up during the last seventy-five years.

The Wilson-Underwood-Simmons tariff law called for a differential of five per cent. in the duty on goods shipped in American bottoms, Mr. Fowler recalled, but a Democratic Attorney-General had declared the provision null and void because of a conflict with certain commercial treaties or conventions. If the Administration has desired to aid American shipping, Mr. Fowler said, these treaties or conventions could have been suspended upon six months 'notice.

"It was a sham battle, a cowardly tricky, false pretense, that's all." Mr. Fowler charged. "Mere ownership of vessels built in foreign shipyards," he added, referring to the measure now before Congress, "will not secure us a merchant marine because it will cost twice as much for the help to man and operate ships under the Stars and Stripes, as under the English, German, French, or Japanese flags. Let us not deceive ourselves. If we are to have an American merchant marine, it must be maintained on the level of American wages and should be built in American shipyards at American wages.

"What do you think about business conditions?" Mr. Fowler was next asked. "What I say," he answered, "must apply to conditions as they were before the extraordinary situation which has developed as a result of the European war."

"From the very day of the election of Woodrow Wilson," he went on, "and a Democratic Senate and a Democratic House of Representatives, beginning with suspicion at the outset, business men became cautious; then hedged because of fear, then waited with bated breath for the passage of the tariff bill, which was the hangman's day for millions of American workingmen. There was not a single hour from the passage of the Wilson-Underwood-Simmons tariff bill that business conditions did not grow steadily worse up to the hour when the European war broke upon us.

"More and more of the work that ought to have been done by Americans for Americans was done by foreigners for Americans. Necessarily our purchasing power continued to fall correspondingly and commercial disaster and hard times were marching on hand-to-hand, all things considered, to the worst business Waterloo in all American history.

"The American people fully realized this and were not being fooled by absent phychological treatment. Democratic psychology may teach that when the bare ball of your foot is on the pavement; that when there is no seat in your pants, and that when you go home and find nothing but plates and knives and forks for dinner, it is only a state of mind; but experience has taught the American people time and time again that these are hard, sad, bitter facts.

"Just as soon as it is possible, the Republican party will so revise the tariff as to keep all the people working all the time, and, having wrought the will of the people into the law of the land, will establish a broad tariff commission through which tariff schedules will forever be taken from the field of political football."

That the next Congress will be overwhelmingly Republican, is Mr. Fowler's firm conviction. "You can feel it in the air," said Mr. Fowler, with an enthusiasm that seemed to welcome the expected approach of soul-stirring days in the affairs of the Nation. "The situation is exactly the same as in 1894," he said.

"Then, as now," he proceeded, "the country was touching the low water mark in work and business. Then, as now, the election of a Democratic Congress had brought about a tariff law that was crushing all hope out of American industries. Then, as now, the people placed the responsibility where it belonged, arose in their might, and cast the Democratic party into outer darkness, and there it camped for sixteen years, the most glorious sixteen years in the industrial history of the Nation."

In New Jersey, Mr. Fowler estimates, not more than one Democratic Representative will be returned, while in the Nation, not even the South will remain solid.. One blessing at least that will come out of this Democratic Administration, he believed, is that "Mr. Wilson has split the solid South. Louisiana will be redeemed. The Republican party will rescue the ruined rice and sugar industries of Louisiana. The Republican party will rescue the business of thousands of industries now hanging over the brink of disaster. The Republican party will restore the wages of millions of men, who will, if Democratic rule continues, either get no work or take the wages paid in Europe, and ultimately the wages paid in the Orient.

"Shall we fall to the industrial level of the rest of the world or shall we compel it to rise to our level? That is the question," he concluded.

CONNECTICUT NOW AWAITS ARRIVAL OF ROOSEVELT

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 14.—Arrangements for the visit of Colonel Roosevelt to Hartford tomorrow have been completed. Colonel Roosevelt is to be the chief speaker at a State-wide conference of the Progressives of Connecticut. Large delegations are expected from the principal cities and towns of the State. In addition to Colonel Roosevelt the speakers will include George W. Perkins of New York and Charles Sumner Bird of Massachusetts. Colonel Roosevelt is to speak at the meeting in Parson's Theatre in the evening.

The State conference will adopt a declaration of principles, which in brief will re-affirm the platform of two years ago. As Connecticut has no direct primary law, the Progressives will have to organize the machinery for casting and recording the vote for the party candidates for nomination. A complete State ticket will be put in the field, together with candidates for United States Senator, Representatives in Congress and members of the Legislature.

WILSON ORDERS FOOD INQUIRY

McReynolds Will Start Nation Wide Probe.

DRASTIC ACTION PLANNED

President Asserts That Increase In Prices of Food For Past Two Weeks Is Unwarranted Because of European War—Prosecution to Follow.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Acting under instructions from President Wilson Attorney General McReynolds has begun a widespread investigation to determine if a combination exists among manufacturers and distributors of foods to increase prices unnecessarily upon the pretense that the European war demands such advances.

In a letter to the attorney general President Wilson asserted that the increase in prices at the past two weeks is unwarranted and is made on the pretext that European conditions necessitated it. The president intimated that if means could not be found to proceed under the law against those responsible for the alleged unwarranted price increases it was his intention to ask for legislation which would be applicable to existing conditions.

It is understood that such legislation, if the attorney general finds it necessary, will be presented in the form of an amendment to one of the anti-trust bills now pending in congress.

The president wrote also to Secretary of Commerce Redfield instructing him to co-operate in every way possible with the attorney general in the coming investigation and to act upon any suggestions made by Mr. McReynolds. The attorney general immediately, through the chief of the special agents of the department of justice, gave directions to a corps of trained investigators distributed throughout the country to ascertain the facts behind the recent rise in prices. He sent telegrams to the United States district attorneys at New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and St. Louis and twenty other cities ordering them to gather and communicate to the department any information that might be obtained. The district attorneys were directed to give special attention to the possibility that the increases might be due to some combination. The attorney general's telegram to the district attorneys follows:

Asks Co-operation.

"The department by its special agents in various parts of the country has instituted an investigation into the marked increases in the price of foodstuffs since the outbreak of the European war with a view of ascertaining whether the increases are due to any combination or combinations in restraint of trade or are unlawful action. Please co-operate by communicating to the department any information which you can obtain on the subject together with your opinion in respect of the appropriate action to be taken."

The president's letter to the attorney general follows:

"The rapid and unwarranted increase in the prices of foodstuffs in this country upon the pretext of the conditions existing in Europe is so serious and vital a matter that I take the liberty of calling your attention to it.

"I would be very obliged if you would advise me whether there is under existing law any action which the department of justice could take either by way of investigation or legal process and what federal legislation, if any, would in your judgment be justifiable and warrantable in the circumstances.

"I feel that this is a matter which we cannot let pass by without trying to serve the country. Certainly the country ought to be defended if possible against men who would take advantage of such circumstances to increase prices of food and the difficulties of living."

SPECIAL MOTOR INSPECTORS MUST MAKE WEEKLY REPORTS

Trenton, Aug. 14—Hereafter special inspectors of the Department of Motor Vehicles will be required to make weekly reports of their observations to Commissioner Job H. Lippincott. Mr. Lippincott found that, although some of the inspectors are assiduous in the performance of their duties, others are careless and some perform practically no service whatever.

In a communication sent to the special inspectors yesterday, Mr. Lippincott pointed out that the vast increase in the work of the department has created a situation which the department finds it difficult to handle with present facilities.

"The rules of the department require," said Mr. Lippincott, "that special inspectors shall make a weekly report of their observations. A number of special inspectors have observed this rule, while others have apparently failed to keep in close touch with the department work and so far as this department knows have not been as active as they should in the enforcement of the law.

"The department desires to call this condition to the attention of special inspectors, and to advise them that hereafter the department will require weekly reports of observation and work done. The commissioner feels confident that special inspectors will co-operate with him in making the department work more efficient than heretofore, and has taken this method of calling upon the special inspectors to give their active aid and co-operation. The commissioner feels that if any individual fails to give such co-operation he will be personally responsible for the failure to carry out the intentions of the statutes in creating the special inspectors."

Inspectors were further directed by Mr. Lippincott to give special attention in future to enforcing proper use of manufacturers' numbers. Abuses of this kind have become prevalent at seashore and mountain resorts.

RAILROAD TRAFFIC SERIOUSLY IMPAIRED

War's Restrictions Hold Up Large Amount of Marine Business.

New York, Aug. 14.—Railroad traffic, both passenger and freight, has been seriously impaired by the war's restrictions on marine traffic. Hundreds of railroad employes in Jersey City have been dismissed because of the reduction in traffic out of that city and others have had to be laid off by the Erie, which reports a traffic decrease of fifty per cent. and more last week. Similar reports come from the Lackawanna, Pennsylvania, and Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Passenger ticket sales to the West have decreased noticably on all the roads. Immigration trains to the West have been suspended at the West Shore terminal at Weehawken, where there was formerly an average of a thousand immigrants a night, passing through to the West. It is estimated that about 1,000 trainmen on the various lines in New York have been laid off.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

"SPORTDOM TIPS"

SIDELIGHTS ON ANOTHER NEAR BASEBALL GAME.

Yesterday was a good time for the "bulls" higher up to get a peak at some possible talent for the police force. The borrowed species of ball players conducted themselves pretty respectably on the ball lot while performing under the old patrolmen's association handle.

Someone wanted to know a little while ago what the coppers would do without Tommy Mullin. Answer—They would draft Moulton, Hirsen, Abrams and Company, that's all. Where there's a will there's always a way, chappie.

It's one safe bet that the patrolmen's organization will not have to invest in more than one baseball mask during the season for our friend "Coonie" McCarthy. That gent even takes the trouble to brush the dust off the ground before laying his mask down to run after a foul fly. And yet you've gotta givem credit for getting one once in a while.

One cop averred that he didn't see why they couldn't get nine bluecoats to perform on the baseball diamond during weekday afternoons inasmuch as the force is continually swelling and there doesn't seem to be any scarsity of minions when it comes to the promotion question. Well some of them require a couple of hours of sleep during the week, old man, and it's pretty hard to figure just how you can snatch a wink or two on the beats nowadays since Sargeant invented "them thar" call boxes that adorn the city corners.

But then, that imported material from Westfield comes in pretty handy now and then and it might be a good idea to just keep a little string on that Nelson youngster from Mt. Ararat.

When Billy Mernagh came on the field the blushing bridegroom got a tremendous ovation. Those who didn't know the genial Mt. Bethel importation had just entered the ties of matrimony had cause to wonder at the tumult he created when he "ice-wagoned" it in the direction of the first corner after poking a nice one at Dan Denny.

Jack Fritts had a sore arm when he entered the contest. At least we think he did inasmuch as the atmosphere around the home bench was pretty well polluted with that linament stuff. Had Jack taken another dose of the fluid when he had that relapse in the ninth stanza the final score might have appeared far more "sportsmanlike." For we all know those High School youths wouldn't think of treating their protectors to more humiliation than was necessary.

On the level, really and truly though, yougottahandit to that kid Townley when it comes to jumping those Spalding freights as they whizz by the difficult corner and heading them at express train speed in the direction of the initial cushion. His performance yesterday was little less than phenomenal and he was the main attraction for those fans who really know something about pastiming.

We were informed that Umpire O'Neill was at one time a big league arbitrator. In view of this condition we are forced to remark that he must be undergoing a real metamorphosis. His voice didn't sound to us anything like that of Billy Evans or Billy Klem. Taken on face merits he's a pretty good imitationalist, you would really think he was trying to imitate someone who had the habit of taking under his breath.

BAN JOHNSON WAS ALWAYS AN EXPONENT OF CLEAN BASEBALL AND UPHOLDS UMPS

Byron Bancroft Johnson, president of the American League, has been a strong advocate of clean baseball ever since the days when he wrote pieces for a Cincinnati newspaper. Johnson, by the way, was a noted journalist long before he became sporting critic. Born in Ohio, he was educated in the public schools and at college, after which he became a cub reporter. He made rapid progress, one of his best hits being the description of a lynching bee over in Kentucky, which placed him at the head of the staff of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Johnson covered John L. Sullivan's fights with Jake Kilrain and Jim Corbett with splendid results. He became so deeply interested in sporting events that he took entire charge of his department. He soon turned to the national game and became widely known as a fearless critic. It was Johnson's hobby even then to score the kickers and rowdies on the diamond, for he believed that baseball should be free from unsportsmanlike tactics. Johnson was the leading baseball scribe in Cincinnati when Charles A. Comiskey was appointed manager of the Reds by the late John T. Brush. Commy and Ban became bosom friends and together they originated the plan to organize another major circuit to divide the public patronage with the National League.

When Comiskey's engagement with the Cincinnati club ended, Johnson doubled up with the Old Roman in forming the American League. That was nearly fifteen years ago and the circuit was confined to western cities. The scheme was so successful that Johnson conceived the idea of expanding the new organization by taking in the present Eastern cities. Comiskey rolled up a fortune as owner of the Chicago White Sox and Johnson was elected president of the new league for twenty-five years at an annual salary said to be $25,000.

"Clean baseball," was Johnson's motto from the outset, and he has fought on those lines ever since. Some persons call him a czar, but not in the sense of an unfair, bullying dictator. Johnson is a mild-mannered, even tempered, keen-witted man who means just what he says. He believes in a square deal. At no time has he been accused of dishonorable methods in managing his league and in serving as a member of the National Commission. He is highly regarded by every club owner in the major and minor leagues, who have perfect confidence in his integrity.

Johnson is feared by evil doers. He is a strict disciplinarian, and the players in the American League are well aware of this fact. When he announced three weeks ago that he would close all American League parks and suspend salaries if the ball players went out on strike, those who know Johnson intimately were sure that he wasn't bluffing. If the strike had not been settled at the last moment, Johnson would have made good his threat, and it is generally believed that many of the American League players would have refused to obey the order to walk out.

The success of the American League can be ascribed to Johnson's courageous leadership. He has ruled with an iron hand, but always for the best interests of the sport itself. In supporting his umpire staff he has displayed characteristic loyalty. He never has wavered in carrying out his policy to keep the kickers in subjection, a policy that has made the American League games immensely popular.

In Detroit, recently, several Washington players lost their heads. Morgan, the young second baseman, threw a handful of dirt in Umpire Sheridan's eyes and received a blow in the face from that veteran official. Catcher Ainsmith not only assaulted Sheridan, but also climbed into the grandstand to punch a fan. Johnson hurried to Detroit from league headquarters in Chicago and investigated. He suspended both players, but did not penalize the umpire. Why? Because there was sufficient proof that Morgan alone was to blame for starting the rumpus. Furthermore, Johnson had absolute confidence in Sheridan.

In spite of wild threats of another players' strike it Sheridan was not severely disciplined, the American League boss decided the case in accaccordance with his own ideas, refusing to be influenced in any way. In short, he proved to the players who are members of the fraternity that he didn't intend to allow them to run the sport. Had he weakened in the slightest degree discipline would have been thrown to the winds.

"The umpires are honest and human," Johnson said, "and they do their level best. They cannot please everybody."

FRANK BRUGGY MAY WEAR TORONTO SUIT

Frank Bruggy, who formerly played on the Plainfield baseball team and who is now with the Lawrence team, of the New England League, may figure in a trade before long that will transfer him from the Lawrence club to the Toronto team of the International League. Several scouts have been after the manager of the Lawrence club to give option on the Elizabeth player and now it looks as if he will go up a step to faster company.

Nothing definite has yet been decided, but Bruggy will probably be sold before a week elapses. His work in the New England League has been the talk of baseball circles and his batting ability has aided the team to keep in first place in the league race. He is slugging second for the Lawrence club and is near the top in the league standing. He also has an excellent fielding record. If he should go to the Toronto team he would be greatly misses and his absence would weaken the team considerably. Bruggy played on the local team three years ago when the Pets won the Central New Jersey League pennant and was considered one of the best sluggers in the league, this being his specialty.

COPPERS GO DOWN TO DEFEAT AGAIN IN ANOTHER AMUSING TILT ON PARKER FIELD

Five cops, three schoolboys, and an "ordinary ringer," all paddling the same canoe, tasted defeat on Parker Field, yesterday afternoon, when Ralph Smalley's "nearlyreadyforpicking" talent came through with a 6 to 2 win. Up to the ninth stanza the bluecoats appeared to have an even chance of winning, but when their rivals pushed across a pair of the kind that count in this canto they threw up the sponge. Up to the ninth session at the bat, Jack Fritts held the opposition to two bingles, a double decker in the first by Kyle and a single by Burner in the second. In the meantime the minions of the law dented Denny's delivery for five healthy clouts, two of which went beyond the first station and the runners pulled up at second. George Townley's wonderful return of a "fence ball" in deep left was the only thing that held Fritts to the midway post after he had clouted the pellet an unmerciful smash.

While by far the best contest in which the patrolmen have engaged, the outcome of yesterday's issue was a sad disappointment for them as they expected to wallop the youngsters good and proper. From the appearance of the first man at the gutta percha it could be seen that the coppers were up against a stiff proposition, however, and the schoolboys were out to fight tooth and nail for anything that was credited to them for the afternoon. While the police sluggers had considerable trouble in nicking Denny's fadeaway, the All

George Townley Hit a Bunch of Fowls.

Stars were equally puzzled at Fritts' queer slants. Both twirlers were in their best form and but for the few costly errors made behind them the final decision might have read much more closely.

Several shifts were made in the lineup during the encounter and the new life at times injected a little zest into an otherwise listless one, two, three and sit down affair. One of the largest crowds that has ever graced the bleachers at a cops' game in this city was on hand to divide its vocalism between the schoolboy and cop cause, and the galaxy of spectators was given ample opportunity to vent its enthusiasm on several different occasions. If personalities were to be dealt with we could cite several amusing situations that would put someone upon a cloud, but as a means of keeping peace in the family we will abstain from any pointed remarks about those who took conspicuous roles in the big fracas.

The bingles that were delivered were of the scorching variety and there was nothing scratchy about any one of them. While many of the performers on both sides got on the paths all experienced difficulty in negotiating the distance between the first station and the scoring rubber.

Ashley Burner, North Plainfield's first base harvest of last year, adorned that station for the All Stars for a couple of rounds, but had to relinguish the job to Victorson, of P. H. S., when he was hit in the ankle by a pitched ball in the fifth. Burner romped to first base after the missile had hit him, but drew up at second with a bad leg and had to quit.

SECOND OF SERIES AT PARKER FIELD

Plainfield Pets and Saurers Will Clash for the Second Time Tomorrow.

The big baseball attraction in this city, tomorrow afternoon, will be staged on Parker Field, when the Pets and the Saurer teams meet in the second match of a five-game series. Practically the same men will appear in the same positions as in the first encounter with the exception of Stine, whose place will be filled by Harney. George Townley and Warry McLaughlin will oppose each other on the firing line, and another pitchers' duel is expected. In the first fray, which the Saurer aggregation won by the score of one to nothing, the pitchers played a big part in the game and both decerved the victory. McLaughlin received better support than his opponent and it was a hit after an error that decided the winner.

Tomorrow the field will undoubtedly be in far better condition than it was when these two teams first met, as it was wet and muddy in spots at that time. A fast field will aid both teams and will make the game faster and more interesting. Both teams will be out for blood and the city team is looking for revenge. The winner of this series will have the right to claim the city championship. The game will start at 3:30.

The teams will lineup as follows:

PLAINFIELD	SAURER

MC LOUGHLIN AND WILDING WIN FIRST MATCHES FOR DAVIS CUP

At eleven minutes after two yesterday afternoon, thirteen thousand tennis enthusiasts, who were gathered at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hill, Long Island, applauded R. Norris Williams 2nd, one of the American Davis Cup defenders, after he had scored the first point of the challenge round against Anthony F. Wilding, of Australia. Williams was at his best and for a short time it looked as if he would have an easy time with his opponent. The second and third points he won on aces and Wilding never saw his terrific serve. The American took the next point for a love game. It took three games for the invader to get warmed up and after Williams had scored four games he started and took the set 7-5. Williams took many chances in the initial set that he lost and he slowed up occasionally. Wilding did not have to exert himself in the next two sets, and although they were exceedingly interesting, he won the last two 6-2, 6-3. Williams had his serve working to perfection and won many points by accurate placing. Both players used their fast backhand stroke the majority of the time.

After losing two sets Williams took a brace and it seemed for a time as if he would catch his opponent and take the third. Wilding took four games and then Williams took two. On the last game of the match the Australian had Williams' forty love but the plucky Harvard student took five points straight and won the game amid the wild cheering of all the spectators. After the match had been won Wilding was given loud applause and left the grounds with his opponent.

After a short intermission the crowds went wild when Brookes and McLoughlin, American tennis champion, appeared at the gate and entered the grounds. Both men were forced to stand for photographers and "movie" men. After a little preliminary practice the two men faced each other in what was destined to be the greatest court battle ever played. Brookes was the first to serve and he won a love game. McLoughlin started off with a fast serve and won his game. The third went to the Australian easily as his serve was a puzzle to Mac. Both men won their serves all the way up but there were a few exciting moments of play. At one time Brookes had his opponent one game up and forty love but McLoughlin, relying on his smashing serve, took the game on five straight points. With Wilding serving on the thirty-first game of the set the American champ "broke" in and took the game. The next was easy and he won the set 17-15. Five times during the set Brookes had his opponent to set point but could not score the needed tally. McLoughlin never let up after that and won the other two sets easily both scores being 6-3. This pair played forty-nine games and out of the American's twenty-five serves he lost only one while his opponent lost four out of twenty-four.

The even division yesterday puts major importance on the doubles to be played this afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock. It was officially announced after the matches that McLoughlin would team with Thomas C. Bundy against Wilding and Brookes. The Australasian pair enter 5 to 3 favorites, and should they win it will be a herculean task that will confront McLoughlin and Williams in the final singles tomorrow.

In view of the fact that Wilding, recognized at this time to be not quite the equal of Brookes, disposed of Williams in so easy a manner, it is a moot question whether Williams will be able to battle successfully against Brookes tomorrow. After his performance yesterday, McLoughlin is expected to experience little difficulty in defeating Wilding.

Standing out beyond the other numerous features of the day was the record first set between McLoughlin and Brookes, which went thirty-two games, lasting one hour and twenty-one minutes, before the Californian could claim the victory. McLoughlin might have ended the set earlier, at least, that was the impression he created among close followers of the game, but it was for his best interests to prolong the set as long as possible in order to wear down his opponent, who has not been in the best of condition this summer—and prolonged it he did with a vengeance.

The longest championship set in the history of international tennis matches was won by Maurice E. McLoughlin from Norman E. Brookes at 17 to 15 in the first set of their match for the Davis cup in Forrest Hills, N. Y. McLoughlin then won the second set. McLoughlin had still to win the match, which is for three out of five. Previously Anthony F. Wilding had beaten R. Norris Williams 2d in straight sets, 7—5, 6—2 and 6—3.

LOCAL FANS SEE GAMES.

Local baseball fans who are rooters for the New York Giants, are anxious concerning the outcome of the New York-Boston series that is now in progress and several Plainfielders saw Rudolph defeat the Giants yesterday. Others will go over today and also tomorrow. Those who saw the first game are Bert Schreiner, Ray Lyman and Bob Bogardus. This afternoon Bob Schreiner will occupy a seat at the Polo Grounds and tomorrow Bill Demler will cheer the Giants on to victory. Today Bogardus will journey to Ebbets Field to see Jack Martin perform.

ANOTHER WATERLOO.

The next opponents for Sebastian Schuler's Elizabeth Police team will be the New Brunswick "finest," and the game will be staged in Elizabeth next week. Although the county seaters have dropped four games in a row, they are anticipating a win over the Middlesex brigade, as they were beaten by Plainfield twice, while the locals have registered a brace of wins over the "Queen City" crowd. Schuler will assign "Hank" Brennan to do the twirling for the Betsytowners with Joe Killimett as his battery mate.

SWIM AT TRAVERS ISLAND.

New York, Aug. 14—The New York Athletic Club, which has been awarded the 440-yard championship swim by the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U., has arranged to run the event in connection with a series of aquatic events at Travers Island tomorrow. The championship annually attracts the best short distance swimmers in the metropolitan district. In addition to the championship event the programme will include a 100-yard scratch swim for juniors.

ROYALS AT BOUND BROOK.

The Royal Giants, of this city, will have to go some tomorrow when they meet the strong Y. M. A. team of Bound Brook, at that place. This team is the championship holder of Bound Brook and has defeated some of the fastest aggregations of this vicinity. The Royals have been playing fine ball this season and this should be a good game.

GOOD GAME EXPECTED.

The Highlanders, of Netherwood, will meet the Park avenue Baptists on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon at 3:30. As both teams have been playing winning ball lately a close fight will be expected. Denny and Kyle will form the battery for the Highlanders while Bowlby and Moulton will probably be in the points for the home team.

HIGHLANDERS IN ACTION.

The Highlanders will play their regular Sunday game at Bound Brook this week against the strong St. Joseph's team of that place. Denny and Kyle will be in the battery for the locals.

CAMPAIGN IN ARIZONA.

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 14—The campaign for the United States senatorial nomination in Arizona has but one month to run. Four weeks from next Tuesday the primaries will be held for the nomination of candidates for the senatorship and for representation in Congress and the State offices to be filled at the November election. The senatorial campaign is attracting considerable attention among the voters of all parties. Marcus A. Smith, whose term in the senate will expire next March, is a candidate for renomination on the Democratic ticket. As an opponent for the nomination he has Reese M. Ling, who is the Arizona member of the National Democratic Committee. Lorenzo Hubbell is unopposed for the Republican nomination for the senatorship. Dwight B. Heard, editor of the Arizona Republican, is expected to be the choice of the Progressive party. Eugene H. Chafin, a former Chicagoan who now claims a residence in Arizona, will be nominated by the Pohibitionists. In 1908 Mr. Chafin was the Prohibition party candidate for President of the United States.

FLOWER DISPLAY A FEATURE OF COMING MONMOUTH FAIR

Red Bank, Aug. 14.—Exhibits in the horticultural department at the seventh annual Monmouth County Fair, to be held here on September 3, 4, 5, and 7, will be more elaborate than ever before. An unusual amount of interest is being manifested in this department. Edgar A. Slote is the director in charge and Charles C. DeWilde, is the superintendent.

This display, together with the fruit and vegetable exhibits, will be shown beneath a large tent. Special premiums have been offered in the various divisions. The fact that many flower clubs have been organized in the surrounding towns and villages in the last year promises that the horticultural exhibit will be largely attended.

The judges may award special premiums for any meritorious exhibits, but no competitor will receive more than one premium for each division in which he enters. All plants and cut flowers must be grown by the exhibitors. The entries will close with the secretary, William Hintelmann, on August 24.

FEWER REQUESTS MADE FOR AID OF JERSEYMEN ARBOAD

Washington, Aug. 14.—Comparatively few requests for assistance for Americans abroad were received yesterday by members of the New Jersey delegation and they believe that most of the distress among travelers has been relieved.

Before leaving Washington to renew his campaign for sheriff, Representative Kinkead today deposited with the State Department funds to relieve any necesssities of Mr. and Mrs. William Sisto, of Orange, and Mrs. F. G. Shaw, of Bloomfield, now in Avelling, Italy. He also instituted inquiries concerning Miss Frances E. Hall, daughter of Rev. Thomas Hall, of Harrison, who is believed to be in Dresden.

Clement Moore, of New York, asked Representative Hart to ascertain the whereabouts and condition of his son, Perry E. Moore, Miss Britten, Mrs. Edward E. Moore, Kirk Moore, Miss Margaret Moore and Mrs. R. B. Moore, and of Miss Dutoit, of Minnesota. Mr. Moore said he had deposited $1,000 for them in the subtreasury at New York, to be delivered when they are found.

Mr. Hart also was asked by Miss Norma E. Jennings, of Hamburg, N. J., to ascertain the stopping place of her cousin, Jacob Lambert, whom she believes to be in Norrkojsing, Sweden.

David G. Smith, of Paterson, asked aid of Representative Drukker, for Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Mikola and daughter, believed to be in Carlsbad, Vienna, Breslau or Berlin.

PLANNING A PARTY FOR JOHN JACOB ASTOR, 3D

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 14.—John Jacob Astor 3rd, the little son of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, was two years old today. In celebration of the anniversary a small birthday party was given by his mother, who is a member of the fashionable summer colony here. Among those in the family party were the parents of Mrs. Astor and her sister, Miss Katherine Force.

Little John Jacob Astor, 3rd was born August 14, 1912, four months after his father had perished in the Titanic disaster. Rather delicate at his birth, the baby has grown into a healthy youngster and is one of the most rugged babies seen at Bar Harbor this summer. The child closely resembles his mother. He has a wealth of light golden hair, the clearest of blue eyes and a pink and white complexion. In the baby appears no trace of the grim tragedy in which his father bravely lost his life.

By his will Colonel Astor created a trust fund of $3,000,000 for any child by his marraige to Miss Madeleine Force, until the heir was 21 years old. This fund, inherited by little John Jacob, will, with its normal increment, considering the way in which the bulk of the Astor fortune is invested, amount to much more than $10,000,000 when he reaches his majority.

Not a home in this city but has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

$4,310 INCREASE IN BOROUGH FUND

Budget For the Fiscal Year Shows Four New Items Included In It.

ADOPTED BY COUNCIL

Police Fund Gets a Boost—Tax Rate Will Be Slightly Higher—County Reports Awaited by North Plainfield Body.

An increase of $4,310 in the fiscal year's budget over that of last year was announced at the special meeting of the North Plainfield Common Council, held last night, for the purpose of drawing up the budget for 1914. The amount to be raised this year totals $36,020. The actual borough fund amounts to $42,020, but it is estimated that approximately $6,000 will result from license receipts. The interest on the joint sewer bonds principally to the establishment of four new minor funds in the borough account. Owing to the ordinance recenly passed to pay off the debt on the firehouse erected on Somerset street ten years ago, for which no provision was made at that time, it will be necessary to set aside $500 for interet on the refunded bonds. The interest on the join sewer bonds has also been added and this amounts to $675. The initial firehouse bond comes due January 1, 1915, and this accounts for the provision of $1,000.

Mayor Clark announced last night that he had set aside the required $500 for the proposed special election on the consolidation question to be held in North Plainfield, September 24, adding the above named amount to the budget. Thus, $2,675 is included in the four new funds which were not placed in the budget of 1913. When the tentative budget was read by the Mayor, it provided $5,915, the same as last year, for the police fund, but Allen Cowperthwaite, chairman of the police committee, asked that the fund be increased to $6,200. As a reason for the request, he stated that the police salaries had been raised during the past year and that more money would be needed to meet this additional expense. This was the only item in the tentative budget that was changed before it was adopted by the Council. It was necessary to add $2,000 to the borough fund and $200 was added to the poor fund.

The Board of Health fund was increased $100 and the interest on notes went up $250. The sewer fund was diminished $950. Mr. Milne suggested to the Council that provision be made this year for the improvement of the borough's streets. In a statement to the body, last night, the chairman of the street committee said that the thoroughfares had been sadly neglected in recent years. He assigned the cause for existing conditions to the prospective sewer plans. Mr. Milne suggested that the sewer appropriation be enlarged to include the amount necessary for the reconstruction of the streets.

While the tax rate in the borough, this year, promises to be slightly higher than that of last, it is impossible at this time to make any prediction as to the rate, owing to the fact that the county reports have not as yet been filed. Last year the county returns boosted the borough budget $20,597,68 and the amount promises to be a little higher this year.

A detailed statement showing the various departments of the borough that the budget money will be utilized, and a comparison with the budget of 1913, follows:

WARREN FARMERS NOW SELL 1913 CORN FOR HIGH PRICE

Washington, N. J., Aug. 14—Taking advantage of the high price of corn, Elmer E. and William R. Wyckoff expect to ship 100 tons of last year's corn crop this week, in addition to the large quantity already loaded in the last few days. They are paying the farmers $1 a hundred weight for the corn.

William Hogan and Milton Slater are two Washington township farmers who had large crops last year and were able to hold it for the present high prices. Between them they had nearly enough corn to load three cars.

CHAPTER IV.

No Human Voice.

CAREFULNESS regarding fire in the woods is a most vital point. I have the greatest admiration for the splendid forest conservation movement, which has meant such great protection to the natural world.

I deplore the inexcusable carelessness of some men who build fires at random in the woods, thereby destroying valuable timber. If these offenders would only stop to consider what a tree would do for them they would be far more careful with their fires.

The tree shelters man. It gives him bark and wood for utensils. It offers warmth and even food. Just as fire is a blessing, so are the trees of the forest. However, the blessing of fire can be turned into a curse very quickly through thoughtlessness and deliberate neglect. It is a good servant, but a bad master.

When I go over in my mind that eventful life in the wilderness I suppose I could have pulled through some way without the aid of fire, but I know this, that if I had been obliged to get along without it I would have come back nothing but skin and bones. I would actually have suffered. People who look at fire with fear do not realize what it really means. It is one of mankind's greatest blessings.

Altogether, during the two months I had perhaps six or seven fires, which I was forced to build for protection. I would bank them and keep them going for days at a time. One fire I kept for ten days by covering it over with burnt ashes and dirt whenever I left it. Sometimes I would go away all day and stay overnight, and when I returned to the camp I would find a few glowing coals, with which I soon built a big, healthy fire.

During the last days of my first week I spent most of my time in the Lost pond and Big Spencer stream country. I had made no attempt to get any skins since losing the deer, but had busied myself in many different ways.

My witch grass leg shields were not very durable, so I set about replacing them with something better. With sharp rocks I started the bark on some cedar trees and gathered a large supply, peeling off strips right up the tree, some of which were as long as twenty feet.

These strips I would take back to my lean-to in order to separate the inner bark from the outer covering. Then I would tear the inner bark into smaller strips.

The early training which my mother had given me in basketry came in very handy in those days. I began to weave long leggings out of strips about a quarter of an inch wide. After a time I had a pair which covered my legs like trousers, fastening to a belt of the same material. I could go anywhere with this protection, which served me well for a time. It was all right while it was perfectly dry, but when it became wet it tore and wore out quickly.

Getting more ambitious, I took wider and heavier strips of bark and wove a pack basket large enough to carry my fire kindler and other things I might need.

In the meantime, I had not forgotten my art work or my diary. At various times I got birch bark and tucked it away in whichever lean-to I happened to be nearest. Whittling down bits of charcoal for my pencils, I wrote down the events of the day by the flare of the firelight at night.

I decided to go to Lost pond early in the morning and sketch a bit of the country where I had seen the deer that second day in the forest. I did this and there drew many of the birch bark pictures I made while living close to nature in the wilderness.

That Friday night, while I was camping in my lean-to at Big Spencer stream, I indulged in my first luxury—a smoke—the first and last while I was in the woods. Up to this time I hadn't missed smoking so very much. I had too much else on my mind. I just didn't think of it.

Out of mere curiosity I scraped some squaw bark off of a bush and, using some whitewood leaves as a wrapper, rolled a couple of cigarettes. Strange to say, so far as looks went, I noticed but little difference in these cigarettes from those I had always smoked so many of in the city.

With a live brand I lit one, not because I wanted to smoke particularly, but out of mere curiosity, as I had a few idle moments to spare. I wanted to see the smoke float up. I smoked them both and that was the end of it. I never tried it again. Not that they weren't good cigarettes, but I had no desire to smoke, living in the great outdoors.

There in the wilderness I became convinced that smoking is nothing but a luxury. It is a habit and harms rather than benefits man. Its companionship isn't worth the smoking.

How could I think of smoking while I was hunting food to keep away the pangs of hunger, or fire to keep me warm? Do you suppose the luxury of smoking came into my mind while I was running around in that spruce thicket those first two rainy nights? No, indeed! Smoking was the farthest from my thoughts.

By entering the woods I had deprived myself of every luxury. I knew it. I just forgot about that part of it as soon as I came under the shelter of the trees. I was proud to be able to deny myself, and, as a result, feel much stronger for it.

After smoking those two woodland cigarettes that Friday night, I realized what habit stood for in the world.

My not having cigarettes proved no great privation. They weren't meant to be had, there in the wilderness. They didn't fit the surroundings.

I had gone into the woods to see if a man could be self sustaining and get along without depending on civilization and his friends. Thus early I was satisfied that he could.

To the man who has smoked cigarettes incessantly for years, as I had, who is under the impression that he would experience physical harm by abruptly cutting off the stimulant, let me state that, while he will perhaps be nervous and irritable for a few days, he will gradually begin to feel better than he has for a long time and be glad that he is rid of the habit. Leaving off the smoking didn't even make me irritable or nervous. I simply forgot it.

The morning after this cigarette dissipation was Saturday. I rose early and started along the natural game trails in the direction of Bear mountain. On the way I saw a deer, whom I talked to. She wasn't frightened, although only a little way behind me. Part of the time I didn't pay any attention to her. When I stopped she would stop, and when I began to move she also moved slowly on. This continued for quite a place.

Finally I arrived on the south side of Bear mountain, where I found a spring. A little higher up on the slope of the mountain was an ideal place for a camp. I decided to build a first class home without delay. The spot was about four miles from my first lean-to which I had constructed back in the woods near Lost pond. The other lean-to at Big Spencer stream was only the roughest kind of a shelter.

At this Bear mountain lean-to I hit upon a plan which would save me much bother at night. Up to now during the night, when the weather was cold, I had been forced to move around and replenish my fire whenever it burnt low. Now it occurred to me to build a kind of skid leading down to the fire, on which I could pile small logs of wood in such a way that when one log burnt out it would release another log on the skid.

I made the slanting skid with sticks leaning from upright, crotched sticks, and, much to my delight, the scheme worked well.

One night when I had piled the wood carelessly the whole pile took fire. But in the long run the skid was a successful device.

I had spent nearly a whole week in the forest. I was perfectly well and fairly comfortable, though I still had no clothes of any kind.

More than anything else I missed the sound of a human voice. However, my first Sunday, which would be the next day, was to bring me company. Sunday in the forest is just the same as any other day.

On the first Sunday of my experiment I did one thing which I had not done before. When I remembered to make the day's mark on my calendar stick instead of making a straight line beside the other six which marked the previous days I scratched a cross like the Roman numeral X. This cross signified that it was Sunday and the end of my first week.

As I made my way down to the spring early that morning I knew it was Sunday morning, and the thought came to me of how little churches would be needed if every one knew and understood nature. Nature is in truth a religion in herself.

At the spring I took a long draft of water, and as I lay there drinking I caught sight of my image upon the mirrorlike surface. I certainly was wild looking. I saw a naked man with disheveled hair and a scraggly growth of beard. I wondered if my mother could have seen me just then whether she would have recognized me.

Everything was very still all about me. Occasionally the cry of a bird would be heard, but that was all.

While I had been a bit depressed the night before, a good rest had made my spirits rise again.

I scooped up handfuls of the water and dashed it over my face and body. It was deliciously cool and brought a glow to my skin.

I felt strong enough to pull up a tree by the roots. I was far stronger than I was the day I entered the forest. Certainly the experiment was aiding me physically thus far. I knew this by the way I felt. If a man is all right he feels all right. When he doesn't feel just right there is some reason for it.

I went back to my lean-to, stirred up the fire and sat there thinking for awhile. I wasn't particularly hungry, so I didn't eat anything just then, although I had a plentiful supply of smoked trout and dried berries on hand.

I never had any regular time for meals. I just ate when I felt that I needed to eat.

Here is the very latest development of the tunic skirt. It is box plaited at the back, so giving long lines to the figure, while the shaping at the front is distinctly new.

Skirts of the kind are fashionable made of one material throughout and also of contrasting ones, as suggested in the back view. Silk is combined with wool, plain material is combined with fancy, and often contrasting colors are effective if well chosen.

When the skirt is made with the high waist line it can be finished plain or with a yoke. When cut to the natural line it is finished with a belt. The foundation is in two pieces and the tunic in three.

For the medium size the skirt will require three and one-quarter yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, the tunic four and seven-eighths yards twenty-seven inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 24 to 32 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8353, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Some Cookery Suggestions

GOOD GRAPE RECIPES.

EARLY grapes may be now secured and used in the preparation of many dainty desserts, of which the following recipes are good examples:

A Delicious Cream.

Grape Cream.—This is a delicious and easily prepared dessert. Have ready some dainty ladyfingers. Beat up some rich cream and flavor it with preserved grape juice. About two tablespoonfuls of the juice to a cupful of cream will be needed. Pile the cream over the little cakes and serve.

Luscious Combination.

Salpicon Fruit.—Take one-half cupful of white grapes, cut into halves and seed. Dice half a cupful of pineapple. Remove the white heart from the sections of an orange and cut in small pieces. Mix the fruit with four tablespoonfuls of sugar and let it stand in a cool place for half an hour or more. Drain and serve in glasses or cups. Add a few raspberries or other red fruit to each glass.

Cooling Salad.

Grape Salad.—Seed, skin and cut into halves two pounds of green Malaga grapes, mix with a cupful of nice celery cut into small pieces and a little chopped cucumber pickle. Serve with the following dressing: Heat in a saucepan two eggs, a cupful of vinegar, half a cupful of sugar, a seasoning of salt and pepper, a teaspoonful of mustard, butter the size of a walnut and a teaspoonful of cornstarch wet and made smooth with a little cream. Stir until it comes to a boil. Set aside, stirring occasionally until cool, then add a small cupful of cream which has been beaten with a little sugar.

A Handsome Dessert.

Grape Fluff.—Take a quarter box of shredded gelatin or a tablespoonful of granulated gelatin, a quarter of a cupful of cold water, three-quarters of a cupful of sugar, a cupful of grape juice, the juice of a lemon, the whites of three eggs. Soften the gelatin in the cold water and dissolve by placing dish in hot water. Dissolve the sugar in the fruit juices and strain the gelatin into it. Set in ice or very cold water and stir occasionally until mixture begins to thicken. Then add gradually the well beaten whites of eggs and beat until whole is very light and stiff enough to hold its shape. Pile lightly in glass serving dishes and pour over a soft custard made from the yolks of the eggs and serve all very cold.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Boy Who Looked After the Birds.

Frightening the Bird So That It Flew Away.

"THERE'S a bird sings in that elm tree in the front yard," said Evelyn, "the sweetest song. We have tried to see him, but he keeps hidden from sight among the leaves."

"Some day we must find out what kind of a bird he is," said daddy. "I am glad you spoke of song birds, for it reminds me of a story, and you must be like the boy in the story, Jack, and always protect the song birds.

"Some of the foreigners who are not acquainted with the laws or customs of this country or do not care to observe them even if they have heard about them make a practice, I am sorry to say, of shooting the innocent song birds and cooking the poor little things for food.

"There was a boy named Roland who lived in the outskirts of a city not far from here. His home was near a field and a wood beyond it. This wood was well filled with birds that sang the most beautiful songs, and Roland was delighted with them and used to spend all the time he could in listening to them.

"In the city there was a large population of foreigners, and a number of the men used to spend their Sundays the same as they had done in Europe. They would take their guns and go out in the woods to shoot birds. Big or small, it didn't make any difference to them. There were printed warnings posted on the trees by the authorities telling how men doing this would be punished, but these men could not read English, and they went right on shooting. Once in awhile one of them would be arrested and punished, but it did not seem to make any difference to the rest, for they kept right on breaking the law.

"Roland was very much grieved over this. One day he saw a bird sitting on the limb of a tree in the woods. It was the day Roland was tramping in the woods to gather chestnuts. The bird was singing merrily, when all of a sudden Roland saw one of these foreign men standing nearby pointing a gun at the bird.

"Roland leaped in the air and gave a loud cry, frightening the bird so that it flew away, and the foreigner fired too late to touch the bird. Roland ran home, while the man was very angry.

"The little boy remembered that the mayor of the city lived not far from his home, and he called upon him that evening and told his story. He told it so well—for he loved the birds—that the mayor was much impressed, and next day he told the officers to get right after these bad men and put a stop to this bad practice, and the officers did their work so well that today the birds are not disturbed any more."

WESTFIELD IS CONSIDERING PLANS FOR $25,000 PARK

Westfield, Aug. 14.—President A. N. Pierson and Commissioners A. D. Tuttle, George Cox, Secretary George E. Hayes and Mayor Harry W. Evans, of the Town Plan and Art Commission, met with Secretary Grape and Commissioner W. R. David, of the Park Commission, at the town lake and park property, this week, and looked over the plans for the improvement of the park, as suggested by the park board, at an expense of $25,000.

Secretary Grape showed the members of the Art Commission the plans for the proposed improvement, and Engineer Vars explained how the work could be done. All were pleased with the plans.

Action upon the proposed improvement will be taken by the Town Plan and Art Commission at its regular meeting to be held on Tuesday evening, August 25. The request of the park commissioners to the Town Council to issue bonds for the improvement of the park, was referred to the Town Plan and Art Commission for consideration.

BLIND AND DEAF, CUBAN CAN DESCRIBE BEAUTIES OF LAKE

Summit, Aug. 14—Blind and deaf, yet in his mind able to "see" the beauties of nature, Guillermo Cuervo, a young Cuban who is at Lake Wawayanda, the State Y. M. C. A. camp, has written a letter to Mrs. Benjamin P. Holmes, describing the scenery about the camp. The young man has been blind since infancy. He has learned to operate the typewriter, can play the piano and has written verse.

Cuervo writes that he has been out on the lake several times and has received a "tremendous inspiration, which, when it materializes will enable me to write a twilight barcarolle for the piano, the muses being favorable." Continuing, he says:

"This is a wonderful place for the study of nature. There are splendid trees and myriads of birds. The lake is a matchless sheet of water, being singularly clear and cyrstalline and surrounded by woods and hills, making it very romantic. A sunset here must be a glorious thing. And then the atmosphere! I will not attempt to describe it, because it is indescribable. The mode of life here is at once primitive and poetic. We wash in the clear waters of the lake and everything has a rustic appearance, which renders it all the more delightful."

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

ARREST NEGRO AS METER THIEF

Apprehension of Charles Hardway Expected to Solve Many Mysteries.

PRISONER CONFESSES

Has Been In the Police Toils Before—Remanded This Morning to Await Further Investigation—Will Talk Again Today.

Arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, as an alleged confessed gas meter thief, Charles Hardway, colored, was remanded until Monday morning and in the meantime Chief Kiely will conduct a further investigation in the revelations made by the prisoner. Hardway, who is an ash carter, was arrested by Sergeant Maurice Higgins, yesterday afternoon, after sufficient evidence had been secured against him by Chief Kiely and the sergeant. It was alleged that the colored man robbed a number of meters while engaged in his work of removing refuse from cellars and also had a hand in a number of other depredations.

Hardway has been under police surveillance for sometime past and it is said he was found in the immediate vicinity whenever a gas meter robbery was reported. After being picked up by Higgins yesterday afternoon the accused negro remained de-

RECORD NUMBER ON REPUBLICAN OUTING

Many G. O. P. Cohorts From This City Joined With County Forces Today.

Plainfield is well represented by its G. O. P. cohorts on the annual Republican outing to Witzel's Grove, today, many local politicians taking advantage of the opportunity to get a line on the situation. The office-seekers of the county and State will be out in full force and although no booms are anticipated it is barely possible that the inevitable will be launched before the return trip.

The outing this year is probably the largest that ever went out from Union county and the committee in charge of the affair has planned a day of pleasure. The local guests went from here to Elizabethport by train and there joined the county force of Republicans to take the boat at Recreation Pier for the grove.

Those who went from Plainfield were: William N. Newcorn, former Judge William N. Runyon, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., V. W. Nash, Jr., Armstrong Mulford, Edward A. Laing, John H. Cose, Samuel P. T. Wilbur, Horace Adams and others. North Plainfield was represented by former Mayor Newton B. Smalley.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 78 degrees; 11 a. m., 82 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 85 degrees

MANY ATTENDED SPECIAL CLASS

Average Attendance of 160 Maintained During the Summer This Year.

MAJORITY SUCCESSFUL

Results of Examinations Are Not Yet Known, But It Is Thought That at Least 150 Will Be Advanced to Their Regular Classes in the Fall.

Following six weeks of educational work for backward children and those now in the Plainfield Public Schools who desire to advance grades, the summer school conducted under the auspices of the Board of Education closed yesterday. A resume of the work accomplished during the season just closed was one of the best ever conducted here and the teachers in charge of the work have accomplished wonders with their extraordinary charges. Mrs. Sarah Wardner has been in charge of the work and she has had an efficient corps of instructors under her.

In speaking of the work this morning, Mrs. Wardner said that an average attendance of 160 had been maintained during the summer months. Examinations were held at the conclusion of the term, but it is impossible at the present time to ascertain just how many of the students accomplished their aims. The class was inaugurated in order that certain deficient scholars might not be compelled to spend an extra year in one class. Those backward in one or two studies pursued these special branches in the summer school and in a majority of the cases the work has been unusually satisfactory. Few have failed to catch up with their classes, but whether or not they have been able to pass the necessary tests remains to be seen.

As soon as a student was found to be adept at the branch of work in which he was specializing he was given a classified examination and if successful in passing it he was dismissed from the school. The summer school work will in many cases be equivalent to ten months in the regular term. Sessions have been conducted in the Plainfield High School and Stillman School. No special exercises marked the closing of the term this year.

MOY WANTS TO GO TO CONGRESS

Will Seek the Nomination On the Progressive Ticket In Fifth District.

SUCCEEDING C.W. ENNIS

Latter Withdraws On Account of Health—Third Party Picks Other Prospective Candidates for County Offices.

Announcement was made today that owing to the condition of his health, Charles W. Ennis, of Morris county, finds it impossible to enter the Congressional race, he has decided not to seek the nomination on the Progressive ticket this fall. In view of this fact, Morris county has made ar request that a Union county man be chosen to seek this honor and believing it to be for the best interest of the party that the candidate come from this county, at the unanimous solicitation of the Progressives in the Fifth Congressional district, former Mayor G. W. V. Moy has consented to enter the race.

This means that Mr. Moy will withdraw his candidacy for the State Senatorial nomination, for which he was originally slated. Several of his friends had previously urged him not to try for the Senatorial nomination as the sentiment throughout the county seemed to be so strong for Carlton B. Pierce. Mr. Moy's petition made their appearance here today.

The Progressives thus far have picked no one to go after the Senatorial nomination nor the nomination for county clerk, and their support will be divided among the other prospective candidates.

Those who will seek the nomination for Assembly on the Progressive ticket include William D. Jones, of Elizabeth; W. Lincoln Phillips, of Roselle Park and Stephen W. Kent, of Summit. Harwood Fish, of Roselle Park, will endeavor to get the nomination for county registrar and William R. Richards, of Elizabeth, will try for the shrievalty by nomination. All of their petitions are now in circulation.

WILLIAM H. PAQUETT GETS JUDGMENT FOR $650

The court's opinion in the case brought under the Employer's Liability Act by William H. Paquett, of this city, against Borden's Condensed Milk Company for injuries resulting from a kick by a horse was filed yesterday, by Judge Connolly in the Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth.

Decision had been reserved since July 24, when the case was tried by Counsellor W. S. Angleman for Mr. Paquett and by Thomas M. Rowlette, of the New York bar, who is the general counsel for the Borden Company. Judgment was ordered entered in favor fo Mr. Paquett for $650.

MOTION PICTURES FOR CHILDREN AT THE HOME

George E. Hall, of this city, had charge of the usual Friday night services at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, last night, and he provided an excellent program of entertainment for the inmates and visitors. Mr. Hall's appearance is always welcomed at the Home, where he has appeared on many different occasions and he was enthusiastically received last night. Stereopticon views furnished the chief source of entertainment last night, the pictures being of an instructive nature.

PRIZE WINNERS IN DAILY PRESS TRADE IN PLAINFIELD CONTEST

Miss R. A. Lawrence Wins Press Offer and William Starr Bullock Will Receive First Business Men's Association Prize—Many Excellent Home Trade Arguments to Be Published As Result of Contest.

After several hours' consideration of the mass of letters sent to the Daily Press by contestants in the Trade in Plainfield contest, the judges, Charles A. Sminck, Allen E. Beals and the editor of the Press, have decided upon the following awards:

Daily Press Prizes.

First: Ten dollars in cash for the best letter advocating home trade and describing advantages personally gained by buying in Plainfield—Miss R. A. Lawrence.

Second: Cash order for $6 on any Plainfield merchant advertising in the Daily Press—Rev. C. H. Mallery.

Third: Year's subscription to the Daily Press—Miss Lena Brugger.

Fourth: Cash order for $3 on any Plainfield merchant advertising in the Daily Press—George William Bantle.

Business Men's Association Prizes.

First: $7.50 in cash for the best argument in favor of trading in Plainfield stores—William Starr Bullock. Mr. Bullocks' answer was originally prepared to be used as an advertisement of the Business Men's Association, but he consented to have is used in the contest Wednesday.

Second: $5 in cash for the second best argument in favor of trading in Plainfield—George S. Monck.

Third: $2.50 in cash for the third best argument in favor of trading in Plainfield—Edward F. Bodin.

Honorable mention was given to letters from Mrs. Fay M. Sattels, Harry W. Swivel, Mrs. Kate Staggard, Walter Arnold, Mrs. S. H. Case and George H. Fisher, Jr.

In considering the awards it was extremely difficult to make distinctions between the many excellent letters. Miss Lawrence was awarded the prize after careful deliberation, because after relating many excellent reasons in favor of buying here she quotes instances of the bargains she has found in several stores, some of them by actual comparison, and others by personal knowledge of the values in metropolitan stores, gained by having formerly purchased at them.

Samuel Rothberg, the Front street men's clothier and furnisher, offered a $5 prize to the prize winner who mentioned the Rothberg store. Many of his patrons, as a result, wrote letters, and the number concerning the store were in excess of those at other places. Three of the prize winners' letters mentioned the Rothberg store, and he stated this morning that all three of them would received their $5 awards, as nothing was said originally about only awarding one of these special $5 prizes.

Miss Lawrence's letter is as follows:

I feel much deep interest in the present "Trade in Plainfield Contest" not because of the prize, or of any one bargain, but because of the general comfort, pleasure and time-saving of shopping in Plainfield and the effort of the merchants to give us New York facilities.

Being in need of some small platters which I would not mind having transformed into once—but alas, no longer—fashionable crackleware, through the process of "keeping hot" in the gas oven, I responded to an advertisement in the Press of A. E. Force & Co.

Wishing to find something strong, I looked from table to table, discovering many bargains—among them, by-the-way, tea pots like one for which I had paid 75c in New York, marked 39c, reduced from 65c.

Finally, I found my bargain platters of good quality China, each bearing the insignia of a club or hotel, highly interesting for gas-stove use, and the price five cents each.

Within the next few days I found at the same store a neat linen dress for a girl 18 at $1, superior to any I had seen in New York for $2.50; a cotton skirt at Tepper's for her for 98c.

At Woodhull & Martin's today, I purchased by 'phone two lawn settees at $1 each, usually $1.25—advertised last evening in the Daily Press.

The complaint is sometimes made of lack of variety. Maybe, but there is a large one even so, and there is invariably the willingness to procure from town whatever is lacking.

I formerly shopped entirely in New York, and I can safely say, there is just as good value to be found in Plainfield at all times, with a saving of 100 per cent. fatigue, hours of time, and if articles have to be changed, the power to do it in an hour, instead of another long tiring trip to town.

Take every line, those covered by the department stores jewelry, china, millinery, stationery, art, furniture, sporting goods, etc., etc., you can do your shopping in peace and comfort within a radius of half a mile.

To sum up the advantages of shopping in Plainfield as I see them are, saving of time, strength and fatigue; clean, light shops; pleasant, courteous service; power to take advantage of a sale advertised at night without a hurried trip to town in the morning, and prompt delivery of all purchases. Smaller stocks, therefore more carefully selected from which to choose. Last, but not least, advancing the commercial growth and welfare of Plainfield.

It should surely should be a gratification that as we feel Plainfield is good enough to be our home, Plainfield gives so much in return.

I thank you for this opportunity to express my appreciation.

R. A. LAWRENCE.

The other prize winners and several other letters will be printed in succeeding issues of the Daily Press.

HOUSE ENTERED BUT NOTHING WAS TAKEN

Place Ransacked From Top to Bottom When Dr. Honeyman Was Away.

While performing a neighborly act of kindness yesterday afternoon, Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street, discovered that two rear windows in the home of the Rev. William E. Honeyman, of Lincoln place, were opened and knowing that the family had been away from the city since the latter part of July, notified the North Plainfield police and they started an investigation at once.

Going through the house they found it had been ransacked from top to bottom by the intruders. The Honeyman family was notified, arriving home this morning. An inventory showed that nothing had been taken. It is the supposition of the police that the miscreants were after money and in their efforts to get it turned everything else upside down. The Honeyman family was staying in Dover.

CHILDREN ENJOY PARTY AT BRYANT SCHOOL

The children that attend the Bryant School playground held their first party of the year, yesterday afternoon. They have two parties during the year and they are in charge of Miss Harriet Moe who is the supervisor of that centre. Yesterday the regular afternoon schedule of games and apparatus work was followed after which the children were ail seated and refreshments consisting of lemonade and cake were served. The children are now busy preparing articles for the annual playground exhibit that takes place Saturday, August 22, at Parker Field, when the public will be invited to see the work accomplished by the children of this city. Articles of sewing, basketry, raffia work and paper patterns are being taught by Miss Moe and the Bryant centre expects to have the best exhibit.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS' WAR NEWS IN TABLOID FORM

Belgium.

The German advance through Belgium became more general all along its front, extending from St. Trond north to Hasselt. Great masses of German troops are reported to be on the way from Cologne by way of Aix-la-Chapelle to support the attack. The Belgians and their allies are throwing up earthworks before Namur to resist an expected attack. There are reports of minor engagements between advance forces, the Belgian war office claiming success. The Belgians are reported to have frustrated an attempt by a German raiding party to seize the railroad at Loville-Traviers.

England.

Field Marshal Sir John French, commanding the British field army, is reported to have joined General Joseph Joffre, the French commander in chief, at headquarters. This is believed to indicate that the British and French armies have effected a junction and are now co-operating. The location of the headquarters is not announced. The admiralty gave out assurance of protection for the transatlantic steamship lanes, and sailing dates have been announced for the Olympic, Mauretania and Lusitania.

France.

It is officially announced that a large French force has entered Belgium and is proceeding from Charleroi to Gembloux, ten miles northwest of Namur. French outposts claim a victory over the German outposts at Chambrey, in the German province of Lorraine, while two French battalions near Lagarde, in the same province, were driven back across the border. The war office announces that the French after successful resistance for five days in the Vosges mountains have occupied the region of the Saale pass, commanding the valley of the Bruche, which leads to Strassburg.

Germany.

All news of the movements of the German army comes from London, Paris and Brussels, Berlin reporting that no information of movements was given out there yesterday. From the dispatches it appears that the German army has begun a general advance, with the main attack in Belgium. Re-enforcements are being rushed from Germany for this attack.

Russia.

Rome hears that Russia has mobilized 2,000,000 men on the German and Austrian frontiers, 500,000 on the Rumanian frontier and has 3,000,000 men held in reserve, a total army of 5,500,000 men. The information would indicate that Russia has completed her mobilization and is about ready to attack Germany and Austria.

Turkey.

Great Britain, France and Russia have sent a sharp communication to Turkey regarding the reported purchase of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau. Greece and Italy, too, are concerned over this reported acquisition because of its bearing on the possession of islands in the Aegean.

Austria.

The invasion of Herzegovina by the Servians is reported to be continuing, and according to reports from Rome the Herzegovinians are arming and rising in support of the invaders.

WILSON SEES NO CALLERS.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Following his usual practice President Wilson denied himself to callers today and prepared to spend the morning in seclusion. He probably will go for a long motor ride this afternoon, accompanied by his daughter. The executive office was virtually abandoned. Secretary Tumulty left last night for his summer home near Asbury Park.

Rome, Aug. 15 (Central News Cable).—An official despatch received here today from Nish states that on Wednesday last an Austrian army, composed of 400,000 troops, made a determined attack on the Servian frontier. After many hours of desperate fighting the Austrians were repulsed with heavy losses and retreated in great disorder in the direction of the Roumanian frontier to Tebia. The despatch says that another force of Austrians crossed the River Save near Sabatz, about thirty miles east of Belgrade, but subsequently crossed into Bosnia over the River Drina near Losnitza, which is still held by Servians. The Servian army is concentrating in full force and a big battle is expected almost immediately.

London, Aug. 15 (Central News Cable).—Late messages from Brussels say that not more than 500 German soldiers escaped unhurt out of 5,000 or 6,000 engaged in the battle of Harlem. Many of the guns of the German artillery were lost in the swamps. The soldiers who remained of the German attacking column retired to Tongres. A special train has been sent from Brussels to collect the wounded, among whom are reported to be two German princes.

A despatch from Brussels says that the German advance across Belgium is today in contact with the allied armies and a battle is hourly expected.

An official statement issued this afternoon by the British Press Bureau says: "The enemy's soldiers yesterday fired and brought down a hostile aeroplane hovering over the French positions at a height of a thousand metres. The aeroplane carried two German officers who were captured.

A despatch from Alexandria, Egypt,, says that the large new Austrian Lloyd Liner Warienbad, was captured today by a British warship near Alexandria, while on a voyage from Bombay to Trieste. The vessel was brought into port.

A despatch from Constantinople to the Times says the Goeben and Breslau, renamed respectively Sultan Yawuz Semil and Sultan Selim the Grim, will arrive here shortly from the Dardanelles after having coaled.

The Turkish government has given assurances to the Russian ambassador that the German officers and crews will immediately disembark; that their places will be filled by Turkish seamen; that the vessels will be put under command of Rear-Admiral Limpus for the Porte and that there is no intention to employ them against Russia.

It is officially announced that all rumors regarding British successes or defeats on land or sea are baseless.

A message from Namur, Belgium, to the Times says that a German aeronaut flew over that city last evening and dropped several bombs. Five men were wounded, one of them being horribly mangled by the explosion of one of the projectiles.

A civil guard who was on duty watching the London, Brighton and South Coast Railway near Worthing Station in Sussex was this morning found brutally murdered. His head was battered to a pulp.

Paris, Aug. 15 (Central News Cable).—A despatch from Geneva to L Excelsior states that the Duke of Avarna, the Austrian ambassador to Italy, is charged with asking Italy's permission for the passage of four Austrian army corps through Italian territory to facilitate Austrian progress on the French frontier. The despatch says that the request has been indignantly refused by Italy and her determination to remain neutral has become stronger.

Contractor Earl Fulton has been awarded the contract of painting the house that Contractor J. Newton Apgar is erecting for Dr. T. H. Platt Jr., on Madison avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. G. Kinney and Miss Estella Eick depart on Monday for Asbury Park, where they will spend two weeks.

C. Wesley Blaine, of Lincoln avenue, who has been confined to his home since June, as the result of an attack of pneumonia, was able to walk down town this morning for the first time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lisbon Pierson, of New Market road, are entertaining Mr. Pierson's nephew, Leon Brown, of Savanah, Ga.

Miss Viola Brogley, of Westfield, is spending a week in the borough, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kepler, of Dunellen avenue.

Mrs. George T. Schenck, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ficker and guests Mr and Mrs. George Hartzell, of Nebraska, enjoyed an outing to the city yesterday.

RETURN FROM CONVENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell, of German, Lackawana county, Pa., arrived in the borough last evening from Washington, where they had been attending the National Rural Letter Carrier's convention, to spend the week-end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vliet, of Front street.

IMPOSED $5 FINES.

Andrew Jancer, who was discharged by George H. Richter, the North avenue barber, yesterday, for stopping too long over "the cups that cheer," was later arrested by Marshal I. V. Smalley, was arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell in the borough hall last evening and fined $5.00 which was paid.

Contract Awarded.

The contract of erecting the new store for Kuldoshes Bros., on North avenue, has been awarded to Contractor Charles Wrage, who has in turn sub-contracted the mason work to Firman H. Gise.

Dr. T. H. Platt, Jr., who is spending the remainder of the summer at Vineland with his family, was a business visitor in the borough on Thursday afternoon.

Borough Engineer and Mrs. Lewis T. Churchill and guest, a cousin of Mrs. Churchill's from Stamford, Conn., spent yesterday afternoon at Duke's Park.

ENJOYED THE CIRCUS.

Candy, peanuts and crackerjack! Dunellen had its first combination wild west and circus yesterday, in the Tompkin Show, and the "kids" of the borough made a big day out of it. The program of the day started at noon with a parade through the Main street of the borough. There were free exhibitions on the grounds at 1 and 7, and the regular performances were given at 2 and 8. A good crowd was present at both performances. The show while not any second Colonel Cody's Wild West was as good as could really be expected and every one seemed to feel as if they had their money's worth. The presence of sixteen plainclothes and uniform men on the grounds under Chief Marshal Mohan suppressed any persons who may have formed plans to pickpockets or make mischief, as there was only one arrest, and that one didn't occur until two hours after the performance was over. Marshal Patrick Tarpey made the arrest. He was covering his beat along North avenue about 12:30 o'clock when his attention was attracted to a group standing in front of Taylor's Hotel by the loud talking of one of the group. Tarpey went over and after listening for a minute or so to one, John Gorn, an attendant of the Tompkin's show, whose imaginations had been considerably stretched by "hop juice," telling how he could handle wild horses, he told him to move on. "I will move when I get good and ready to move," replied Gorn. "Well you had better be ready now," exclaimed the marshal as he laid his hands on the would-be horsetamer, "as you are coming to the lockup with me." When arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell in the borough hall this morning he was given the option of paying a fine of $3.00 or spending ten days in the county jail. Up to 10 o'clock the fine had not been paid.

CRASHED INTO CABOOSE.

Heavy freight and coal trains on the Central Railroad are assisted up the long grade from Dunellen to Westfield, by a pusher engine. At 10.30 yesterday morning, a pusher was coming up to give a freight train assistance to Westfield when the train suddenly stopped, the pusher crashing into the caboose of the train as a result and shoving the rear truck of the caboose up against its front truck. Fortunately no one was injured. The accident occured in front of the Dunellen roundhouse.

Watchung.

The Watchung Athletic Association held a very successful festival, last evening, on the Improvement Society grounds, and much credit is due to the members as to the manner with which the affair was given. The different booths were in charge of and as follows: Ice cream, Raymond Kline and Thomas Fetherston; watermelon, Benjamin Armstrong; soft drinks, Hippolyte Texier; cake, Mrs. George W. Schmidt; candy, Miss Adele Hermann; peanuts, Richard Underhill, and the fish pond, Elston Wakefield and Max Underhill. About 10 o'clock the "Mill" was opened for dancing which was continued until a late hour. Miss Marguerite Walsh, of Plainfield furnished the music for dancing.

The service in the Mary E. Wilson Memorial Union church tomorrow morning will be as usual, in charge of Harold W. Schenck. Sunday-school will be held at the usual hour at 9:30 in the evening. P. B. Shelley, of Somerville, will have charge of the service.

Miss Elva Meyers, a former resident of Watchung, but now of Nyack, N. Y., is spending several weeks as the guest of Miss Beatrice Bodin, of Mountain boulevard.

STRAY TOPICS FROM LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 15.—An almost certain rise in the prices of diamonds and other precious stones is expected as one of the effects of the European struggle, which, the jewelry trade feels certain, will put a stop to all importations of such luxuries. The leading importers say that it will be impossible to get any jewelry from abroad and so far as the diamond market is concerned it will certainly be crippled.

When one large New York hotel this week lost half its French chefs on account of the war another admitted the loss of 20, and other hotels and clubs admitted they had lost one or two each, the culinary situation in New York was seen to have a serious aspect. According to one manager, not only New York hotels but every hotel in the country of any pretensions confronts a crisis in its kitchen. "We are not seriously crippled," said one manager, "but the serious situation is likely to come in the fall, when most of the Fifth Avenue hotels become busy."

No receipts of Norway mackerel, after arrival of shipments in transit, are looked for during the European struggle. Norway mackerel are taken from the North Sea, the scene of the big naval engagements of the war. The fishing fleets began the season's catch July 15. It ends ordinarily in September. Even though fishing suffers no interruption, it is considered doubtful whether many mackerel from either the North Sea or the coast of Ireland can reach this country. Herring from Holland, Scotland and Norway, and sardines from France, Norway and Portugal, it is predicted, will be as scarce and proportionately high as mackerel.

Foreigners with deposits in savings banks, trust companies, and, more largely, in the private banks of the city, particularly those on the East Side, have withdrawn thousands of dollars in the last ten days, and have redeposited them in the United States postal depositories. "And we have received thousands of dollars that no bank ever saw, at least, not recently," said one of the receiving tellers at the postoffice. "I mean money that evidently has been carried on the person of the owner. Men who have been summoned to foreign war duty, and who carried their money in money belts or other receptacles on their persons, have decided to make the United States the custodian of their funds. So they have made deposits in the postal banks."

An arcade, something novel for New York city and more particularly the financial district, is the sort of improvement that the Standard Oil Company, of New York, will make on its property at 44 to 50 Broadway, extending to New street. On the site which held the famous Tower Building, which was the first tall building erected in New York in which the steel cage system of construction was used, will arise the first actual arcade building built in New York city. The building will have three stories on Broadway and four stories on New street. The arcade section will be in reality a new street 20 feet in width, with a roof over it, the top of the arch being 73 feet from the grade floor. The New street level will be devoted to stores and a restaurant space of bout 7,000 square feet. The Broadway level of both sides of the arcade will be devoted exclusively to commercial purposes, and will be subdivided into spaces for shops of various kinds.

The pushcart libraries are as characteristic of New York as the famous book stalls along the Seine are of Paris or the book shops are of old London. These perambulating libraries are found in surprising variety. They are regularly licensed by the city, exactly as though vegetables or fish were being sold. In Manhattan alone there are more than 200 of these book hucksters, and they sell books printed in a score of different languages. The book hucksters find the crowded streets the most profitable, especially on the lower East Side, where marketing of all kinds is done for the most part out of doors. The books offered for sale are much more varied than might be expected. Some hucksters specialize in cheap paper editions of popular novels, others use their limited counter space only for school books, while often the most serious classics may be culled from these collections.

Mayor Mitchel and Controller Prendergast have decided upon extraordinary precautions to save the city from possible financial trouble as the result of the European war situation. After going over the matter thoroughly the Mayor and the Controller have issued statements to the effect that all new city improvements that have been planned will be held up indefinitely. This will effect work aggregating $50,000,000, as it involves the $20,000,000 New York County Court House, the $2,500,000 Kings County Court House the $12,000,000 South Brooklyn marginal elevated freight railroad, and the millions of dollars' worth of local improvements. The Mayor also has cautioned the heads of all departments to retrench wherever possible, to postpone purchase under market orders, and even not to fill vacancies where such occur as the result of death or retirement until after a conference has been had with him.

Washington Square had a touch of war fever the other afternoon when two women hauled a hurdy-gurdy in front of the Players' Club and began to grind out "Marsellaise." With the first chords the balconies and windows were filled with club members who cheered the strains of the French war hymn to the echo. The hurdy-gurdy women took turns at the crank until their arms were weary. Sixteen times they ground the record through, and long before they had finished the voices of the Players had become a gruff squeak. In the meantime the crowds grew and festooned themselves from the windows and showered coins and even bills on the street pianists. At last the women were asked to select another tune and finally picked out a record hopefully. Then they turned the crank and poured out "The Wearin' of the Green," so the Players rallied their forces and gave a final cheer.

DESTROYS SLEEP.

Many Plainfield People Testify to This.

You can't sleep at night

With aches and pains of a bad back—

When you have to get up from urinay troubles.

If the kidneys are at fault

Set them working aright with Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is Plainfield proof of their merit.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I endured much misery from backache which was caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all and in the morning, my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the lea[illegible] settled on my kidneys and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse. I was treated by physicians, but their medicine didn't help me and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's drug store, that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

ceipt of a batch of applications, all of which are carefully sifted before a volunteer is accepted. Within a few days the Niobe is expected to have her full complement of men and to take a share in patrol service.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Consul Robertson at Manchester, Eng., sends the following cable: "Textile industry serious depressed before war now paralyzed. Wholesale closing of mills seems inevitable. Gloomy outlook for raw cotton. Impossible prophesy yet extent damage to industry. Detailed report follows."

Amsterdam, Aug. 15 (Central News Cable).—A Cologne despatch to the Volkes Zeitung today announces the discovery at Basle, Switzerland, of a French espionage organization. The despatch says that ten of the alleged spies were found to have in their possession a number of carrier pigeons and a quantity of bombs and were immediately arrested.

Several hundred American tourists reached this city today from points in Germany. They said they received every mark of kindness and attention. They were only detained until the German army had been mobolized.

Liverpool, Aug. 15.—The sailing from this port today of the St. Louis, the Campania and the Winnewaska for New York, and the Megantic for Montreal reduced the number of Americans who had been stranded in England by 4,500.

Brussels, Aug. 15 (Central News Cable.)—The Burgomaster of Linsneau, a small town in the neighborhood of the recent German attack, asserts that German soldiers shot down young children in front of their parents who were disposed of later.

Washington, Aug. 15.—It is generally supposed in the House of Representatives that beer, playing cards and patent medicines will have to bear an extra internal revenue tax and that a stamp tax for checks, deeds, mortgages, etc., will be put into effect under the coming war revenue. It is believed that whisky will not be taxed.

New York, Aug. 15.—The steamship Celtic, of the White Star Line, arrived today from Liverpoor with 1,566 passengers of whom 910 were in the cabin. The vessel left Liverpool on August 6. Captain Hambleton said that the voyage across had been uneventful, and that he neither had picked up any wireless messages or sent any until 10 oclock last night, when he was off Block Island.

London, Aug. 15.—Fragmentary reports which have reached London from Paris and Brussels indicate that the advance movement of the German army against the lines of the allies in Belgium and Luxemburg is proceeding slowly but steadily despite numerous repulses in encounters between the advance guards.

The checks administered to the German scouting detachments at Eghezee, Haelen, Noville-Taviers, Diest, Tongres and other Belgian towns are not regarded by military experts here as of great account except in their possible moral effect upon the defenders. It seems certain that the German battle line is closing in all the way from near Louvain to the Swiss border and that the beginning of a general engagement, which may last for weeks, cannot be long deferred.

The Germans appear to be holding to their reported original plans to drive a way into France through the duchy of Luxemburg and southeastern Belgium and then through the gap in the line of French fortresses between Verdun and Mazieres. French troops are said to have been massed at this point, and this territory is expected to bear the brunt of the fighting.

An announcement by the French war office admits that a French army has entered Belgium and has left Charleroi on the way to Gembloux, near Namur. The Belgian fortress of Namur will come within the scope of the German forward movement, and its defenses are being strengthened in order to prolong its resistance as long as possible. The presence of French troops in Belgium has been reported before, but this is the first official announcement of the fact.

General Sir John French, commander in chief of the British army in the field, appeared in Paris and had a conference with President Poincare. He then left to rejoin General Joseph Joffre, commander of the French army, somewhere in the north, although the censors will not permit the exact location to be given.

Germans Driven Back.

London, Aug. 15.—An official statement of the British war and admiralty bureau follows:

"It is now confirmed that the Belgian troops were successful in their engagement on Aug. 12 with six regiments of German cavalry, supported by 2,500 infantry with machine guns and artillery. The Germans were completely disorganized. The six cavalry regiments suffered great loss, and the Belgian troops pursued the infantry, which gave way.

"This (Friday) morning toward Eghezee, ten miles north of Namur, a mixed detachment from the garrison surprised some cavalery regiments encamped, threw them into confusion and fought them toward the east, after taking numerous prisoners and capturing cannon and machine guns.

"To the southward of the Meuse the German cavalry avoids conflict with the French.

"News of the fight in the vicinity of Haelen confirms reports that the Germans were driven to the eastward and that there is now no German cavalry between Hassalt and Remilles in the province of Brabant.

"The Liege forts still hold out and have plenty of supplies.

"German cavalry patrols are now reported to the north of Montmedy which lies on the Franco-Belgian border in the department of the Meuse.

"Belgian cyclists and cavalry, accompanied by artillery and machine guns surprised a force of German cavalry and compelled them to retire. The Germans lost a field gun and several machine guns."

French Held Positions.

London, Aug. 14.—The Exchange Telegraph company has received from its Paris correspondent an official statement from the French war office regarding the fighting in the Vosges mountains.

"The French troops held their positions on the mountains for five days," the statementt says, "despite vigorous attacks by the Germans, who were superior in number. At one point the Germans brought beside their weakened troops some formations of reserves, but the latter were unable to resist the French atttack and were obliged to lay down their arms. The entire division of 12,000 surrendered. The French troops hold the valley of the Bruche."

The Bruche has its source in the Vosges and flows into the Ill, just below Strassburg, the objective point of the French invasion of Alsace. Its valley, leading across from the passes held by the French in the Vosges, forms a direct and open path for an army traversing those passes from France.

French In Belgium.

Paris, Aug. 15.—The war office announces that a large body of French troops, the exact figures, in conformity with the policy of the war office not to reveal the strength of the various French armies, are not given, has crossed into Belgium and is now on its way from Charleroi, west of Namur, to Gembloux, ten miles northwest of Namur. Gembloux is almost directly south of Louvain, the headquarters of the main Belgium army. A line drawn from Gembloux to Louvain is directly across the path of the German advance toward Brussels.

The following official statement was given out today regarding yesterday's developments:

"No fact of striking importance took place in the theater of operations yesterday. There were, however, several skirmishes between German and French patrols and encounters between outposts, notably at Chambrey, in German Lorraine, where two companies of the Eighteenth Bavarian infantry regiment were surprised by the French troops and driven off vigorously, leaving numerous dead and wounded on the field."

Chambrey is just across the French frontier on the Seille river, northeast of Nancy. It is immediately to the west of Vic and Moyen Vic, where skirmishes already have been reported. The movement against Chambrey is supposed to be part of a concerted attack on Lorraine, directed against Metz, the capital of that province, similar to the invasion of Alsace directed against Strassburg, the Alsatian capital.

Germans Retreated.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Another skirmish near Haelen is reported in a telegram from Brussels to the Havas agency. The encounter took place at Geet-Betz, five miles south of Haelen on the Petite Gette, and was between a body of Belgian troops and 400 Germans. The latter retired under the Belgian fire.

EARL ROBERTS.

Commander In Chief of All England's Oversea Forces.

Earl Roberts has been appointed commander in chief of British forces in overseas dominions and India who are sent to the war. Since the outbreak of the war little reference has been made to Earl Roberts, who has shared with Lord Kitchener since the Boer war the place of honor at the head of living British war heroes. Such note as has been taken of "Little Bobs," as he used to be called affectionately, has been limited to a statement that he was too old for active service. His return to leadership now recalls Gladstone's last premiership. There is plenty of precedent for England's employment of old men in council.

MORE THAN 2,500 AT BAND CONCERT

Vocal Numbers Added to Enjoyment of Weekly Entertainment.

The largest crowd of the season attended the concert given by the Dutch Arms Band, under the auspices of the west End Civic Association, last night at Monroe avenue and West Fifth street. There were about twenty-five hundred present. The band, under the leadership of Edmund D. Young, rendered twelve selections to the pleasure of the audience as was shown by the applause that was given.

The colored quartet, sent word at the last minute that it could not get there and the band played two selections as substitutes. The first special number was a vocal solo entitled "The Garland of Old Fashioned Roses" which was sung by Mr. Young while the entire band played a soft accompaniment.

SERVANT IS FOUND DEAD IN THE BOROUGH

Miss Kostatina Tisowocki, an eighteen-year-old servant girl, employed at 90 Mercer avenue, was found dead in her bed at that address this morning by her employers. The young woman was apparently in good health yesterday, and no explanation has been given as yet as to the cause of her death.

There survives the parents and several brothers and sisters who live on Watchung avenue, the borough. The funeral services will be held from St. Mary's C. C. church, Monday morning at nine o'clock, while the interment will be made at St. Mary's cemetery.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mary Caulfield, of this city, completed her course of training at the Newark City Hospital, yesterday, and is now enjoying a well-earned vacation.

Friends of Mrs. O. B. Crane, of Westervelt avenue, will be pleased to know that she is much improved and is now considered out of danger.

The Misses Moss, of Brooklyn, is visiting relatives and friends in this city.

R. W. Lord, of Lenox avenue, left yesterday, for Dover, Maine, where he will spend a month.

Mrs. William N. Tier and daughter, Mildred, of East Front street, have gone to Keansburg, where they will spend two weeks.

Miss Clara Runyon, of Somerset street, leaves Monday for Asbury Park, where she will enjoy a two weeks' vacation from her duties with the Reed and Hetfield law company.

MRS. CODDINGTON'S FUNERAL.

The funeral services of Mrs. Julia Coddington, aged 92 years, mother of former Sheriff L. M. Coddington, of Somerset county, was held at the late home in Mt. Bethel, yesterday afternoon, and were largely attended by relatives and friends. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The service was in charge of a minister from Wilmington, Del., a close friend of the family. The burial was in the Mt. Bethel cemetery.

FRATERNAL VISIT.

A large deegation from Court Jersey, I. O. Foresters, of Newark, came to this city by special trolley, last night, and paid a fraternal visit to Court Plainfield, No. 1144. Speeches were a feature of the meeting, many of the visiting brothers addressing the gathering on topics appropriate to the occasion. Music and refreshments followed the formal meeting.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

Councilman Juan A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, was tendered a party at his home lase evening, in honor of his birthday anniversary. The evening was spent in playing cards and a musical program was enjoyed. During the evening refreshments were served. Mr. Babcock was the recipient of many gifts.

CONCERT TONIGHT.

The program of popular and classical selections which had been planned for the concert which was to have been held last Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Dutch Arms Concert Band, and was postponed until this evening because of the inclement weather, will be rendered upon this occasion.

DR. ATTLEE TO PREACH.

Rev. Dr. C. W. F. Attlee, of Sherman avenue, will preach at both services of the Netherwood Reformed church tomorrow, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Edward S. Ralston, who is attending a union service being held in Brooklyn. The evening service will be held on the church lawn, weather permitting.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SQUIRES.

The funeral services of Mrs Henry Squires, who died at Binghamton, N. Y., will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, from the home of her late son, Lewis Squires, at 732 Dixie lane. The interment will be made at Hillside cemetery.

A. will be held on the grounds owned by Woodhull and Martin at the corner of Church and East Front streets, at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Dr. R. K. Boyd, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, of Jersey City, will be the speaker. Dr. Boyd is widely known for his success in promoting a great welfare program in the industrial district where his church is located. Music will be furnished by members of the Dutch Arms band.

REV. DR. J. MADISON HARE WILL BE THE SPEAKER

The meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp tomorrow afternoon, at 3:45 o'clock, will be of interest to the lovers of children. The speaker will be the Rev. Dr. J. Madison Hare, of Scotch Plains, who has an international reputation as a speaker. His chalk talks and object lessons have been given wide publicity, and the mothers and children at the Home are looking forward with keen anticipation for this special service. His subject will be, "Rifle Practice—Hitting the Bull's Eye or Missing the Mark."

The children's choir will also render special music. The meetings on Tuesday and Friday evenings will be in charge of I. B. Hill and Mrs. L. H. Matlack, both favorites at the Home. The public is most cordially invited to these services, and no doubt many will avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing Dr. Hare tomorrow.

fiant for several hours and Chief Kiely did not secure the "break" he was after until last night. His alleged confession implicated him, it is said, in gas meter thievery here and the police say he has promised the police head to add more to his story today. In speaking of the catch this morning, Chief Kiely said it was an exceedingly important one and he hopes now to be able to clear up the mystery surrounding the numerous petty robberies that have been committed here lately.

He is of the opinion that Hardway, who is said to be a finished burglar, has had a hand in a whole lot of work that he has not as yet seen fit to divulge and he will be put through the "third degree" again this afternoon. In his alleged confession the negro is said to have described the methods he used in prying open the meters. His trick was accomplished in such a fashion that the depredation was not easily detected and in some cases the meters broken into were used constantly for sometime after they had been stripped of their coin. His method does not injure or batter the receptacle and it is possible to place coin in the slot after it has been robbed.

Hardway was in the police toils once before, being arrested last April by Captain John Flynn, but was released for lack of evidence. At the time the gas meter exploded in "Possum Row" on West Fourth street and blew out the front of the flat, Hardway was suspected of having something to do with it and was brought to headquarters. Evidence against him was not convincing, however, and he was released.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, SATURDAY, AUGUST 15, 1914.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is Rev. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist Church in New York. Dr. Eaton is a regular contributer to the Toronto News, and the article below appears in that paper simultaneously with its appearance in The Daily Press.

BEGINNING A NEW AGE FOR MANKIND.

One does not have to be in Europe to realize the black eclipse into which the world has so suddenly fallen. There rests upon the entire American nation a feeling of profound anxiety and depression. Universal regret describes the attitude of mind on the part of all classes of Americans.

One of the most hopeful developments in our national life has been the growing dislike for war. President Wilson, although much maligned for his policy of watchful waiting, was backed by an overwhelming majority in the country at large in his patient and nerve-wrecking attempt to discharge his obligations to Mexico without an appeal to arms. The European war will solidify the peace sentiment of America into a permanent attitude.

We are being furnished with a demonstration on a gigantic scale of the solidarity of the world. The United States is not at war. But every section of the country is suffering acutely from the effects of a war being waged three thousand miles away. To mention a few of the difficulties which accrue to the innocent by-stander during this titanic struggle: We have first of all several hundred thousand of our citizens marooned in different parts of Europe; tales of suffering and danger are heard from every quarter; the Government has dispatched one of its war ships with $8,000,000 in gold for the use of its exiled citizens; there is talk of calling upon the transport section of the Navy for bringing home our people; American tourists are finding travel in Europe at the present moment as difficult and exciting as though they were exploring some unknown continent.

It is human nature to bear up under the afflictions of our friends, so that, apart from those immediately involved, the country at large would not feel serious inconvenience from the sufferings of our exiled compatriots. But the black shadow of uncertainty has fallen over the entire business life of America. Drastic government intervention by the issuance of immense sums of special currency, by the closing of stock exchanges, by the co-operation of the banking interests with the treasury department at Washington have averted a panic.

For a number of years business has been receiving continuous discipline at the hands of the Government, so that business men everywhere are in fine training to endure hardship. But no one can form any reliable forecast of the future. If the British navy sweeps Germany from the seas there will be abundant outlet for our surplus food products. Already private and governmental efforts are being made to open new markets in South America and Asia. But it takes time and experience to turn the streams of trade into new channels. After these efforts have been crowned with success, there is no market in the world to compare in value with that of Europe. Prices are soaring, money is being hoarded, manufacturing is at a standstill, and the whole economic structure is temporarily out of joint.

In addition to these disastrous effects, there is a continuous depletion of our working population by the recall of reservists to fight for their homeland, and by the cutting off of the stream of immigration.

The American people are facing the situation with fortitude. The fact that we have promise of exceptionally good crops helps to steady the public mind. The important financial legislation which has been enacted under the leadership of President Wilson has been practically completed in the organization of the Reserve Board, and there is hope that some means may be found of rehabilitating American shipping, since England and Germany are unable to hold the place of supremacy they have long held.

After everything has been done, the fact remains that the catastrophic struggle in Europe will mean unthinkable loss for the United States. Like a lightning flash, the war has revealed how closely interwoven is the commercial fabric of the civilized world. At this point, possibly more than any other, men are looking for an instrument which will bring the maddened governments of the European continent to their senses.

The attitude of the United States to the belligerents officially is, of course, one of strict neutrality. But the press of the country and the masses of the people are overwhelmingly against the German government, and strongly in favor of Great Britain and France. It is the consensus of opinion here that this is not a people's war, but primarily a war of governments. So far no one seems to know what it is all about. The paucity of news is depressing. There is a fair understanding of the position of France and England; Belgium evokes sympathy and enthusiastic approval; but the silence of death seems to cover the motives and purposes of the other belligerents. England especially has made a most favorable impression upon American public opinion. The calm restraint and evident sense of moral obligation exhibited by the British government struck a responsive chord in this country. So far the British have apparently made no mistake from the point of view of statesmanship. They have accepted a burden forced upon them in a spirit of fortitude and resolute adherence to duty which will become one of the chief assets of the world.

My personal conviction is that this war, with all the ruin and loss that it involves, will prove to be the beginning of a new age for mankind. It will advance democracy in democratic countries more than it has advanced in their entire histories. By the appalling waste of property and the destruction of life; by the enormous burden of debt that it will bequeath to the nations; the people of the whole world will be taught the madness of war. The position of womanhood will be improved for soon, above the roar of battle, we shall hear the cry of the widow and the fatherless in a more arresting note than the voice of imperial command. I believe this war is a visitation of Almighty God upon the hypocrisy, greed, extravagance and irreligion of modern civilization. "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh—and vex them his sore displeasure." "The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God." Under the flailing of this universal disaster, the spirits of men will turn from the intoxications of materialism to contemplation of the deep spiritual and moral realities of life. They will find that "man does not live by bread alone," that the issues of the ages are determined in the spirits of men, and that there cannot be a great growing civilization without deep rootage beside the rivers of God. There will be aroused in the re-action following this struggle a new sense of brotherhood among men. The senseless separations which flourish under the name of religion will tend to disappear. Humbled, purified, regenerated by this baptism of Eternal wrath, the souls of men will begin to realize themselves, to seek the inner places of safety, and to attach themselves to the fountains of power.

Meanwhile, the cross is heavy upon the weary shoulders of a weary race. Let us all pray that our hearts may be strong to front the difficulties of the day, and be open to learn the lesson which God is writing across the black heavens in letters of fire. Now that the beautiful day of peace and good will has been swallowed up in the black night of hate and fear, we realize what it means to be at peace with our neighbor. When the morning dawns, it will be the task of a stricken, but still hopeful race, to establish human fellowship upon a deeper and diviner foundation, and to assist in healing the hurt of the world.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

At the Plainfield Theatre on Thursday evening, August 20, John C. Fisher will present a new play entitled "What Happened at 22," by Paul Wilstach, which after its engagement here is to be given in New York for a run at the Harris Theatre. Mr. Wilstach is not unknown as a playwright, having had successful dramas to his credit. In writing "What Happened at 22," however, Mr. Wilstach has endeavored to offer a drama somewhat different from his previous efforts, one that is full of human interest and which will present the so-called crook from a new angle. One of the principal characters in this play is that of a skilful forger, so skilful indeed that he believes himself immune from detection. It is only after he has committed a more serious crime and has endeavored to fasten his wrong-doing upon another through manufactured evidence that he is finally unmasked through the bravery and discernment of the woman whose sweetheart has been unjustly accused. The author has endeavored to show the fallacy of accepting so-called circumstantial evidence and to prove that appearances and seeming "motive" are not conclusive. The scenes of the play are laid in New York city, the time is today and it is described as a modern American drama; the numerals in the title having reference to the number of the house in which the incidents are supposed to occur. Mr. Fisher has gathered together for the exploitation of "What Happened at 22" a rather remarkable cast some of the members of which are Reginald Barlow, Frank Kemble Cooper, Malcolm Duncan, Robert Fischer, Charles Abbe, J. K. Hutchinson, Wadsworth Harris, Carroll McComas, Estar Banks, Elizabeth Ariaans and Helen Crane. "What Happened at 22" is being produced under the stage direction of Eugene B. Sanger.

VERY OPTIMIST[illegible]

[illegible]lieved Absence From Campaign Will Not Affect Candidacy.

[illegible] William E. Tuttle, Jr., [illegible] with friends upon the general political situation in the Fifth district, especially the Morris county end of it, while on a flying trip to his home this week. The menace to his candidacy for re-nomination that many supporters see in his continued attendance at the session of Congress was declared by most of those whom he met as non-existent.

Instead of his candidacy being endangered, he was told that faithfulness to his Congressional duties was the best kind of campaigning. With war emergency measures before Congress and with difficulty being experienced in obtaining a quorum, Mr. Tuttle's [illegible] asserted that he was pursuing the correct course.

Asked what the prospects were of Congress adjourning soon, Mr. Tuttle is said to have expressed a most pessimistic view. Because of the clogging up of the legislative mill by the war, and the consideration of measures introduced previous to the latter crisis, he is understood to have been of the opinion that adjournment before primary day may not come to pass.

It is also said that Mr. Tuttle was advised that the candidacy of ex-Freeholder Thos. J. Pierson has not developed sufficiently, as yet, as to occasion any great alarm on the part of the former. One report from Morristown was to the effect that Mr. Pierson had placed an advertisement in a local paper stating that he would be at a certain hotel on a certain day, to meet the Democrats of the city and vicinity. Only six residents appeared [illegible] stated. ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Saturday, August 15, Suffragist day of self-sacrifice! Widely advertise throughout the country! Everything to go into the melting pot we hear, "listed in the daily papers in pathetic terms," thimbles worn and full of holes, emblems of the domesticity of Suffragists. "Mrs. Martha Wentworth Suffren's had been her engagement present from her husband," we are told. (It would be interesting to know how many of them had belonged to the old grandmothers, mothers and aunts who might have abhored the propaganda, and methods of their descendants.)

Wedding rings too, are thrown in one by "a sad-faced woman, who said it was her wedding ring, that it represented a great sacrifice, but was all that she had to give," and—so the tale continues—she went away without telling its history.

How strange it must have been, to the women, many of whom will not wear a wedding ring—(symbol of bondage)—that a woman should feel it a sorrow to part with it, and how infinitely womanly of them—to accept it! But we must remember, it is "Self-sacrifice Day.!" By the way, what is supposed to be the "history" of a "wedding ring?" Is each supposed to have a distinct separate one?

There was a "little child's cup and and another child's bracelet and a locket, etc., etc., and—"be it whispered low," says the article—"a lovely gold tooth!" What a pathetic sacrifice!

A gold nugget pin and small gold watch from Miss Shaw, and "little Corporal Martha Klatchkin gave a pair of gold cufflinks which had been her father's, brought all the way from Russia."

Miss Shaw told us she was at her office every morning at 7:30, to open the "exciting little packages as they came in." She said "it was almost as much fun as Christmas."

Many more articles have been coming to the "melting pot," but they do not all go in, such as a "necklace made by one of the best jewelers in the city, a copy of a famous old one, etc., etc.," it will not be melted but be auctioned or sold to someone who will pay good money for it. Then there is a cheque from Mrs. Alvah Doty for $5, and those which represent the fruits of gambling, one of which was $18—we have not thus far been told what others have been thus turned in, though it is reported that when that one was accepted it was declared "more would be welcome." Subscriptions of 10c up to anything you choose to give are earnestly solicited" for "Self-sacrifice Day."

Working girls are urged to give half a day's earnings.

One of them with a sense of humor—and incidentally a sense of justice—naively suggests that as she earns $2 per day, and pays board, clothes, doctor, dentist, etc., etc., it would be a real sacrifice for her to give even $1. She points out that it will entail upon her sacrifice for an entire week, to live on $11, and goes on to wonder, how many of those women who ask such sacrifice of poor girls, would care to live on eleven dollars for a week, giving the balance of the income "for the cause." Has she not heard of the wonderful sacrifice to be made by Miss Shaw, who, as president of the Woman's National Suffrage Association, receives $100 (one hundred dollars) a lecture, is going to speak a number of times gratis?

What is the object of all this "self-sacrifice" with all the poverty, trouble, sickness that are everywhere crying for alleviation? Is it to raise funds to aid any or many of the associations throughout the country to give poor, sick mothers and babies or older children a vacation in the pure life-giving country air?

Is it to aid Pure Milk Depots, Free Ice Depots, Sick Kitchens? Is it to respond to the earnest appeal of St. John's Guild for funds to enable it to continue the activities which it has operated since the Civil War, viz.: The Floating Hospital and the Seaside Hospital for Babies on Staten Island?

This guild has put in a most earnest plea for necessary funds to continue its life-saving missions, and no estimate is possible as to how many lives would be lost through its failure to do so.

During the summer of 1913, 57,887 babies and mothers were treated on the Floating Hospital, 2,134 patients were cared for at the Seaside Hospital, for an average of 11 days each.

Is "Self-sacrifice Day" to raise funds for their noble work?

Is it to enable the managers of the Convalescent Home for Children at Summit to reopen its doors, closed a few weeks since for want of funds?

Is it to form a fund to be in readiness to respond to those appeals which we find in our paper almost daily for help for individual cases, all of which are investigated and proved worthy?

These are but a few of the causes for which funds are always needed, but they suffice to present the idea.

Is "Self-sacrifice Day" to have funds to follow the example of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, who has notified Miss Mabel Boardman that she will defray the expenses of twelve hospital nurses for one month to aid the American Red Cross in its work of sending to Great Britain nurses and physicians on a chartered ship?

Is it to unite with Mrs. Reid, Cleveland H. Dodge and many others who are sending cheques to the Red Cross for use throughout Europe wherever the present awful warfare makes such service necessary?

Newport has paused in its gayety to contribute and raise funds for the same purpose.

"Self-sacrifie Day"—self-advertised "Self-sacrifice" is sometaing new and original—has not the remotest connection with the alleviation of suffering among women, children, or babies, with the general needs of humanity, with the alleviation of the horrors and suffering attendant on warfare.

Just here I would say that the well-informed Suffragist will tell us: "We are working and spending money for the vote, and when we gain it strife and warfare will be no more."

To which we would reply: "What about Colorado?" "Selfsacrifice Day" has no connection with anything charitable, philanthropic, womanly or unselfish.

It represents the determination of a minority (thank God a small minority) of the women of the country to forward their personal ambitions, each forgetful of all save her own desires.

Willing to give in the effort to gain them, that which would do countless good, never more needed than in the present awful war crisis.

If we are not actually engaged in the warfare every department of life in this country is going to be to some extent affected through the effect on commerce and finances.

Our poor will suffer through raised prices on foodstuffs, clothes will be harder to purchase, when in addition to the business depression which has thrown thousands of wage-earners out of employment, we now face the further closing of factories and cessation of all industries dependant on export and import trade.

Where is the womanliness, the common humanity, the sincerity of those who cloak their own ambitions in the guise of desire for further, fuller power to do for women and children, to improve conditions in every department of life?

Who cannot halt in their strivings each one for that which represents a personal satisfaction, in the face of one of the most appalling situations in the world's history.

If the majority of the women in this unholy strife to force the women of this country into the forefront of political life and activities, spoke her true thoughts and feelings, we may well believe they would be toward everything like that of the one towards the country who voiced it in the words "Bother the country, what do I care for what's best for it. Every man has a vote and I have a right to one, and I'll fight to the last ditch to get it."

Suffragist "Self-sacrifice Day."

$50,000—and as much more as they can get—to be given to the pretense of a desire to do for the welfare and betterment of all, but in truth to enable the minority of women to push their own propaganda.

In the end the decision is in the hands of the men, the only question upon which Suffragists consider they only are qualified to vote.

One of them in New York, widely interested in, and connected with most of the prominent charities there, spoke with disgust and regret of the large sums of money formerly given by women for such purposes now diverted, to use his own words "to their insane chase for that which their very methods and insincere professions as to why they want it, prove them unfit."

When I asked if I might quote him by name, he exclaimed, "Do you known what would happen if I let you?"

"Every Suffragist who still gives o things with which I am connected would withdraw her subscription."

Therefore, I may not use his name.

Every campaign, whether it be one of aggression or one of protest, requires funds for its pursuance, therefore money is required and spent on both sides of the question.

When the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage makes its first appeal for funds at this time, it makes a clear, straightforward statement that it requires $15,000 for its campaign in the Western States.

From Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, its president, down, there is no advertising of "Self-sacrifice," nor posing as the only friends of humanity, preservers of child life, womanly purity, national honor, promoters of universal peace, etc., etc. Truly the cry of "Votes for Women" may well be likened to the advertisement of some great marvelous, universal panacea, at an application of which all woes, mental and moral, political and domestic, automatically disappear.

Eyes of the Country Are Now Centered On Several Southern States.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15.—Will Virginia vote "dry" next month, or will the present local option features of the State Government prevail? This is the question paramount in Virginia and the nearby sister States of North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, West Virginia and Ohio at the present time. In fact, every State in the Union has its eyes upon the Virginia fight, and the result of the campaign which will end with the election of September 22, will have a strong bearing on the nation-wide prohibition movement.

Workers for prohibition in Virginia are undaunted by the news from Texas that local option won out over the prohibition ballot. The Virginia Anti-Saloon League is waging a war in the strongholds of the liquor interests.

Because of the interest in the question it is predicted that there will be at least 150,000 votes cast at the coming State election. This will be the largest vote cast in this State in a number of campaigns, the total vote cast in the last State election being 135,000.

The question was "put up" to the voters of the State by an act passed by the general assembly last March, which authorized the Governor to call an eleciton on the question of prohibiting the manufacture for sale and the sale of intoxicating liquors in Virginia, upon petition of one-fourth of the number of votes cast at the previous November election, each petitioner to be a qualified voter.

These petitions were delivered to the Secretary of State on July 13, and contained the signatures of 69,936 voters, while belated petitions brought the total signatures up to 71,597. They were all attested to by clerks of the counties.

Both sides express confidence that they will win in the coming election. Claims made by the "wets" are immediately the subject of counter claims on the part of the "drys," while the "wets" at once declare that claims made by the "drys" are not based on the facts as they exist. One thing is defined in the fight that shows that the people are taking part—the Republicans and Democrats are working side by side, according to their inclinations. The "drys" are declaring that the petitions reflect generally the concensus of opinion on the subject and declare that the State will give anywhere from 20,000 to 40,000 against liquor. The liquor men with equal emphasis are certain that the State will vote for the retention of liquor by a safe majority. However, the claims may be, there is no question that the chances for the success of the "drys" are regarded with favor by the sportively inclined, and they are offering two to one that when the returns come in the "drys" will be shown to have prevailed.

The Prohibitionists are making their hardest fights in the districts containing the cities of Alexandria, Petersburg, Newport News, Norfolk, Portsmouth and Richmond, and in each city, rooms on prominent streets have been rented wherein literature is displayed and distributed, touching every phase of the liquor question. The results of the campaign for signers of petitions, and the securing of many more names than was required by law, gives the prohibition workers hope that they will sweep the State.

The opponents of State-wide prohibition are not sleeping, however. The liquor interests are active, while business and professional men are affiliated with the liquor interests, who believe that local option is the best for the State, have formed what is known as the "Local Self-Government League," which is filling the mails with its literature.

Benjamin P. Owen, Jr., secretary to former Governor William H. Mann, is the secretary of the Virginia Association for Local Self-Government, and predicts that State-wide prohibition will fail. Secretary Owen declares that many persons signed the petitions to rid themselves of the solicitors, but that they will vote for local option when they go to the polls next month.

While the ballots will read "For Prohibition" and "Against Prohibition," the result of the election if prohibition fails, will be to continue the present Byrd law, which gives to each locality the privilege of calling an election on the question of prohibiting the sale of liquor in that town or county.

SIR IAN HAMILTON A BRILLIANT SOLDIER

His Appointment As Commander of Home Army a Military Event.

London, Aug. 15.—One of the military events of the moment has been the appointment of Sir Ian Hamilton to be commander of the home army, a post that is regarded as inferior only to the commander-in-chief. Sir Ian is one of the most striking figures in the British military service. With his tall, commanding figure, and his gaunt face, seemingly deeply worn with care, and his searching eyes, he is a personage not easily to be forgotten when once met.

More taciturn than Lord Kitchener himself, General Hamilton has long been known among his friends and subordinates as "the silent soldier." He has reduced the necessity for speaking to a minimum, and a well known official at the war office has been heard to declare that "one of Hamilton's grunts is more expressive than a whole sentence from anybody else." Though, without doubt, his chief abilities are in the way of organization and administration, yet he is a splendid man in the field, as he has proved on many occasions in South Africa, Egypt and India.

When Sir Ian Hamilton returned home from the last war in South Africa, he not unnaturally thought that he had finished with active service for time, and so he naturally thought that he had finished with active service for a time, and so he settled down in his position in the war office as Military Secretary. But when, a few months later, it was seen that the task of ending the war was likely to prove a more difficult one than was at first anticipated, and it became obvious that Lord Kitchener was in need of a first-class assistant, Lord Roberts was very anxious that Sir Ian Hamilton should return. The latter demurred, however, and was by no means eager to go out again if somebody else could be found. At last there came another letter from Lord Kitchener asking again that a chief of staff should be sent him, and adding, "one with brains preferred." "There, Hamilton," said Lord Roberts with a laugh, as he passed the letter over to him, "that settles it; you will have to go now"; and go Hamilton did.

Without doubt Sir Ian Hamilton, in the matter of personal injuries, is one of the unluckiest men alive, and the only wonder is that he has not been killed a dozen times over. Years ago, on the Indian frontier, he practically lost the use of his left arm through the bursting of a shell, and on another occasion he was struck in the face with a splinter, and very narrowly escaped losing his eyesight, and has received countless other wounds of varying severity. His crowning piece of ill-luck, however, was when Lord Roberts despatched him to deal with the Orange Free Staters, under Gen. De Wet, in the summer of 1900, and he fell from a restive horse, smashing his collar-bone, just as he got his command into working order. This meant that another commandant had to be appointed, and Sir Archibald Hunter was selected, and ultimately reaped the credit for the surrenders of the younger Cronje and Prinsloo.

SANTA CLAUS MAY HAVE LEAN PACK

German Soldiers of the Tin and Wood Variety Not Likely to Reach America.

New York, Aug. 15—Whole regiments of German soldiers which annually cross the Atlantic to America about this time are being kept at home this year, and there is no telling when they will come, if at all. Some of them possibly have started the trans-atlantic voyage and perhaps now may be on their way to New York or other coast ports, with the danger of being captured by the British warships said to be on the lookout for "prizes." But these regiments of soldiers in reference, while gaily attired in the colors and uniforms of the Fatherland, are little troubled whether they fall into British, French or American hands, for they are of the tin and wooden variety, manufactured for the Christmas trade.

Tin and wooden soldiers are about the only kind that Germany is willing to have leave her domain now, but it begins to look as if the soldiers, the dolls, the mechanical toys and various other Christmas products of German ingenuity and handicraft are not destined to take their accustomed places on American shelves and showcases this fall and winter unless Germany succeeds in gaining mastery of the seas. It is a far cry to Christmas, perhaps, and possibly a bit incongruous to be talking of Christmas toys in the same breath with a general European war; but looking at the matter from another standpoint, the fact that one has a decided bearing upon the other is just another example of how far-reaching are the effects of a great war and what a multiple of channels of both trade and pleasure that they strike.

Foreign toys probably amount to pretty nearly half of the volume of business done in the American toy market each year, figured in dollars and cents, even though the cost of their manufacture on the whole is considerably less than the domestic product. Of the toys brought to America from abroad, the great preponderance are from Germany. In the year 1911 the value of the toy importations into the United States, according to Government statistics, was $8,151,033. In 1912, for some reason or other, the total fell off to $7,727,409, but last year it jumped more than a million dollars, with a total of $8,856,575.

From these figures it may be seen that the effect of the European war even upon such a trivality as a toy is worthy of the consideration of the economists in their estimates of the cost of a war, both to those peoples involved and those who, though merely lookers-on, at the same time are affected in one way or another.

Germany is the great toy-producing nation, the volume of its returns last year from this industry being close to $30,000,000, in round figures.

A few shipments of toys from Germany were received before the war assumed a serious aspect. But the great bulk of the German toys designed for the holiday trade this year are still awaiting shipment from the other side, in German steamships from Hamburg. The supposition is that they will remain at home indefinitely.

Last year during the month of August there were received into the United States toys valued at $1,405,584, of which Germany contributed $1,272,437 and other countries only $133,147. In September of 1913, Germany's contribution was $1,671,928, while other countries sent $145,625 worth, so that in the months of August and September combined last year the toy importations amounted to $3,223,137 in value, or more than one-third of the supply received during the entire year, and Germany's part in this total was nearly the three millions.

Last year was a banner year in the amount of toys imported from Germany, and the buy this year was on a still more lavish scale according to the statements of the buyers who went to Europe in the early part of the summer.

The shortage of toys for the Christmas trade, unless the German supply does come later, will be chiefly along the line of mechanical and musical toys, Christmas tree ornaments and dolls, with dolls and their accessories as the big factor. The accessories include tea sets, doll houses and all such things. American toy manufacturers predominate on wooden toys and the heavier metal toys. The American manufacturers go in for the higher grade, more strongly put together.

In the matter of dolls there is apt to be almost a famine. There were some wonderful creations seen in the Leipsic Fair last spring, especially one called the "new-voiced baby," which by the movement of one arm cries both "papa and mamma."

America's hopes of retaining the Davis Cup received a rude jolt yesterday afternoon, in the big arena of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills, L. I.

In the doubles contest, upon which the success of the Yankees' team was expected to hinge, Maurice E. McLoughlin and Thomas C. Bundy were defeated by Norman E. Brookes and Anthony F. Wilding, the Australasian challengers, in straight sets, giving the Antipodeans two points to America's one. The scores were 6-3, 8-6, 9-7.

The Australasians need only one of the two singles matches this afternoon to give them the trophy.

While the battle was much more keenly fought than the tally would indicate, there was no mistaking the superiority of the overseas combination at all stages. They played as a team while the Californians lacked concerted action and proved marks for the generalship of the veteran pair from the Antipodes. It was seen early that the American team had little chance against its rivals, but the big gathering kept hoping against hope that the invincible and almighty McLoughlin, king of the courts from sea to sea, would come through with one of his world-famous rallies.

Rally he did on more than one occasion, but it would have taken even more than two McLoughlins, as the mighty Mac played yesterday, to have disposed of Wilding and Brookes. There was little that was truly impressive about the play of the Australasians. Here and there they gave ample display of their class in sensational exchanges, but in the main they had nothing beyond steadiness, which, it must be conceded, is quite a handy thing to possess.

And good, old, reliable steadiness it was that won the day against tennis that flashed now with the brilliancy of lightning in an ink-black sky and then fell to the level of a Class B tournament.

The match produced more than one upset. The much-maligned Bundy, whose style one critic likened to a locomotive on the Erie, more than came up to expectations of his friend. In fact, it could be said without fear of contradiction that he was just as valuable to the American team as McLoughlin.

Bundy was far from the player he used to be in the days before he took on so much weight. However, he displayed a good deal of his old steadiness, and occasional brilliancy that offset the smashing game of his partner, in so much as McLoughlin's powerful drives for the most part failed to find their destination, and with equal frequency went either for an out or into the net.

Such is the uncertainty of tennis. Just as the big ace of the Yankee team failed to produce the big results, so did the major member of the challenging combination, Brookes, fall far below what was expected of him. A post impression of the match makes Brookes the least effective of the four contestants, and that fact was borne out by the stroke analysis.

Brookes was very much off form and despite the defeat of the Americans the end of the battle left the home contingent not without considerable hope. It was figured that Richard Norris Williams, 2d, who made so poor a showing against Wilding on Thursday, will return to form today against Brookes.

If Williams is anywhere as speedy and effective as he has usually been this summer, and Brookes does not improve greatly over his performance yesterday, McLoughlin is more than likely to be confronted with the proposition of either keeping the trophy here or losing it when he faces Wilding in the final singles match late this afternoon. It is not beyond possibility that Williams will trounce Mr. Brookes.

The crowd yesterday was every whit as big as on the previous afternoon. As one connoisseur remarked, it looked like a grand international beauty show. Pretty girls were here, there and everywhere, arrayed in the newest summer regalia that made Joseph's well known shirt of many colors appear, by comparison, as dull as a cruiser's war paint.

However, there was one complaint advanced by a well known representative of the upper curst. As he glanced around the giant stands, he complained to the writer that it was a long time since he had "seen so many middle class persons, doncherknow," at a function of that character. "What are these events coming to?" he mused as he surveyed the gathering through his tortoise shell spectacles.

True, it was not quite the social event that the polo matches were, but it was a typical tennis crowd—apprecative, full of enthusiasm and critical to the extreme. It was a thoroughly sportsmanlike crowd, too, despite the fact that the management thought it necessary to ask before the match that there be no applause of American points scored on errors of the challengers.

In view of the importance of the two singles matches today a record crowd is looked for. Williams and Brookes will take the court promptly at 2 o'clock for the first contest that may settle the issue then and there and make the McLoughlin-Wilding match a purely exhibition affair. Let's hope not.

The Davis cup wabbled on its base in America when the Australasian challengers won the doubles match. Wilding-Brookes won by the score 6—3, 8—6, 9—7. The series score is now 2 to 1. The fate of the cup will be settled today in the last singles matches. Twelve thousand enthusiasts saw the battle of the American pair, Maurice E. McLoughlin and Thomas Bundy, against Norman E. Brookes and Anthony F. Wilding, the Australasian challengers.

IF YOU ARE A NATURAL BORN PLAYER TAKE A BASEBALL COURSE IN SCHOOL

Several years ago I was assigned by President B. B. Johnson, of the American League, to umpire one of the very important college games, writes Billy Evans, the American League umpire, in the August St. Nicholas. It was between two of the larger institutions of learning, and a very bitter rivalry existed in all things pertaining to athletics. I arrived several hours before the game was scheduled to begin, and to kill a little time took a stroll over the college campus. Accompanying the visiting college nine was a big following that came to cheer its players on to victory. It happened that two chaps, one from each of the schools, met on the campus in front of the law school building. After a handshake, the visiting collegian inquired.

"What course are you taking Jack? I presume either engineering or medicine."

"Neither," replied the other. "I am studying law, but really specializing in baseball."

It did not take long after the game began to discover that the chap who was specializing in baseball was a real workman when it came to the national game. As a matter of fact, at that very time he was under contract with a major league team at a big salary, and had received from the club in question a check for $500 for consenting to sign with them rather than with one of the other five or six teams which were angling for his services. That chap is a big league star today. I do not believe he pays much attention to the practice of law for baseball yields him far too princely a salary.

Of late years a new field has been opened up for the college graduate. It is a course in baseball. All colleges, large and small, make a special feature of this branch of sport and study. Staid professors refer to the record of their college baseball nine with much pride, and point to it as one strong reason why all athletically inclined young men should attend their institution.

To the athletically, as well as the intellectually, inclined, it becomes a problem quite difficult to settle—whether it is wiser to devote all the time to book learning or to give a few hours each day to baseball. In the olden days, fond parents would have gasped with horror at the thought of their children spending valuable time in batting a ball or chasing long flies or sizzling grounders. But many parents of today look on the situation in a different light. There are any number of fond fathers who would be very proud to have their sons develop into leading pitchers or batters of the national game. To be a good student and also a star ball player is, of course, a condition much to be desired.

There is a big demand in the major leagues for college ball players; a demand far greater than the supply, although many collegians are given a thorough trial every year.

WILL PLAY AT BOUND BROOK.

The Highlanders and the St. Joseph baseball teams will meet at Bound Brook, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30. This is the first time these teams have met and it will be a good game. Both teams will use their regular men and Denny will twirl for the locals. Kyle will do the backstop work.

MOOSERS MAY NOT PLAY.

The local Moosers are scheduled to go to Rahway tomorrow afternoon, but there is some doubt as to whether they will play or not. The Rahway management is thinking of dropping out of the league because they have no good place to play and the crowds are small. The locals are scheduled for a double bill tomorrow and if they can win it will raise their standing considerably. Two weeks ago when they dropped two games their standing fell way down.

FOOTBALL SEASON.

The football season will get under way September 19, though the big college teams will not get into the fray until September 26. Princeton opens that day with Rutgers, Yale meets Maine, and Harvard will pry off the lid with Bates.

MARCONI BOYS WILL MEET SAURER TEAM

Good Game Will Be Staged at Woodland Park, Tomorrow Afternoon.

After a two weeks' layoff the Saurer baseball team will play at Woodland Park, tomorrow afternoon. Their opponents will be the strong Marconi team and the two teams have such good records that the game should be at least interesting. The Marconi aggregation has played some of the fastest teams in and around Elizabeth and also some of Newark's best. The locals will use their regular lineup and Warry McLaughlin is due to pitch, if he does not have to work too hard this afternoon. Conshay will be on the reserve list and will be there to work if necessary. The visitors will have to be good batters to hit either of these men much.

The Marconi team is composed of a bunch of fast players and are capable of hitting the ball far. They will come with their best men and try to spoil the fine record of the Saurer team. The game will start at 3:30.

The teams will lineup as follows:

ENJOYING NOVEL VACATION TRIP

Harry Conlin and His Cousin, Taking Long Motor Boat Journey to Canada.

Harry Conlin, of Putnam avenue, accompanied by his cousin, Walter Faitta, of Brooklyn, are enjoying a novel vacation trip, the first "leg" of which was completed last night when they arrived at Catskill. The young men left Edgewater, last Wednesday, in a sixteen-foot motor boat, and the fact that they reached Catskill last night shows that they made excellent time.

It is the intention of the pair to continue their journey through Lake George and Lake Champlain as far as the Canadian border, from which point they will return home. They have no desire to get into Canadian territory at the present time.

ONE-HALF GAME SEPARATES HIGHLANDERS AND IRONS

The Ironsides, of the Parker Field, climbed one step higher in the race, when the Athletics failed to appear yesterday and the Ironsides were given a forfeit. This places the borough boys one half game behind the leading Highlanders while the Cubs have only won one game. The team standing is as follows:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Highlanders,	5	1	.833
Ironsides,	5	2	.714
Cubs,	1	4	.143
Athletics,	0	4	.000

BASEBALL NOTES

The European war may hamper our international pastime, since Russia furnishes the horsehide covers for the baseballs.

Dave Fultz, president of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, has succeeded in organizing the players of the Western League.

Jack Miller, of the Cardnials, fell into quite a batting and fielding slump while the Cards were on their recent Eastern trip.

Manager Otto Knabe, of the Baltimore Terrapins, is thinking of taking his team to Cuba at the close of the Federal League season.

Five times this season, the Pirates have dropped two games in one afternoon and have yet to win both parts of a double bill.

Emporia, a new member of the Kansas State League this season, was successful in winning the championship pennant.

Several major league clubs were eager to sign Martin, the Georgetown University shortstop. The Boston Braves finally landed him.

Having been tipped off that several future greats are to be found in the Western League, Scout Jimmy Burke, of the Detroit Tigers, has invaded that circuit.

When Ray Keating, the Yanks' pitcher, defeated Cleveland on August 1, it was the first game he had won since May 4, on which day he beat Washington.

Eugene McGreevy, the former American League umpire, has been signed up by the Northwestern League and he will finish the season there.

Otis Crimer has asked for his unconditional release from the Minneapolis Club. The former Washington gardener has a thriving taxicab business in Minneapolis.

The chances are that the Browns and Cardinals will be playing at the American League park next season. The Boston Nationals have been playing their Saturday and holiday games at the Red Sox park this summer.

"Dutch" Leonard is not only the mainstay on the firing line for the Red Sox, but is proving to be the pitching sensation of the year in the American League.

O'Mara, Brooklyn's young infielder, is playing a corking good game for the Superbas. He is a classy performer in the field and is hitting at a .260 clip.

Pitcher "Dizzy" Vanworth, of the Hastings Nebraska State League team, has a record of eighteen games won in twenty-one starts, and a majority of his victories were of the shut-out variety.

Now that he has a regular job with the Cincinnati Reds, Fritz Mollwitz is doing splendid work. The former substitute first baseman of the Cubs has shown Redland fans some high-class stuff around the first station.

The Oriole "Remnants," as Jack Dunn's Baltimore team is known, are still making a game fight to keep up in the International League race. After Dunn had disposed of his stars, including Derrick, Ruth, Shore, Egan, Thombley, Daniels, Midkiff and Cottrell, it was generally predicted that the Orioles would sink out of sight.

Now that the weakfishing season is at its height and hundreds of anglers are out every week-end trying for these game fish in nearby bays, one frequently sees a boat here and there in the fleet in which the anglers are not getting fish, while all around them men in other boats are reeling them in as fast as they can get their lines overboard. Oftentimes this condition is due to the fact that the man who is not getting the fish is not fishing right for them. Seldom do we see nowadays the old bank rod and the big wooden reel. Most of those who know how to catch the weaks and how to get the most enjoyment out of the sport use very light tackle. Split bamboo or the tough but springy steel vine rods are the favorites. Both are very light, yet withstand quite a lot of punishment when the fish make their wild ushes. Sometimes the fish may be found on the top of the water; at other times it is necessary to use lead—a split shot or two to carry the bait towad the bottom grasses, where the fish are feeding on the shrimp. The weakfish is called a surface fish. Sometimes he is, and sometimes he is not. Don't angle in channels for weakfish, except in the autumn, when he is moving out of the bays to migrate. Weakfish spread over grassy bottoms or marine flats, avoiding channels with mud bottoms filled with their enemies. The oyster beds, where there is plently of marine life, also are favorite ground.

The principal food of weakfish is shrimp, clinging to the grasses. That's why shedder crabs bait offer them a needed change of diet, and is snapped up with avidity. A swivel, with three or four-foot leaders and either 2-0 or 3-0 hooks are best. Some prefer the Sproat, while others like the O'Shaughnessy hook. The long leaders permit the bait to float with the tidal currents and thus attract the fish. Don't hold too tight a line. When the first nibble is felt, give him just a trifle of slack, so that the bait can float off. This will enable the fish to get it well swallowed, when the strike can be made. After hooking the fish, do not give him any slack line, as he is likely to shake the hook out. The mouths of weakfish are tender, and tear easily. A net should be used for landing the fish. Many of those who do fresh water fishing, use their bait rods for weakfish. The croakers are now in with the weaks in Raritan Bay, and when you get one of these bulldogs shaking his head out on the end of a light line and rod, and making sudden dives for the bottom, it requires almost as much skill to bring him in successfully as it does to land the fighting fresh water bass. Get a five or six-pound weakfish onto the end of this kind of an outfit, and you'll think a cyclone has struck the end of your line.

There is fine fishing in the surf from Sandy Hook to Cape May, and many men are taking advantage of it because there is no other expense other than the carfare to the place they select. Fluke, weakfish and croakers are biting best, and the striped bass are there if they are properly fished for. A long leader is required for striped bass, as they will not take bait close to the line. A green line is the fashion now, and it works very well.

Recently Pop Thorn, Percy McVoy, G. A. Dunham and Charles H. Hall, of Plainfield, fished off Saguine Point, in Raritan Bay, and caught 135 weakfish. This point is at Tottenville, sometimes called Ward's Point. The water rushes there and the tide holds the bait off in good shape.

Fresh water fishermen can have all the sport they want by trying for bass, perch, catfish and roach in Branch Brook Lake. Trying there means fish, as everyone learns after he has tried it.

FEDS PICKING RIPE ONES FROM THE BUSHES

New York, Aug. 15.—When early in the season the Federal League moguls declared they were not going to stop at picking up major league stars but intended also to enter the minor league field and carry off any promising talent found there, Organized Baseball was inclined to pull a snicker up its cuff. O. B. wanted to know how the Feds could swipe any talent when the league would be in the discard by July 4. They would have no need for talent then, said O B., who couldn't see the Feds with a Yerkes telescope.

But the Feds have kept right on the job and have been making good their threat by grabbing players whenever and wherever the opportunity offered.

The signing of Larue Kirby, of Mobile, by the St. Louis Federals, affords a good illustration of how the Federal League can hamper organized baseball. Kirby was the leading pitcher in the Michigan State League last season and long towards the close was sold to the New York Giants for a few hundred dollars. After giving Kirby a trial Manager McGraw figured that the youngster wasn't quite ripe for the bigshow and sent him to the Mobile club in the Southern League.

It wasn't very long after Kirby joined the Mobile team that he began to show the genuine article. He not only took his regular turn in the pitcher's box but played in the outfield when not doing slab duty. In fact, it was in the outfield that he particularly glistened. He soon developed into a fancy gardener as well as one of the leading heavy hitters of the league. His fine work caught the eyes of a score of big league scouts and it wasn't long before major league clubs started in to bid for his services.

It looked pretty soft for the Mobile club, owning a star performer whom the "big yarders" were bidding their heads off to land. The Chicago Cubs bid $8,000 for Kirby, but Mobile refused the offer. She figured that the Boston Braves were ready to raise the ante to at least $10,000 in real money.

While the Mobile club was doing the "Hesitation" a Fed scout, who was doing no bidding, managed somehow to meet Mr. Kirby. The Fed ivory hunter said as how it was a fine day, that Mr. Kirby was looking fine, and that Federal League money was fine, etc. As a result of the friendly four-minute chat between the two Larue Kirby ditched the Mobile club and became a member of the St. Louis Federals. For this accommodating hurdle the St. Louis club presented Larue with $4,000 cash and a contract calling for a fancy salary. Mobile is out $8,000 and Kirby is fondling a $4,000 bank role.

The Kirby case has caused Southern League managers, and the managers in other minor leagues as well, to lie awake nights trying to figure out a scheme that will enable them to save their players from the clutches of the dreaded Feds. For Kirby's flop is believed to be but a forerunner of numerous other instances of the same kind that are likely to happen this fall when the Federals go after the minor league players.

Ignoring the minor league clubs entirely and dealing direct with the players seems to be the trump card of the Federals at the present time. It not only places the minor league clubs in a mighty bad place but it deals a vital blow at the very foundation of organized baseball. Already there are rumors of minor leagues, here and there, getting ready to withdraw from organized baseball unless the organization takes some effective steps to protect the interests of the minors.

Nowadays the minor leagues derive a large share of their income through the sale of promising players to leagues in a higher classification. If the little fellows should lose this income, organized baseball would be on the rocks in short order. And then the minor leagues probably would lose no time in doing business with the Federal League in the same manner in which they have traded with the majors in the past.

COPS PLAY TWO.

The local coppers will have their hands full next week when they play two hard games in two successive days. Bot aof the locals' opponents are capable of playing good baseball especially the Newark cops team that the Plainfieiders take on at that place next Thursday. On the preceding day they will appear at Parker Field against the fire laddies and they will have to work then too. A large delegation will accompany the locals Thursday.

BUSY TIMES FOR POTTERIES

East Liverpool, O., Aug. 15.—with war in Great Britain, France, Germany and Austria, there is every reason to believe that the imports of glass and pottery products from these countries into the United States will be materially decreased from now until the end of the war. Possibility exists also that the demand for the domestic lines of pottery and glass will become greater in the meantime. All of the potteries and glass table ware factories in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia have resumed operations and they have orders booked that will keep them busy well into 1915.

NEW STEAMSHIP LINE TO SPAIN.

Galveston, Texas, Aug. 15.—A new steamship line, with regular monthly sailings between Galveston and Barcelona, is to be inagurated the latter part of September or the early part of October. It is the Perez line, under the Spanish flag, and the first ship to visit this port will be the Emilia S. de Perez a ship of 2351 tons, with a cotton carrying capacity of 10,000 bales. The line is already in the Gulf trade, the ships calling at New Orleans, and with its entering Galveston this port will have three direct lines of steamships at Barcelona.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

IMPROVEMENT IN LOCAL SITUATION

Permits Calling For Expenditure of $14,035 Issued This Week.

OTHERS ARE PENDING

Real Estate Agents Agree That the Question of Empty Houses Is Rapidly Being Solved In This City.

Activities in building operations in this city still maintain a steady movement, four permits being granted during the past week calling for the expenditure of at least $14,035. These permits called for the erection of an apartment house, two dwellings and a stable. Several permits are still pending, these calling for the expenditure of several thousand dollars in addition to those covered by the permits this week.

The local situation appears to be on the improvement, several plans for further buildings nearing completion. The pressure of the money market still tends to hold up considerable building, and it will be some time before normal conditions exist, despite the continued improvements noted in many quarters.

Much complaint was heard on many sides early last spring concerning the large number of vacant houses in this city, but a number of local agencies agree that this state of affairs has improved considerably within the past few months, although a number of new dwellings have been completed within the course of that time. This improvement indicates that there are some new families coming into the city, and should this continue for any great length of time, there must, of a necessity, be a shortage of houses, or many will have to be erected.

Recent curtailing of the froces of several shops in this city and vicinity, however, may counteract the improvement to some degree, although the officials of the manufacturing concerns appear to be optimistic concerning the improvement in conditions in their respective lines.

Among the most interesting of activities in the building line now under consideration, are the plans to place the Astor Theatre under extensive alterations, for which bids are new being received. It is estimated that this improvement will cost in the vicinity of $15,000. Bids on the new Evergreen avenue school will be advertised for, and will probably cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. These activities are in addition to several dwellings of different types, the construction of which are planned for this fall.

The permits for the past week are as noted below:

First Ward.

John H. Bornman, of East Second street, will build a two-story hollow terra cotta block apartment house on Church street, between East Second and Third streets, at a cost of $5,500. The plans call for four apartments, arranged for one family each. The structure will have a frontage of thirty-three feet and a depth of forty-eight feet, and will have a hollow tile and wood front. A modern hot-air heating system is to be installed. W. H. Clum is the architect, while the general contract for the work has been awarded to William D. Bird, of the borough.

Louis and Lily Vieth are to erect a one-family, two and a half story, frame dwelling at 386 Hillcrest avenue, the estimated cost of which has been placed at $3,500. The base course will be of concrete, with a cement block foundation, hemlock foundation and a shingled roof. This structure will contain all modern improvements, a hot-air heating system included. W. H. Clum, of Park avenue, is the architect; Moris Rabinowitz, the mason contractor; while the carpenter work will be cared for by Mr. Vieth himself.

Third Ward.

A one-family dwelling and a garage, both of which are to be of frame construction, are to be erected at 642-646 Sheridan avenue, by A. A. Vanderveer. The cost of the two buildings will aggregate $5,000. The dwelling will be two and a half story building, will have a frontage of forty feet and a depth of twenty-eight feet. W. H. Clum is the architect, Howard Huff the mason contractor, and D. A. Ackor the corpenter contractor.

Fourth Ward.

H. Seigel is to erect a frame stable on the rear of his property located at 527 West Third street. The building will be 16x14 feet, and one story high. Estimated cost, $35. Harry Mitchell has the carpenter contract.

LUMBER DEALERS.

Make your lumber advertising more profitable by making it interesting, educational and attractive. There are many things which might be said of lumber in a way that will make people read and make them buy lumber instead of substitutes.

You talk these very things in your yard every day—face to face with your customers. Think what the result would be if you could address one of those every-day talks simultaneously to all the people in the community who might want lumber. You might sell to the majority of them. Well, why not tell it to them through the columns of the Daily Press building page?

BUILDING BRISK THROUGHOUT COUNTY

Smaller Towns Appear to Have More Than Usual Share of Activity.

Elizabeth, Aug. 15—Building operations throughout the county continue brisk, notwithstanding the money market and the European war crisis. The smaller towns appear to have more than their share of the activities, although the movements in the larger places are by no means slow. During July, the county seat granted permits which call for the erection of structures which will cost $179,190.

Thirty-two building contracts have recently been filed with the county clerk, the figures showing that the work called for will aggregate in the vicinity of $59,719. The following are among the contracts filed:

Thorwald Larson with Thomas F. Brown, plumbing work, new building, Bergen street, Plainfield, $215.

James C. Minizek, with Elizabeth T. Austin, entire work, new building, Midland avenue, Fanwood, $9,100.

Maud A. Huntsman with Woolston & Buckle Company, painting work, new building, Cedarbrook road, Plainfield, $1,976.80.

Charles B. Lufburrow with William H. Dennick, mason work, new building, West Front street, Plainfield, $1,654.

Frank Gindel et ux., to Weever & McMahon, entire work, new building, Cedar street, Garwood, $2,045.

Several buildings, which, if erected, will mean the expenditure of several thousands of dollars, are under consideration. The Roselle Park Board of Education has an addition to the High School at that place under advisement at present, as there is a great lack of space been noted during the past terms. A large building to meet the growing needs of the Y. M. H. A. is also being thought of, and it is probable that plans will be shortly drawn, and work on the frame work of the structure be started before the cold weather starts. A new municipal building is also being planned for Garwood.

NEW PROVIDENCE BORO IS GROWING

Assessed Valuations Are Reported to Be About $615,300.

An interesting indication of the growth of the Borough of New Providence in property values, chiefly real estate, is found in the year's work of the assessor. Mr. Woodruff last week reported at the borough hall that the total assessed valuations this year were $615,300. Nobody seemed to think that that was extraordinary, or that there had been any excessive increase in assessments.

It is recalled, however, that fifteen years ago, when the borough was created by setting it off from the township, the total assessments were only $163,000. The increase in fifteen years has therefore been $452,300, or an average of $30,153 a year. In fifteen years it has amounted to 277 per cent.

That is regarded as a highly creditable showing. There has been no material change in the system of assessment, or in the ratio of assessed value to the real value of property. The increase indicates, therefore, the actual growth of the material valuation of the borough. That growth is now more rapid that it was at first, and is likely to keep on increasing in speed, so that the next fifteen years will show very much more than 277 per cent.

BUILDING BOOM ON AT WESTFIELD

Thirty-five New Houses Are Now In Course of Construction.

Westfield, Aug. 15—Charles H. Denman, secretary of the Westfield Board of Assessors, says that there is at present thirty-five houses in coure of construction or nearly completed in Westfield and that building conditions are better at this season than they have been in three years.

Seven houses are being erected in Edgewood avenue. J. N. Locke is building four, C. Becker two, and G. Foster one. In Westfield Gardens five houses are in course of construction. James E. Grape, of the Westfield Real Estate Company, is building two houses in the Terrace Park section and he expects to start four more early in the fall.

C. Taylor is building a residence in St. Paul's street and E. S. F. Randolph a cosy cottage in Arlington avenue. R. C. Thompson has completed a house in Standmore place and H. C. Wick is building a cosy cottage in this street.

E. L. Candee is erecting a bungalow in Parkway avenue. The Own House Company is erecting three houses in Fourth avenue. A cosy residence for Charles Allan, in Mountain avenue, is now enclosed.

REALTY TRANSFERS

Dunellen.

Building activities in Dunellen, as well as the real estate market, continue to be brisk. Recent returns made by the borough indicate that the assessed value of both real estate and buildings have increased during the past year, showing that the progressive borough is growing.

Bids are being asked for by Kuldoshes Brothers for a new dwelling on North avenue, the work on which is to be started in the near future. About fifteen dwellings are already in various stages of construction in the borough.

A. H. Burdick has sold his house and lot on Washington avenue to J. J. Costales, of New York, who will take possession the latter part of the month.

New Market.

The building operations in this part of Piscataway township have been few and far between during the present season. Aside from the improvements and additions to the New Market Roller Mills, little has been accomplished in the building lines. A new bungalow, to be erected on Smith place, is the only building in sight at present.

Lincoln and Middlesex.

Both real estate and building have been brisk at these points during the season, and the outlook at present is promising. Among the new buildings anticipated within the near future, is the new chapel for the Middlesex Union Sunday-school, the members of which are now raising funds for the erection of a new edifice.

Charles Lefever is at present having a cottage erected on Blackford avenue, in the McLain tract. Mr. Lefever and family will occupy the dwelling when completed.

Lincoln, up to date, has been given little attention as a possible location for a summer home, but W. I. Meier is now having a summer home erected on property recently purchased from the McLain Realty Company. Mr. Meier's business and home is, at present, in Brooklyn. Another party from out of town who is building a home for personal use, is John Bouchman, of Hackensack, who is having a six-room dwelling erected on Blackford avenue. R. C. Hart, of New York city, who owns several acres of land here, has broken ground for the erection of a six-room dwelling on New Market road. It is understood that several other dwellings are being planned for the immediate future.

Scotch Plains.

The last half of the building season promises to outdo the first half in activities at Scotch Plains. Contracts for five dwellings have been let within the course of the past two weeks, in addition to the five already under way. Walter VanRiper has already started work on a two and a half story house on Westfield avenue.

A WORD TO CONTRACTORS.

The building page of the Daily Press is fast becoming recognized as an authentic medium of up-to-the-minute realty and building news, giving what has happened along these lines of business during the course of the preceding week, together with advance notes of what may be expected in the immediate future. Would it not be advisable for your business card to appear regularly in such a medium?

GARWOOD PLANS TO BUILD BOROUGH HALL

Garwood, Aug. 15—A joint meeting of the Borough Council and fire department was held Tuesday evening, to discuss the final specifications for the new borough hall and firehouse. Mayor Eriksen and Councilmen Roth, Carlson, Hessler and Wood, representing the building committee, were present, together with a committee of five from the firemen. Architect C. C. Bell, of Cranford, submitted sketches, which were carefully considered.

IN THE SUBURBS

The following realty transfers from this end of the county have been recorded at Elizabeth:

Kuppenberg to Ruben Resnick et ux., Third street, 229 feet northeasterly of Plainfield avenue, Plainfield, $1.

William H. Wright, sheriff, to John Ross, southwesterly side Summit avenue, 341 feet of Park street, Westfield, $4,000.

William H. Wrignt, sheriff, to William Abbott, easterly side Hillside avenue, 240 feet southerly of Putnam avenue, Plainfield, $200.

Rebecki Lander to Marcus Goldfars, southerly side Sixth street, 265 feet southeasterly of Franklin place, Plainfield, $1.

The following realty transfers in the surrounding towns have been recorded at the Middlesex county seat recently:

George E. Loeffler Land and Improvement Company, to Marcus A. Goodwin, two lots Park Avenue Estates; to Gorham F. Smith, two lots Park Avenue Estates; to Arthur W. Stedman, three lots Park Avenue Estates.

Schwartz Land and Improvement Company, to Concetta Puglia, two Piscataway plots, $800.

William B. McLain Realty Company, to Sarah Frances Schmidt, four plots Lincoln Estates, Piscataway; to Otto Phanstiel, plot Lincoln Estates, Piscataway.

Charles R. Holman to Clara Wilson, three Metuchen lots.

William F. Herlick to Clarence M. Vliet, two Dunellen lots, $500.

Chester R. Holman has bought of Washington Wilson and wife, house and lot on Washington place, Metuchen.

Minnie Brandstelter has bought of Clarence Haight, house and lot in Piscataway township.

BACK TO THE FARM AIDS LAND VALUES

Demand For Sites For Summer Homes Is Far Above the Normal.

While the tightness of the money market has lowered the prices of some commodities at different times, and the sale prices of real estate and other marketable things have often adjusted themselves to the conditions of the times, real estate through Washington Valley apears to be in no way effected by the scarcity of money.

In discussing the situation throughout the mountain territory and through portions of Passaic Valley, a real estate dealer is quoted as saying: "During the past three months I have had a number of inquiries for farms in this section, and while there as a number advertised for sale, the prices are exhorbitant under present conditions. The demand for small farms in the vicinity during the past season has been far above normal, men with limited means appearing to desire to get back to the soil.

"There is but one explanation to the high prices at present existing through Washington Valley and some portions of Passaic Valley, and that is the fact that real estate promoters and developers are securing as fast as practical, much of the real estate for summer home sites. A large number of dwellings and bungalows have been erected for such purposes during the past season, and many are now in the course of construction. Warrenville alone has about twenty-five or thirty bungalows under way, with Watchung and Berkeley Heights following close at their heels in this respect."

THE PRESENT IS THE TIME TO BUILD

Manufacturing Record Points the Advantages to Be Gained Just Now.

In discussing the prices of building materials and the cost of labor, a writer in a recent issue of the Manufacturing Record points out that as architects have more time just now to plan and carry out contracts than in periods of activity the present is the time to build. The man who wants a home and has money with which to build it can do it now to better advantage than when prosperity comes and at a much lower cost and with more care and attention on the part of the contractors and mechanics.

"Thousands and tens of thousands of men in this country are intending to build homes for themselves, but are waiting for what they think will be a more propitious moment, when everybody is an optimist rather than a pessimist. When they do undertakes to build, every item will cost them more, and they will find great difficulty in securing as much attention in construction work and in the equipment of their homes as could be had now.

"This is pre-eminently the time when every man who expects to build a home, a store, or an office building, if he has the money, should do it. This is the time when every manufacturing enterprise which knows that it needs new machinery or the enlargement of its plant, and has the money available should do the work now. This is the time when our municipalities should press as vigorously as possible all of their improvements, in order to get the benefit of the lower prices of materials now prevailing as compared with boom periods. Almost over night a change in business could be brought about, if people who are able to do this building and construction work would undertake it now."

LOCAL PROPERTY INCLUDED IN DEAL

2,000 Lots Here Said to Figure In An Exchange of City Realty.

William M. Brown, a former Governor of Pennsylvania, and a large real estate holder in New York city, yesterday sold two large apartment houses occupying a block front in upper Madison avenue, valued at more than $1,100,000, to a syndicate of Brooklyn operators, who gave in exchange a large tract of land in Plainfield, consisting, it is said, of more than 2,000 lots. The deal is said to have involved $1,500,000.

While it is not known dennitely just what local property is included in this deal, it is believed to be one of the tracts in the East End, on the north side of the Central Railroad tracks, where building operations have been in progress during the course of the past few years. It has also been indicated that the coming of the Bosch Magneto Company to this city has brought several realty promoters here with a view to erecting a large number of dwellings, anticipating an increase in the working force of this company.

JUST NOTES

Contract work on the new infirmary building at the Bonnie Burn tuberculosis sanitorium at Scotch Plains is rapidly nearing completion. The large chicken-houses provided to shelter the increased flocks of poultry, made necessary by the rapid growth of the institution, have been completed, as have also the new pig-pens.

Bayonne is to have a new Y.M.C.A. building to contain gymnasium, swimming pool and sleeping quarters, besides a number of other features such as squash courts, billiard rooms, bowling alleys, running track, etc. The building will be located on the south side of West Thirty-third street, between Avenue C and the Boulevard. It will cost $76,393 and will be three stories high, of brick construction.

This seems to be the open season for the construction of new lodge buildings in this part of the State. In Newark the cornerstone for a new home for the Newark Aerie of Eagles has been laid, in East Park street, and work has been started on the new Masonic Temple which is to be erected in Clinton avenue to take the place of the home of Franklin Lodge, No. 10, of Irvington, which burned down last September. In Perth Amboy the contract has been awarded for a new home for the Perth Amboy Elks, and in Asbury Park the Elks have almost completed a new home.

Through the generosity of J. Howard Ford, of New York city, a member of the board of trustees of Rutgers College, a beautiful new dormitory will be opened by the college when the fall term begins in September. This building, now nearly completed, cost $120,000 to build, and is the gift of Mr. Ford to the college. He personally arranged for its construction.

CHAPTER V.

Rescue of the Fawn.

THE day before I had injured my foot slightly by stepping on a sharp piece of wood which protruded from a fallen tree. There were still some unused strips of cedar bark in one side of my lean-to, so I made up my mind to try my hand at a pair of moccasins. Using the heaviest of the bark I wove a sort of foot covering. As I wove I fitted them to my feet. I know I had a better fit than thousands of civilized women who walk about the city streets in shoes with high heels and pointed ends which squeeze their toes all out of shape.

For ties I wove in strands of bark, which I tied over my instep. They were clumsy to walk in at first, but I soon got used to them, and they were a protection for my feet. I made several pairs.

While I was finishing off my first moccasins I heard a rustle in the bushes down by the spring. I peered through the trees and saw a red deer going down to drink. I made a slight motion, and immediately her head shot up. She had seen me.

I watched her a moment, and then, as if not interested, I went on with my work. After a short time I lifted my head and looked again toward the spring. She was still gazing straight at me, standing transfixed.

Then I beheld an interesting thing. Farther back some distance in the open timber was a white fawn, as immovable as her mother. The fawn was a little beauty. So still did she stand that she looked as if she were chisled out of pure white marble.

I turned back to my work again, but I saw the red deer move slowly on to the spring. The little white fawn, however, did not budge.

As I looked again at the old doe she scarcely paid any attention to me. She knew that I would not harm her. But the fawn wasn't quite so sure.

"How are you this morning, old lady?" I shouted down to her. Up shot her head like a flash. The fawn wheeled about, and bounded back a few paces; then, seeing she was not pursued, turned again and became once more statuesque.

"You aren't scared of me, are you?" I went on. Then I turned away my head and made believe I was very busy. Presently the animal began drinking. Then she leisurely joined the fawn and together they disappeared.

At almost exactly the same time the next morning the pair appeared at the spring again. As before, the deer watched me closely for awhile, with one ear forward and the other backward. The white fawn kept closer to its mother today.

As the days went on, they came with marked regularity. And it got so I could walk about the camp and talk with them while they drank and fed around the spring.

They were great company! The white fawn was a beautiful creature. Such animals are freaks of nature and are the most persecuted inhabitants of the forest. Their conspicuous color is a mark for every other animal of the woods, as well as for the hunter.

The regularity with which animals come to places like this is most remarkable.

In the days that followed I had many interesting conversations with these woodland creatures. Even the white fawn had grown used to me.

There is something more to tell about these animals, but just at present I want to describe how I obtained a welcome change in my diet.

Monday it had rained on and off, but Tuesday it began to clear and get colder. I left my lean-to early in the morning on another exploring expedition. I followed the trail of least resistance, striking off occasionally into the tangles and deadfalls to cut off a bit and then winding back to the same game trail, which I knew turned in that direction. When I say "I knew" I do not mean that I had seen it before, but I could tell when such a trail would swing to the right or left by the lay of the land.

I made another turn in the trail, which led down a little incline toward another spring. I caught sight of a fox slinking off into the bushes just beyond the spring. I gave a little squeak to try to bring him back, but he was too far ahead. So I kept on down to the spring, where I rested on a fallen log.

I picked a spruce bud and began to chew it. I chewed buds and barks a great deal during my two months in the wilderness, and I feel sure that for this reason alone I was able to go for long periods without eating solid food. There is unquestionably a great deal of nourishment in these things. I chewed the alder, cedar, maple, birch and the bark of the mountain ash.

I also ate roots which were tender and palatable. Every one knows what goldthread is. There was a lot of this in the woods. It is nourishing and healing for the mouth.

Sitting there on that fallen tree, I was suddenly aroused by another rustle in the leaves. It was a spruce partridge. I had seen partridges many times before.

I knew it would be easy to catch this bird. The spruce partridge is the tamest bird in the woods. It is easy to catch them. They seem so stupid that a man can nearly walk over them before they take flight.

While I realized the chances of going over and picking him up were remote, I knew of another almost sure way to get him. I made a slipnoose of cedar lining bark, attached this to the end of a stick, and, cautiously approaching the tree on which the partridge was perched, I carefully held the noose out in front of him. He moved to one side, but made no effort to fly away. His curiosity was aroused, and he began to watch the noose intently.

As I brought it a little nearer without the slightest hesitation the bird stretched his neck forward and ran his head into the noose and was caught.

There is nothing new in this method. Every old woodsman and guide understands the process.

During the weeks that followed I killed several partridges with my bow and arrow. I made some arrows out of hornbeam slivers. Then I ground some small stones into arrowheads and lashed them on to the notches on the ends of the sticks with cedar strands.

On the other end of the arrow I put feathers from the blue heron. These feathers made the direction of the arrow true.

Altogether I got about ten birds during the experiment by means of the noose and my bow and arrow.

Since coming back to civilization some one has asked me if I didn't have difficulty in picking the bird clean. I had to laugh at that. A partridge doesn't have to be picked!

To prepare a partridge for roasting all you have to do is to make three movements of the hand. In fact, one movement will do it. First you take hold of the back and breast of the bird and tear it in two. In one hand you will find the breast and legs and in the other a lot of skin and feathers. Pull the skin down over the body and throw it away. Having disposed of the back, head and entrails, you will have left the legs and breast, ready for roasting.

After I had done this I raked over my fire and placed the bird on a crotch stick to roast.

In spite of having no salt that partridge tasted better by far than anything else I had had to eat in the woods.

I have mentioned the lack of salt several times already, but haven't gone into details about its not affecting me. I missed it and missed it greatly, but purely from a palatable standpoint. The lack of it seemed to have absolutely no effect upon my physical condition. I didn't really need it. From what I observed I should say that the use of salt is nothing more than a habit. It is used, in my opinion, not because the system needs it, but because it makes food taste better.

Animals in their natural haunts are forced to go without salt indefinitely. I believe their greediness when they do find it in the salt licks is due to the taste rather than to the actual need of it.

The following day was Wednesday, the 13th of August, and my birthday. I shall never forget that day. It was one of the hardest of all I spent in the forest.

It was hard because of the memories that passed in endless array across my mind.

Armed with birch bark reports and sketches, I started for the cache on the outskirts of my domain, where I had made arrangements to leave such things for the outside world. This cache was known only to two guides, who came there once a week at sundown.

I always made it a point to visit the cache early in the day, so I would be far away by the time the guides arrived for the birch bark I had left. The secret hiding place was located in the twisted roots of a blown down spruce.

No message was ever put in for me. I had given orders to the guides not to do this, impressing upon them that anything whatever left for me would spoil my plan of keeping absolutely out of touch with civilization.

Soon after breakfast on Aug. 15 I went after some birch bark down at Spencer lake. I had crossed the Spencer trail and was following the western shore when I heard something ahead of me. Looking through the bushes, I saw a deer and a fawn feeding.

I was just about to speak to them when I saw a wildcat sneaking along a log which hung over the water. I stood still and watched. The cat was watching the deer, although evidently it didn't see me, for in a moment it backed down the log to the shore again and sneaked off.

All at once a scream—an unearthly scream behind me—brought down my attention from the skies. I never heard a scream like it before.

As I ran back in the direction of the sound it came again, this time to my right. I turned and went in that direction. After a time I heard it once more, louder and more terrifying than before and apparently on the left side of me. There was something horrible about it!

Presently through the fallen treetops I saw two eyes. They disappeared in a second. Again I heard the rustle under the treetops lying on the ground, and, jumping down, I rushed around to one side. There lay the little fawn on its side, panting and bleeding.

As I drew nearer to help her to her feet the frightened creature staggered up and ran a few paces. But her strength was gone, and she staggered and fell.

I looked around for the mother deer, but she was nowhere to be seen.

In a few seconds the little creature scrambled to her feet and staggered into the thicket.

I had arrived in time to see the wildcat measuring the distance between the fawn and the thicket beyond.

Going on through the trees, I reached the shore of Spencer again. The first thing that caught my eye there was the mother deer and the fawn swimming the narrows. They disappeared in the woods on the opposite shore.

In spite of its coat effect this little suit really is all in one piece to be adjusted with a single closing; consequently it is ideal for midsummer wear.

In the picture it is made of plaid with plain-sponge, but the coat portion can be made to match the trousers if preferred or of plain contrasting color. The blouse makes part of the trousers, and the front edges of the coat are stitched into place and beneath the lower edge of the coat in the back the trousers are buttoned to position.

In the back view the entire suit is made of white linen, with the sleeves and collar scalloped, giving a very pretty effect for the younger boys, but the contrasting coat is somewhat more mannish in character and, consequently, likely to be more satisfactory for the six-year-old.

For the six-year-old size the coat will require one and three-quarter yards of material twenty-seven inches wide and the trousers and trimming one and one-half yards twenty-seven inches wide.

This may Manton pattern is cut in sizes for children from four to six years. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8315, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

VEGETABLES WORTH SERVING.

DINNER MENU.
Sorrel Soup, Croutons.
Radishes. Onions.
Roast Veal With Browned Potatoes.
Squash Puff.
Lettuce and Nut Salad.
Caramel Custard. Angel Cake.
Coffee.

FOR the vegetable course the following recipes may serve as suggestions when the housewife is in doubt what to serve:

Nice Side Dish.

Squash Mould.—Press one-half pint of cooked squash through sieve and add rounding tablespoonful of butter (melted after measuring), four tablespoonfuls of milk and salt and pepper; then mix and fold in two stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Turn into a buttered dish and bake until the center is firm. Serve hot as a side dish.

Okra Salad.—Clip off stems from one and one-half pints of very fresh, sound medium okras. Plunge in cold water, thoroughly wash and drain; then place in a saucepan, with two quarts boiling water, a teaspoonful salt and two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Cover pan and boil thirty minutes. Remove, thoroughly drain on a sieve and let get cold. Place in a bowl, season with four tablespoonfuls of savory dressing. Mix well and serve.

Vegetable Sandwiches.

Watercress and Mustard Sandwiches.—Take buttered bread cut in slices one-eighth of an inch thick. Wash mustard leaves and watercress thoroughly; then shake dry in a clean towel. Cut off some of the stalks. Spread rather a thick layer of the green on half the buttered bread, sprinkle with salt; then cover with more buttered bread, press well together, cut into neat shapes, pack in a damp towel or wax paper until ready to serve.

Mock Cauliflower.—Take small white hard head of cabbage, remove the outer leaves, with sharp narrow bladed knife cut out the stalk. To preserve the shape of the cabbage head tie around with a cord, boil in salted water until tender, changing the water once during the cooking. Remove the cabbage, make cream sauce as follows: Tablespoonful of butter, a tablespoonful of flour, a cupful of hot water and the same of milk. Let the cabbage boil for five minutes in the cream sauce. Carefully cut the cord without injuring the shape of the cabbage head. Serve hot with the cream sauce.

We Had to Get Something to Eat.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—What the Mother Giraffe Told Her Baby.

"OH, daddy, daddy, you should have seen the big mamma giraffe and her little baby!" cried Evelyn as daddy gathered her and Jack into his arms for the evening story. "They were the cunningest things! And the big mamma giraffe bent her long neck and seemed to be whispering into her little baby's ear. Do you suppose she was telling the baby something, daddy?"

"Perhaps I can tell you what she was saying. I'll try," said daddy. "I am going to tell it to you just as the mamma giraffe told it to her baby.

"'Not so very long ago, but before you were born, your daddy that you see over there in that pen and I lived in a far off country. We didn't have to stay in little pens and depend upon keepers to feed us. Instead we lived in wonderful green forests where the monkeys chattered all day, just as they do here in their cages, only there they were free and swung from limb to limb of great palm trees, and they used to throw cocoanuts down at us.

"'And we were very happy, your daddy and I. We could cull the choicest morsels from the tiptop branches of the trees, we could see the beautiful blue sky, and we had fresh air to breathe because, you see, we were so tall that the forest didn't stifle us, and we always kept our eyes open for lions and tigers, so we never got hurt.

"'Well, one day we saw some strange animals. They were tall and dressed in white, with white helmets on their heads, just like that animal over there standing outside our pen and peering in at us; then we ran and ran as fast as we could, which is pretty fast, and we hid away for a long time.

"'But after awhile we had to get something to eat, so we ventured out from our hiding place, and then the queer animals were nowhere to be seen.

"'Then we forgot all about our fright and wandered about the same as always until one day we heard a terrible din. Such a clatter and hullabaloo you never heard, and there were a great many of those strange animals yelling and firing guns, and we began to run again.

"'Then we got confused by terror, and we fell into a great big pit, and when we came out of our fright we were being driven through the forest, and then we were put on board a big ship, and we crossed the water, and your daddy was very ill with seasickness. Then they brought us here, and we have been tormented by those two legged animals ever since, and the only reason I am happy at all is because I have a dear darling little baby giraffe very much prettier than those two legged babies that walk around with their mothers and fathers and look at us.'

"That is the story Mamma Giraffe might have told her little one."

DEMAND ON TURKEY BY TRIPLE ENTENTE

Must Repatriate Crews of German Warships.

London, Aug. 15.—Great Britain, France and Russia have sent a sharp demand to Turkey for the immediate repatriation of the officers and crews of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau.

It is reported that Turkish vessels met the two cruisers outside and escorted them into the Dardanelles.

While there is no official confirmation of the purchase of the cruisers, the report is generally credited. According to a dispatch from Constantinople to the Exchange Telegraph company, Turkey paid $20,000,000 for them.

A dispatch to the same company from Athens says that King Constantine, at the suggestion of the premier and minister of war, E. Venizelos, has called a conference of all former premiers and party leaders to determine the attitude of Greece in the face of Turkey's purchase of the cruisers Goeben and Breslau from Germany.

Paris, Aug. 15.—The allied governments opposed to Germany and Austria-Hungary have agreed to bring Turkey to a realization of its obligations as a neutral power in connection with her purchase from Germany of the cruisers Goeben and Breslau.

Rome, Aug. 15.—Turkey's purchase of the cruisers Breslau and Goeben has caused a most unfavorable impression here.

PANAMA CANAL OPENS TODAY

Governor Goethals and Other Notables to Be on Ship.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Everything is in perfect order for the formal opening of the canal today, when the Ancon, sister ship to the Cristobal, which passed through the canal recently and which belongs to the Panama Canal Railway company and of 9,606 tons, will make the official trial trip.

Governor Goethals of the canal zone will be aboard, with a number of other notables.

For the present vessels requiring more than thirty feet of water through the channel will not be able to make the passage, but it is expected that the channel will be deepened by the time any vessels of more than thirty feet draft are ready to pass through the canal.

GERMAN FLAG OVER LIEGE.

Soldiers Aid City Police In Preserving Order in the City.

London, Aug. 15.—The German flag now flies over the town hall at Liege, according to a dispatch to the Daily News from its correspondent in Rotterdam.

The Liege police are sharing the duties of the German soldiers in preserving order, and the city is quiet.

A German military band plays each afternoon in the public square, the music being accompanied by the sounds of cannonading from the forts, which are still intact.

FIRST HONORS WON IN WAR.

French Lieutenant Gains Coveted Cross of the Legion For Gallantry.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Lieutenant H. J. Bruyant of the Fifteenth Dragoons wears the first cross of the Legion of Honor won in the present war.

General Joffre bestowed the cross upon Lieutenant Bruyant for gallantry in action. With seven men the lieutenant charged thirty German Uhlans, killed the commanding officer with his own hands and routed the platoon with serious losses.

Corporation Notice.

Commissioners of Assessments' Report for Sewerage Construction on Consideration before the Common Council, Plainfield, N. J.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J., held on Monday, the third day of August, 1914, there were presented and laid before the Common Council (the same having been first filed in the office of the City Clerk on the same day), the Report and Assessment of Armstrong Mulford, Daniel J. Courain and Frank J. Hubbard, the Commissioners of Assessments for said City heretofore appointed under the ordinances entitled: "An Ordinance to Provide for the Construction of a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage already Constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved October 11, 1912, and "An Ordinance to Provide for the Construction of a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage already Constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved May 7, 1913; containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses, as the case may be, for the laying and putting in complete operation sewers in and through the following streets and avenues and rights of way for sewer construction, or particular sections thereof, to wit:

East Front Street, from Leland Avenue to Emerson Avenue;
Woodbine Avenue;
St. Mary's Avenue, from Jackson Avenue to Hill Street;
East Seventh Street, from the present sewer to a point 2,200 feet east of Leland Avenue;
Henry Place;
Marshall Place;

Chetwynd Avenue, from Hillside Avenue to Woodland Avenue;
Hillside Avenue, from Randolph Road to Chetwynd Avenue;
Watson Avenue;
Leland Avenue, from East Front Street to Green Brook;
East Front Street, from Emerson Avenue to Raymond Avenue;
Prospect Avenue, from a point 953 feet east of Hillside Avenue to Woodland Avenue.

Also improvements at sewage disposal works; including house connections and including appurtenances of said sewerage system in connection therewith; the streets, avenues and rights of way for sewer construction, or particular sections thereof, in which the sewers were so laid and put in complete operation, and the location and dimensions of the several lots, tracts and parcels of land and real estate so assessed being delineated on a certain set of maps and designated Numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7, "Sewer Construction Assessment Maps, Dated July 1914," and attested by the signatures of said Commissioners, and filed in the office of the Collector of Taxes July 22, 1914.

And it was ordered by said Common Council that said Common Council will proceed to consider, review, alter, ratify and confirm the said report and assessment at a meeting of said Common Council to be held at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday the eighth day of September, 1914, at eight o'clock p. m., at which meeting all persons interested in or affected by said improvements on account of which said assessments were made, will be given ample opportunity to be heard upon the subject of said assessments.

The character of the work and improvement for which said assessments have been made is shown by the foregoing, and in general is the construction of said sewers and appurtenances (including house connections), and the laying and putting in complete operations of sewers, and the streets, avenues and rights of way for sewer construction or particular sections thereof, which are included in said assessments are those hereinabove particularly set forth.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., August 3, 1914.

CHEER WOULD-BE OFFICE-HOLDERS

Annual Republican Outing Was Attended By Every Big and Little Office Seeker.

JOHN KEAN ABSENT

Former Senator Ill—Plainfield Loses Ball Game to Elizabeth, 10-8—Party Saw British Steamer Stopped By United States War Vessel.

One of the largest crowds ever in attendance, took in the tenth annual outing of the County Republicans, Saturday, when the regular trip to Witzell's Grove was made, a steamer leaving Recreation Pier, Elizabethport, in the middle of the forenoon. For the first time in years, former Senator John Kean, of the county seat, was among the missing.

Candidates for all the county offices were present, several with petitions and all of whom found plenty of friends to extend the glad hand.

On the way to the grove the excursionists were given a chance to see the overhauling of a British steamer by a man-of-war. The Stephanie, which was sailing for England on the inside course, through Long Island Sound, was halted just inside the forts which guard the Eastern approach to New York city by the scout cruiser Ammon. The liner was boarded by a crew from the cruiser and after being detained for a few moments was allowed to proceed on its way.

Immediately after the arrival at the destination dinner was served. During the "eats" there was plenty of cheering for the Congressional candidates, first one and then another. Each seemed to have an equal share of the enthusiasm. "Charley" Fowler, however, was given the "glad hand" as he entered the dining-room several minutes after the others had been seated, but the climax of the cheering was not reached until two comely young women marched through the dining hall to tables at the extreme east end.

The Elizabeth baseball team, under the leadership of Peter J. Olde, won the county championship by defeating the Plainfield aggregation, captained by Herbert Buxton, 10 to 8.

Among the Plainfielders present were John J. Carroll, chairman of the city committee; former Judge William Newcorn, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., former Judge William N. Runyon, John H. Cose, who is out for the sheriff's job; Councilman Francis J. Blatz, James S. Morrison, Samuel P. T. Wilbur, also out for sheriff; William Kline, Andrew J. McCardell, George J. Tobin, V. W. Nash, Jr., Edward A. Laing, Horace Adams, Herbert Buxton, William Page, Joseph Harrigan, Chief MacDuff, Alexander Ayers, George Ballantine, Nathan Pollard, James Stewart, John Bowman, Judge William G. DeMeza,

TWO LIQUOR SELLERS ARRESTED BY POLICE

Each Charged With Three Separate Infractions of City Ordinances.

Alleged to have violated the city excise ordinances, Morris Latzko and Charels Smith, of this city, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning and held in bonds of $300 for trial next Monday morning. Smith, who drives for a liquor dealer, is charged with three different violations, and pleaded not guilty in each case. Patrolman Martin Flatley, who made the arrest, complains that the defendant had three cases of beer stored in his cellar not intended for personal use, that he sold one dozen bottles to another party, the name of whom could not be ascertained.

Latzko, is a liquor dealer with a place of business on Somerset street. He was also arrested by Flatley and held to answer charges of alleged illegal selling in three different instances. The cases brought to the attention of the city court this morning are the result of the police department's crusade conducted the latter part of last week. A strict surveliance over liquor selling has been maintained recently. Both furnished bail for their appearance Monday.

CONFESSED METER THIEF ENTERS NOT GUILTY PLEA

Although he is alleged to have made a confession to Chief Kiely admitting his culpability in a number of local gas meter robberies, when arraigned for hearing before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning, Charles Hardway, colored, entered a plea of not guilty and was held in $1,000 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. Accused of looting quarter slot meters the prisoner cited a number of instances in which he was guilty and signed what purported to be a written confession.

The apprehension of Hardway is expected to clear up a number of mysteries that have been bothering the police department for some time past.

He was in the immediate vicinity when the gas meter explosion occurred in "Possum Row" on West Fourth street last may, when the front of a brick flat was blown out and several persons injured. Although he refuses to take any responsibility for this deed he will be examined further by Chief Kiely before his commitment to the county jail.

FUNERAL OF MISS TISOWOCKI.

The funeral services of Miss Kostatina Tisowocki, who was found dead in bed Saturday morning, took place at Perth Amboy, this morning, at the Polish Catholic church. The original arrangements were made to hold the services at St. Mary's church, this city, but the plans were changed later Saturday afternoon, and the body sent to Perth Amboy.

ACCUSED MAN TRIES TO MAKE A GETAWAY

"Pigeon Lewis" Jumps Through Screen When Secaucus Police Seek Him.

Wanted by the Union county authorities for alleged larceny and receiving stolen goods, Lewis, alias "Pigeon" Lewis Hartgraves, was arrested by the police of Secaucus, Saturday night, and turned over to the Union county authorities, where he will be tried for an offense alleged to have been committed in this city. The complaint was made by Fred VanZant, of 609 Richmond street.

According to VanZant, the accused came to Plainfield last May and apprenticed himself to a local concern. He was given a room in his home. He consented, but alleges that during the night his boarder rifled his pockets. Among the articles said to have been stolen are $100 in cash, a ring with a diamond cluster and gold watch. Hartgraves skipped and VanZant complained to the police, and an indictment was found against him by the Grand Jury.

A warrant was issued and an opportunity came to land the quarry Saturday night at Secaucus. The police force, three men, set out to get Hartgraves. Two of the bluecoats remained on the outside of the house in which Hartgraves was living, while a third entered the place. The appearance of the officer was a signal for Hartgraves to jump through the screen of a window on the first floor. As he emerged with the shattered screen about his neck the man was taken into custody by the two outside bluecoats.

SERVICE MOTOR CAR CO. IS IN BANKRUPTCY

Local Concern Feels Effects of Money Shortage But Expects to Re-organize.

The Service Motor Car Company, of Newark, which has a branch in Plainfield, has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court here. Judge Haight has appointed Edwin F. Miller, of Dunellen, receiver, for thirty days under a bond of $15,000.

The Judge directs the receiver to call a meeting of the stockholders and creditors within fifteen days to determine whether the receivership should be continued.

The company applied for the appointment of a receiver. It claims liabilities of $46,630 of which $39,800 are unsecured. It lists assets of $47,026 including stock valued at $19,523 and debts due amounting to $19,789. The First National Bank, of Plainfield, is creditor for more than $20,000 and the First National Bank, of Dunellen, has a claim of $500.

When seen this morning a representative of the Service Motor Car Company stated to the Daily Press that plans are already under way for re-organization of the company, and that with a little co-operation on the part of their friends, as well as the creditors, it was hoped to soon get under way again. He said that business conditions, coupled with the shortage of money had brought about the action, and that it was hoped that business would soon be fully under way again.

Walter W. Stryker, of Dunellen, stated to a Daily Press reporter this morning, that he had purchased the good will of the company and would take over its management, but how he has accomplished this in view of the bankruptcy proceedings was not explained.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

BELGIANS IN COMPLETE CONTROL OF THEIR COUNTRY; FRENCH FLEET CLEARS THE MEDITERRANEAN

President Wilson Decides That War Situation is Such That He Will Send Message to Congress Advocating Emergency Revenue Measures--French Position In Alsace Is Excellent--President Satisfied With Japan's Position.

TEIPIRO KURAI.

Will Command the Japanese Fleet to Aid Great Britain.

Brussels, Aug. 17 (From Alfred J. Rorke, special correspondent of the Central News)—A visit to the Belgian outposts has shown me that beyond a doubt the Belgian troops are in complete control of the territory lying around for a considerable distance. The battlefield presents a sorrowful spectacle. The vast fields of wheat and hay have become cemeteries; the home of many peasants have been destroyed; many German prisoners taken during the fighting have been brought to Louvain.

Horses and men lie side by side with lances, rifles and saddles strewn about where they fell, and over all solemn ravens hovering in grusome expectancy.

The enraged German soldiers as they were beaten back fired the homesteads of peasants wherever they lay in the path of retreat and the simple folk today sadly shake their heads as they contemplate the smoking ruins that represent all they possessed.

The only fitting adjectives to apply to the reprisals of the beaten Germans are wanton and inhuman destruction.

On the way to Brussels we picked up a number of Belgian soldiers going toward Louvain. One of these troopers was a millionaire from America, owning immense orange groves in Florida.

"I left all to enlist in King Albert's army," he said humbly, "I knew my country was in danger—I was born in Belgium of Belgian parents—and so came over to help."

While we were on the way to Louvain in the motor car a military train struck our car on a grade crossing, overturning and smashing it. No one was hurt and we were shown every consideration by those that saw the accident. By the courtesy of the Belgian ministry I was able to continue the journey today.

That the stolid spies of the Kaiser have brute courage was exemplified in the case of one of the huge fellows, seized in the center of the city. He motored to his execution calmly, smoking his big German pipe, his steel blue eyes and expressionless face denoting total indifference to his surroundings.

The German cavalry prisoners, especially the Uhlans, with whom I have spoken, were wonderfully stoical in the face of death and asserted gravly that none except those that have fought in modern battle can form any accurate idea of its horrors.

During the whole extent of our automobile tour German aeroplanes, recconnoitering, seemed to follow our car, lending the spice of immediate danger to our journey.

The German cavalry, I have just learned, have attempted a new offensive movement at a fresh point and after unimportant skirmishing, the German advance was compitely checked.

The Belgians make no secret of their admiration for the bravery of the Germans. From a trustworthy, but unofficial source, I am informed that in the event of the German army entering Brussels, the seat of the Belgian Government will be removed to Antwerp.

Entrenchments are being thrown up around Brussels, but it is announced officially that this is being done as a precaution and to protect the capital against raids by stray bodies of German cavalry. It is, says the official declaration, a measure of police and not a measure of war.

London, Aug. 17 (Central News Cable)—No information has been received here of the reported naval battle between French and Austrian warships off Budua, Austria, in the Adriatic Sea on Sunday. The despatch, which came from Nish, had it that two Austrian ironclads were sunk; one was set on fire and a fourth was said to have fled toward Sattari.

An official statement issued this afternoon by the war office press bureau, states that the French forces operating in Alsace Lorraine, captured a thousand Germans in the course of a rapid advance which they made up the Schirmeck Valley, which is only about 20 miles from Strassburg. The Germans, it is declared, retreated in disorder and their losses in killed and wounded were heavy. A visit to the scene of the last few days fighting in upper Alsace shows that great destruction was caused by the artillery of the allied forces.

According to an omcial statement issued by the press bureaur this afternoon, the French Mediterranean fleet swept the Adriatic Sea as far north as the Gulf of Cattaro, and sank a small Austrian cruiser of the Aspern type.

A despatch from Paris, says that it has been learned from an official source at Stockholm that the Swedish S. S. Hansa was stopped by a German cruiser, not far from the Stockholm Archipelago.

An official communique issued this afternoon, from the Servian legation states, "The Austrians recommenced the bombardment of Belgrade and several houses were damaged. Our artillery, however, soon silenced the enemy's guns. Yesterday morning, following an artillery attack on the enemy, the Obrenovatz infantry advanced and engaged the Austrian forces attacking Belgrade. Our troops occupied the villages of Sousa, Gora and Bauyak, repulsing the enemy, who fortified themselves towards Kouriatchitza, on the Bosnian side of the River Drina, opposite Losnitza. Our troops now occupy strong positions on both sides of the Drina facing Losnitza. "Last night passed in Belgrade without incident." The legation repudiates the reports of Austrian successes, declaring them to be without foundation.

An official communique issued today by the French embassy states that the battle which raged around Dinant, in the Belgian province of Namur, during the latter part of the week, was the most successful maneuvre yet accomplished by the French arms during the present struggle. The French cavalry attacked the Germans and repulsed them on the right bank of the River Meuse.

The French embassy also states that the French position in Alsace, Lorraine, is excellent. The French railroads are resuming traffic on all lines excepting in the East. The frontier town of Pontamousson was again bombarded by Germans. There were no casualities, but the material damage caused by the bombardment was considerable. The hospital and several factories being partially ruined.

After a conference between Henry S. Breckenbridge, assistant Secretary of War of the United States, and American Ambassador Page, the former stated that $300,000 would be handed to Mr. Page for use in London in relieving American citizens stranded in the British Isles owing to the outbreak of the war.

The Government has been petitioned to establish a clearing house for the adjustment of German trade debts and credits.

Sofia, Aug. 17 (Central News Cable)—An official proclamation has been issued proclaiming a state of siege throughout Bulgaria.

Washington, Aug. 17—President Wilson let it be known today that the United States had complete faith in the declaration of Japan, that it contemplated the eventual restoration to China of the German territory of Kiau Chau, in case the Mikado's Government wrested it from the Kaiser. He declined to comment further on the Japanese ultimatum to Germany, a copy of which was submitted to the State Department by the Japanese ambassador. Secretary Bryan was equally non-communica-

DOLLAR DAY PLANS TO BE COMPLETED TONIGHT

The Business Men's Association will hold a special meeting tonight at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Babcock building, at which time plans will be completed for the second Dollar Day of the year, to be held on September 2. The committee having the matter in charge has been busily engaged in seeing the merchants, and they expect to make a very favorable report. President A. E. Force will not be in the chair, as he is on his vacation, and John J. Varley will preside in his absence.

Mr. Varley will have a meeting of the Suburban Day Committee, of which he is chairman, prior to tonight's meeting, and it is probable that they will announce the result of their investigations. A report will also be received by the committee having in charge the float to represent the Business Men's Association in the Labor Day parade of the local Building Trades Council.

TRIBUTE TO NEW AND RETIRING POSTMASTERS

In this month's issue of the Advocate, published by the Independent Order of Hetasophs, the following tribute is paid to Alvin E. Hoagland and Elias H. Bird, of this city:

"The Heptasophs, of Plainfield, and vicinity, were more than pleased when they learned that one of the members of Protection Conclave, No. 505, Alvin E. Hoagland, had been appointed to take the place of Elias H. Bird, who was also a Heptasoph, and a member of the same Conclave, and who had held the office for sixteen years, being first appointed by President McKinley. As is generally the case, there was the usual 57 varieties of candidates for the office, and the boys were delighted when the announcement was made that Brother Hoagland had won out. We congratulate him, and wish him the greatest success in the administration of the Plainfield office. During his term the new Federal Building, costing over $150,000, will be completed and occupied by him.

SAYS "WE PLAINFIELDERS ARE A MIGHTY SELFISH CROWD" IN LETTER

Winner of Business Men's Association Prize In Daily Press Contest Secs Many Good Reasons For Trading at Home.

Former Councilman William Starr Bullock, at the request of the Business Men's Association, prepared an advertisement to be used in the association's regular advertising. The arguments were so well prepared in favor of buying at home that Mr. Bullock's permission was secured to use the adv. as an entry in the Daily Press Trade in Plainfield contest. The judges, after carefully deliberating between Mr. Bullock's letter and one other, decided that as he mentioned no store in the copy it would be more fitting to award him the first Business Men's Association prize. His article is as follows:

WE PLAINFIELDERS ARE A SELFISH CROWD.

The controlling factor in every step we take, in every thing we do, is our own selfish desire for personal advantage, to benefit ourselves, our families, our friends, our pocketbooks.

Suppose, then, we dismiss all questions of ethics, paychology, city loyalty and similar high-sounding bunk, and come right down to brass tacks.

After All Why Should We Buy in Plainfield?

Because, and ONLY because we get better goods or more of them, better prices, less personal inconvenience or quicker service, more careful and courteous attention, a greater desire on the merchants' and craftsman's part to make good on everything that proves unsatisfactory, and a universal willingness to get for us, promptly, pleasantly and without added expense, anything we wish that does not happen to be carried in stock.

As a rule, Plainfield stores, Plainfield stock, Plainfield merchants and Plainfield craftsmen are far above the average in cities of our size.

In almost any line of merchandise—for house, garage or farm; for table, home furnishing or personal adornment; for library, stable or chicken coop—Plainfield dealers can supply us more quickly, more conveniently to ourselves, as cheaply and with a much stronger personal guarantee of satisfaction than the "big" merchant in the metropolis whom we never see and to whom our individual account has no personal meaning.

Plainfield merchants are our neighbors—they will go to any reasonable length to get us what we want, when and as we want it—at the price we are willing to pay.

Spend time, carfare and lunch money at Coney, Rockaway or Asbury if you want a day's outing and a dip in the briney, go to the metropolis for your opera, and later dine at the Ritz-Carlton is you wish to display your evening clothes, by all means see the wonders of the Yellowstone if you have the price, but SHOP in Plainfield personally or by 'phone, and prove to your own satisfaction, today, at any store in town, the benefit to your own pocketbook in saving time, trouble, carfare and cash.

According to the last report, Mrs. Walker had come out of anesthetic all right and her physician was highly encouraged with her condition.

QUICK BICYCLE RIDING.

Wesley Huff, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Huff, of North avenue, is proving himself to be quite a trick bicycle rider. As regular as clock work young Mr. Huff can now be seen on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings near the fountain at the corner of North and Prospect avenues giving his free exhibitions. He rides around in a circle with the front wheel of his bicycle suspended in the air; he straddles his bicycle in cowboy fashion and pedals it with one of his hands, but the most thrilling of all his exhibitions is when with the Prospect avenue railroad crossing gates down he approaches the gates at full speed and stops abruptly within a foot of the gate, causing the spectators to hold their breath with apprehension. It is Mr. Huff's intention to go on the vaudeville stage. His first appearance will probably be at the local theatre sometime during the coming month.

Walter Schneiderwind, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schneiderwind, of Prospect avenue, who sustained a bad fracture of one of his limbs about six weeks ago as the result of jumping off the top of a small shed in the rear of his home, was brought home on Saturday afternoon from the Muhlenberg Hospital, where he has been since the accident. While not able to use his injured limb as yet his condition is such that his improvement should be rapid from now on.

STOP SWIMMING IN BROOK.

The attention of this paper has been called to the fact that quite a number of the youths of the borough are, in all probability unknown to their parents, making a daily practice of swimming in the polluted waters of Green Brook, and seriously jeopardizing their health thereby. If the parents of the boys who are doing this do not put a stop to the practice the Board of Health should take action in the mater as the danger of an epidemic breaking out as a result is imminent. As soon as the new sewerage system has beei completed, the Rock avenue sewer beds will be done away with and Green Brook will once more be to the borough what the Rahway River is to Cranford, a place to swim, row and hold water carnivals, etc.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Craig, of New Market road, motored to and visited friends at Summit, yesterday afternoon.

There was no service in the Methodist church yesterday.

Rev. George Mason, D. D., of Metuchen, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, yesterday, at both morning and evening services. Dr. Mason was the Prohibition nominee for Governor of this State last year.

TWENTY DAYS IN JAIL.

"I will give you fifteen minutes to leave the borough," said Recorder Campbell in the borough hall, Saturday, in releasing John Gorn, one of the attendants of the Tompkin's Wild West Show, who had been arrested by Marshal Patrick Tarpey after the show on Friday night, while standing in front of Taylor's Hotel, and telling a group how he could drive wild horses. On Saturday afternoon, Gorn had failed to comply with the decree of the court and he was rearrested by Marshal McCauley and sent to New Brunswick for 20 days by Recorder Campbell, when re-arraigned before him.

Robert McCormack, of this city, was also in attendance.

tive.

President Wilson, it was announced today, wil send a special message to Congress asking for legislation authorizing the imposition of a war revenue tax. It was said at the executive office that the chief executive would be governed entirely by the exigencies of the situation, as they developed in the immediate future and that Congress, in consequence, might be kept in almost continuous session.

A resolution directing the United States Government to protest against the intention of Japan taking the Chinese port of Kiau Chau was introduced in the House today, by Representative Britton, of Illinois.

Reports that Great Britain had lodged protests against the acquisition of German ships by this country were emphatically denied at the White House.

Early passage of the ship registry bill was urged on Congress today by President Wilson. Members of the Senate and House were importuned not to waste further time in enacting the legislation necessary to permit immediate upbuilding of a great merchant marine.

The Rockefeller Foundation, today, contributed $10,000 and Mrs. Russell Sage $2,500, to the fund being raised by the American Red Cross for relief work in foreign fields. A number of other smaller contributions are being received constantly.

Paris is resuming its normal activities, Ambassador Herrick cabled the State Department today. Complete order has been restored and all transportation lines with the exception of motor buses have resumed operation.

An appeal for ships for the immediate transportation of hundreds of Americans at Genoa reached the State Department today, from Consul Smith, the United States representative of that city. More than 2,500 Americans are now there and the 5,000 Americans in Switzerland are expected to arrive there during the week.

No meeting on the conferees on the Federal Trade Commission Bill was held today, and it is not expected that they will get together for another day or two.

New York, Aug. 17—A great deal of resentment is felt at some of the cables from Europe representing that atrocities have been committed on non-combatants in Belgium by German troops. All such reports have come from sources hostile to the German nation and the acts alleged have no supporting evidence from unbiased observers. The reports are not credited here by German interests, as they represent the conduct which is not only contradictory of the discipline maintained in the German army, but are repugnant to the nature and character of the German people.

Broomhall sent the following from Liverpool, this morning: "Russia is permitting exportation of grain to the United Kingdom, but nothing is reported as yet. In Italy, there is a supply of foodstuffs sufficient for several months, but the activity of the army and navy makes it necessary for unusual feeding and the elimination of Russian exports is causing apprehension and buyers are active. Wheat crop is considered to be 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels under last year."

The steamship Laconia, of the Cunard Line, arrived today from Liverpool, bringing 1,168 passengers, of which 543 were in the saloon and 477 in the second cabin. The Laconia left Liverpool on August 8. The vessel pursued an erratic course on her western voyage and loafed off Atlantic City last night, in order not to enter New York harbor until nightfall.

Although beneficial influences bearing upon the international money markets are still mainly tentative, improved sentiment was clearly apparent in financial circles Saturday. Confidence is felt that there will shortly be evident developments of transcendant importance in the direction of restoring a foreign exchange market and of freeing a large volume of our products for export to Europe.

There can be no question that with the prospects well defined of the European war progressing for at least the rest of the year, Europe will urgently require an enormous supply of American wheat, cotton, sugar and other commodities, and manufactured articles. One of our greatest foreign exchange experts said that within the next three months, he expected to see sterling quoted as low as $4 per pound.

Tokio, Aug. 17—The Japanese newspapers commenting today upon the ultimatum sent on Saturday by Japan to Germany, demanding the withdrawal of German warships from the Orient and the evacuation of Kiau Chau, say they consider the document to be reasonable. No anti-German sentiment has been displayed here.

Rome, Aug. 17.—Austria is concentrating her navy on the Adriatic Sea for the defense of Pola, an important seaport, according to a story in the "Tribuna." The same article says measures will be taken, if necessary, to abandon Trieste. Pola, a city of 50,000, is a naval station seat and the site of the government observatory.

JAPAN'S ULTIMATUM SERVED ON GERMANY.

Tokyo, Aug. 17.—This is the ultimatum sent to Germany by Japan:

"We consider it highly important and necessary in the present situation to take measures to remove the causes of all disturbances of the peace in the far east and to safeguard the general interests as contemplated by the agreement of alliance between Japan and Great Britain.

"In order to secure a firm and enduring peace in eastern Asia, the establishment of which is the aim of the said agreement, the imperial Japanese government sincerely believes it to be its duty to give the advice to the imperial German government to carry out the following two propositions:

"First.—To withdraw immediately from Japanese and Chinese waters German men-of-war and armed vessels of all kinds and to disarm at once those which cannot be so withdrawn.

"Second.—To deliver on a date not later than Sept. 15 to the imperial Japanese authorities, without condition or compensation, the entire leased territory of Kiauchau, with a view to the eventual restoration of the same to China.

"The imperial Japanese government announces at the same time that in the event of it not receiving by noon on Aug. 23, 1914, an answer from the imperial German government, signifying its unconditional acceptance of the above advice offered by the imperial Japanese government, Japan will be compelled to take such action as she may deem necessary to meet the situation."

France.

The French forces which on Friday and Saturday put to rout a Bavarian army corps with heavy losses in the vicinity of Blamont, Cirey and Avricourt drove the enemy back to Saarburg, across the Lorraine border. Thann, in Haut Alsace, fourteen miles west of Muelhausen, is again in French hands. These positions indicate the left and right wings of the French army of invasion. At the center, in the Vosges mountains, it is announced that the French now control the three passes of St. Marie, Bonhomme and Salles and dominate the approach to Alsace.

Japan.

Paris receives what it accepts as an authoritative version of the Japanese ultimatum demanding that Germany withdraw from the far east. This is regarded in Washington with grave concern as bringing the war within America's sphere of influence in the orient.

Belgium.

The Belgians won another engagement between advance guards at Dinant, fifteen miles south of Namur, according to Paris dispatches. Both advance guards were in force, the Belgian infantry driving the Germans back after an interchange between artillery of the two detachments. No information of the position of the allied armies in Belgium was forthcoming from the war offices of the countries involved.

Germany.

Rome hears a rumor, which has not been confirmed, that Dr. Carl Liebknecht, a Socialist leader in the reichstag, has been killed following his refusal to enlist in the German army. The report says that there is great indignation among the Socialists over his death. No further advances of the German armies in Belgium have been reported. The German troops which invaded France by way of Alsace have been forced back beyond their own frontier.

Austria.

Vienna dispatches say that the Austrians drove the Servians from their position on the east side of the Drina near Losnitza after severe fighting. The Servians later attacked the Austrians near Sabac. Both sides have lost heavily. The Austrians claim to have driven the Montenegrins back everywhere. The Austrians continue their advance in the north along the Vistula.

England.

The British home fleet has cleared the North sea so that merchant vessels are now passing freely between Scandinavian ports and England, bringing provisions to the United Kingdom. The German fleet is reported to be still bottled up in the eastern part of the North sea. The British Mediterranean fleet and the French fleet are reported to be searching for the Austrian fleet, last reported at Pola. No news is given out by the British war office regarding the expeditionary force now on the continent.

Tokyo, Aug. 17.—The Japanese government sent an ultimatum to Germany demanding that German warships in the far east be withdrawn or dismantled and that the German leased colony of Kiaochow be surrendered.

The ultimatum expires next Sunday, giving Germany just one week in which to send her reply to the Tokyo government. If Germany within this week of grace does not accede to the Japanese demands the Japanese government will take such steps as it sees fit. The fact that the Japanese fleet left Japan some days ago for an unannounced destination and that a considerable body of Japanese troops have been on transports awaiting an order to sail for a similar length of time, indicates that Japan is prepared to use such force as may be necessary to enforce her demands.

In its ultimatum, as the terms of that instrument are decided by the usually well informed Jiji Shimpo, the Japanese government demands that Kiaochow be turned over to Japan pending its return to China under the terms of the ninety-nine year lease under which it came into German control in 1897. It also demands that German warships in far eastern waters be disarmed and that Germany withdraw all her warships from the China sea.

Expected Ultimatum.

The sending of the ultimatum to Germany was expected.

At the same time Takaaki Kato, Japanese minister of foreign affairs, after a conference with George W. Guthrie, the American ambassador at Tokyo, issued a statement which was intended to allay any apprehensions on the part of the United States government and people regarding Japan's intentions. The statement in broad terms assured the United States that American interests in the far east would be safeguarded by Japan and that Japan would uphold the integrity of China.

The German leased concession of Kiaochow is located on the southeastern coast of the Shantung peninsula, to the southwest and a matter of 200 miles by sea from the British base of Weihaiwei. The latter is just across the strait of Chili from Port Arthur.

A German fleet seized Kiaochow bay in 1897 nominally to guarantee reparation for the murder of two German missionaries in the adjoining province of Shantung. Negotiations were then entered into with the Chinese government and an agreement reached under which China leased to Germany for a term of ninety-nine years the bay and an area of 117 square miles of land on both sides of the entrance to the bay. The lease provides that during its term Germany shall have all the rights of territorial sovereignty, including the right to erect fortifications. Germany declared Kiaochow a free port in 1899.

By arrangement with the Chinese government an office of the Chinese customs was established at Kiaochow, making it a port of entry, and arrangements were made for connecting the Shantung railway, which has its terminus at Tsingtao, the chief town of the concession, with the main Peking-Hankow railway.

Germany at once began the work of fortifying the harbor for use as a naval base for her far eastern fleet. In times of peace the forts in the harbor are garrisoned by a German force of some 2,500 men.

Tsingtau has been developed under German possession to one of the six important ports of China. Some $15,000,000 worth of goods were exported from Tsingtau in 1911, and there were $17,500,000 worth of imports. Large amounts have been spent by the Germans in dredging the shallow harbor.

Tsingtau and the surrounding concession is the center of the German far eastern trade, as well as the base of German war vessels for the protection of that trade.

French Win Brilliant Victory.

Paris, Aug. 17.—The French troops won a brilliant victory in the action at Blamont, Cirey and Avricourt. Their successes in this section of the frontier of Murthe-et-Moselle not only have driven back the German invaders who had occupied it, but have advanced the French line of attack at this point, which marks the left wing of the French army invading Alsace-Lorraine, nearly to Saarburg.

A victory of almost equal importance from the strategic point of view is the recapture of Thann, fourteen miles west of Muelhausen, in the southern part of Alsace. With the center of their army holding the passes of St. Marie, Bonhomme and Saales in the Vosges, the right flank resting at Thann and the left flank at a point across the Lorraine border from Cirey, the French army of invasion has swept the eastern border of France clear of invaders and has established itself for an advance on Strassburg, the Alsatian capital and the first goal of the French invasion.

The French successes in the passes of the Vosges mountains have immeasurably strengthened their mastery of the heights and approaches commanding Alsace and Lorraine. These successes appear to have duplicated in brilliancy by the manner in which the enemy was driven back first from Blamont to Cirey, then from Cirey to Avricourt and finally out of Avricourt to refuge in Saarburg.

Losses Heavy.

A full Bavarian army corps had been intrusted with the occupation of this section, and, according to the reports, the army corps not only was beaten up, but was crumpled up at the point of the bayonet by a double flanking movement which threw it back, with heavy losses, on Saarburg.

The Germans were strongly intrenched on the heights before Blamont. The French began their attack there on Friday, and the fighting continued all that day. Again the French artillery played an important part in the fighting. On Saturday morning the attack was renewed, and the French infantry in a notable bayonet charge, backed up by the artillery, swept over the intrenchments and, occupying the heights, pressed on until the enemy was far over his own frontier.

Not only was the engagement one of the most important yet fought in the present war, but it proves again the French reliance in the virtue of cold steel and indicates that the bayonet in spite of long range artillery is to figure importantly in the coming campaigns.

The fleeing Bavarians abandoned their wounded and left on the field thousands of cubic feet of war material as spoils for the French.

At Thann, too, the Germans are reported to have left their wounded on the field so precipitate was their flight.

Two German standards have now been captured by the force of French arms, the first at Ste. Blaise and the second at Thann when that town was retaken after the French, once forced back from Muelhausen to their own frontier, reformed and swept back again.

TO REWARD FRENCH SOLDIER

One Who Captured German Standard at St. Blaise to Receive $1,000.

Paris, Aug. 17.—At least $1,000 and perhaps $2,000 will be given to the French soldier, as yet unreported by name, who captured the German standard at Ste. Blaise.

Paul Maurice Charnier, a flag dealer of Paris, has deposited $1,000 with Le Matin to be given to the French soldier who should first capture a standard from the enemy in the present war. Simultaneously with this announcement Mme. de Plunkett, widow of a former director of the Theater Palais Royal, recalls to public attention that her husband in 1893, shortly before his death, offered the city of Paris $1,000 to the French soldier who, when the time for revenge for the French defeat in 1870 should come, should take the first standard from the enemy. The city of Paris refused the gift at the time.

GERMAN AEROPLANES ACTIVE

Drops Bombs on City of Namur, Inflicting Great Damage.

London, Aug. 17.—Reports have been received here of a battle in progress south of Namur in which the allies are reported to have gained the advantage with a victory in a sharp artillery duel at the beginning of the battle.

German aeroplanes are flying over Namur, these dispatches say, and are dropping bombs on the city. One of the bombs fell on the Domalius bridge, wounding five men. The wounds of three of the five are said to be serious.

GOVERNOR GLYNN TO BE CANDIDATE

Will Enter Race For Democratic Nomination.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Governor Glynn has announced that he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor on primary day, Sept. 29. This announcement follows immediately Governor Glynn's return from a tour of northern New York counties where he consulted with prominent Democrats. Governor Glynn's candidacy was announced in the following official statement issued from the executive chamber:

"If the members of my party desire to present my name for the Democratic nomination for governor at the approaching primaries I shall gladly become a candidate.

"I have been at some pains to discover the sentiment of representative Democrats in all parts of the state, and they have urged me to run in justice to the state, to the party and to myself.

"The up state Democrats with whom I talked on my recent trip through the northern counties have asked me to head the ticket this fall. Many Democratic editors have written to point out that the sentiment in their territory calls for my candidacy. To refuse to enter the primaries in the face of their demand would be ungracious to my friends if not disloyal to my party.

"When I took office last October I announced that I was not a candidate for another term, and that announcement was sincere. I felt that my only chance to secure needed reforms was to confine my energies to the work of the state. I had no desire to mix public business with personal politics.

"The more important of the reforms I sought have been secured. New York now has a workmen's compensation law and a state employment bureau. It has a direct primary system. It has a land bank law and a department of foods and markets for its farmers, and its taxpayers have been saved for the coming year at least the imposition of a direct tax. The state's tangled sinking funds have been straightened, its banking laws revised and strengthened, and New York is now financially upon a sound and proper basis."

SPAIN SUSPENDS TARIFF.

Scarcity of Flour, Corn and Coal Causes Government to Act.

London, Aug. 17.—Reuter's Madrid correspondent announces that the Spanish government has decided to suspend the tariff on flour, corn and coal in order to meet the situation arising from the scarcity of those commodities. The tariff on maize and rye will be reduced under the plan.

The Spanish government also, according to the correspondent, will advise the Bank of Spain to assist foreign banks.

Reports that Germany had protested to Spain against the action of the Spanish government in refusing to allow a German merchant ship in the harbor of Vigo to use its wireless apparatus were denied by the premier.

British Capture Ship.

London, Aug. 17.—A British warship captured an Austrian merchant vessel last night off the Northumberland coast. The names of the two ships have not yet been announced. The man-of-war chased the Austrian for some distance, finally firing three shots at her before getting her to stop.

$70,000 For Sick and Wounded.

London, Aug. 17.—The Belgian minister in London announces that he has collected $70,000 here for the Belgian sick and wounded fund. In making the announcement the minister says that there is much distress in his country and that funds are needed urgently.

THE PERFECT SPELLER.

Test Him by Having Him Write This Jumble From Dictation.

One occasionally comes across a superior person who tells you he can easily spell any word every printed in a dictionary. If ever you meet this type of man just ask somebody to dictate the following jumble to him and see how many mistakes he will make:

"Antinous, a disappointed, desiccated physicist, was peeling potatoes in an embarrassing and harassing way. His idiosyncrasy and privilege was to eat mayonnaise and mussels while staring at the Pleiades and seizing people's tricycles and velocipedes. He was an erring teetotaler and had been on a picayune jamboree. He rode a palfrey stallion and carried a salable papier mache bouquet of asters, phlox, mullein, chrysanthemums, rhododendrons, fuchsias and nasturtiums.

"He wore a sibyl's resplendent turquoise paraphernalia, an ormolu yashmak and astrakhan chaparejos. He drank crystallizable and disagreeable curacao juleps through a sieve. He stole some moneys and hid them under a peddler's mahogany bedstead and mattress.

"Like a fiend in an ecstasy of gayety I rushed after him into the maelstrom, or melee, and held him as in a vise. I could not feaze him, however, and he addressed me, with autocracy, in the following imbecile words, which sounded like a soliloquy or a superseding paean on an oboe: 'You are a ratable lunamoth, a salaaming vizier, an equinoctial coryphee and an isosceles daguerreotype."—New York Mail.

CUPID'S QUEER PRANK.

A Wedding Blunder That Furnished a Curious Climax.

The other evening we were talking to Mr. Bransby Williams, the delightful impersonator of Dickens' characters, and he told us this story:

The scene was a London parish, and the period recent. The vicar was sitting in his study one morning when in burst the verger in a great state of excitement.

"Mr. ——" (mentioning the curate's name) "wants you at once, sir," he exclaimed. "He has married two couples and married the two men to the wrong women, and he does not know what to do!"

"Have they signed the register?" inquired the clergyman.

"No," was the verger's response.

"Then they can be married again," said the vicar. "Tell Mr. —— I will be at the church in a minute or two to perform the ceremony."

In due course the incumbent made his way to the church and found the parties gathered at the entrance.

Before he could say anything one of the bridegrooms approached and said: "We have been talking it over, sir, and we have made up our minds to remain as we are."

And they did so.—Pearson's Weekly.

Breaking Out the Colors.

A pretty sight aboard ship is the breaking out of the flags on reaching a port. At the appointed time a seaman takes his station at the forward mast and another at the rear mast. In his hand is a small silken bundle, tightly rolled. This is sent aloft. When the signal to break out the colors is given a cord is pulled, the bundle unrolls, and a splendid silk flag flutters out into the breeze. At the foremast is that of the nation whose port the ship is entering, while that on the rear mast is the flag of the steamship company, the ship's nationality being advertised by a large flag at the stern. The latter is lowered or dipped by way of salute when another steamer is passed out in the ocean.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

RECREATION NOTES

The municipal dance, under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee, drew one of the largest crowds of the summer last Saturday night in the Washington School. There were over 150 present. The attractive auditorium, the good floor, and the excellent music are making these dances popular.

The Italian Social and Educational Club will meet tonight in the Lincoln School. According to the club plan Monday night is the social meeting night, and Thursday the business evening.

The Dramatic Club will meet tomorrow night in the Washington School at 8:15. There will be a business meeting followed by a rehearsal of the two plays.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Somerset county now has a full quota of candidates for the nomination for State Senator. George T. Hughes, of Watchung, city editor of the New York Globe, is the latest to come out for honors, seeking the nomination on the Progressive ticket. W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, will seek renomination on the Republican ticket, while A. M. Beekman is out for the nomination with the Democratic party, who will be opposed by Fred G. Thomas, also of Somerville. It was rumored earlier in the season that Judge Case would enter the Republican primaries for the nomination of State Senator, but this boom has failed to materialize.

ENTERTAINING GUESTS.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Honeyman, of Madison avenue, have as present guests at their bungalow on Flanders road, Budd Lake, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. R. Huntsman and daughter, Miss Dorothy Huntsman, and Dr. and Mrs. William Thiers.

FOOL ORDINANCES.

Every once in a while attention is drawn to city regulations which are foolish, and which interfere with the personal liberty of the citizens. Out in Zion, Ill., first made famous by Dowie, but more recently become a community for others than religious fanatics, the City Council adopted an odinance, making it an offense to use or carry tobacco on any of the streets or in the parks or the public buildings of the city. Of course the matter was taken to the courts and promptly declared void. It is about in keeping with some of the rules and regulations, laid down in every city in the country, and which are clogging up the courts with needless litigation.

In its opinion the Illinois Supreme Court said that it recognized that under certain conditions tobacco smoke is offensive, which makes it reasonable to permit restrictions being placed upon it in street cars, theatres, and like places where large numbers congregate in small space. The opinion then says:

But this is quite a different matter from prohibiting smoking on the open streets and in parks of a city, where the conditions would counteract any harmful results. The personal liberty of the citizen cannot be interfered with unless the restraint is reasonably necessary to promote the public welfare. The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has sustained a statute which made it an offense to smoke or have in one's possession a lighted pipe or cigar on any of the streets of the city of Boston, but in that case the law was upheld on the ground that it tended to protect the city against damage from fire. This seems to be the only case in the United States where an ordinance or statute forbidding smoking of tobacco, in any form, on streets or public grounds, has been sustained. While we have a very high regard for the decisions of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, still we are constrained in this instance to decline to follow their doctrine. It will be seen that the ordinance in question cannot be sustained on the ground that it tends to protect the property of the city from damage by fire. If the ordinance were limited to places where quantities of highly combustible materials were collected, it would be less objectionable. In the broad language in which the ordinance is enacted it is apparently an attempt on the part of the municipality to regulate and control the habits and practices of the citizen without any reasonable basis for so doing. The ordinance is an unreasonable interference with the private rights of the citizen and must be held void.

It is such legislation as this that makes people want to do away with the unwieldy, inefficient system of government now found in so many cities, and replace it with modern management, under the control of commissions or city managers, who are practical, level headed officials.

MAKES 'EM FEEL GOOD.

It gives some people much joy, apparently, says the New York Times, to clip from a newspaper a paragraph containing a typographical error and to send it to the office of that paper accompanied by comment as derisive and humorous as the critic's ingenuity permits him to make.

This is, of course, a harmless amusement, and we do not begrudge its joys to those who seek them, for they are presumably folk who do not often get the feeling of superiority which they thus secure. And such errors do often appear in the newspapers, and nowhere are they as much lamented as newspaper offices. They are, however, an inevitable consequence of the haste with which much news matter must be sent to the presses, and the sensible reader does not expect an impossible perfection or apply to newspapers, in this respect, the standards of judgment that he does to books and magazines, with their more leisurely methods of production.

Late news is apt to be of special importance, and not infrequently it does not go through the proofroom at all. If it did, publication would be delayed for a day. Would the people who make a fuss over trivial misplacements and substitutions of letters be better pleased if they were kept waiting as long as that in order that corrections adding nothing to lucidity were made? That might be magnificent, but it wouldn't be journalism.

The entrance of former Mayor George W. V. Moy into the race for Congressional honors as a Progressive candidate certainly complicates an already complicated situation. Until he consented to ruu the general impression was that an unknown man from Morris county would be the candidate of the Bull Moose party, but with Mr. Moy in the race there is promise that the campaign will be at least picturesque. And incidentally, we suspect that the Democrats are not sorry to see him a candidate. His elimination as a candidate for State Senatorial honors will help the Republican chance of securing that office.

Up to the present time the Progressives have no candidate for county clerk, or at least no name appears on the petition sent out to the county committeemen. That probably means that they expect to support County Clerk Calvert, in case of his renomination, which seems to be expected.

When a mad dog started raving in Singac, a Mountain View resident chased him in his automobile from Singac to Paterson, and the dog was able to keep the gasoline propelled pursuer at a safe distance, even finding time to take side trips into the fields. That must have been "some automobile."

Imitation is the sincerest confession of one's limitations, says the Smart Set. And at the same time it is rattling good recognition of the fact that the other fellow has done something worth while.

By the way, it is a strange thing the way the Trenton newspapers entirely ignore the fact that W. de la R. Anderson is a candidate for Congress on the Republican ticket in the Fourth district.

Life imprisonment is entirely too good for the men who will take advantage of war times to raise the price of food stuffs.

STRUCK BY BRIDGE AT FANWOOD DEPOT

Brooklyn Man Picked Up On Tracks By Engineer, Saturday Night.

As the result of being hit by the overhead bridge at the Fanwood depot of the Central Railroad, Saturday night, Forest A. Crawford, of 3901 Astretch avenue, Brooklyn, is lying in a precarious condition in Muhlenberg Hospital, suffering from numerous cuts and bruises about the head and body. The man was picked up by the engineer of a "pusher" engine and brought to this city on the tender.

A telephone call had preceded the arrival of the victim at the North Avenue station and the ambulance was in waiting to convey him to the hospital. He was in an unconscious condition when received at that institution and his identification was made known by means of letters found on his person. The body was found on the track shortly after 9:30, and it is not known how long he had been unconscious when found.

At the hospital this morning it was stated that the man had an even chance of recovery. He is thirty-two years of age.

MRS. MARGARET REVILLE DIES IN SEVENTY-NINTH YEAR

Mrs. Margaret Reville, widow of the late James Reville, and mother of former Councilman Patrick J. Reville, died yesterday, at her home on West Third street. Mrs. Reville, who died in her seventy-ninth year, was a native of County Wexford, Ireland, and lived in this city about forty-five years. She was for many years a communicant of St. Mary's church. Aside from her son, Mrs. Reville is survived by one sister, Mrs. Neil Scott, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas McCauley, Mrs. Frank Cullen, Mrs. John Hickey and Mrs. Clarence Walden. Eighteen grandchildren also survive. The funeral services will be held from her late home, 732 West Third street, Wednesday morning at 8:30, and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock, where a high mass of requiem will be held.

NOW WRITING SONGS.

Edward F. Bodin and Charles E. Spicer, of Watchung, have joined hands in the song writing business and are now composing songs as fast as they can find time to write them. Their latest one on the market is "That Baseball Hit." Another one called "Gloomy Days," will soon be out, followed by one entitled "After Vacation Time." Mr. Spicer is a well-known musician around Plainfield, and Mr. Bodin sang in the University of Pennsylvania Glee Club last year. He won a prize in the Business Men's Association contest held last week by the Daily Press, for his argument on advantages of trading in Plainfield.

NOTED PLAYER DEAD.

Belleview, Ky., Aug. 17.—Harry Steinfeldt, who played third base for the Cubs when they won the pennants, died here today, after a long illness.

FOREIGN WAR TRANSFERRED TO BOROUGH SATURDAY

Not contented to wait until their native country sought them in order to take up arms in the defense of the nation, four Italian women residing on Race street, the borough, became engaged in a neighborly fight Saturday afternoon. The children of the various families of the street started the trouble, and the mothers attempted to bring the excitement to an end, but utterly failed in their endeavors. Marshal Keller, who is at present in charge of the North Plainfield police department, came down like a wolf on the fold, and placed Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Bucco, Mrs. Terrible and Mrs. Peneli under arrest. The women were arraigned before Recorder Hand this morning, and a fine of $5 was imposed upon Mrs. Alexander, who appeared to be the ring leader, while the others were fined $3 each.

OUTDOOR RELIGIOUS MEETING.

The first of a series of religious gatherings under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. was held at the corner of Church and Front streets, yesterday afternoon, and there was a large attendance. Dr. Rufus K. Boyd gave an interesting evangelistic talk and the Dutch Arms Band furnished music for the occasion. At the meeting next Sunday, Rev. D. Robert Y. Pierce will give one of his interesting chalk talks. It will be at 4 o'clock, at the same place as before, and the Dutch Arms Band will again furnish music.

MAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

Hearing a commotion on North avenue, last night, Joseph M. Meyer, a Dunellen liquor dealer, hurried to the sidewalk and found Charles Lewis, a deaf mute, lying in an unconscious condition on the sidewalk. It is the supposition of the police that the man was assaulted by boys of the village with whom he is said to be decidedly unpopular. He had a deep gash in his head and was removed to his home in a cab. The police are investigating the affair.

WILL UNDERGO OPERATION.

Roundsman Andrew Saffron, of the local police force, will enter Muhlenberg Hospital, tomorrow morning, to undergo an operation for the removal of a blood tumor on his shin bone. Saffron has been troubled with the injury for a number of years, it having resulted from a bruise he sustained when he first joined the local force.

VAN ARSDALE GOT BAIL.

Jay Van Arsdale, of 1122 West Front street, who was held by Judge DeMeza in bonds of $1,000 to await the action of the Grand Jury when arraigned on a charge of forgery Saturday morning, was released from custody yesterday, when his brother, Vandeveer Van Arsddale, of Orange, furnished the necessary bail.

BACK ON THE JOB.

Thomas O'Gorman, driver of the police patrol and ambulance, resumed his duties this morning, after a two weeks' vacation. O'Gorman spent his annual outing in New York State visiting a number of places of interest, including Niagara Falls.

MANAGER ON VACATION.

A. B. Wilson, manager of the local offices of the New Jersey Telephone Company, and his family, are spending a two weeks' vacation at Asbury Park. During his absence John J. Carty will assume the managerial duties.

PICTURES OF SUBMARINE BOAT ON DISPLAY

Through the kindness of George M. Christian, of Westervelt avenue, the Daily Press has displayed in its window two excellent photographs of the Holland Submarine Boat, the Salmon, taken while she is in action. One shows the boat on top of the water, and the other submerged.

The pictures are timely because of the fact that every foreign nation except France is using the same type of boats, built under the Holland patents. The Salmon is 135 feet long, 14 1-2 feet wide, and there are 64 of the type in use in the United States navy. Above the water she makes 13 knots an hour, and below 9 1-2, using oil fuel. The engine is 600 horsepower, and the crew consists of 15 men. She carries from 4 to 6 torpedoes.

CAMP WAWAYANDA WILL CLOSE ON WEDNESDAY

The State Y. M. C. A. camp at Wawayanda will close on Thursday after one of the most successful seasons in the fifteen that the camp has been established. About fifteen boys, comprising the fourth and last section that left Plainfield for the camp will return Thursday night in charge of Howard Parry. Forty-five boys from this place have enjoyed between two and four weeks at camp and played a prominent part in all athletic and other events. The fall program at the Y. M. C. A. will shortly be put into effect now that most of the members have returned to the city after spending the summer at various resorts.

STREET CORNER LOITERERS ARE REPRIMANDED IN COURT

Charged with the police with loitering on West Front street near Grove street yesterday afternoon, Charles Lundstrom, James McCarthy and Francis Brennan, boys, were arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court this morning and after being reprimanded and instructed to stay away from the place in the future, were allowed to go on a suspended sentence.

The trio was rounded up by Patrolman Neylon in accordance with the department's crusade against street rowdyism among youths in the business section. When apprehended the offenders were singing and talking in a boisterous manner.

Panama Pacific International Exposition To Be Fairyland At Night

Splendors Of Architecture And Sculpture To Stand Out As Clearly As By Day.

Night Scene In The Great South Gardens, The Huge Tower Of Jewels 435 Feet In Height On The Left.

The night illumination of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco in 1915 will be very wonderful and beautiful. It will bring out every detail of the vast exhibit palace, of the great courts and gardens, of the sculpture and mural paintings that characterize this greatest of universal expositions. Marvelous advances in illuminating methods and materials will enable San Francisco to light the exposition grounds in a way that would have been physically impossible five or six years ago.

Instead of millions of red, blue and yellow incandescent lamps being exposed to view the palaces and courts will be flooded with a pure white light, a diffused glow not so brilliant as daylight but giving daylight color effects. Massed batteries of colored searchlights hidden upon the roofs of the exhibit palaces, will play upon triumphal arches, upon the courts and gardens and upon quivering prisms and reflectors set above the colonnades of the courts and in the towers.

In no part of the exposition will the illumination be observed to better advantage than in the magnificent South Gardens, which are flanked on the one side by the facades of the exhibit palaces and the huge Tower of Jewels, 435 feet high, and upon the other by a great wall of massed pink asters. At the east end of the gardens, and shown almost in the centre of the photograph above, is great Festival Hall where strains from a vast organ will fill the grounds with harmony throughout the day and night.

A spectacular feature of the lighting will be that given by the huge batteries of searchlights upon the margin of San Francisco harbor. At night the batteries will go through evolutions in color, throwing huge auroras so far into the Heavens that the light will be visible a distance of forty or fifty miles. The site of the exposition extends east and west for a distance of 15,000 feet, almost three miles, and is located just inside the Golden Gate, the famous entrance of San Francisco harbor from the Pacific Ocean.

The exposition opens February 20, and closes December 4, 1915.

POLITICAL NOTES.

August 19—Elizabeth Democratic City Committee outing.

August 23—Last day for filing Congressional petitions.

August 28—Last day for filing county petitions.

September 2—Last day for filing petitions for local offices.

September 8—First registry day. Also last day for filing petitions to fill vacancies in all offices except Governor and Congress.

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 29—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

Beginning this week, George J. Stewart, one of the G. O. P. candidates for the shrievalty nomination, will start what he considers will prove the most effective work of the campaign. At the time his candidacy was announced some weeks ago, his petition was placed in circulation, and has been in every municipality in the county since. It was ready for filing within a few days after being started, but was kept going, and in that manner his candidacy was kept before the voters. He was in Rahway Wednesday and reported a bright outlook there. He will make other trips there and to other places in the county several times before primary day, September 22.

As yet little or nothing has been heard about any prospective candidates for coroner on any of the tickets. This is an office for which there seldom is any contest at the primaries, and a candidate is usually found on the annual outings of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Democratic leaders admit now that the present obscurity about certain candidacies for county nomination, cannot well be cleared up until the Democratic outing takes place. More so than on most outings, the drawing of lines for the primary fight will not start in earnest until the big picnic is held. Probably the knottiest problem at present is the shrievalty. As petitions must be filed before September 1, little time remains to settle some of the points at issue.

Congressman William J. Browning, of Camden, father of William Kempton Browning, formerly of this city, has filed with the Secretary of State, his petition for re-nomination for Congress on the Republican ticket in the first district. Although only 200 signers are required for a Congressional nomination, his petition contained the names of several thousand voters throughout his district.

RULES FOR PRIMARY AND ELECTION COMPILED

Instructions to Election Officers and Voters Will Be Distributed Soon.

The compilation of the election laws and instruction to election officers and voters, has been completed for this year and will be distributed from the State House soon. No changes were made in the primary election laws by the last Legislature and the election laws enacted that affected the whole State were minor ones, so that the changes outlined by the election pamphlet this year are slight.

The book points out that the primary election falls on Tuesday, September 22, on which day the election boards will sit from 7 a. m. to 9 p.m., Election day comes on Tuesday, November 3.

The primary election laws being the same as last year, no voter will be permitted to vote at the primary election unless his name appears on the poll book of the preceding general election, or has been placed thereon prior to the primary day.

The first registry day will be Tuesday, September 8. In municipalities containing less than 5,000 inhabitants, the Boards of Registry and Election will make up the registry list by a house to house canvass, and this list, after having been revised and corrected by the County Board of Election, on the Friday succeeding the first registry day, will be used at the primary election day.

In all municipalities having more than 5,000 inhabitants, the voters who did not vote at the general election and whose names do not appear on the poll books, may register on September 8. It should be remembered that while voters may register on primary election day for the general election in November, they cannot register that day for the primary election, all registration for the primary election must be done prior to the primary election day.

The intent of the primary election law is that each party shall have a separate primary and that one party shall not interfere with another one. Only those may vote at the primary who voted last November, or whose names are added to the registry list on the first registry day; and no voter who has voted in the primary of one political party last year, will be permitted to vote for the candidates of another party this year.

Y. M. C. A. INTERNATIONAL WORK INTERRUPTED BY WAR

Not alone has commerce suffered because of the European war, but the international work of the Young Men's Christian Association has also been interrupted. Shipboard emigration work, maintained through the use of association secretaries, has been almost broken up, while the port work has been discontinued at all save Italian ports.

Work heretofore carried on throughout Southern Germany, in Austria and the Balkans, getting in touch with families before they so much as start from home, and keeping in touch with them until located on farms in the American Northwest, is ended for the present. Ship secretaries are not, however, idle, but are giving counsel in one of the most comprehensive industrial lines of effort ever taken up by the associations.

Utilizing college students in many cases, but drawing upon Christian men who are willing to give their time, associations are holding language, history, citizenship and good health classes in many cities. In some public school buildings have been loaned and night classes formed. During a season just ended 1,300 men were enrolled and more than 2,500 classes were taught. Twenty nationalities were represented in these classes. Citizenship papers were secured in great numbers. In not a few instances public school teachers take charge of classes. Many officers of associations hold this to be the most strategic opportunity for Christian service ever offered.

NEW YORK G. O. P. CONVENTION.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Leaders of the Republican party in New York are gathering here in anticipation of the State conference which is to meet tomorrow for the purpose of drafting a platform for the coming campaign. By agreement of the leaders the convention will abstain from recommending a State ticket for nomination in the primaries next month. United States Senator Elihu Root will be the temporary chairman of the convention and will deliver the keynote address. It is expected that a large part of his address will be devoted to principles to be enunciated at the constitutional convention next spring.

LABOR FEDERATION.

Newark, Aug. 17.—Three hundred delegates, each of whom was garbed completely in union-made wearing apparel as required by the organization, were present here this morning at the opening of the thirty-sixth annual convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor. President Arthur A. Quinn, of Perth Amboy, called the gathering to order and delivered his annual address. This was followed by the report of Henry F. Hilfers and the reports of the several standing committees. The convention will continue its sessions over tomorrow and Wednesday. Important changes in the employers' liability and compensation law, and a speedy installation of the "State-use" system in place of the contracts at the State prison, will be urged by the convention. An anti-injunction act and a "one day rest in seven" law also will be urged upon the legislature. It is probable also that the convention will take up the question of occupational diseases.

ELKS MEET IN HELENA.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 17.—Helena is entertaining for two days, the annual State convention of the order of Elks. Large delegations, nearly all of them accompanied by bands, are here from Great Falls, Miles City, Anaconda, Butte and other leading cities of the State. Governor Stewart welcomed the visitors at the opening of the gathering this morning. A reception was held at the Capitol this afternoon and later there were automobile trips for the visiting Elks and their ladies. The convention will conclude its business tomorrow. The concluding features will be a big street parade tomorrow night, followed by a street carnival and ball.

CAPE COD FOLK HOLD PAGEANT.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Aug. 17.—Residents of this entire section of Massachusetts, together with hundreds of summer visitors, were treated today to the first performance of a magnificent outdoor pageant illustrating events in the history of Cape Cod for 300 years. Governor Walsh and his staff were among those in attendance. The pageant was given in a large natural amphitheatre on the banks of the new Cape Cod Canal, at a point where Pilgrims of Plymouth established a trading post and for years traded with the Dutch of Fort Amsterdam and other colonists along the shores of Long Island Sound.

STATE RIPARIAN COMMISSION BUSY

Its Aid Being Sought In the Development of Jersey Coast.

The State Riparian Commission, comprising Erwin E. Marshall, of Trenton; J. Ward Richardson, of Bridgeton; Charles A. Nutting, of Caldwell, and Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, made a visit of inspection to the New York Bay shore of Bayonne, last week, to view the site of the application of the American Radiator Company for the land under water in New York Bay in front of the works of the company now in course of construction.

The company is erecting a substantial and permanent plant for the casting, assembling and storing of radiators and boilers constructed by the company and the commissioners were greatly interested. The works employ at least one thousand men when in full operation, which means a valuable and permanent addition to the population of Bayonne. A careful examination of the water front was made by the commissioners and they fixed the exterior line for solid filling a mile out from shore, which space may be filled solid and then an additional space of half a mile on which piers may be built.

It was expected that Governor Fielder would meet with the commissioners, but owing to the fact that he was called to Washington to attend Mrs. Wilson's funeral he was unable to join in the inspection. Afterward the commissioners were entertained at the Downtown Dining Club, of Jersey City. Later they further considered the proposition and then laid it over to give the company opportunity to present testimony of experts.

The commission will meet again Thursday, August 27. It also made a trip to Atlantic City to visit the locality of several applications of riparian owners for the lands under water, among them the city of Ventnor, lying to the south of Atlantic City. This will be an important year for the commission on account of the developments along the Jersey coast.

MAYOR STEWART ASKED TO SEND DELEGATES

Mayor Stewart, of Plainfield, has been requested by the Senator, A. B. Fletcher, president of the Fourth American Road Congress and State Highway Engineer, of California, to name three delegates to attend the sessions of the Congress at Atlanta, Georgia, during the week of November 9th.

Forty-seven great organizations are taking part in the Congress, under the leadership of the American Highway Association and the American Automobile Association. In his letter to the Mayor, President Fletcher calls attention to the fact that practically every State highway commissioner will be present and take part in discussing the important problems of road construction and maintenance, and that some of the foremost men in public life will devote their attention to the great question of Federal Aid to road improvement, in an endeavor to work out a policy which may be submitted to the Congress of the United States with the support of the organized road movement of America.

President Fletcher calls attention to the exhibits to be made by the United States Government, the States, and more than a hundred of the leading manufacturers at the Congress, which will illustrate every known method, material and equipment for road construction and maintenance. He urges that the city be officially represented.

RISK WRITERS IN SESSION.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 17.—From all sections of the country the members of the National Association of Local Fire Insurance Agents have rounded up in this city to attend the annual meeting of the association. The convention was formally opened today and will be continued in session over Wednesday. Few set speeches are scheduled, special emphasis being laid on the subjects for impromptu discussion from the floor. These include the various problems which have been agitating the agents and companies in the last few years. Among those who will address the convention are W. A. Diggs, of Cincinnati, president of the Ohio Insurance Federation; Rufus M. Potts, insurance superintendent of Illinois, and J. A. O. Preus, State insurance commissioner of Minnesota.

COUNTY OFFICIALS PLAN TO KEEP FOOD PRICES DOWN

Elizabeth, Aug. 17—Prosecutor Stein has taken steps to prevent, as far as possible, retail merchants in this city from increasing the cost of groceries and meats unless they can show a reason. The prosecutor and his staff will keep close watch on the local markets to guard against any combinations being effected by local merchants. In this he will be aided by the county sealers of weights and measures and the city officials.

Assistant Prosecutor Martin P. O'Connor said that as yet there is nothing in the present situation as far as this city is concerned to warrant a belief that any such combination has been made, although the price of foodstuffs has greatly increased. He said he did not believe such a combination was being formed as was contemplated, but nevertheless, a close watch will be kept on the local markets.

FESTIVAL AND CONCERT.

An ice-cream festival and concert is to be held at East Front and Church streets September 3, under the auspices of Trinity church, at which times it is hoped to raise funds for a new furnace. The committees who will have charge of the various booths which are being planned will be announced later.

ENJOYABLE TIME ON ANNUAL SPICER OUTING

The fourth annual outing of the Spicer Mutual Aid Society proved to be a great success Saturday, when over 300 of the society and their friends journeyed to Highland Beach. The weather conditions were ideal. The day passed without any undue events. During the course of the day, William O'Loughlin, president of the society, was given a little surprise, when the committee in charge of the arrangements presented him with a signet ring, Clyde Savage, chairman of the committee, making the presentation address.

A shore dinner was served the men shortly after they reached their destination. Side trips galore marked the afternoon, while the majority of the men took to fishing. Little luck was experienced in this line and as a result, very little but fish tales reached this city.

JOHN ROSENBERGER.

John Rosenberger, aged thirty years, died yesterday at his home at 335 Cottage place, after a long illness. Besides a wife he is survived by three children and his parents. Services will be held at St. Mary's church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

PETS TOOK SECOND CONTEST OF SERIES FROM SAURER SATURDAY

Parker Field was the scene of a mighty conflict last Saturday afternoon, when the Plainfield Pets defeated the Saurer team in the second of a five-game series by the score of 3 to 2. Although the final score was close, the game was by no means a big league affair, and the spectators, who expected to witness a classy exhibition of the national pastime, were given a game that the kids in the lot play. There were ten errors chalked up against the two teams and the Pets were guilty of six. The contest was one of those peculiar kind that are neither interesting or monotonous and the misplays made the nine innings seem like two games. A large number of rooters were present for both teams, but the only time they could cheer was when some one crossed the plate or when Alberts ran up on the bleachers and nabbed a foul.

For the second time this season, George Townley and Warry McLaughlin faced each other on the mound and engaged in another of their pitching battles. Both pitched a fine article of ball but too much praise cannot be given to the youth for the way in which he held off his opponents when his teammates booted the ball all over the lot or could not control their throws. In two or three instances George was in bad holes but he pulled himself out in all but one and then an error was the cause of a run. At the bat he was the whole show for the home team and made two timely singles which were the only safeties that the Pets made until the ninth inning, when Nelson made the hit that won the game. McLaughlin was also effective and was given little better support from his oponent, four errors being credited to his team. He was wild at times and gave four free passes, but struck out five men when outs were needed.

Townley started off well by fanning Harriman on a fast drop and the other two batters were easy outs. Giddes took a walk to first as a starter for the Pets, but was forced at second when Joe Alberts hit to McLaughlin. Joe always could tease a pitcher when on first base and apparently got "Warry's" "goat" and after throwing to first about eight times, the old "War Horse" pitched wild and Joe romped to second. Mullin drew a pass but Alberts was thrown out trying to steal third, Alberts to Harriman. Dixon hit a high foul fly in the direction of the bleachers and Alberts made a beautiful catch, retiring the side. The second round was where Townley showed his great control when he struck out Garretson on three straight balls after giving him three that Garry does not bite at. Dorman started things going in the second after Stine had fanned, when he hit a high one to Wilson in left field that the latter dropped. Coyle drew a pass and Dorman went to second. Nelson made first while Dorman was being thrown out at third and Coyle arrived safely at the second station. Billy took a big chance and stole third. Alberts was too anxious to throw to Harriman to catch him and the ball slipped out of his hand, going into left field. Coyle slid to the base but quickly recovered himself and scored with the first run. Nelson went to second on the play and scored when Townley made the first hit of the game through short. Dixon was the first Saurer man to get on base and Townley gave him a pass. The other three men were easy outs. Neither team saw first base in the fourth inning, but Joe Alberts drew a hand from the crowd when he went into the left field crowd for Martin's long drive.

Saurers scored their first run in the fifth round after Townley had almost retired them. McLaughlin singled for the first hit off Townley and Garretson followed with one over the left field fence. The ball bounced over and it went for a double, McLaughlin drawing up at third. With none gone George settled down and the next two batters flied out. Wilson hit an easy roller to Giddes and he made a bad error, McLaughlin scoring. Harriman flied out to Mullin.

Nothing except a few errors occurred in the next two innings, but in the eighth frame the spectators received some excitement. Harriman led off with a hit that Giddes mussed up and he arrived safely at first base. Jaeger bunted to Townley and then George made his only error of the game. In trying to get Harriman at second he drew Coyle off the base with a wide throw and the runner was called safe, although the decision was close. Then came an awful mixup. Alberts hit a high infield fly to Coyle, who dropped it. By the rules the runner was out before he started to run but he did not hear Umpire Coriell call him out and continued on his way to first. When Coyle dropped the pill Harriman and Jaeger became confused and cut up some frantic capers. Both started to run and the latter was trapped between first and second. Harriman started toward third and Dixon threw to catch him. The throw was late and both men were safe. Coriell called Alberts out at first. Martin hit to Mullin and he threw a mile over Nelson's head trying to cut Harriman off at the plate. Had the throw been good the out would have been made easily.

In the ninth the Saurer team had two men on bases but they did not score. Stine hit one to Harriman in that frame and the latter threw over Garretson's head so far that the game was stopped to find the ball and Stine reached second. Dorman hit to Jaeger and was thrown out at first but Stine advanced to third. Coyle flied out to Garretson and Nelson faced McLaughlin. He hit foul after foul but finally placed one between Jaeger and Harriman and Stine crossed the plate. In the eighth Ramsberger batted for Giddes. Each team has now won one game and the third will be played in the near future. This makes the second defeat of the season for the Saurer aggregation.

The score:

GOLFERS ARE TIED IN PLAY FOR CUP

R. V. Carpenter and H. H. Woodland Each Make Net Score of 78.

Owing to the fact that so many members are away on vacations the field was rather small at the Park Golf Club, Saturday. The only event for the day was the weekly competition for the President's cup. R. W. Carpenter and H. H. Woodland divided first honors, with a net score of 78, while H. E. Blazier took two points with a 79, and J. A. Wilson secured the remaining point with an 81. These scores were posted:

R. V. Carpenter, 92, 14-78; H. H. Woodland, 88, 10-78; H. E. Blazier, 87, 8-79; J. A. Wilson, 101, 20-81; H. L. Moodey, 97, 15-82; C. J. Hand, 101, 15-86; Oliver B. Hill, 105, 18-87; Royle T. Phillips, 96, 8-88; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 101, 8-93.

SMALL FIELD OUT AT COUNTRY CLUB

C. E. Lipscomb Scores for Summer Cup With a Card of 78.

There was a large field out at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, but only a few scores were posted in the competition for the Summer cup and the sweepstakes event. In the former event, C. E. Lipscomb returned the best score, a 78, with H. D. W. Rapalje second with a 79. B. C. Kenyon won the sweepstakes event with a net score of 77. The leading scores for the Summer cup were:

C. E. Lipscomb, 99, 21-78; H. D. W. Rapalje, 94, 15-79; B. C. Kenyon, 100, 20-80.

These scores were posted for the sweepstakes event:

B. C. Kenyon, 97, 20-77; C. E. Lipscomb, 99, 21-78; W. M. Alling, 95, 16-79.

BRAVES AFFLICTED WITH SPEED MANIA

Boston Aggregation Traveling Along at a Wonderful Clip Just Now.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 18—It is a pretty safe bet that ever season sees some sort of a baseball sensation before the final drop of the curtain. The present season is to be no exception to the rule, thanks to the fact that we have with us Mr. G. Stallings and his fighting Braves.

In all parts of our fair land there are to be found baseball ginks who contend that a manager is nothing more than a figurehead, that his players are the whole works and would win just as many games without a pilot. This contention might hold good in the case of some ball teams, but not in the case of George.

When Stallings took charge of the Braves last season he found what looked to be the poorest baseball outfit this side of Saux Center. He canned several players, obtained some new material, riffled the team a couple times by turning it upside down and wrongside out, and finished the season a couple of notches higher than the cellar, which was the accustomed abiding place of the Braves.

This season Stallings started out with what he called a regular ball team. He declared that with the addition of Evers and a few promising recruits his team would be found fighting all the way. Disregarding the loss of Pitcher Jack Quinn and Catcher Bill Raiden to the Feds, Stallings went right ahead repairing his broken lineup.

But when the season started the team couldn't win. Game after game was lost and the Boston fans began to speak of the Braves as the same old punk outfit they had watched for ten years or more. It certainly was discouraging to Stallings, but he kept both feet on the ground and plugged away in an endeavor to find a winning combination.

The team continued to inhabit the cave until the first of July, when the crew edged near enough to the entrance to see daylight. Apparently a little sunshine was all the Braves needed, for they started to win and kept right on winning. They won so many games that they put the season records of the Athletics—22 won out of 28 games—into the discard.

Naturally the almost continuing winning of the Braves enabled them to climb, which they did with neatness and despatch. Going up the pennant ladder from last place to within striking distance of the top is some climb. And the Braves accomplished this nifty piece of work inside of four weeks. Now there are baseball bugs rash enough to predict that the Beanies will capture the 1914 National League pennant.

Stallings himself does not claim a pennant for his team. Like most veteran pilots George believes that claiming a championship before it is cinched is sure to cause a jody to be slapped on the team. Consequently he is attending strictly to the business of the game and leaving all predictions to the clairvoyants.

Of the players Stallings has under his command Johnny Evers is undoubtedly the best known. The "Keystone King," as the great second sacker is known, is putting up just as brilliant a game for the Braves as he ever furnished while wearing the uniform of a Chicago Cub.

Then there is "Rabbit" Maranville. The "Rabbit" might rightfully be called Stallings' own, for George took the little fellow as a raw recruit and developed him into one of the greatest shortstops baseball has ever produced.

Deal, at the hot corner, has been tried in fast company before and cast adrift. Stallings grabbed him, put him through a course of sprouts and turned him out a finished third baseman.

Over at the first station "Big" Schmidt has furnished the biggest surprise to the Boston fans. When the bugs got their first look at Schmidt they had to laugh. Some one had kidded Stallings into the belief that Schmidt was a ball player, when in realty the big fellow would look better if hitched to the park's lawn mower. But George maintained that Schmidt had the goods, and the big first sacker has verified the assertion.

Headed by Rudolph, James and Tyler, the pitching staff of the Braves is second to none in the game, while the catching department is ably looked after by Gowdy and Whaling.

The Braves are also well fortified in the outfield. Among their star gardeners are Devore, Connolly, Gilbert, Mann and Whitted.

Whether or not the Braves cop the pennant this season they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they threw a scare into more than one team before the championship race was finished.

HOPE NINE LOSES TO FIRST BAPTIST

After suffering three straight defeats at the hands of the Hope Chapel baseball team, the First Baptist ballists, cellar diggers in the Sunday-school League, took sweet revenge on their old rivals, Saturday, when they batted Schott all over the lot in the first inning and earned a 12 to 3 victory. The Hopes were way below form and their opponents took advantage of all that was coming their way and walloped the pill for eight singles and one double in the initial frame for a total of ten runs. The Hope team was never in the game after that, but the Baptists did not ease up a bit during the entire nine innings.

Coughlan, the former Plainfield High School twirler, was in the box for the Front street boys and pitched a fine game throughout, allowing only five hits. He had the Hope batters at his mercy, but his support was not of the best at times. The league leaders scored once in the first, but could not see the plate again until the seventh, when they tallied the other two runs. The Baptists scored twice in the fifth that gave them an even dozen runs. Pierson singled and scored on two errors, the only two that the Hopes made during the game. Three errors in the seventh by Barnes, Pierson and Overland gave the Hope team its two runs.

Pierson led both teams with the stick, getting three safeties, while Downs and Randolph starred in the field. For the leaders, Allan Snyder was the leading light and Grisley pulled down several hard balls in the field.

FORMER PETS HIT BALL HARD BUT LOSE CONTEST

Hackettstown, Aug. 17.—Lowly Belvidere toppled the home team from first place in the Warren-Sussex League race Saturday. Hackettstown started the game in its usual style and sent three runs across in the first inning. De Mott weakened in the second and Belvidere came back with a vengeance, driving the local pitcher from the box and scoring four runs. Home runs by Cosgrove and Stallings did not take all the life out of Belvidere as the later developments proved.

SAURER NINE WINS WELL PLAYED GAME

Four Runs in the Fifth Inning Enough to Win From the Strong Marconi Team.

The Saurer baseball team put away another victory yesterday afternoon at the expense of the Marconi nine, the final score being 4 to 2. The game was well played throughout and heavy hitting was the feature. McLaughlin was on the mound for the local team and only allowed seven hits while his teammates collected an even dozen.

The visitors took the lead in the third with two runs that were made by clean hitting. The first two men up each hit safely and moved one base while Harsell was being thrown out, Martin to Garretson. Mason shot one out to left center and both men scored. Saurer's big inning came in the fifth when they scored all of their four tallies. Harriman was out at first base and then Jaeger started a batting rally. He singled scoring Alberts with the tying run and then Garretson cleaned up with a long single which scored Martin and McLoughlin. Miller and Wilson were easy outs.

Neither team scored after that and both pitchers were at their best. Marconi was credited with four errors while the locals had two less. Jaeger was the only batter to get three safeties while Alberts and Harsell's fielding featured the game. The score:

RECAPITULATION.

	Matches.	Games.	Sets.
Australasia	3	102	10
America	2	91	7

America's emblem of world supremacy in lawn tennis was wrested from it by England's colonial representatives from Australasia Saturday afternoon, in the huge arena of the West Side Tennis Club, at Forest Hills. It was Norman E. Brooks who dealt the death blow to Yankee hopes, for in a little more than an hour after the start of play he had disposed of Richard Norris Williams, 2d, and given the Antipodeans the third point necessary to take the trophy from these shores.

Maurice E. McLaughlin followed with an effort that was worthy of a super-champion and defeated Anthony F. Wilding, but the day had already been lost. As far as the team competition was concerned McLoughlin's match with Wilding was a mere exhibition, but aside from deciding a very weighty question of superiority it gave America a more presentable score, the final tally for the cup being 3 to 2.

Both matches went to four sets. Brookes triumphed over Williams by 61, 6-2, 8-10, 6-3—26 games to 16. McLoughlin established his mastery over Wilding by 6-2, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2—20 games to 13.

For a while 15,000 persons sat with bated breath, hoping against hope as Williams rallied in the third set and gave signs of returning to form. A mighty cheer went up when the young Harvard student took the set and gave America's chances a new lease of life; but not for long. Tired from the strain and exertions of the rally, Williams was easy prey for the steady and imperturbable Antipodean, who bowled over his rival with accuracy and despatch in the fourth set.

However, despite the defeat by the challenging team, there was still a good deal of balm left in Gilead for the American tennis enthusiast. Although the United States was stripped of the leadership in team competition, the cup matches left it in full and undisputed possession of the individual championship of the world, for after what McLoughlin did to both Brookes and Wilding, none can gainsay his right to the title.

Brookes, recent winner of the All-England championship at Wimbledon, was trounced in straight sets by McLoughlin last Thursday, while yesterday the California Comet disposed in even more striking fashion of the only other contender for the supremacy. Twice before McLoughlin had battled unsuccessfully against Brookes, and thrice previously he had been defeated by Wilding, twice in Davis Cup competition, and once in the challenge round for the British title at Wilbledon last summer.

Revenge aplenty has come to Mac, and he well deserves all the honors that can be bestowed upon him. America has lost the cup, but it can rejoice that it still has McLoughlin.

Every nook and cranny in the big stand was occupied when Brookes and Williams started play. Had anybody suggested ten years ago that 15,000 persons would crowd to a tennis match and pay well for the privilege, he would have been greeted with derision. Yet, at least another 5,000 would have been attracted to the competition had there been any accommodation for them.

The Australasians will not linger long here. On account of the war they have decided to get over to Australia as soon as possible.

WRESTLERS LOSE OPENING CONTEST TO OLYMPIC NINE

The Wrestlers, a new borough Sunday baseball team, met defeat in its initial encounter yesterday, at the hands of the strong Olympic A. C. team, of Bound Brook, at that place by the score of 11 to 10. The game was exciting throughout and both teams hit the ball hard. Denny pitched most of the game for the locals but retired in the eighth.

The Wrestlers had the best of the argument for eight long innings and then in the final round the home team had a batting rally and scored the needed four runs to tie the score. With two down it looked as if the game would go for extra innings but the Brookers finally scored the winning run before the ninth round closed.

YALE WINS A GOOD GAME FROM PRINCETON TEAM

The Yale aggregation defeated Princeton this morning by the score of 4 to 2. The game was close througout and the Yale batters rallied in the last part of the game and won. Both pitchers were in good form and only seven safeties were made during the contest. The battle went for five innings and was then called. The Yale fielders made two errors and the Princeton four. GAME TAKEN AS PROPHECY.

At the annual G. O. P. outing at Witzel's Grove last Saturday, Herbert Buxton's Plainfield team lost the annual baseball game to the Elizabeth nine by the score of 10 to 8. George Olde was captain of the winning aggregation. The old guard takes this to be a prophecy of some Elizabeth candidate taking the county nomination for sheriff although John H. Cose and Samuel P. T. Wilbur still have hopes of bringing the honors to Plainfield.

THERE IS NO LOCAL FIREMEN'S TEAM

According to Chief Doane Plainfield Is Not Represented By Such An Aggregation.

In a statement made to a Plainfield Daily Press reporter this morning Fire Chief T. O. Doane denied the report that any baseball team bearing the name of the Plainfield Fire Department would participate in a diamond contest with the local policemen this week. The Department head stated that it would be impossible to spare nine men from his department for an afternoon's engagement of this kind as the force is now limited and it was essential that the men remain at fire headquarters in case of a call.

Although Chief Doane has forbid the firemen to take part in the game he stated that it had been rumored to him that several of the "star" performers on the original planned aggregation had linked with the North Plainfield department and would put a consolidated aggregation on the field against the cops under a Plainfield cognomen. The chief deplored this fact and the firemen who take part in such an issue will probably be prosecuted.

He declared that a number of the firemen on both sides of the brook were disposing of tickets for the occasion, the receipts of which will be "pocketed" by them. This in itself is an infraction of the city ordinance, according to Chief Doane, inasmuch as city employes, such as firemen, are prohibited from disposing of benefit tickets of this nature without first securing the consent of the Common Council.

LOCAL MOTORISTS VISITED MIDLAND

Plainfield Cyclists Enjoyed Fine Day in the Surf at Popular Resort.

The weekly run of the Plainfield Motorcycle Club was taken to Midland Beach yesterday instead of Palisade Park as was originally planned. There were nine who went from this city. The start was made at 9 o'clock and the party enjoyed a long day at the beach. They spent five hours in the surf and started home at six-thirty. The party stopped in New Brunswick for dinner and returned to this city about midnight.

Those who were in the party are Mr. and Mrs. Horner, Mr. and Mrs. Terry, Miss Siggins, Herbert Alberts and Clarence Giles. Harry Uhler, Jr., and George Hayes accompanied the party by auto. At the beach the party was joined by former Lieutenant Scarlett and Miss Rancamp, of Hoboken.

TWO GAMES FOR COPS.

The local coppers will don baseball uniforms twice this week and have two hard teams to face. Wednesday they will meet the champions at Newark and the following day will take on the borough firemen's team at Parker Field. In both games the locals will have to extend themselves, especially the first as the Newarkers have a team of semi-pros. The Canuck fire-fighters are also good at the national pastime.

P. M. C. SPARKS

After arriving at the top of Tottenville Hill, enroute to Dunellen, Horner's motor refused to go any further. The reason was discovered when a boy arrived from the rear on a bicycle with the front drive chain of said machine. The cause of this was poor workmanship on the part of Second Lieutenant Reupert, with the assistance of C. Giles and M. Terry. This was remedied in a very short time.

L. Hampson was autoing yesterday.

Bud Klein attended a bake at Sebring's yesterday.

Gowdy went to the Highlands for his machine left there last week.

Bowlby spent Sunday home.

W. Groff and Miss Ball spent Sunday canoeing at Cranford.

Ralph Auerbach started with the party yesterday but changed his mind at Oak Tree and decided to go to Lake Hopatcong.

Don't forget the feed at New Market Thursday evening. Get your tickets early.

J. Dichurdt and A. Herlick reported Saturday evening.

A party of nineteen from New Market were at the beach yesterday.

"Bill" Higgins trolleyed down.

The "No Room" sign was up early yesterday at the beach.

The Kenners missed the run for the first time in quite a while. Don't let it happen again Eddie.

Paul Meyers, of New Market, gets his new Harley-twin today.

Fred Fleming also of New Market, blossoms forth with a new side car.

The run for August 23, will be to the Highlands.

MANY ATTENDED EAST END BAND CONCERT SATURDAY

Members of the Dutch Arms Band, of Trinity Reformed church, gave another of its weekly open-air concerts on the East Front street grounds, Saturday night, a large number of music lovers being treated to an excellent program of topical and classical numbers.

The concert, Saturday night, was the one postponed from Tuesday night owing to the inclement weather. This was the second concert in which the Dutch Arms Band participated in two days, playing at the West End concert Friday night.

MOTHER OF ALLEGED THIEF DENIES HE WAS IN THE CAR

Through a misunderstanding, it was stated in these columns Saturday, that Mrs. C. A. Seal, mother of Ralph A. Seal, the nineteen-year-old youth implicated in the automobile theft at Point Pleasant, had said that R. W. Gildersleeve, his alleged accomplice, had been arrested before.

Mrs. Seal stated that her remarks were to the effect that Gildersleeve was much older than her boy and knew considerable about the ways of the world. Mrs. Seal declares that her son was never on the stolen car and that the trouble she referred to in Gildersleeve's case was that of impersonating a deputy sheriff, which she says he did.

WILL DISCUSS METHODS OF AIDING CHURCH WORK

Following the initiative set by the Young Peoples' Society, of St. Peter's German Lutheran church, the congregation met after services, yesterday, to discuss ways and means to aid the German Red Cross movement in the present European struggle.

Committees from the Church Council, Ladies' Aid Society and Young Peoples' Society, will meet in the church, Grove street and Mercer avenue, Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, to formulate plans to reach the Germans of Plainfield, in order that this charitable work may proceed as early as possible.

A cordial invitation is extended to every one interested to attend this meeting.

MARTINE PRESENTS PROTEST EMERGENCY SHIPPING BILL

Washington, Aug. 17.—When the Senate assembled today it began consideration of the shipping bill designed to aid in the transportation emergency due to the war. Senator O'Gorman predicted that the conference report would be adopted notwithstanding the opposition which has developed against the clause allowing foreign bujlt ships, admitted to American registry, to enter the coastwise trade of the United States. The Senate proceeded under an unanimous consent agreement to begin voting on the conference report not later than 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, attacked the conference report. He presented a petition signed by thousands of employes of Cramps Steamship and Engine Co., protesting against the admission of foreign built ships to the American coastwise trade. Senators Weeks, of Massachusetts, and Martine, of New Jersey, also presented signed protests against the bill.

DEATH OF ROBERT CASHMAN.

Word was received here this morning of the death of Robert Cashman, well-known as "Jersey Slim, the Hobo," who formerly lived here. The details received by the Daily Press, to whom the communication was directed by George Tucker, were meagre, but indicate that he was killed. A request is made to have his sister, Miss Mary McMurter, of this city, notified. The letter comes from Chicago, Ill. Any information regarding this man's relatives here would be welcomed by the proper authorities.

U. S. MAY USE GERMAN LINERS

Suggest Our Flag Be Raised Over Vessels.

TO RESCUE ALL REFUGEES

Generous Offer Made by Germany Will Be Accepted In Order to Convey All Stranded Americans Home — Shows Route to Avoid Mines.

Washington, Aug. 17.—What was characterized as a most generous offer was received at the state department from the German government with regard to the arrangements for bringing Americans home from Europe. The Berlin government informed Washington through Ambassador Gerard that it was welcome to select one of the Hamburg-American liners tied up in United States ports and send it to Germany to bring back Americans. The government suggested that the ship be sent around Scotland to a north German port presumably to avoid danger of mines in the North sea and also perhaps to keep Americans out of the scene of a possible engagement between the British and German fleets.

The German government has assured Ambassador Gerard that the United States government may have complete control over the movements of such vessel as it selects and may even fly the United States flag over her if it so chooses. The United States, of course is to compensate the Hamburg-American line.

Clears Up Situation.

Secretary of War Garrison was inclined to believe that the offer of the German government points the way to clearing up quickly the entire situation in regard to the transportation of Americans from Europe to the United States. A few of the Hamburg-American liners would bring back more Americans than the entire fleet of American steamers available and in much greater comfort.

Accordingly Mr. Gerard has been instructed to inform the Berlin government that its offer is gratefully accepted and to ask if the German government cannot permit the United States to select a number of the Hamburg American liners for the same purpose.

It is believed the German government will give its assent, as it has shown every disposition to aid the return of Americans from Germany since the completion of the mobilization. Ambassador Gerard's message crossed a message from Washington to the British, French and German governments proposing practically what the German government has offered—that is, permission to use the ships of those nationalities which are lying idle in United States ports for the purpose of bringing Americans home. This suggestion was accompanied by an inquiry as to whether these governments would be willing to regard as neutral passenger steamers of whatever flag engaged by the United States government for the sole purpose of bringing Americans home. There is little doubt here that the governments concerned will cordially assent to the proposal from Washington provided, of course, that the vessels so engaged are not used to carry anything but homecoming Americans.

WORKING FORCE REDUCED.

Hamburg-American Line Suspends Half of Its Employees.

New York, July 17.—The Hamburg-American line has been obliged to reduce to a minimum its operating expenses. Approximately half of the clerical force in the general offices of the line has been laid off. Those who have lost their positions, pending a resumption of traffic, now practically suspended because of the fear that ships might be captured by British and French cruisers, include 110 employees working as passenger and freight clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers. Clerical forces at the piers in Hoboken and Brooklyn have also been reduced to the smallest possible number required to do the comparatively small amount of work now on hand.

"The cutting down of the force," said Vice Director Sickel, "was made necessary because of foreign conditions. I am quite sure the limit has been reached and there will be no more removals."

The officers and crews of the Hamburg liners now in the United States, principally New York and Boston, are being well cared for, although they are at present somewhat idle. It is estimated they number about 10,000 men.

WAR TO COST CANADA HIGH.

$100,000,000 Estimated Lost to Maintain Defense For Year.

Ottawa, Aug. 17.—If the war lasts a year it will cost Canada $100,000,000. The department of militia and defense estimates that the first division of 22,250 men will cost $25,000,000, including transport, pay for privates and officers, equipment and maintenance for a year.

As it is altogether likely that a second division will be raised, the cost of sending troops alone will be at least $50,000,000. Added to this is the cost of raising, equipping and maintaining a big defense force, foodstuffs for the British army, armament and the purchase of two modern submarines.

CHAPTER VI.

Trapping a Bear.

THAT night it was colder than usual. I began to realize that sooner or later I would be forced to break the game laws and get some sort of skins for protection.

During the day while I was on the move I really didn't need anything on my body. In fact, through the entire trip, even up to the very last day, I went around the forest rain or shine absolutely naked. But at night I did need something for a covering.

It was also time for me to be thinking about what I should wear when I came back to civilization. I could scarcely return to the world naked. I thought of the deer I had obtained and then lost.

In my wanderings I had seen many signs of bears. Once in the burnt lands I saw three feeding on the berries shortly after the deer episode.

A bearskin would mean much to me. Then, too, I could utilize the sinew and meat to good advantage.

A man little dreams what he can accomplish until he is put to the test. I fully believe that necessity, coupled with determination and confidence, makes failure impossible.

From the first moment the idea of getting a bear came into my head I felt confident I could trap one. I carefully went over in my mind various ways I might make the attempt, and when morning came I had my plan all mapped out.

I didn't even wait that day to see if my friends, the red deer and white fawn, would come to the spring. I was all bear now and was anxious to get to work constructing a trap.

For over an hour I walked about searching for a suitable spot and finally found the right place.

A deadfall was impractical, so my plan was to build a combination pit and deadfall, much after the plan of the Indian way of trapping grizzly bears in the west.

Digging a pit meant a lot of work. I started in by loosening the ground with sharp pointed stones and hornbeam sticks. It was slow work, but I made some progress, scooping the earth out with flat shale from ledges.

I worked for several hours that day, returning to my partially excavated hole the next day and again setting to work.

I don't know how many hours I worked on that pit. It might have been ten or fifteen during the two or three days I kept at it.

Once during the digging I thought I should have to give up that spot, for I came across some heavy rock and buried petrified wood. It took the most arduous labor to dislodge that rock and chip my way through the wood until I found earth again.

At last the hole was large enough to hold a bear, being about three and a half or four feet deep.

I bedded two logs, one on each side, in the earth I had scooped from the hole.

I next made a kind of deadfall over the pit with logs and sticks, covering this with rocks I had taken out of the hole.

Then I set a spindle trip, which resembled the figure 4, under the deadfall. This spindle I baited with stale fish. I arranged the bait quite high up so that the bear would have to stand on his hind legs to get it.

The trap was done at last, and I was pleased with it.

The covering, loaded with rocks, fitted securely just inside the bed logs. This would make it impossible to move the top from side to side when once it was down.

I didn't get a bear that night, but the next night as I passed by the pit I thought I heard a rustle as if some animal were moving away from the trap. I didn't go any nearer because through the trees I could just make out the slant of the roof. It hadn't been sprung yet.

The next night I "looked" the trap and found a bear in it.

While I had been confident all along that I would be able to land a bear, there was more or less surprise attached to the capture of this one.

Coming up to the side of the pit, I saw through the roof cover a young bear making every effort to get out.

"This is great luck," I said to myself. "Everything is coming my way." There would be the skin and the meat, and I began to think of everything about the animal I could use.

I made up my mind that he must not get away from me. I can't describe to you my feelings just then. I imagine they were something like those of a miser when there is a possibility of his losing his gold.

At that time the bear was worth more to me than all the gold in the world.

Considering the situation carefully, I found that I would have to break away some of the lashing in order to get at the animal. But I had to be careful not to break away too much, so I made an aperture just big enough for him to stick his head out.

Before doing this I got a hornbeam club, which I held in readiness.

Presently out came the nose of the bear. I made a vicious swing and missed him. My presence so enraged the animal that he struggled around, trying frantically to escape. Again his head came up through the torn place in the cover, and this time I landed squarely on top of it.

But you can't kill a bear by hitting him over the head. You must strike him on the nose. I knew that, and just waited my chance.

As I looked down at him a feeling of pity came over me at the method I was forced to use. But how else could I do it? Pretty soon he stuck out his front paws. I swung and hit them. With a cry of pain he pulled them back.

Keeping my eyes on the bear every minute, I backed away to a tree and broke off a small limb covered with leaves. Returning to the trap, I tore away another lashing.

With my left hand I began to dangle the leaves on the end of the branch in his face to divert his attention so that I could deliver a blow with the club.

In his anger a good part of his nose came out. I swung my club, landing on the side of the bear's nose. The animal toppled over in the pit and lay perfectly still.

Knowing bears of old, I did not take any chances even then. I prodded him with the stick. There was no question about it. He was dead!

It had been pretty strenuous work, so I decided to put off the task of skinning the creature until the next day. I knew what that would mean without any knife. It would take me hours to complete the work.

Catching that bear was the biggest thing I had yet accomplished in the forest.

I think every man who has accomplished something a bit bigger than the ordinary things of his daily routine has a right to feel proud. It is a part of his reward.

However, there was a great deal of luck attached to my catching that bear. Anyway, I had him, and I was pleased beyond measure.

The red deer and the little white fawn came up to my spring the next morning.

By 7 o'clock I was at the trap again. On the way I picked up the sharpest edged rocks I could find, throwing away those I had as I came across better ones. These rocks are surprisingly sharp and abound everywhere in this region.

I was ready for a hard day's work.

Pulling away the covering, I broke down the side of the pit and forced a couple of logs under the body of the bear, raising him slightly. I should estimate that he weighed close to 200 pounds.

By getting a good hold and tugging and hauling I managed to drag him up the side of the pit I had just broken down. I would have given anything for a knife just then! In its place I took one of the sharp rocks and began sawing back and forth on the inside of one of his hind legs.

After a seemingly endless time the hair began to curl up under the rock. It worked hard at first, but by putting all my muscle back of it I finally broke the skin.

Not until later had I worked down the hind legs, up the stomach and then up and down the inside of the front legs.

While it was a crude piece of work, the skin was now ready to be taken off.

I was tired after finishing this stunt. A few moments' rest and I was at work again. Then for hours I tugged and pulled at that skin trying to remove it from the carcass. Alternately working and resting for short periods, I took hold of the skin with one hand while I ripped it away from the flesh by scraping between the two with the sharpest stones I had.

Of course quantities of meat came off with the skin, but that didn't bother me, for I knew I could scrape it off later.

Not until late in the afternoon—judging by the sun—did I finally pull that skin entirely off. And I had started to work about seven that morning!

As Lost pond was not very far from where I had made the trap I decided to go there, and afterward to my first lean-to, which was in that vicinity.

First I sawed off with my rock a large portion of the bear meat for food, gathering the sinew. Slinging the meat and skin over my shoulder, I started for camp.

I confess I was pretty much "all in" when I arrived at the pond. My hands were cramped and scratched, and every muscle in my back and arms ached.

Throwing the skin and meat down on the shore, I plunged into the water. The bath was very refreshing. It made a new man out of me. After I came out I lay down in the sun to rest.

The beavers were busy over on the dam, and I watched them a long time.

With visions of an early bed, I went back into the woods in the direction of my lean-to, where I built a new fire and ate a supper of dried berries and smoked trout, which I had previously stored away for just such an emergency.

I slept soundly that night.

Flags For the Fourth.

Millions of flags fly on the Fourth of July.

Three hundred thousand are sold every July 4 in New York city alone.

Hundreds of Betsy Rosses have been busy all winter making flags.

The little pine sticks come in big bales from the lumber districts.

Some of the huge flags stretched across the street in the political campaign cost $50 to $75.

These are made on frames, six or eight flagmakers working on a single flag at a time.

It takes six women about three weeks to finish a large flag, for the work must be carefully done.

Miss Mary Woods, Brooklyn navy yard, cuts the patterns for all the flags made there.

Miss Woods has been making flags for the United States government for over thirty years.

There is a force of thirty women in the Brooklyn navy yard alone making 24,000 flags a year.

Curiosities of the Calendar.

January always begins on the same day of the week as October, and the same is true of April and July, September and December. Again, February, March and November also begin on the same day of the week. This, however, is only true in normal years of 365 days. A century can never begin on Wednesday, Friday or Saturday. Furthermore, the ordinary year ends on the same day of the week as that on which it begins.

Vacation Will Come.

It's mighty nice that nine times nine
Make eighty-one forever,
But, oh, I know a place that's fine
For bathing in the river,
A place a hundred times as cool
As any spot in this whole school!

It's very interesting to know
Eight furlongs make a mile,
And in a little week or so
I'll prove it barefoot style.
I'll stride those furlongs, gay and free,
Nor care how many there may be.

Those noble streams, the Rhone, the Nile,
The Rhine, the Amazon—
They're great, of course, but all the while
I keep remembering one
Where minnows dart from June to June—
And where I'm going fishing soon.

Geography, arithmetic
And all the books are splendid,
But you will see me shut them quick
When school at last is ended
And range them in a solemn row
And give one jolly whoop and go!

ALMOST any food becomes monotonous when constantly served in the same way. A vegetable which is so plentiful as the tomato is apt to appear on the table often and unless the cook disguises it in various forms it may become very unpopular. To vary the bill of fare try some of the following recipes:

Excellent Appetizers.

Broiled Tomatoes.—To broil tomatoes just wash them well, wipe dry and cut in halves. Cut a slice away from the rounded part of each and dip in crumbs. Beat an egg and season with pepper and salt. Dip each piece of tomato in this, then again in breadcrumbs. Butter the broiler well and cook from six to nine minutes.

Tomatoes With Mushrooms.—Remove the stem end of ripe tomatoes and remove the pulp. Take the pulp and mix with it bread or cracker crumbs, salt and pepper and mushrooms cut up fine. Fill shells with mixture, put a piece of butter on top of each one and bake in moderate oven.

The Green Vegetable.

Fried Green Tomatoes.—Beat an egg until light and foamy. Add one teaspoonful and a half of olive oil, a little salt and pepper. Beat again. Have ready some good firm green tomatoes, cut in slices a quarter of an inch thick. Dip them separately, first in egg mixture, then in bread crumbs, then in egg and last in crumbs. Have plenty of butter in a hot spider, place tomatoes in it and fry rather slowly so they may cook thoroughly without burning. Keep covered to keep steam in and make the tomatoes juicy and tender. Serve on a hot platter either with table sauce or with a hollandaise sauce. If you try these you will probably like them.

Baked Tomatoes.—A nice way of preparing tomatoes which have not thoroughly ripened is to bake them. The skins should be firm. A slice is cut from the stem end of the tomato and the contents removed. The pulp is mixed with an equal quantity of bread or cracker crumbs seasoned with pepper and salt and a squeeze of onion juice. The tomatoes are refilled with this mixture and placed on a well buttered pan. If the oven is hot they will bake in twenty minutes. After the tomatoes are placed in the pan they may be improved by sprinkling with cracker crumbs mixed with butter.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How Dreams Are Made to Come True.

"Wouldn't the man in the moon laugh to see us coming?"

"TEACHER told us today," said Jack as he and Evelyn came to daddy for the evening story, "that by thinking hard enough you can do most anything you want to. But I don't believe it."

"Why not?" asked daddy.

"Because there are too many other fellows trying it, and they beat you to it. I know 'cause Billy West and Tommy Sloane beat me at marbles, and I thought and thought and almost prayed that they wouldn't."

Daddy laughed at Jack's rueful face. "Keep at it and you'll win after awhile. I think tonight, kiddies, that I'll tell you a lot of little stories which Jack's remark made me think about, because, kiddies, your teacher was quite right. Every great thing that has been done was first an idea in some one's brain, just like a little seed planted in the ground, which, when it is watered and the sun shines upon it, springs up and grows into a tree or a vine or grass, as the case may be.

"So this idea in somebody's brain is watered and sunned, you might say, by thought, and very soon something great is done, and then we wonder about it and exclaim at the power of the human mind.

"Many years ago a French writer, Jules Verne, wrote about a big ship that sailed under the sea instead of upon it. He called it the Nautilus. Every one poohpoohed the notion and called him a silly dreamer. But now we have boats called submarines that sail right down under the water with men inside them, and they have good air to breathe, and no water can get in, and they are used in modern warfare.

"Maybe, too, one day we will take 'a trip to the moon.' Wouldn't that be great to climb into one of the airships that are made now and live Jules Verne's story? He wrote 'A Trip to the Moon,' you know. Wouldn't the funny little old man in the moon laugh to see us coming? And then perhaps he would tell us what he has been laughing about for so many years."

"Daddy, I would like to know what he is laughing about all the time. Maybe what we do looks funny to him," said Evelyn gravely.

"I shouldn't wonder." Daddy laughed right out loud at Evelyn's widely opened eyes.

"Then there is the wireless telegraphy. Marconi thought and dreamed and experimented, and now when ships are away out in the middle of the ocean they can send messages to the people on the shore. Just think, kiddies, if a great big ocean steamship was carrying mamma and me over the ocean we could say good night to you, and that is just what we must say now. So run along and let mamma tuck you in."

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

"What Happened at 22," a new play by Paul Wilstach, will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre, by John C. Fisher, on Thursday evening, August 20. It is a play of a serious nature and in telling the story Mr. Wilstach has endeavored to show that there is much danger in accepting "circumstantial evidence" in capital cases, especially when such evidence is contributed by so-called "accomplices." The scenes of "What Happened at 22" are laid in New York city and it is described as a modern American drama, the numerals in the title referring to the number of the house in which the incidents described by the author are supposed to take place. Mr. Fisher has engaged for the principal character in "What Happened at 22," Reginald Barlow, Frank Kemble Cooper, Malcolm Duncan, Robert Fischer, Charles Abbe, J. K. Hutchinson, Wadsworth Harris, Carroll McComas, Estar Banks, Elizabeth Ariaans and Helen Crane. The play will be staged under the direction of Eugene B. Sanger.

SILK-PACKETS

$50,000 of Wanted Silks, Freshly Taken From Our Own Stock---a Third to a Half Less than Our Last Week's Prices

Satins, crepe de chine, taffeta, chiffon, exquisite imported velvets, black silks, white silks, printed, striped and embroidered silks—dress patterns and short lengths of all sorts of silks.

15,000 Packets Ready at This Writing

Practically all taken from our stock and newly priced within the last two weeks.

Each packet plainly marked with its yardage, former price here and present price; every packet open so that the customer can plainly see what she is buying. Hardly two packets of the same weave, length or color.

13,000 and More Packets from Our Own Stocks

Dress patterns, blouse patterns, skirt and wrap lengths for Summer, Autumn and Winter use. Here are examples of the values—examples only because there are literally hundreds of other prices:

8 yds. habutai for	$2.00;	originally $4.00
5 yds. printed satin for	$2.50;	originally $12.50
5 yds. crepe de chine for	$2.50;	originally $9.25
4 yds. printed velour for	$2.50;	originally $10.00
5 yds. fleur de soie for	$3.50;	originally $9.25
6 yds. printed silk for	$4.00;	originally $15.00
4 yds. taffeta for	$6.00;	originally $12.00
4 yds. crepe for	$4.50;	originally $9.00

Black Silks

4½ yds. matelasse for	$15.75;	originally $31.50
5 yds. embroidered voile for	$5.75;	originally $10.00
4½ yds. moire bengaline for	$7.50;	originally $12.75
5 yds. satin duchess for	$12.50;	originally $20.00

Even with a threatened shortage of silks from Europe, our silk business is far too great to allow it to be clogged by remnants and broken assortments of colors.

Importer's Samples of Rich Silks and Velvets

Lengths from a few inches to a half yard at 10c to $1.50 a packet, for tissues regularly $1.50 to $16 yard.

Three or four tiny pieces of metal tissues—10c for the packet.
Half yard of exquisite brocaded velvet for a waistcoat—the packet at $1.50.
Short piece of dark, beautiful striped velvet—85c.
Fairy-like chiffon—enough for a chemisette and perhaps cuffs for 20c.
A piece of rich crepe for a work bag, 25c.

In short, two thousand pieces of this season's exclusive imported silks and velvets—at 10c — 25c — 30c — 50c — 60c — 85c — 90c

Majority ⅜ to ½ yards long.
Only one piece of a kind.

The Place of the Silk Packet Sale

In the Silk Rotunda, on the Main Aisle, Main floor, in the Lower Silk Rotunda, Subway floor, Old Building, and at the Subway Entrance, New Building—beginning tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock.

AN EXPLANATION

We are compelled to give you stylish, dependable wearables at right prices, because as you pay us for your purchase, a little at a time, you have plenty of leisure time to discover unworthiness of quality or overcharge, if either exists. But we are so confident of the really excellent values we offer that we welcome charge customers as much as we do those who pay us cash. If you wish to purchase for cash or credit we will be pleased to have you call.

EX-PLAINFIELDER MARRIES HEIRESS

Miss Helen Gambrill, of Baltimore, Eloped With George Tyler Smith.

ELUDED HER CHAPERONE

Bride Prominent In Maryland Society—Bridegroom a Member of Troop A, Maryland National Guard.

Plainfielders acquainted with the groom will be much interested to learn of the elopment of Miss Helen Edmondson Gambrill, only daughter of Chancey Gambrill, of Baltimore, and heiress to a million or more, with George Tyler Smith, formerly of this city. The couple were married on Saturday evening in St. Paul's Episcopal church by the Rev. Hobart Parrish.

The bride's father was in the hospital pending an operation for appendicitis while her mother, Mrs. Gambrill, was at Atlantic City. During the absence of her parents, Miss Gambrill and her chaperon were staying at the Sudbrook Inn. On Saturday she left the Inn, giving her chaperon a plausable excuse for her absence, and nothing more was heard of her until the news of her marriage was learned today.

Her mother hastily left Atlantic City in dismay upon receipt of the information. The bride, who is only twenty and a favorite in Baltimorian society, will inherit her grandfather's large estate valued at $1,150,000.

Tyler Smith was very well known among the younger set in this city. He was a finished horseman and was interested in local politics. In 1912 he ran on the Democratic ticket for City Council from the Second ward. While Mr. Smith lived on East Seventh street he was employed by a large New York insurance firm. His name was also mentioned to Senator Martine for postmaster of Plainfield. He was later transferred in business to a branch office in Baltimore where his father is one of the leading physicians and where he joined the crack Troop A of the Maryland National Guard.

Smith has been active in Baltimore politics and is secretary of the Baltimore Democratic Club. While living at the troops headquarters, Smith was studying law preparatory to his admittance to the Maryland bar.

FESTIVAL FOR RED CROSS.

A meeting has been called for tomorrow morning at the German Reformed church, the borough, of the members of the board of trustees of the Ladies'Aid Society and the Young People's Society, at which time plans will be made to hold a peach festival in the near future. The receipts of the occasion are to be sent to the Red Cross Society, to be used in Germany.

REV. W. E. L. WARD DEAD AT NEWBURG

Passes Away From Attack of Ptomaine Poisoning At His Former Home.

WAS HERE TWO YEARS

St. Stephen's Church Rector Was Ill But Few Days—Practiced Law Before Entering Ministry and Had Several Fine Church Assignments.

Newburgh, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Rev. Warner E. L. Ward, rector of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, N. J., died at the family home in this city, yesterday afternoon, after an illness of less than a week. Mr. Ward was born a short distance from the house in which he died. His education was obtained in the public schools and at Siglar's Preparatory School, finally graduating in the New York University. He was admitted to the practice of law and formed a partnership with his half brother, Darwin W. Esmond.

After practicnig for ten years, he decided to enter the ministry, and studied under the Rev. Octavius Applegate, S. T. D., rector of St. George's church. Mr. Ward was ordained as deacon at Trinity church, Harlem, by the late Henry C. Potter, Bishop of New York. He became assistant rector at St. George's church and served as such until he was called to be curate for the Bishop of Pittsburgh, and while there Bishop Whitehead ordained him a priest at Trinity church, Pittsburgh.

His first full charge was at Lowell, Mass., where he remained four years, later going to St. Ann's church, Brooklyn, for five years. He had been for two years rector of St. Stephen's church, Plainfield, and had recently been accorded his annual vacation, spending the first week with Mrs. Ward at Newport. Previous to going to Newport he had promised Dr. Bentley, of Passaic, that he would act as a supply on Sunday, August 9, in the Passaic church. To do this he left Newport, Saturday, and on the train ate some chicken, which is presumed to have caused ptomaine poisoning, which finally caused his death. He conducted the services at Passaic, and left in the evening for Newburgh, where he was to spend the balance of his vacation.

On Tuesday he was feeling ill, a physician was summoned, and at once it was found necessary to call specialists from New York, but no encouragement was given. This morning it was evident he was nearing the end, and the family gathered at his bedside. Arising from a sinking spell, he addressed those present and sent messages to his congregation in the following words:

"It is all right. I had faith before,

NEW YORK CONCERN ASKS FOR RELEASE

Unsettled Condition of Money Market Cause For Returning Borough School Bonds.

A. B. Leach & Company, of New York city, who purchased the $50,000 worth of school bonds at the adjourned meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education on July 27, sent a communication to the borough body at its meeting, last night, making known their desire for a release from the present contract. When the agreement was drawn it contained a clause providing that it was subject to the legal opinion of the New York concern's counsel. The present unsettled state of the money market is assigned as the cause for the application. The communication was referred to the finance committee and will be taken up with the State authorities to ascertain what disposition will be made of it. The company submitted figures of $100.007 for the $50,000 worth of bonds.

Four new teachers were appointed at the special meeting last night, to take the places left vacant by resignations, three to teach in the North Plainfield High School and a fourth for the Watchung School. Miss Elsie Campbell, of Milburn, will succeed Miss Eva Terry; Miss Marjorie Brant, of Starlight, Pa., will succeed Miss Merrill, and Miss Grace M. Lanning, of Watchung, will succeed Miss Dwight. Miss Dorothy Lorbert, of Thayer, Pa., will teach in the fourth grade of the Watchung School.

The meeting last night was given over largely to the discussion of ways and means of taking care of the bonds in the event of their return to the Board subject to the advice of the State educational supervisors.

DOLLAR DAY PLANS WERE PERFECTED

Business Men's Association Had Well Attended Meeting Last Night.

The Business Men's Association held a large and enthusiastic meeting, last evening, at the Babcock building, at which time final arrangements and the details of the second semi-annual dollar day were completed for Wednesday, September 2.

An advertising campaign of greater proportions than was at first anticipated was mapped out by the gathering, providing for carrying the news of the city's big shopping day as far West as Somerville and Raritain, over the mountains to the various small towns and hamlets, and as far East as Westfield and Garwood. Billposters and dodgers will be distributed throughout the suburban territory in an effort to make this city the center of shopping activities on that occasion.

Among the advertising features for the occasion will be a large banner which is to be strung across Front street, opposite Somerset street. A large number of banners appropriate for use on delivery wagons are to be secured, and will be distributed to all merchants who may express a willingness to use them, regardless of whether or not they are members of the association. These banners are in charge of Henry Rosenbaum, and will be furnished by him on application.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS TO GATHER TONIGHT

The first session of the season of the North Plainfield Republican Club has been called for this evening to be held at Debele Auditorium, Chatham street. This meeting will be for the purpose of organizing the Republican voters of the borough, with the election of officers, and the enrollment of members. Preliminary plans for the fall campaign will be discussed at length. Matters which must be disposed of prior to the primaries of September 22 will have their share of attention during the meeting. The local campaign in North Plainfield this year will be somewhat complicated as Edmund Rushmore and Julius Stahl, present councilmen, will have opposition. William L. Smalley has already declared his intention of entering the race.

FEATURE REEL AT PROCTOR'S.

Captain Alvarez, the big vitagraph production in 6 parts, will be presented at Proctor's today. This photo-play was one of the big hits at the new Vitagraph Theatre in New York city, where it had a long and successful run.

SAW THE SCHWEDS

Although Forced to Sleep On Cots In Hold of Boat, Mr. Floersch Says He Is Thankful to Be Here—Felt Money Shortage.

None the worse for his experiences, and bringing tales about the war zone such as have not before been heard in Plainfield, Peter Floersch, owner of the Queen City Hotel, returned to town late last night. This morning he was kept busy repeating the story of his adventures by scores of friends who called to welcome him back home in safety. He was accompanied by Mrs. Floersch and daughter, Marion, and both are in the best of health.

Mr. Floersch was in Austria when the first rumors of the war were heard, and had arrived at Egar when it was declared. He there met friends who advised him to get out of the country as soon as he could, and he went to Stuttgart in Germany, intending to take a trip into the Black Forest. At that time Germany had not declared war, the Austrian-Servian dispute being the only one in progress. To enter the Black Forest, Mr. Floersch went to Frodenstat, a small town on a branch line of the railroad, and when he reached there war had been declared by Germany, and a local bank had failed, causing considerable trouble for many tourists who were in the place. He left there for Bodenbaden, on a railroad train that was packed to the doors, reaching that place early on Saturday, August 1, where he took a train for Cologne, being on it from 9:30 in the morning until 8 in the evening without a thing to eat, and not a drop of water on board. From Cologne he expected to travel in Switzerland, but things had taken such a turn that he decided not to make the effort.

In Cologne, he met Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schwed, of this city, who are traveling abroad. He heard a voice say, "There's Uncle Peter," and turned to find Mr. Schwed calling to him. The Schwed party seemed to think that the war would not amount to much, and talked about continuing their trip as though nothing was going on.

Mr. Floersch decided on Tuesday, August 4, that it was time to start for home, and he sought accommodations on the railroad to Rotterdam, but was refused point blank. He was having trouble to get money, and the trouble continued until he arrived in this country. He finally succeeded in getting on a Nile steamer at Cologne, and after being frequently stopped by police boats they arrived at Mauheim, Tuesday night, where they spent the night, proceeding to Rotterdam, on Wednesday, which city was reached at noon.

At Rotterdam it was necessary to wait until Saturday for the Nieu Amsterdam to sail, and then Mr. Floersch was delighted to get a cot in the hold as a place to sleep. He says that big rats frequently ran about, causing excitement for the women on board, but "rats and all" were so happy to get started for home that no one complained.

When he arrived in Hoboken, last night, he was met by his son, William Floersch, and they returned to Plainfield by auto.

SENATOR ACKERMAN SEES BIG JAPANESE MARDI-GRAS

Former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, who is now probably on his way home from Japan, sends to the Daily Press a beautifully colored photograph of the Watch Tower Moat and the Lotus flowers surrounding the "Forbidden City!" in Pekin. The photo was taken by the Senator and he had it colored in Japan. As has been told, he and Mrs. Ackerman were permitted the rare privilege of entering the "Forbidden City" on July 11. He reports that they had a most enjoyable trip up to the time of writing, having seen Manila, Hong Kong, Canton, Shanghai, Nanking, Pekin, Mukden, Korea, Miaygima and the wonderful pageant of Kiotb-Gion-Matsuri, at Kioto, which is said to excel anything known in the way of an Oriental Mardi Gras.

NEW WAR MAP IS OFFERED PRESS READER

Official Guide For Use of Those Who Would Follow Great Event Is Offered.

What do you know about the war? Do you believe that 11,000,000 men will have any chance against 17,000,000? What information have you of the exact situation and conditions in Europe? The Daily Press herewith presents an offer that will be eagerly grasped by every reader, as it is designed to prepare you to answer all of the foregoing questions as you follow the daily reports. It consists of an official map in five colors covering every point of the great war of European nations. This map was originally made in Europe by the expensive map process and is as clear and smooth as a steel engraving. It is reproduced on copper plate. The colors are distinctive and all rivers and mountain ranges are clearly outlined. The type is large and distinct and every city and town of importance is plainly indicated. Cheaply drawn maps cannot possibly give the details shown on this authentic map. It is sufficiently large to include all the war area and besides it contains a wealth of the latest information pertaining to the big war centers.

The Press has succeeded in getting a limited edition of these handy guides to the great war of nations and they will be passed out to readers until further notice at the bare cost of the expense of distribution. Every day in another column will be printed a war map coupon and one of these will be required in addition to the expense fee.

As the cannon roar and the shells drop from the great aerial fleets you will want to know where all of these movements take place and this official map will give you exactly the information you are looking for, as everything is fully covered, from the Rock of Gibralter to the Ural Mountains.

Educational charts are attached to the map proper and these show the fortified towns, naval area, big battle ground plans, and all of the great war capitals in detail, besides there are portraits of the European rulers, tables showing the strength of the armies and navies as well as the aerial fleets and a wealth of information such as has never before been shown in a map of this character. All you need to do to get one of these wonderful maps is to clip the coupon and present it with the promotion expense of ten cents, or it will be sent by mail either in town, or out of town for twelve cents in coin, stamps or money order. The distribution begins today and readers should lose no time in taking advantage of this great offer.

THE SOCIALIST VIEWPOINT.

Donato De Lonardo, a local resident, is a member of the Socialist party, and he has written his views on the present European war, which appear on the editorial page today. He is a close observer of foreign affairs, and a frequent contributer to the Call, the Socialist paper in New York. While those who are not believers in that party cannot agree with much that he says, his observations are of more than passing interest at this time. He is firmly of the belief that if the church did its full duty, it would find a way of stopping the war.

London, Aug. 18 (Central News Cable).—It was officially announced that Japan will confine her action against Germany to the China seas, except when necessary to protect Japanese shipping. It was further announced that Japan had no intention of taking over Samoa.

A despatch received here today from Antwerp said that German cavalry are reported to the northward of that city, to which the seat of the Belgian government was moved from Brussels today. According to the message the Military Governor has ordered every member of the Civil Guard of Antwerp to be mobilized on a war footing and to take their places in the forts.

A despatch from Shanghai says that confirmation was received there today that two German cruisers had been disabled and brought into Hong Kong. Because of the censorship it was not possible to obtain the names of the cruisers. The message said the deck works, the turrets and the barbettes of the two cruisers were demolished and their masts and funnels shot away.

A despatch from Nish, Servia, says that the Austrians have been defeated near Sabac, twenty-seven miles west of Belgrade, according to government sources. The despatch adds that the Austrians fled toward Lesnitza and Losnitza pursued by Servians.

A despatch from Brussels says that all the German troops recently fronting the Belgians have taken defensive entrenched positions, according to an announcement by the Belgian War Office.

It is officially announced by the war office this afternoon that General Sir Horace Lockwood Smith Dorrion has been appointed to command the second corps of the British expeditionary force in succession to Sir James Moncrieff Grierson, who died suddenly yesterday while en route to France. General Smith Dorrion has been commander of the southern command of England since 1912. He has seen a great deal of service in Egypt, India and South Africa.

It is officially announced that a British expeditionary force has landed on French soil. The announcement which was made last night does not give the location of the English troops and details of the strength of the force are also lacking.

Lord Kitchener, having determined that none but well trained and disciplined fighting men of Great Britain shall face the Kaiser's men no matter how long the wary may continue, has divided the United Kingdom's available forces into two great groups, designated whole timers and part timers. The first group, including all the regular army, will do the bulk of the fighting for Great Britain. The territorials, reserves and others of like class, will be thoroughly trained so that they may be ready for the foreign service if the European conflict is protracted and the ranks of the regular army depleted. When the great centennial conflict ends the second army group will be mustered out, though individuals who wish may remain in service and become whole timers.

Rigorous restrictions have been imposed upon all German subjects resident in Great Britain, the military authorities having felt justified in taking the utmost precautions since nearly all the Kaiser's subjects have register here as willing to return and fight for their country when called. An order depriving all the German's of telephone service is being rigidly enforced, as are orders prohibiting Germans from having firearms, ammunition, automobiles, motorcycles, petroleum or other inflammable liquids. Neither are the Kaiser's subjects permitted to have apparatus or devices of any kind for signalling and even carrier pigeons are under the ban. Lest anyone attempt to dynamite the general post-office building, a high fence of heavy steel mesh wire has been erected around the structure.

Paris, Aug. 18 (Central News Cable).—An official announcement here says that the rumor is persistent at the Hague that the German Crown Prince has been seriously wounded and is lying at Aix La Chappelle, where the Emperor has gone to his bedside.

It is reported that the Russians occupy Wargrabowa and are advancing in Northeast Prussia, driving the Germans before them. Fighting is progressing but the details have not been given uot.

Rome, Aug. 18 (Central News Cable).—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Messagero, which usually is a well informed organ, telegraphs that there are symptoms of a general insurrection in Prussian Poland.

A despatch from Pola to the Tribuna states that Austrian Torpedo Boat No. 19 accidentally struck a mine at the entrance of the harbor yesterday, and sank immediately, only one sailor being rescued. It is understood that the accident happened when the vessels of the Austrian fleet were entering the harbor of Pla to escape the French fleet.

The Basel correspondent of the Tribuna reports that the French have occupied Colmar.

Amsterdam, Aug. 18 (Central News Cable).—A German dreadnought, disabled in battle, is reported at Trondhjem, Norway.

Washington, Aug 18.—In an earnest appeal to the country at large, President Wilson today called again upon the American people to maintain a strict neutrality in the present European war, and by the exercise of rigorous self restraint to avoid any possibility of involving this government in the struggle.

It was denied at the Legislative office that a growing restlessness among foreign born citizens of the country had inspired the president to issue the document at this time.

The proclamation reads in part as follows:

"The effect of the war upon the United States will depend upon what American citizens say and do. Every man who really loves America will act and speak in the true spirit of Neutrality which is the spirit of impartiality and fairness and friendliness to all concerned.

The people of the United States are drawn from many nations and chiefly from the nations now at war. It is natural and inevitable that there should be the utmost variety of sympathy and desire among them with regard to the issues and circumstances of the conflict. It will be easy to excite passion and difficult to allay it. Those responsible for exciting it will assume a heavy responsibility. For no less a thing than that the people of the United States whose love of their country and whose loyalty to its government should unite them as Americans all bound in honor and affection to think first of her and her interests."

With a view to putting into effect the Government war risk insurance on the shipping plan as promptly as possible, President Wilson today called into conference at the White House, Secretary McAdoo and Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee. They went over the tentative draft of a measure which was said to have the President's approval. It is expected the bill will be introduced in Congress by Senator Clarke later.

An appeal that the United States intervene and prevent the entrance of Japan in the present war was made to President Wilson today by the National German Alliance. Dr. C. J. Hexamer, president of the organization, wrote to the White House from Philadelphia, urging the Washington Government to act. President Wilson has not yet replied to the communication.

EIGHT SPLENDID REASONS WHY LOCAL MERCHANTS EXCEL

George S. Monck, of 92 Jackson avenue, was the winner of the second prize of $5 in cash, offered by the Plainfield Business Men's Association in the recent contest conducted by the Daily Press. He also receives $5 from Samuel Rothberg, because the letter mentions a specific bargain secured at the latter's store. Mr. Monck carefully analyzes the situation regarding purchasing locally, as follows:

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

Reasons why you should trade in Plainfield:

1. You can have all your wants supplied in this bustling city of competitive trade.

2. It is the plain duty of Plainfield's residents to support their home city, and if they fail in this how can they expect Plainfield to maintain its deservedly high reputation?

3. When you place your trade with the local stores you become a factor in the development of your home city.

Wouldn't you rather be in the procession than be an onlooker?

4. Contrast buying locally with purchasing by mail after reading highly colored advertisements.

When buying locally you see what you get before paying for it, and when purchasing by mail you often get disappointed when the goods do not come up to expectations.

Then again, the local tradesman will immediately rectify any error that may occur—contrast this with the delay, correspondence and red-tape to be gone through with the great department stores.

5. The local tradesmen give immediate delivery, you do not have to wait three or four days for your order.

6. The local tradesman, in order to develop and maintain his business, is compelled to give individual satisfaction by personal service, he therefore goes the "limit" to please.

He wants to see you again.

7. There is every inducement to trade in Plainfield on account of the great competition here in all lines of trade having brought prices down level with and in many cases lower than those obtaining in the great department stores.

Having been a commuter between New York, Newark and Plainfield for the past 10 years, I have had every opportunity to observe this with the result that I buy everything in Plainfield.

8. A study of the advertising columns of the Plainfield Daily Press will bring home the fact that our local tradesmen recognize the great value of consistent and truthful advertising.

The "specials" advertised for Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays are always "bona fide" money savers.

Our local tradesmen, having in mind the "personal service" side of their businesses cannot afford to advertise misleadingly.

As a constant reader of the Plainfield Daily Press, especially its advertising columns, I have been impressed with the conservative and therefore, valuable advertising matter therein.

As a result of a Plainfield Daily Press advertisement, I purchased on Saturday last at the Rothberg store three 50c four-in-hand ties advertised at three for a dollar.

Of my own personal knowledge these are really 50c ties and were not specially stocked for the occasion.

This store, in common with others, gives a guarantee of unqualified satisfaction with every purchase, backing up this guarantee with an offer of "satisfaction or your money back."

Yours very truly,

GEORGE S. MONCK.

BACK TO WORK.

Thomas Fosbre, the genial and popular young man in charge of the Union News-stand, expects to be able to return to his post tomorrow, after an illness of about a week with rheumatism.

Mrs. Arthur F. Vail and son, Alton, are spending the week at Lake Hopatcong, as the guests of Mrs. Fred Vail.

OUT AFTER ILLNESS.

George Koschek, the North avenue merchant, while able to be out and about after a two weeks' illness with stomach trouble, is not feeling like his old self as yet by any means.

Hervey Schworer, of Main street, is ill with cholera morbus.

Robert A. Nagle and family, of Main street, have returned from a ten days' visit at Park Hill and Brantford, Canada, where they visited relatives of Mr. Nagle.

Contractor Edward J. Herlick, has been awarded the contract of electrifying the house that A. H. Burdick is erecting on Washington avenue for speculative purposes.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wrage, of Walnut street, and daughter, Mrs. Mary Culber and Mrs. Howard Allegar, have made arrangements to spend tomorrow at Coney Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Hebard, of Washington avenue, have returned from a week's visit with relatives at Three Bridges and Flemington.

Miss Gertrude Bowlby, of Washington, avenue, departed on Saturday for upper New York State, where she will spend her annual two weeks' vacation.

C. T. Voorhees and Miss Pearl Dodwell, enjoyed an automobile trip to Rahway on Sunday.

John Logan, of Washington avenue, is spending his two weeks' vacation at Belmar.

Mrs. Edward Maurer and daughter, of Madison avenue, are spending a month at Lake Hopatcong. They are stopping at the Durban Hotel.

MOTHER DEAD IN LONDON.

Alfred Skinner, of Prospect avenue, was apprised by cablegram on Tuesday of last week, that his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Skinner, had dropped dead in her home at Islington, London. Coming at a time when it is really foolhardy to even attempt to cross the ocean on an errand of this kind, the blow was an especially hard one to Mr. Skinner. The deceased left besides Mr. Skinner, four daughters, all of whom resided with her. She was sixty-one years old.

DR. BRADLEY ILL.

Dr. Nathan E. Bradley, a brother of Mrs. John Federman, of Washington avenue, is in a very low condition in the Harlen Hospital as a result of being struck, knocked down and run over by an automobile at 125th street and Lenox avenue, New York city, a week ago last Wednesday. Dr. Bradley sustained a fractured skull and limb and it will be a miracle if he recovers, especially when his age eighty-one years, is taken into consideration. Despite his age he was hale and hearty up to the time of the accident. He gave up a thirty years' practice in the city about fifteen years ago.

Dr. and Mrs. Curry, Edward Maurer, Jr., Paul Maurer, B. Ambrose Cole and Harrison E. Giddes were motored by Edward Maurer in his large touring car to Lake Hopatcong on Sunday, where they passed the day. They made the trip to the lake in the fast time of 1 hour and 35 minutes.

On account of an insufficient turnout of its members, there was no meeting of the Board of Trade last evening.

Miss Hilda Johnson, daughter of Contractor and Mrs. Magines Johnson, who was on the sick list last week, is able to be out and about again.

Mr. P. P. Stryker will occompany his wife and daughter and son, Miss Luella and Robert, to Srelvy, Michigan, on Thursday, where they will spend two weeks with relatives. Mr. Stryker will remain over Sunday.

Mrs. Alvah Gray, of Washington avenue, has returned from a three weeks' stay at Budd's Lake with Mrs. William E. Terry, who is camping there with her children.

AFTER POLL TAX DELINQUENTS.

About sixty warrants have been sworn out for the arrests of the delinquent poll tax payers. These warrants are in the possession of one of the borough's marshals and will be used against those who do not pay their back taxes within the next three days. So it behoves the delinquent poll tax payers to either come up with the amount due or have a little sojourn at the expense of the county on the banks of the Raritan.

An adjourned meeting of the Mayor and Common Council will be held in the upper room of the borough hall this evening.

EXPECT CROWD AT DANCE.

Forty couples, among whom will be some out of town guests, are expected to be present at the second dance to be given by the young men of the borough at Wayside Park, tomorrow evening. The entire park has been leased for the occasion and the dance is expected to be the most successful of the season. Admission will be by invitation only. Squire's orchestra will furnish the music Dancing will commence at 8 o'clock

Edward Green, one of the assistants of the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company, was arrested by Marshal I. V. Smalley on Saturday afternoon, in front of Gustav Winter's hotel for being drunk and disorderly. When arraigned before Recorder David S. Campbell, he was given a suspended sentence.

Mrs. Henry S. Garretson and daughter, Miss Lillian, of Front street, who were to have departed on Saturday evening for a two weeks' stay at Lake George, have postponed their trip two times now on account of the condition of Mrs. Garretson's sister, Mrs. Lewis D. Walker, of New Market road, who was operated upon at the Muhlenburg Hospital, Plainfield, on Saturday. Mrs. Walker's condition has steadily improved since the operation and her condition was such this morning that it is possible that Mrs. Garretson and her daughter will feel free in departing for Lake George this evening.

STILL SEEKING SLUGGERS.

The identity of the three young fellows who assaulted Walter Lewis, of Front street, in front of the Feldman shoe store, on North avenue on Saturday evening, has not been ascertained as yet by the local authorities. If the culprits are local young men and are apprehended, they will be summarily dealt, with upon the ground that they know Lewis' condition and should leave him alone even if he does happen to make himself obnoxious at times.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Mr. and Mrs. William Behrends, have returned to their home in Brooklyn, after spending several weeks at the "Homestead."

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tull and Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Nichol, of the borough, are on an automobile trip through Maine in Mr. Nichol's auto.

Miss Florence Doty is a local name that appears in the New York papers as being one of the Americans that is stranded in London. Miss Louise Uichol who has been stranded in London ever since the beginning of the war, returned home on the Celtic, Sunday.

Miss Claire Hall, of South avenue, is spending several weeks at various points on Long Island.

Miss Laurabell Moffett has returned to her position in Plainfield after spending her vacation at Asbury Park.

Borough Assessor Horace Young has sent in his yearly report to the County Tax Board, at Elizabeth, and places the reported valuation of $244,585 on land, $311,700 on improvements and $69,000 on personal property, making a total valuation of $625,785 subject to taxation. The valuation was considerably affected by the transferring of $10,000 worth of bank stock, owned by a borough resident, to New York State, thereby making the borough lose the tax on same.

The regular midweek prayer meeting in the Baptist church tomorrow night will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. J. Madison Hare.

Dr. Ray Munger is enjoying his vacation on an automobile trip through New York State. He is also spending several weeks with his parents at Hunter, N. Y.

A regular business session of the Fanwood Fire Company, will be held in the firehouse this evening, at 8 o'clock.

The August meeting of the Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, of Scotch Plains, was held in the firehouse last evening. Only routine business was transacted.

Raymond Ross has returned to his home in Garden City, L. I., after visiting his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Alberts, of Westfield road.

A meeting of the Fanwood Township Board of Education will be held in School No. 1, tomorrow evening, to receive and take action on the report of the building committee. The date for an election of the township voters will be decided when a sum will be asked to cover the cost of erecting a four-room school in the eastern end of the township and converting the assembly room of School No. 1 into four class rooms in order to take care of the rapidly increasing number of school children.

The following mail matter has been advertised at the borough post office: Mr. Bennett, South avenue; Mrs. Frank Bell, Mrs. O. Combs, Crawford Trust Company, George C. Dawson, George S. Doty, Frank Herbst, Alan Volak, and Mr. Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. McAnneny and sons, Wilbur and George, are visiting Robert E. Bradberry, of East Pleasantville, N. Y.

Rose Thomas, of North avenue, is visiting relatives in Connecticut.

The Misses Mariette and Katherine McAnneny, of North avenue, are visiting their uncle, George McAnneny, president of the Board of Aldermen of New York City, at his summer camp on Lake George, N. Y.

William S. Beeken, of the borough, is visiting relatives at Reading, Conn

Miss Edith Elliott, of Park avenue is spending her vacation at Easton town.

Miss Hazel Saunders, of Summit, is visiting her cousin, Miss Ethelwyn Walker, of Springfield road.

Miss Hazel Hand, of Sanford, Fla. is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr and Mrs. Edward L. Hand, of Park avenue.

Miss Birdie Harding and Miss Katherine Hand, of Montague avenue, are spending several weeks a various resorts along the coast of Maine.

Mrs. William Strong and daughter Ethel, of Martine avenue, are spending several weeks at Asbury Park.

Walter Long has returned to his home in the township after a two months' business trip through South America.

Miss Alice Knight has returned to her home in New York, after visiting Miss Marie Boise, of the borough.

The residence of R. S. Holland, on Mountain avenue, has just been finished and Mr. Holland and family moved in yesterday.

Frank A. Dunham, borough surveyor, has finished surveying for sidewalks on South avenue. This improvement will eliminate much of the danger to those having to walk on that thoroughfare from passing autos. Of late it has been so dangerous that Marshal Logan has been patroling that street to stop speeders.

WAR NEWS

brothers are said to have been convicted and executed at Abo, Finland, as a result of their attempting to employ Finnish sailors for pilots on German battleships.

Tokio, Aug. 18.—Foreign Minister Baron Takaaki Kato, in a speech today said if diplomatic relations between Japan and Germany were broken off German subjects choosing to reside in Japan would continue to receive protection of their lives and property so long as they obeyed the law.

New York, Aug. 18.—With 2,000 American refugees from the war zone aboard, the Holland-American Liner Nieu Amsterdam from Rotterdam reached her dock here, last night. According to the passengers the steamer was halted by shots fired across her bow by a British cruiser shortly before sundown Sunday night, 200 miles south of Halifax, throwing the passengers into a panic. After satisfying the Britisher of her identity the Nieu Amsterdam was permitted to proceed to her destination.

The steamship United States of the Scandinavian American line, arrived here today from Copenhagen with 139 cabin, 170 second cabin, and 712 st erage passengers. The vessel encountered no warships. Passengers described the conditions in Denmark to be quite serious since the declaration of war.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 18.—The Berwind White Coal Mining Company, which has the contract for coaling all the Trans-Atlantic liners, has been forced to curtail its operations to three days a week because of the tieing up of the steamships by the war. About 10,000 men are affected.

Washington, Aug. 18—Official confirmation that Czar Nicholas would personally lead the main Russian army, reached here today in a belated despatch from St. Petersburg to the State Department.

Japan.

It is officially announced in London that Japan's move against Germany in the far east was taken with the full knowledge and approval of the British government following assurances by Japan that she would abide by the letter of the Anglo-Japanese agreement and that she contemplated no hostile action against any of the German possessions on the Pacific except Kiaochow. Thus the possibility of a Japanese move toward Samoa or other quarters in which the interests of the United States would be affected is eliminated.

Belgium.

The German army is reported to be heading straight for Brussels by way of Huy and Jodoigne. The French and Russian ministers at Brussels have turned over the archives of their legations to the Spanish minister and have left for Antwerp with the officers of the Belgian government, which virtually is moving its capital to the seaport.

France.

The French army invading Alsace is officially reported to have advanced until its line extends from Thann, through Cernay to Bonnemarie. Schirmeck, in the Donon region of the Vosgee, has been captured by the French. In the fighting in that district the French have taken a thousand prisoners and twelve field guns. Further to the south the French have taken Ville.

The first flag captured in the war has been placed over the entrance of the war office in Paris. It is reported that the standard of the Death's Head hussars, the crown prince's regiment, also has been captured.

Germany.

Emperor William, accompanied by his entire general staff, is said to have gone to Mainz, where he was met by his three sons, including the crown prince.

Russia.

It is reported that an uprising has been started in German Poland as a result of the czar's proclamation for an autonymous Poland. Eight hundred thousand Russian troops are reported to be on the German frontier waiting for the completion of the Russian mobilization before beginning an advance into east Prussia. The fighting between small detachments on the Russian-Austrian frontier continues.

Austria.

Varying reports of the attack on Austrian warships by the French flee. off the Dalmatian coast place the number of Austrian ships sunk at from one to four. The Austrians are making a strong attack on the Servian frontier and Belgrade is reported to be in ruins.

Greece.

The Hellenic government has received reports that Turkish troops are moving toward Greece and has notified the Turkish government that if the reports are true she will take steps to defend herself. The Greek army and navy have been mobilized.

Brussels, Aug. 18.—The French and Russian ministers to Belgium have just handed their archives to the Spanish minister. They are leaving for Antwerp with the Belgian government.

Several days ago when fortifications were hurriedly constructed on the outskirts of the capital there were reports that the Germans were close at hand. The city was reassured, however, at the time, but later it was announced that if the enemy's advance came too close the government and the Belgian archives would be removed to Antwerp.

The main headquarters of the Belgian army has been reported to be at Louvain, fifteen miles from here and on the line to Liege. Antwerp is thirty miles directly north of Brussels.

A battle has been in progress since yesterday. The Germans are said to be fighting Belgian and French troops. No news as to the results is yet available.

At 6 o'clock the distant thunder of a cannonade was clearly audible in this city. After feinting with their right at Diest and diverting to some extent the attention of the Belgian field army which is centered on Louvain the Germans are now signaled as marching direct on Brussels via Huy and Jodoigne.

This raiding force is believed to consist mainly of cavalry and artillery, including the much feared motor quick firers.

Germans' Desperate Venture.

These troops are in imminent danger of being cut off from their Liege base, but the day of desperate deeds has dawned for the fatherland, and the occupation of the Belgian capital is just the sort of a spectacular coup, utterly barren from a strategical standpoint, to kindle enthusiasm across the Rhine. A martial spirit, so far as all accounts go, is conspicuous by its absence.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The French army in Alsace is steadily pressing forward, according to the official reports. In an official communique issued the French war office says:

"The advance of the French armies continues to develop. Our troops have taken the heights to the north of the Alsatian frontier in German territory and the French line now passes through Abrechevillier (Alberschveiler), Lorquin (Loerchingen), Asoudange and Marsal.

"In the Bonon or Rougemont region we have occupied Schirneck, eight miles from Saales, in Alsace, and we have captured twelve German field guns, eight machine guns and twelve gun carriages with ammunition.

"Our cavalry has penetrated as far as Lutzelhausen and Muhlbach, or Rosheim.

"Farther to the south we occupy Ville, east of Burbeis on the road to Schlestadt and Ste. Croix des Mines, and some heavy field artillery has been captured by the French troops.

"In Alsace we have a strong supporting line from Thann through Cernay to Bonnemarie."

Slowly Giving Way.

London, Aug. 18.—That the Germans are being steadily driven back by a united French advance in Upper Alsace, south of Muelhausen, was the announcement made by the official war bureau.

The bureau declared that the fighting was of the most desperate character and insisted that the superiority of the French artillery to that of the Germans was "increasingly manifest."

The announcement then said:

"Everywhere the trenches from which the enemy is being driven are found to be filled with dead and wounded. The enemy is making a desperate resistance, but is being pushed back by the force of the French advance, which cannot be denied."

Dealing with the fighting at Dinant, Belgium, the bureau said:

"News of the French success at Dinant is confirmed. The German forces defeated included cavalry from the guards, three battalions of infantry and three machine gun companies. They were thrown back in disorder by the French cavalrymen, who took many prisoners, several guns and several hundred horses.

"In yesterday's forward movement of the French near Cirey the Bavarians were forced back beyond the point to which they retreated."

Artillery Destructive.

London, Aug. 18.—In a statement the official press bureau of the war office and admiralty says that the French troops have made a rapid advance along the Schirneck valley to the east of the Bonn plateau and have taken 1,000 prisoners.

The statement says that the scene of the fighting within the past few days in Haute Alsace shows the destructive effect of the French artillery fire. Trenches which the Germans have abandoned are filled with dead and wounded, according to the statement.

French Victory Confirmed.

London, Aug. 18.—The Times correspondent at Namur telegraphs what appears to have been the French plan of battle at Dinant on Saturday. The correspondent confirms the earlier reports that the French defeated the Germans and drove them out of the town.

"The general scheme of the French plan," the correspondent says, "seemed to be to turn the Germans out of Dinant by a crushing force after having first allowed them to enter it; and, secondly, to drive them back generally toward Rochefort, a town twenty-six miles south of Huy. In both objects I believe they succeeded. It was a magnificent sight to see the French chasseurs advance, looking like a huge flock of crows on a yellow field."

AUSTRIAN WARSHIP SUNK BY FRENCH

First Big Naval Fight Since War Began.

London, Aug. 18.—The French fleet has defeated an Austrian squadron, sinking an Austrian warship, in the first naval encounter between the two countries since the war began.

The official war bureau in a statement confirmed the report that the French fleet had been in action in the Adriatic and had driven back the Austrian warships. One report said that the engagement which resulted in the sinking of an Austrian cruiser occurred off Budna.

The war bureau statement says:

"The French fleet has swept the Adriatic as far north as the gulf of Cattaro, the best harbor in the Adriatic, which the French fleet now dominates. The fleet has sunk a small Austrian cruiser of the Aspern type."

Earlier reports received in London, via Nish, said that the French fleet had sunk two Austrian ironclads and driven two others to flight. The Austrian squadron engaged was said to be the one which recently bombarded the Montenegrin coast.

PAGE IN CHARGE OF GOLD.

Breckinridge to Transfer $300,000 to Him For Stranded Americans.

London, Aug. 18.—Assistant Secretary of War Breckinridge after a conference with Ambassador Page arranged to transfer $300,000 in gold to the ambassador to be used in relieving American citizens stranded in Great Britain.

Mr. Breckinridge will return to Falmouth tonight and will proceed to Rotterdam on the cruiser Tennessee, from which point he hopes to reach Germany.

TWO BIG PROBLEMS.

Feeding Armies and Taking Care of Prisoners Important Issues.

London, Aug. 18.—Two of the great problems which will confront the enormous armies now in the field when they begin the actual battles which will decide the issue are likely to be the feeding of the armies and the problem of what to do with prisoners. The Germans are already having trouble with the former problem, according to the reports received from various sources in Belgium.

SWISS WOMEN WANT TO FIGHT

Anxious to Go to Front if Country is Involved in War.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 18.—The women of Switzerland, many of whom are excellent rifle shots, believe their country is certain to be involved in the European war and want to fight beside the men. Two young women in uniform are reported to have endeavored to enroll in the canton of Argovie. They refused to undergo a physical examination and consequently were rejected.

PICTURE FRAME SMASHED, CAUSING BURGLAR SCARE

While standing at Front street and Park avenue at 10:30 last night, Patrolman George Muir was attracted by the crashing of glass that appeared to come from the top floor of the City National Bank building. The officer went to the offices of the Board of Health and finding them locked, notified Health Officer Randolph Chandler.

When he arrived on the scene he accompanied Muir to the top floor and investigation revealed a glass picture frame which had fallen to the floor, causing the crash. It was at first thought that burglars were trying to gain entrance to the place.

POULTRYMEN TO MEET.

The New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement will hold their regular monthly meeting, tomorrow evening at the Exempt Firemen's Hall. Matters pertaining to the proposed poultry show to be held at Newark early in December will be reported by the board of trustees and will be of importance to every member.

ALLEGED METER THIEF HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Charles Hardway, colored, who was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court yesterday morning, and entered a plea of not guilty to robbing meters after admitting his culpability, was rearraigned today, when he was represented by W. S. Angleman. On behalf of his client Mr. Angleman waived examination and Hardway was held in $500 bail to await the action of the grand jury.

The prisoner was taken into custody by Sergeant Higgins, Friday, and made what purported to be a written confession, clearing up several of the mysteries which have long been awaiting solution.

JEFFERSON CLUB ENDORSES STEWART CANDIDACY

At a meeting of the Jefferson Democratic Club, held last night, which was well attended for this season of the year, the candidacy of Mayor Percy H. Stewart for State Senator was endorsed. The fact that the matter was to be brought up at that time was a surprise to many of the members, but the vote was unanimous on the matter.

The Mayor was present and in thanking the members for their action he emphasized the importance of electing a Democratic State Senator this fall, and told of the large amount of influence exercised by the Senator in the matter of the distribution of patronage, and in other party affairs.

Councilman R. A. Claybrook and James A. McCann were unanimously elected to membership, and Mr. Claybrook briefly outlined the work of the present administration at Washington, and spoke of the vote of confidence extended by the American people in general to the leaders in the Mexican and European crisis.

EAST END ROWDY GOES TO JAIL FOR SIXTY-DAY TERM

Charged with beating Irbin Fuchus, an aged Polish man, while under the influence of liquor, yesterday, George Curtis, of 825 St. Mary's avenue, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, and sentenced to serve sixty days in the county jail. Curtis admitted being intoxicated, but said that he did not remember striking the old man and pleaded for leniency.

In view of his bad record and the trouble he has been giving the police of late, he was dealt with severely by the court. The youth has been arrested twelve times since 1911 and is recognized as one "of the worst rowdies in the city," according to the police. He was arrested by Patrolman Martin Flatley.

MEXICAN LEADER PUT IN JAIL FOR SAFE KEEPING

Mexico City, Aug. 18—General Velasco, said to have been in danger of assassination by his own men for his surrender to the Constitutionalists, has been placed in jail here for his own protection. He was war minister under the Carbajal government.

Determined to establish peace and public safety at any cost, General Obregon has established the most rigid military government here and has not hesitated to visit severe punishment even upon his own men. One of his colonels, who killed a civilian in a street quarrel, was executed by his order.

Because perfect order is not yet established General Carranza has postponed his entry into the city until Thursday or later.

PERSONAL.

Louis Rothberg, of Madison avenue, who has been spending his vacation at Asbury Park, has returned home.

Mrs. Donald McInnes, of West Third street, is confined to her home by illness.

Dr. E. W. Hedges, of Watchung avenue, who has been spending his vacation at Ashnee Lake, N. H., has returned home.

Samuel Townsend and family, of Myrtle avenue, have returned home after spending their vacation at Cascade, N. Y.

C. W. Spicer, of Central avenue, is spending some time at Alfred N. Y.

Miss Isabel Arnold, of West Seventh street, has been registered at the Bromley House, Peru, Vermont.

ROOT AFTER PROGRESSIVES.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Senator Elihu Root today declared that the Progressive party was disappearing when he addressed the unofficial State convention of the Republican party. In opening the convention as temporary chairman, Senator Root praised the record of the Republican party. He attacked the initiative, the referendum and the recall as untenable theories. William Nottingham was chosen permanent chairman.

WANT NETHERWOOD MAN AS SECOND WARD COUNCILMAN

Republicans of the Second ward held a meeting, last night, at the home of President George S. Clay, of the City Council, to discuss the councilmanic situation, and form an organization for the coming campaign. Officers were elected as follows: Chairman, Howard H. Williams; vice chairman, First district, Arthur Lovell; Second district, J. Herbert Case; Third district, E. F. Dorman; Fourth district, William W. Coriell; secretary and treasurer, J. Henry Crane.

John J. Carroll, chairman of the city committee, was present and addressed the meeting on the present political situation in the city, urging that the best type of men be selected for office. After discussion a committee consisting of Messrs. Williams, Coriell, Samuel T. Carter, Jr., and Lovell were named to canvass the ward for prospective candidates and to make a report at the next meeting. It seemed to be the concensus of opinion that the candidate should come from the Netherwood section, and an effort will be made to get someone from that district to run.

The organization will meet again on Thursday night, at the home of City Collector William R. Townsend on Gresham road, at which time all Republicans who wish to do so are invited to attend and to enroll in the organization. Besides those mentioned the following were present last night: George S. Clay, Dr. C. L. Crist, J. Hervey Doane, Robert Guttridge, C. P. Hamilton, E. E. Iremonger, W. R. Lockwood and Matthew C. Stewart.

RAYMOND FORCE LAID TO REST BY SIX COMRADES

A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral services of Raymond B. Force, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Force, of Mountain avenue, at the home of his parents, yesterday afternoon. The Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church, officiated, and he was assisted by the Rev. C. C. Cain, of the Grace M. E. church. The services were very impressive both at the home and at the cemetery. A delegation from Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of which the deceased was a member, took part in the services at the grave.

He was twenty-one years of age and was a member of the Trinity Reformed church and Sunday-school. There were many floral tributes. The pall bearers were Charles Loizeaux, LeRoy Hand, Elmer Gayle, Herbert Renninger, William Ruttledge and Frank Dunning, Jr.

CRAWFORD RECOVERING.

Forest A. Crawford, an ironworker of New York, who was knocked from a Jersey Central freight train by a low hanging bridge at Fanwood, on Saturday night, is slowly recovering at Muhlenberg Hospital, where he was taken after the accident. His injuries consist of lacerations of the scalp and cuts about the body. It was said at the hospital, today, that he was on the road to recovery and would be able to leave in a week.

IT'S A BOY.

A boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hammond, of Arlington avenue, Saturday morning. Mother and son are doing well.

THE RISE IN FOOD PRICES.

"What is the real attitude of our retailers toward us and toward the producers of foodstuffs which are now soaring in price?" That is the query among consumers of staple food products and the present activity of the Attorney General's staff is expected to settle that question among others.

Many people say, "Why should our local merchants charge us seven or eight cents today for sugar from the same barrel which last week yielded him a profit (the usual profit on sugar) when sold at five and a half? Or, if a dealer who buys flour by the car lot and therefor has on hand enough to last a month, reads in the daily quotations that flour has gone up a dollar a barrel, does that justify him in realizing on his stock in hand at the increased price?"

The only reasons given thus far for the appalling jump in prices and for the predictions of further advances, are that the war in Europe together with the inadequate merchant marine of this country are responsible.

The Daily Press will not attempt to analyze either the continental war or the seldomness of the American flag in the seaports of the world. We will not argue at any length on the justness of the above excuses for famine prices and forecasts of starvation. We will instead, offer a prediction or two of our own.

First of all, the present situation, whether they recognize it or not, is the greatest opportunity for the retail merchants of the country to establish themselves unshakably in the confidence of the general public that they have ever had.

Next, in the investigations the various United States authorittes are bound to question and consult with retail dealers all over the country to determine the remedy to be used in dealing with the present situation. They are bound to include in their reports some comment on the attitude of the retailer, showing him to be either the scapegoat for the big producers, who seem bent on extorting illegitimate profit from the consumer, or the willing instrument for the exaction of that profit from the public; pocketing a portion of the loot and passing on the rest; disclaiming all share in the gains and trying to make the "middleman" bear the blame.

Furthermore, there is no possible escape from one verdict or the other at the bar of public opinion, even in case the investigators refrained from such comment. The true position of the retailer will be shown by the mere revelation of the producer's position. The great majority of the people know what prices they are paying today and they will remember them longer than next week, so if the Federal government's investigation should show the meat-packer to have a clean pair of hands, they will not be slow to blame the butcher 'round the corner for prices that make cost of upkeep the principal difference between lamb chops and limousines. Also, unless the flour and sugar "barons" are shown to be as rapacious and unprincipled as the "robber barons" of mediaeval Europe, what sort of an alibi must the corner grocer prove in order to escape censure?

Possibly a mistaken sense of trade unity, of mutual interest, will make the retailers of the country hesitate to co-operate with the authorities in the first steps of the pending investigations and for that reason the favorable notice of the entire country can and should be drawn to the retail merchants who most promptly and efficiently volunteer their co-operation. Let the merchants of Plainfield lead the way! We don't have to "put Plainfield on the map," but we certainly should not fail to renew her claim to favorable notice at every opportunity. Here is an opportunity for the organized business men of this city to get more publicity for their city in the press of the world at large than they could command with a million-dollar advertising fund.

Not only that, but they will be giving at the same time the most conclusive possible proof of their own claims to the regard of their customers.

USELESS BOARDS.

Every year with the cry of economy in the conduct of State affairs comes a demand for the abolition of the County Tax Boards. Candidates for office often say that one of the best arguments used against the Republican party, especially in the rural districts, is based on the fact that the party was responsible for the useless and expensive boards.

If the Boards were created to serve a purpose, other than to provide jobs for political henchmen, they certainly must have served that purpose by this time. They cost the State $100,000 a year, and when the treasury ran low last year, some of the politicians suggested that a good scheme would be to unload this expense on the various counties, so that other useless State officials would not have to be dispensed with or have their salaries cut. Speaking of abolishing the Boards the Trenton Times says:

Indeed, it may well be argued that the Boards should be abolished. They were created in 1906 "to secure the taxation of all property in the various counties of this State at its true value, in order that all property, except such as shall be exempt by law, shall bear its full, equal and just share of taxes." If, after eight years of effort the County Boards of Taxation have not been able to eliminate the discrimination in favor of individuals and taxing districts, it is doubtful whether they will ever succeed in doing so, and the more than $100,000 may as well be saved and some other plan tried.

There are a lot of expenditures being made from the State treasury that, in the opinion of the Economy and Efficiency Commission, are not just charges against it; and now that the treasury is threatened with a deficit, extraordinary efforts are being made to find something else to tax in order to produce more revenue, and a complicated system of accounts introduced to furnish an excuse for holding up bills so as to show a balance at the close of the fiscal year, the Legislature should give some attention to the work of reducing expenses.

It is also suggested that the voters might well quiz all prospective candidates for the Legislature on the subject, and try to get them to pledge themselves in favor of the abolition of the Boards. That's a cue for Union county people, and if any candidate for the Legislature wants to strengthen his cause there is no better way than to have a strong plank pledging himself to vote for the legislating out of office of these worthless bodies.

The comic papers frequently print references to country constables and their treatment of the automobilists, but such references are seldom serious. But if you want to see one of the real "rube" type in action just drift up to the center of Bernardsville on a Sunday afternoon and get a glimpse at the ridiculous traffic regulations being enforced by a man in a get-up that would do justice to any stage comedian.

That hunger-striking Socialist over in New York, now that the war has crowded all references to her out of the newspapers, is probably getting three square meals a day. There is nothing to be gained by starving, now that the newspapers don't care.

Flashlights On the War

By DONATO DI LONARDO.

All wars when not fought for liberty are but a pretext for "patriots" to sell munitions of destruction and speculate upon life's necessities.

These are the times that try men's stomachs!

It is related in Gustavus Myers' "History of the Great American Fortunes" that the late J. P. Morgan began his successful financial and "patriotic" career by selling back to the Government, during the Civil War, discarded and defective rifles which he had bought from the Government by proxy, realizing, on that transaction, quite a sum of money.

In the Spanish-American War the soldiers were fed embalmed beef, in the Russo-Japanese War, trains full of stones instead of surgical instruments and kindred appliances were shipped to the scene of operation. What kind of "patriots" will the present war develop?

"Thou shalt not kill," one, but thousands, yes.

"Love thy neighbor," but woe if a branch of your tree throws a shadow in my back yard.

Sometime ago Arthur Brisbane, in the Evening Journal, advised everybody to read "Buckle's History of Civilization" and learn that history is not a collection of dates, names of battles, or names of generals; that battles, kings, law-makers, writers, and founders of religion are more or less accidental product of the human race. That entire population, not individuals, make history, and that the character of populations depends upon climate, soil, food supply, and "the aspect of nature." Now the Hearst paper would have you believe that a couple of crowned heads are doing it all.

The Hearst papers tried their best to have this country go to war in Mexico, and sought by all means to get this Government to pick a quarrel with England, now there are no terms strong enough to condemn war.

The real Triple Entente, The Cross, The Sword, and the $.

Capital:—I want more profits. I must have new markets.

Militarism:—I will clear the way for you.

The Church:—In nomine Pater, et Filius et Spiritu Sanctus.

The actual living Trinity in chorus:—Amen.

"Don't do unto others, etc."

According to the Imperial Chancellor of Germany, it was permissable for Austria to humiliate Servia, but not for Russia to humiliate Austria.

Only yesterday the press of the country had long editorials condemning Government interference in "business." "Give business a rest," was the general cry. It looks as if when the rising cost of living proceeds slowly and methodically, no notice is taken of it, but, when, as in the present case, goes up by leaps and bounds, even the stomachs of fossilized capitalistic apologists get the cramps, and how they all cry for the Government to interfere, and curb the "greed" and "rapacity" of "business" who takes advantage of this war to "mulct" the American people. Oh consistency!.....

Commercialism is essentially immoral, legally indefensible and ethically repulsive. It destroys the finer qualities of man.

Still it is defended by the upholders of the system of the private ownership of the means of sustenance. They say:—Deny a man the opportunity to engage in business where he can see "profits" looming ahead and you will have destroyed his incentive, the mainspring of his actions.

Well then, let the incentive remain, and let us pay the price—if we can, if we cannot, why, starve of course!

"Let us stop immigration, there are too many people in the country, there isn't enough to go around," is another cry. Well immigration is now effectively stopped but the price of everything has gone higher and shops are closing their gates. How is that? "Oh, well, don't you understand, we cannot send our foodstuff out of the country." Come quick he is getting violent.

The Kaiser says, "Forward with God." The Czar says, "This is holy war." O Satan deliver us!

A news item says that an appeal has been made to the American Bible Society to furnish Bibles in different languages for the use of the soldier of the warring nations. There, the picture is now complete!

FINE BANDS WITH JOHNNY JONES' SHOWS NEXT WEEK

After all is said and done, when the circus comes to town, what you do expect and have a right to expect is a band, the big brass band that goes right ahead and tackles anything from the "Pilgrim's Chorus" to "Who Paid the Rent for Mrs. Rip VanWinkle?" The Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows, include the very best features of the circus and other kinds of out-of-door amusement enterprises especially adapted for such grand carnivals as will open at Plainfield on Monday under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

The management has included among its talent Vitucci's Royal Italian Band and Joe Oppice's Rag Time Band. You see Johnny J. Jones has improved on the old circus band. He has separated the grand, serious music from the up-to-date popular stuff so that each might be specialized and the very best results obtained. Concerts by these two bands are included in the great free act program which Mr. Jones and his troupers give to the public every performance.

The Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows begin by giving a show before the people spend one cent of money. This free act program includes concerts by the bands and the big double headed high dive act by Thomas and Margaret Quincy, champions of the world in their act. Thomas dives from a heighth of 92 feet and Margaret rfom 60 feet, each landing in a tank of water but three feet deep. Besides this there is "Baby Sue," a trick elephant. The shows include Captain Curley Watson's trained animal circue; a pit show with many curiosities and world wonders; Babcock's motordrome; Johnny J. Jones minstrel shows; Kinsel's $20,000 merry-go-round; ferris wheel; trip to Mars; Alma & Zada, giant and pigmy; Prof. George, giant midget; Edna and vicious playmates; joyland, no joke, just fun; tango palace; Roger's athletic show; flea circus, and the greatest line of concessions ever convened under one management.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The blanket sale announced below was deliberately planned to protect our customers against the rise in prices which seems bound to come this Autumn because of the European war. But we were able to more than forestall the rise, we have actually succeeded in lowering prices, from 15 to 50 per cent. below the usual figures. The reductions quoted are from prices which prevail NOW on the regularly purchased stocks on hand here and in other stores. When these supplies are disposed of prices must surely go still higher. Under these circumstances the public is strongly urged, for its own good, to lay in a full Winter supply of blankets now.

An Amazing Sale of BLANKETS

7,421 Pairs Newly Bought at 10 to 50 Per Cent. Under OLD Prices in the Face of a War Advance on Wool and Cotton

This is news that will put a smile on the face even of a blue-goggled pessimist.

Instead of sitting at home twiddling our thumbs and grumbling about the sudden rise in prices which Uncle Sam is trying to stop, we went into the market to see what could be done.

We went to headquarters. To the most celebrated maker of blankets in America. To the man who sells us 75 per cent. of our regular stock of blankets.

And We Bought His Entire Remaining Stock—7,421 Pairs, at Reductions of 10, 20, 30 to 50 Per Cent. on His Old Prices.

We accomplished this amazing thing because the war has placed the blanket industry in a very uncertain condition. Wool has gone up 15 per cent. Cotton has soared also. And manufacturers cannot get the dye which comes only from Germany.

In this uncertainty of things the manufacturer with whom we dealt, closed some mills and said: "Take my remaining stock; I will start again when the air has cleared."

While we were at his office consummating this deal an order came at much higher prices than we paid.

Of course, it is a broken stock, but in more than 7,000 pairs of blankets every wanted kind is represented.

We Shall Sell these Blankets Now at 15 to 50 Per Cent. Reduction in Prices

Among them are the celebrated "Diamond Valley" blankets, which have the reputation of being the finest in the world.

There are white blankets, red blankets, plaid blankets. Blankets for single beds, blankets for double beds, and extra sized blankets for the man who wants plenty of room.

Cotton Blankets for as Little as $1 a Pair
(in white, gray and tan)

Some of the Prices

In every instance the price is compared for identification with the prices now marked on our regularly assembled stock blankets, which themselves were bought at old low figures before the rise in wool and cotton.

"Diamond Valley" Blankets

Single bed, 60 x 90 in., $6.75 for our $9 grade.
Double bed, 70 x 90 in., $7.50 for our $10.50 grade.
Extra size, 80 x 90 in., $9 for our $12 grade.
Others, $9, $12.50 and $15.
Single bed, $8, $15 and $17.50 for our $10.50, $20, $23 grades.
Double bed, $10, $11.50, $17.50 and $19.50 for our $15, $16.50, $23 and $26 grades.

All-wool Blankets

Single bed, $10.50 for our $16.50 grades.
Double bed, $7.50 for our $10 grade.
Double bed, $8.50 for our $12 grade.
Double bed, $12.50 and $16 for our $19.50 and $24 grades.

Cotton-and-Wool Blankets

Single bed, $3.15 and $4 for our $3.75 and $5 grades.
Double bed, $4 and $5 for our $5 and $6.50 grades.

Plaid Blankets

Cotton-and-wool and some all-wool—nine grades, ranging from $4 for our $5 grades to $6.50 for our $8.50 grades.

Gray Blankets

Cotton-and-wool, large sizes, $3 for our $3.65 grades.

Crib Blankets

All-wool, 30 x 40 inches, $2 for our $4 grades.

Cotton Blankets, $1

White, gray and tan, double bed size, $1 for our $1.25 grades.

Wool Mixtures Blankets for as Little as $3
All-Wool Blankets for as Little as $6.50

And the finest blankets that are made for as much as $19.50 pair, which is one-quarter under the regular price.

Forehanded People Will Stock up for the Whole Winter

This one thing is sure; blankets cannot go lower in price. But they can go higher. What mills are running are selling only what they make and making only what they sell.

The Sale Opens Tomorrow—Wednesday

We haven't lost a moment since the blankets were purchased. And we shall not wait to get everything in spick and span order. We have simply hauled into the store the original cases, have knocked off their heads and will show and sell the blankets right out of their original cases.

Find them in the regular Blanket Store, Third Gallery, New Building, with an advance guard stretching out in front of the elevators, from the Bridge of Progress into the Old Building; also at the Motor Entrance, and Main Aisle, Old Building; also at the Subway Entrance.

It is the largest exhibit and sale of blankets, we feel sure, that New York or any other city has ever seen. It over-shadows our regular stock so much that for the time being it is practically out of sight.

Main Blanket Store, Third Gallery, New Building.

In Addition—Some English Sample Blankets at Half

Forty pairs Blankets only, from the largest blanket manufacturer in the world—an English mill that makes seven miles of blankets a day; all qualities and all just half the regular prices—now $3.75 to $10.

JAPAN'S ACT WAS BACKED BY ENGLAND

Consulted Ally Before Deciding.

WILSON IS CONFIDENT

Does Not Fear the German Ultimatum.

BRYAN ASKED TO PROTEST

Resolution Is Introduced in the House—China Now Breaks Into the Controversy.

London, Aug. 18.—The British government is naturally anxious that Japan's move in sending an ultimatum to Germany should not be misunderstood, either in Great Britain or America. It is therefore careful to point out that the Japanese ultimatum to Germany was only delivered after full consultation between Tokyo and London and with the approval and consent of the government officials of Downing street.

This means that both the ultimatum and the consequences are in accordance with and limited by the terms of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. This document expressly sets forth as one of its objects the maintenance and territorial integrity of China.

On the best authority it is said that the Japanese government has repeated to Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, the assurance contained in the ultimatum to Germany; namely, that Kinochow when surrendered by or taken from the Germans will be restored to China.

Tokyo, Aug. 18.—It is generally believed here that Japan's demand on Germany to quit the far east will be refused and that hostilities must follow. The government undoubtedly is preparing for war. The fleet is manned ready and several corps are ready to go on board the transports, which are fully provisioned.

Peking, Aug. 18.—China is deeply stirred over the Japanese ultimatum to Germany. Her statesmen see in it an attempt on Japan's part to take possession of the rich German colony. It is reported here that a strong detachment of Chinese troops has been started toward Kiauchau apparently for the purpose of forestalling any outsiders and recapturing the territory for the Chinese republic.

Copies of the Japanese ultimatum to Germany were received here today. Simultaneously came word that Japanese transports have been sighted off Dalny headed south. It is believed to be the Japanese plan to have a strong Japanese force within striking distance of the Shantung peninsula when the time limit of the ultimatum expires.

Washington, Aug. 18.—A resolution directing the secretary of state to protest to Japan because of Japan's ultimatum to Germany was introduced in the house by Representative Britton, Republican, of Illinois.

In a statement Mr. Britten says that Japan's action appears to be a warlike step to gain a big hold on Chinese territory, and the United States should see to it that the territory entity of China is not broken up in this manner.

The Britten resolution directs Secretary Bryan to inform the Japanese government "that the United States views with concern the transfer by force of arms of any Chinese territory to Japan or any other foreign nation or any transfer of territory without the unconditional consent of the Chinese government."

Resolution Goes to Committee.

The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

That the United States is satisfied with assurances respecting the territorial integrity of China contained in the Japanese ultimatum to German was made known promptly at the White House.

The president told callers the United States does not question the good faith of Japan in announcing her intention to restore to China the territory of Kiauchau, from which she has demanded that Germany withdraw.

It was clearly indicated that the United States sees no reason for raising objections to Japan's course and intends to remain passive in the struggle in the far east.

The president said that as a neutral the United States was called upon to keep silent and even expressed the suggestion that the newspapers refrain from speculation on the subject.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. —Adv.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

At the Plainfield Theatre, on Thursday night, John C. Fisher will present a new play by Paul Wilstach called "What Happened at 22," which is destined for a run in New York at the Harris Theatre. Mr. Wilstach, who has had several successes to his credit, was for several years personal manager for Richard Manfield and is recognized as an author of ability. The scenes of his new play are laid in New York city and it has been his endeavor to present the evil-doer in his true colors and at the same time expose the fallacy of accepting so-called circumstantial evidence in capital cases. It is said that in "What Happened at 22," Mr. Wilstach has contributed a play in which tension continues until the fall of the curtain, leaving the auditor in doubt of the outcome until the very finish. A rather remarkable cast has been gathered together to delineate the various characters in this new play, among them being Reginald Barlow, Frank Kemble Cooper, Malcolm Duncan, Robert Fischer, Charles Abbe, J. K. Hutchinson, Wadsworth Harris, Carroll McComas, Estar Banks, Elizabeth Ariaans and Helen Crane.

Miss Carroll McComas

Who will play a leading part in Paul Wilstach's new play, "What Happened at 22," at Plainfield Theatre, Thursday night.

"THE LINE UP."

Former Police Commissioner George S. Dougherty is now a moving picture actor. "The Line Up at Police Headquarters" with Dougherty in the leading role is a six-reel feature film, said to be based on actual happenings at police headquarters and dealing with the facts of a great diamond robbery which occurred while Dougherty was at the head of the detective department. The picture will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre for an engagement of two days, commencing Friday, August 21, with matinee daily. "The Line Up" is on distinctly different lines from anything that has yet been shown on the screen, in fact it contains more real sensations of an unobjectionable kind than any producer seems to have been able to offer up to the present time. It's simply a detective melodrama in modern dress. The most modern and approved methods of both crook and detective are shown in slightly exaggerated, but perfectly plausible style. Dougherty's a pretty healthy "Cupid," but he plays the part and shows us a new way to join two loving hearts. The commissioner says, "Vernon, I want you to round up that gang tonight and get them alive." Although Vernon is obliged to take a dive from an ocean liner into the wintery waters of New York Bay in order to take "Dopey Dan" to the headquarters instead of sending him to the morgue, he don't hesitate a moment. He catches another one about to escape on a Curtis hydroplane; by a flying leap he gets en "eyebrow" hold on the tail of the machine and an exciting gun fight is pulled off at sixty miles an hour through the water. Another chooses a jump from the tower of a skyscraper rather than arrest, but he's caught in a net.

HAD FINE YEAR AT STATE CAMP

Many Plainfield Boys Took An Active Part In Work at Lake Wawayanda.

WILL CLOSE THURSDAY

Forty-Five Youths, Representing the Plainfield Association, Enjoyed Privileges During the Summer—Holmes Clawson a Champion.

Members of the fourth section of campers to go from the local Y. M. C. A. to the State Boys' Camp at Lake Wawayanda, are expected home Thursday, and their return will mark the close of one of the most successful seasons in the history of the popular summering spot. The first section arrived at the camp June 25, and since that time a large attendance of boys has been present at the rendezvous. The youngsters who go to Wawayanda are from Plainfield, Rutherford, Morristown, Ridgewood and in fact, all of the communities in this section of the State. The camp has been in continuous existence for fourteen years under the directorship of State Boys' Secretary Charles R. Scott, who is assisted by Boy's Secretary C. William Bingeman, of the local association.

Plainfield boys, as in other years have done remarkably well during the summer and enrolled on the Queen City roster are many of the leaders in the camp activities. The local delegation, numbering forty-five boys, was prominent in every phase of the camp work and records remain at the lake significant of the accomplishments of the Plainfielders.

Lake Wawayanda is situated in Sussex county. It is about four miles from where the New York State line runs through the Warwick Valley. Tramping parties often make the trip to the "Queen Village" of the Empire State and are rewarded with a view of the valley. Lake Wawayanda is about three miles long and little more than a half mile in width. It is 1,300 feet above sea level and is said to be the highest lake in the State.

The first camp of the Y. M. C. A. boys at Wawayanda was established in 1886 by the late Sumner F. Dudley, of Orange. Mr. Dudley's camp was later removed to Lake Champlain. Mr. Scott was called to be secretary of boys' work of the State Y. M. C. A. in 1900. In 1901 the Jersey boys had a camp at Wawayanda. The camp has been there ever since, and Mr. Scott has been constantly in charge.

Each year the camp has grown, and this year several hundred will have been added to the total of 2,000 boy campers enrolled in the last thirteen years. One visitors' day this season 350 campers and friends sat down to dinner in the lodge.

The lodge is on the mainland. A cable ferry connects the shore of the lake with an island a short distance out, and it is on this island that the tents are pitched. In these tents live groups of eight in charge of a leader. The leaders, fifty-two in number, include college students, clergymen, business men, Y. M. C. A. secretaries and instructors from schools. There are forty-nine older boys who act as aids to the leaders.

A friendly rivalry exists between each of the tent groups. The crucial test comes on visitors' day, when each outfit strives to make its tent look the most attracive. Athletic rivalry between the associations of the various communities is ample incentive to keen competition.

In the athletic events Montclair won the championship of the first section, Morristown of the second, and Plainfield of the third. The fourth section's competition has not yet been concluded. The high individual point winners in the three sections were Clement Boyd, of Montclair; Holmes Clawson, of Plainfield, and Theodore Hoofnagle, of Montclair.

Aside from the athletic games there are cross-country runs and tramps and swimming. The latter is carefully regulated, the boys being allowed in the water for an early morning plunge, a morning swim and a dip just before supper. The swimming periods are short, and three crews of life-savers as well as a quota of the camp leaders guard against accident.

In the evening there are all kinds of entertainments. Speakers address the boys, and visitors to the camp who are possessed of histrionic ability often consent to display their talent. The finest sport of all is when the boys furnish their own fun. Sometimes it is a mock trial or a minstrel show, while it may take the form of a circus.

To study the methods employed at the camp in order that he may apply them on his return to China, P. C. Chang, of Tientsin, China, spent several weeks there, recently leaving to attend summer school at Columbia University.

The camp at Lake Wawayanda has come to be regarded in Y. M. C. A. councils as an intergral part of the association's work. It is run at a loss, which is made up by patrons who are agreed that it has long since passed the experimental stage.

The following Plainfield boys attended the State camp during the past summer:

Kenneth Stover, S. Bosnal Stover, Witter Clawson, Harold Nielsen, William A. Morrell, Linsey T. Bohl, Lewis F. Zeek, Charles Gates, Duncan Taylor, Elmer Blimm, John Hamann, Robert Moyer, Mac Fullerton, Harold Condict, Holmes Clawson, Russell Tomlinson, Walter Brown, Harold Zeek, Walter Penny, Harold Tomlinson, Everett Case, Seymour L. Cone, Bound Brook; Wesley Johnson, J. Hayword Erickson, Roy Hafner, William R. Urch, Randolph M. Stelle, John F. Endress, Harry S. Day, Norman McGee, Warren H. Mumford, William Ross, Wallace Wegleu, Gustave Wegleu, John Durocher, Edward A. Drake, Louis T. Moore.

The leaders of the various parties this year at the camp from Plainfield, were Henry Welle, Charles H. Line, C. William Bingeman, Prof. A. W. Houck, Carroll Taylor, William Bachmen, Howard Parry.

ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF SUMMER WORK

Children Will Demonstrate Their Efficiency In Playground Endeavor.

On Saturday afternoon of this week the annual public playground exhibition and demonstration of activities will be held at Parker Field. This occasion brings together the children who have attended the four school playgrounds and the boys who have used Parker Field, many of whom will participate in the games, folk dances and races to be held. The children have been carefully drilled in preparation for the event and the playground supervisors are confident that Saturday's exhibition will be the most successful yet given. The following program has been prepared.

Hungarian folk dance (four school playgrounds), interplayground relay race, ring games (drop the handkerchief, farmer in the dell, the squirrel), folk dances for the smaller children (carrousel, I see you), obstacle race (Parker Field boys), Parker Field Junior League relay race, Norwegian mountain dance (four school playgrounds), girls potato race, active games (dodge ball, cat and mouse), May pole dance (four school playgrounds).

The industrial work done by the children of the different playgrounds will be shown. Many children have developed surprising skill with the needle and in basket-making and the articles made by them will be displayed in a prominent place.

As in former years the Playground Commission has arranged to have street cars at each playground at 1:30 Saturday afternoon. The children are expected to be at their respective playgrounds at that time. The exhibition at Parker Field will begin at 2:30.

It is hoped that there may be a very large attendance of parents and citizens in general. The exhibition offers a fine opportunity to observe the work being done at the city's play centers.

ARMY-NAVY GAME MAY YET BE PLAYED IN NEW YORK

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 18.—Though it had been regarded as a settled fact here that the Army-Navy football game would be played in Washington on November 28 of this year, the official announcement was made today that the capital city had been bandoned as a possible scene of the game and that negotiations would have to begin again.

The Army representatives insist that they must have 20,000 seats placed at their disposal, and this, of course, means that grounds with accommodations for 40,000 must be procured. The Navy is willing to accept Philadelphia, but the only possible grounds which will meet the conditions are the parks of the professional ball clubs.

UMPIRE HAS COLD FEET.

Chicago, Aug. 18—Umpire Van-Sycle was given ten days' notice of his release yesterday by President Gilmore, of the Federal League, because, in the President's opinion, the arbitrator did not properly enforce the rules in Sunday's Chicago-Baltimore game. During an argument over a technical point VanSycle, it is said, several times called time on Manager Tinker, telling the local leader to send up the proper batter, or he would forfeit the game to the visitors, but he did not carry out his threat, and his not doing so was displeasing to Mr. Gilmore.

MEETING TONIGHT TO PLAN FOR LEAGUE

Delegates of Five Sunday-schools Will Gather In Hope Chapel.

A meeting for the purpose of organizing a Junior Sunday-school Basketball League this winter, will be held tonight in the meeting rooms of Hope chapel. Delegates of five teams that have heretofore played independent games will convene and talk over the possibility of such a movement, and if it is decided to have a league a schedule will be made up in the near future. The schools that will be represented at the meeting are Hope chapel, Heavenly Rest, Grace, St. Stephen's and Holy Cross.

The session will be open to any managers of Sunday-school teams in this city who would like to enter the league, providing they can support a team and can secure a floor to play on. At least six teams are needed to form a good league and eight would not be too many. These teams that have been mentioned have been playing for the past two or three years and a league would undoubtedly prove a good as well as a successful thing. There are any number of basketball fans in this city who follow the sport all during the season and there is no doubt but what large crowds would attend the games, especially if the league was close and hotly contested. Not since the old Sunday-school League three years ago, has this city been up to its standard in the court game and a good league is what is needed now.

If a good organization is launched this fall on a solid basis it is probable that some local merchant will be willing to donate a trophy or a prize of some sort which would make the league all the more interesting and would help to maintain the interest of both players and supporters. The meeting tomorrow night will begin at 8 o'clock and all delegates are urged to be present.

ROD AND REEL

The fishing has been very funny recently and no one seems to be able to account for the way the fish, especially the weakfish, act. All last week, as for several weeks past, the weakfish were very plentiful, but suddenly they stopped biting and it kept the guides and other fishermen busy hunting them. All of Saturday and Sunday the boats could be seen scurrying about from one place to another in search of the fish. The regulars have many reasons for the sudden falling off in the catch. Some of them think that the constant moving of the boats, the noise and the men swimming about drives the fish away, as it is usually on a Sunday when they bite poor, and that is the day when the most boats are out. But the fish were scarce all over Saturday and Sunday. The Shrewsbury River fishermen found them hard to locate, and the fishing along the shore in the surf, with the possible exception of fluke fishing, was very poor. One man said that in his opinion it was a question of food only, and that if we had a good storm it would stir up the food and send it ashore, and then the fish would follow.

Fresh water fishing in the Newark lakes is much better than it has been at any time since the season opened on June 15. The bass fishing at Branch Brook Lake has been very good and the anglers are taking advantage of it to round out their vacations. A New York expert, with the casting rod, tried the fishing there last week and surprised himself by catching twelve black bass by casting. He pronounced the fishing equal to that in many of the more isolated lakes in his own State.

Surf fishermen are catching fluke, sea bass, weakfish and croakers from the Highlands to Sea Side Park, with an occasional channel bass or striped bass to enliven the interest. Fluke have been biting well at the Highlands. At Long Branch, Asbury Park, Belmar, Bradley Beach and Sea Side Park, several bluefish were caught while four large striped bass were taken from the surf at Manasquan Inlet.

Last week was a banner period for the fishermen that frequent the waters of Staten Island Sound and Raritan Bay. Keyport fishing grounds were patronized by fishermen from all parts of the State and not one boat returned without fish.

The bluefish are in close to shore and the Seabright fishermen are getting them. Some of the fishermen stopped along the Shrewsbury River, Sunday afternoon, where they sold the fish as cheap as 25 cents for a six-pounder. The fish run about four to six pounds and thousands of them were taken by these professional fishermen. The summer residents at Water Witch bought hundreds of them at 4 cents a pound.

Striped bass are biting at the Highland Beach bridge. Saturday afternoon one man caught two, each of which weighed eight pounds.

NATIONAL OPEN GOLF TOURNEY STARTS TODAY

Chicago, Aug. 18—Nearly all the 132 golfers entered in the national open, professionals and several well-known amateurs of the United States and Canada, yesterday swarmed over the links of the Midlothian Country Club in the final practice play.

The first qualifying round of eighteen holes will be played today, sixty-six players participating. The thirty-two players whose scores are best will compete in the finals on Thursday and Friday, with the thirty who will qualify tomorrow.

G. O. P. BALLISTS WHO REPRESENTED PLAINFIELD

The reversible battery of the Plainfield G. O. P. baseball team failed to hold its own in the game with the Elizabeth team at the annual outing at Witzel's Grove, last Saturday, and the locals took the short end of a 10 to 8 score. Eisenbauer and Schiller were the pride of the locals, but one Erxleben spoiled the former's record and started him toward the bench when he clouted the ball in the first inning so far that row boats were necessary to get it.

At the start, when the Betseytowners scored four runs it looked as if the game would be a farce, but the locals settled down and tied matters to a five all score in the third. In the middle of the game the local battery reversed and Schiller took his turn. The Elizabeth batters hit the ball hard and cinched the game in the fifth with a quartet of tallies, while the Plainfielders were blanked. With the score ten to six in the seventh, the local team made a fine try to overcome their opponents' lead and scored two runs before the last out was made.

The lineup was as follows:

Elizabeth—Clough, lf; McShane, 3b; Erxleben, 1b and p; Morganroth, ss; Boettner, p; Huber, cf; Arthurs, 2b and c; D'Espies, c; English, rf.

Plainfield—Dillon, 2b; J. Smith, lf; Eisenbauer, p and c; Schiller, c and p; Fischer, ss; Prudhon, 3b, Moore, 1b; McCauley, rf; Coughlin, cf.

Score by innings:

LOCAL COPS MEET NEWARK CHAMPIONS

Plainfielders Will Take Over Strong Lineup to Down Rivals.

With Warry McLaughlin and Tommy Mullin for a battery, the local cops will give the Newark policemen a hard fight for the victory in the game that will be played at Newark tomorrow afternoon. The Newarkers are the acknowledged champions of the State, having defeated every team they met and have taken one decision from the locals. The teams are evenly matched and it was only after a hard fight that the Newarkers took the first encounter. The locals are going over to that city tomorrow for revenge and will probably get it.

Jack Leary, the star twirler of the Newark police, will be on the mound to serve up his assortment and will be received by Langhead, who is not only a good catcher, but a fine sticker. Nelson, the Westfield man, who has been playing with the locals all season, will cover the keystone bag and Fritts will handle the difficult corner. A large delegation of rooters will probably accompany the locals to Newark and cheer them on. Members of the Newark Board of Police Commissioners and the chief of police have been invited to attend the contest and it is more than likely that they will attend. They will leave at 12:45. The teams will line up as follows:

LAURELS AND RED STARS FIGHTING HARD FOR TITLE

The Laurels and the Red Stars are having a hot fight for first honors in the Parker Field Middle Baseball League, although the former aggregation has led the league by a small margin for some time. The standings to date show the Laurels one and one-half games ahead of their rivals, with a total of fifteen victories, four defeats and one tie.

The heavy slugging of the leaders is one reason why they keep the lead. Butler leads that team with an average of .633, while the lowest man on the team bats .354. Brennan leads the pitchers with a percentage of .800. The league standing and the leaders' standings follow:

WILL HIKE TO MANASQUAN AND CAMP FOR ONE WEEK

Arthur McKay and Robert Moyer, both of Kensington avenue, and students of Plainfield High School, left this morning, on a walking trip that will cover a period of about ten days. The hikers will also enjoy camping for one week. This morning they took a trolley car to New Brunswick and from there will strike out for their destination, which is Manasquan. They expect to reach Freehold late this afternoon and will camp there over night and go to Manasquan tomorrow.

They will take things easy because of the hot weather and will probably cover about twenty-five miles a day and walk some at night when it is cooler. They will return home in about a week.

ANTI-TRUST BILL.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The Senate has made so much progress in its consideration of the Clayton anti-trust bill that the Democratic leaders today were expressing the hope that a week or ten days would see the bill passed by the Senate.

WAITING TO HEAR FROM THE MAYOR

Borough Citizens' Committee Wants to Know When Mass Meetings Will Be Held.

With the consolidation election proposed to be held in North Plainfield but five weeks off, borough citizens are beginning to wonder when the first of the series of open meetings for the discussion of the proposition will be held. When Mayor Clark originally issued the proclamation for the special election he announced that a number of mass meetings would be planned to which citizens would be welcome for the purpose of expressing their views openly on the subject. Up to the present time nothing definite has been made known to the many boroughites who have interested themselves in the matter.

A short time ago one hundred North Plainfield voters consented to act as a civic committee in the matter, but interest gradually died out and at the present time the consolidation election committee is an organization in name only. One of the members of the committee stated, this morning, that he had not been approached by the Mayor or any member of the Council since he signified his willingness of joining the body and further declared that he would like to know just what is going to be done prior to the balloting.

It is the opinion of many of those interested in the subject that to hold an election without first calling several mass meetings would be folly, as there are many voters in the borough who are acquainted with the points for and against the issue at stake.

REAL EXCITEMENT IN NEW MARKET ON SUNDAY

Joseph Holfman and another Plainfielder; spent the greater part of Saturday afternoon in reclining on the turf of Vail's Grove, New Market, and taking frequent nips at two bottles well supplied with spirituous liquors. As a result when they got up from their couch of green, as the afternoon waned their state of mind was such that they would have taken a crack at Jack Johnson or any other pugilist of note had he been in the immediate neighborhood. As it happened Frank and Alexander Stillwaggon, sons of Alexander Stillwaggon, proprietor of the Lake House at New Market, were the unfortunates to fall amuck of the wouldbe puglists. Frank and Alexander, the former of whom is sixteen and the latter twelve, were standing on the Washington avenue bridge over New Market lake watching fishermen as the two approached. "What are you doing here?" the two asked the Stillwaggon offsprings, and with those words they let fly with their fists.

Frank received a couple of stiff blows, one on each side of his jaw, loosening a couple of his teeth. Alexander employed dodging tactics and escaped with one blow under his eye. Harry Tomlinson, who happened to be nearby, ran to the assistance of the boys and by moral persuasion, induced the two to desist temporarily in their attack. Frank took advantage of the lull in the state of affairs and made good his escape.

The fellow whose identity is not known, saw Frank doing a marathon towards the village and decided to vacate. The last seen of him, he was cutting across the field in the general direction of Plainfield. Holfman, who was being swayed back and forth between a desire to take another crack at Alexander and the moral persuasion of Tomlinson, indiscretely remained upon the scene.

Frank made the trip to the Lake House and was returning with his father and rallying minute men along the way in the persons of Joseph Penrose, Edward Johnson, Richard Schworer, Karl Beilen and Alexander Penrose. What they did to Holfman was a shame.

After they were through with him he was taken before Judge Rene P. F. von Minden. But Stillwaggon, Sr., in the meantime had decided that Holfman had received punishment enough for his offense and decided not to make any complaint against him. As the released Holfman was disappearing toward Plainfield, in the fast falling shade of eventide, the curtain dropped on the most exciting time that New Market had had in many a year.

LOYAL DAUGHTERS OUTING.

The Loyal Daughters' Bible Class of Hope chapel, have completed arrangements for their second annual outing to be held Saturday, at which time, Palisade Park will be the destination. A special trolley has been chartered to convey the members of the class and friends to the Park, the car leaving Grant avenue and Front at 8:05, and will make the trip without any transfer being necessary. The return trip will be started in good time.

DEATH OF YOUNG CHILD.

Miss Agnes Bernadyno, aged one year and four months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bernadyno, of 825 South Second street, died this morning. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of the parents. The interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

COUPLE MARRIED AFTER ELOPEMENT

Miss Edith Hamilton and Clifford Vail, Well Known Here, Wedded Sunday.

Although no official announcement of the marriage has as yet been received, it became known today, that Miss Edith Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hamilton, of East Seventh street, and Clifford Vail, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Vail, of Norwood avenue, were married in Westfield, Sunday afternoon. Members of the Vail family, this morning, stated that the couple were married, but owing to parental objection on the bride's side no announcement has been made.

Relatives of Mr. Vail admit that the wedding ceremony was performed following an elopement which had evidently been carefully planned, as neither family had the slightest knowledge of the affair until after the couple were wedded. Both are well known in this city where they have been life-long residents. Mr. Vail was graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of 1908, and Miss Hamilton was graduated in 1913 from the same institution. While in school the bride gained prominence in scholarship lines, while Mr. Vail was a versatile athlete. He gained considerable renown on the basketball court and later represented the Y. M. C. A. in basketball and gymnastic events, he being a finished gymnast.

Upon his graduation from High School, Mr. Vail entered the employ of Frank J. Hubbard to take up surveying, but later went West, where he continued in this line of work. Returning to Plainfield several months ago the bridegroom again took up his work here and recently entered the employ of a South Jersey concern and he now makes his home in that section of the State. Efforts to reach the Hamilton family or the newlyweds this morning, proved futile and as a result nothing is known concerning their plans for the future.

WHITE SUNDAY SERVICE AT TEMPLE BAPTIST.

Unique Plan For Observing Day By Sunday-school—Musical Sunday Next.

The Temple Baptist Bible School held a special service on Sunday, at 9:45 a. m., which they designated as White Sunday. The entire front of the platform was decorated with a profusion of white flowers. The opening exercises, consisting of responsive scripture reading and singing, was printed on a white card and distributed among the members of the school. All the book-racks presented a white appearance as each contained a white fan provided for the school.

George V. Taylor, of Brooklyn, made the address of the morning. He has been engaged in Sunday-school work since he was a boy. He has just returned from Europe, and gave a few interesting events from his recent trip there. He spent sometime in Belgium, also in Paris and London, and his account of his experiences was especially interesting, and secured the eager attention of every one. He related a number of amusing incidents that especially pleased the younger members of the school.

The secretary's report showed a satisfactory gain in attendance over the corresponding date a year ago, indicating that the school is slowly but gradually growing in numbers.

Part of the white decorations consisted of what seemed to be a large white box in front of the pulpit, banked on either side with white flowers. Just before the school was dismissed, the secretaries came forward and the white object proved to be a number of boxes containing packages done up in white paper. These packages were distributed among the school and a gift appropriate for each one was found inside the white wrapper.

Rev. W. W. Pratt, of this city, offered the closing prayer. The service was much enjoyed by all present, and was considered a decided success and all seemed to realize that the White Sunday was emphasized in a pleasant manner.

Next Sunday is designated as Musical Sunday. Arthur S. Mosher, the leader of the orchestra, expects to provide some extra selections from the orchestra. A trombone player of considerable local prominence in Brooklyn, is to give one or more solos. Some prominent Plainfield singers are on the program for solos and duets, and a large chorus of young singers has been engaged to participitate in the musical program.

A cordial invitation is extended to all. The services begins promptly at 9:45 a. m.

BOROUGH CHIEF TO RETURN.

Chief George Weiss, of the North Plainfield police department, who has been camping during the past two weeks in the vicinity of Washington Rock, will return to his duties tomorrow morning. On his return, Marshal Keller will leave on his annual vacation.

REV. WARD DEAD AT NEWBURG

now I know. This is my Easter morning. I am glad I had the pain and the suffering, for it has brought me to the triumph for which I have labored and in which I have believed. I made no mistake—redemption and immortality are here. I know it now, before it was only belief. It matters not the lower criticism or the higher criticism—they are nothing. I know now that I have life and immortality through Christ. O, how glorious; I have preached faith, now I know. The sufferings of years are nothing to this glory at the close of life. All that I believed I now know. It is glory, it is ecstacy; I know that faith is victorious; there is no doubt; it is true. Dear loved ones about me, it is the joy of heaven in my soul, in this last hour with you. Mother and the children and the saints are around us, and I am so glad that I know and that I can tell it—salvation, eternal life, through the precious Christ. Soon, just a little while, and we shall all be together again, wherever God shall appoint us. Oh, it is glorious."

At this point Mr. Ward turned on his bed, reached out his arms, and placing them about the Rev. Frederick E. Whitney, his life long friend, who had been with him throughout his illness, and kissing him said to the rector, "Proclaim the truth with power, tell your congregations all is true. You are so strong, so able. Let devotion ever be with you, everywhere you preach, give this my message—I now know the gospel is true, it is not a belief, now I know it. Bring this to the knowledge of all whom you can reach." Then, continuing his general talk, he said: "I think of those to whom, with my poor hands I have broken the body of Christ, to whom I have given the cup of His blood. How glad I am that I was a priest of God. It was no mistake. My flock at Lowell—the dear ones, too, I minister to now. Tell them that Heaven is real, that an existence of glory awaits them. How glad I am that I could serve them in Christ throughout these years. Poor me, to proclaim them His words of Life. And the children, the blessed children, whom I have received into the fold. Christ himself said of them, 'Suffer the little children and forbid them not to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven.' What a comfort to me now, that I have laid the hands of baptism on so many dear children. How it rejoices me now that I am where my earthly life ends. I send to my dear people this, my last message on earth—'What I have preached to you by faith is true. Now I know that it is true.'"

Giving to each at his bedside the final blessing, Mr. Ward lapsed into unconsciousness and soon after passed away.

Funeral services will be held in Newburgh on Friday at 11 a. m. and interment will be here.

RELATIVES OF "SLIM" CASHMAN ARE FOUND

A letter to the Plainfield Daily Press which was published in this paper, yesterday, resulted in the finding of a relative of "Slim Jim" Cashman, formerly of this city, who was killed in Marston, Iowa, the latter part of last week. The communication, received from George Tucker, of Chicago, Ill., requested that relatives of the dead man in this city be notified of his death and preparations are now being made by his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Christiansen, of 2,000 George street, to have the body brought East for burial.

Cashman, until May 17, was an inmate of the sanitarium at Glen Gardner, but escaped from that institution and came to his former home in this city. He remained with relatives here for two weeks and then mysteriously disappeared. Since that time nothing has been heard from him and the news of his death came as a complete surprise last night.

He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Christiansen, Mrs. Mary McMurtry, of 1275 George street, and Mrs. Raymond Scott, of 28 Whitewood avenue, and also one brother, Gerald Cashman, of Somerville. He was at one time well known in this city.

DUTCH ARMS BAND TO PLAY.

The Dutch Arms Band of Trinity Reformed church, will journey tomorrow evening to South Branch, where they will take part in the annual harvest home of that place. Three auto buses will convey the local organization to their destination. Among the special musical numbers arranged by the band are vocal solos by Miss Etta Raybert, and cornet solos by Miss Dorothy Seader. The buses will leave Trinity church at 6 o'clock.

POPE REPORTED ILL.

London, Aug. 18—A telegram from Milan, received by the Chronicle reports that the Pope is in such a serious condition that it has created much alarm at the Vatican and elsewhere. His Holiness is said to be suffering from a high fever.

CHAPTER VII.

Tanning a Bearskin.

IN the morning the first thing I determined to do was to get that skin into some sort of condition. I laid it out on some cedar logs and fleshed it clean by scraping it off with rocks and pulling it over the logs.

Next I took a sheet of birch bark and made a water-tight dish. Filling this with water, I threw in some small pieces of rotten wood and began to steep it over the fire. A birch bark dish will never burn below the water line.

When the mixture had steeped enough I spread the bear hide flat on the ground with the hair side down and poured the liquid from the birch bark dish upon it. By repeating this process several times the skin became tanned to a certain extent.

A thorough drying was needed now. I singled out two saplings about the proper distance apart, and, stretching the skin as much as I could, I laced it to the slender trunks with cedar bark.

I had yet to work the skin and make it pliable and soft.

Off and on I worked on that hide for about three days. During those days I walked back to the trap and brought the remainder of the meat to my camp.

Tearing with the grain, I ripped the meat into strips with my hands, roasting some for immediate use and putting the rest in the smoke hole. I used quantities of dirty wood in this smoking process, as I could get up a lot of smoke that way. This smoked meat wasn't particularly pleasing to look at, but it would keep and was nourishing.

While this was not the first time I had ever trapped a bear in my life, it was the first time I had ever eaten any of the meat.

In my years of experience as a guide I had hunted and trapped all kinds of game—animals and birds. But I had never eaten a pound of wild meat in my life, because I never liked it particularly. In fact, I had never eaten much fresh meat.

Now I was compelled to eat it. I didn't relish it a bit, but after I devoured some I always felt stronger, and I knew that it was just what I needed.

Aside from the comfort of having that bearskin to throw over me at night and the supply of food I had obtained, I had secured in the sinews of that creature a lasting cord for my fire kindler. The inner lining bark of the cedar, while it had answered the purpose after a fashion, was not the best thing for sawing back and forth. It wore out too quickly.

With the sinew string I would not have to use any care for fear of its breaking. I could work the bow with all my strength and the cord would not be affected in any way, producing the friction in much less time.

There is no known substance for sinew that can equal its toughness and lasting qualities. The Indians have a way of chewing it and stripping it into thin fibers, which they use as thread to sew moccasins and rawhide.

I hadn't reached the sewing stage just yet.

Since I had trapped the bear something had been prowling around my camp at night. I could tell by the sound that it wasn't a very large animal, but as it kept coming I became curious to see what it might be.

First I thought that the meat in my lean-to might have attracted a wildcat. Then the idea of a bear cub came into my mind.

Anyway, I was bound to find out just what it was, so one night just before getting ready to turn in I let my fire burn pretty low and sat up watching for some signs of the visitor.

On the other nights the sound of crackling twigs had always come just after my fire had burned out.

Scarcely had the last glimmer of my fire flickered away when off in the darkness to my right came the expected sound. I had almost dozed off as I sat there, but I woke up quickly and listened.

Straining my eyes in the direction of the noise, I could barely make out the outline of some animal. It was impossible to tell what it was, but I knew it was dark colored.

As if suddenly switched on by an unseen electric current, two balls of light flashed in the darkness. The creature was looking at me too! The fire was between us, and as a lazy flame sputtered a moment before fading away I could see the reflection of the firelight dancing in those eyes!

Presently the eyes disappeared. I seized a smouldering brand, and, fanning it into flame, rushed toward the spot.

I was on the right track sure enough, for I nearly fell over whatever it was. It was so slow in getting away that I managed to get it between the dying fire and me.

I was now convinced that the animal was a bear cub by the way it acted. Through the dim light from my brand, which was already burning low again, I saw that the creature was black. I couldn't see clearly enough to determine the head and hind, but I felt sure that my company was a clumsy young bear.

My first thought was to catch him alive.

The little fellow made a sudden turn and almost dodged past me, but I hurled the brand at him and drove him back toward the fire. He was literally between two fires!

As the brand struck the ground it went out. With that the animal turned and ran directly toward me. Again he tried to rush by me, but I jumped in front of him and stopped him with my legs.

Then I jumped again, but in a different direction! My supposed bear cub had turned out to be a hedgehog, and for some moments I was fully occupied removing quills from my legs. My bark chaps were ample protection against briers and brush, but not against quills of hedgehogs.

My third week in the wilderness was already drawing to a close. Physically I was perfectly well. I had plenty of food and a comfortable bearskin, but mentally I was suffering.

It was terribly lonesome!

The biggest temptation I ever had in my whole life came on the morning of Aug. 28. I was on my way to the spring and had just stepped out of a clump of bushes when I saw a real live human being kneeling down to get a drink. It was a man! I was so amazed that I couldn't move. I was just about to turn away and dash back into the timber when he looked up and saw me.

He jumped back a little and stood looking at me keenly.

Then the man said, "Hello, Joe!" in a kind of hesitating manner.

I had never seen him before in my life, and an almost overpowering desire came upon me to talk to him—just a word or two with another human being!

"It will be all off—it will be all off!" kept singing through my brain. I stood there dumb for a second, then turned and went back into the woods. There I peered through the trees and watched the man go off to the left and disappear.

I never caught another glimpse of that man again until after I had come out of the forest. He proved to be a Maine guide. Afterward he told me I was a wild looking thing in my bronze skin and scraggly beard.

After seeing that one human being it was worse for me than ever. How much easier it was to find food, fire and shelter than mental peace and contentment!

Since getting my bearskin I had become obsessed with the idea that the game wardens were on my trail, and I worked myself up into a bitter frame of mind concerning them. But I want to confine this particular phase of my mental suffering to another chapter.

After seeing the man at the spring I hurried back to my camp and made quick preparations for getting out of that part of the country. I put everything I had in my pack, including dried berries, smoked fish and a quantity of smoked and dried meat. Then I rolled up my bearskin, placed it on top of the load and started down the trail.

Fearing that the man might tell people he had seen me in that vicinity, I left a note for visitors on a tree close by the lean-to announcing that I should not return there.

Then with my head down I walked and walked for miles. I don't know exactly where I slept that night in the forest, but it was somewhere with my back against a tree.

The next day I threw up a shelter on the northwest side of Bear mountain, which I used as a sort of headquarters for awhile.

Constantly being obliged to wage battles with myself there in the wilderness has meant big things for me, which I keenly realize now that it is all over. It opened a new line of thought I had never followed before.

Among other reflections alone in the woods I thought how sympathy was wasted out in the civilized world, especially in regard to the so called poorer class. I made up my mind that it is the middle class that suffers most. The middle class family that experiences reverses has a comparison of living—just as I had in the forest—which makes it harder to bear.

Those who have known nothing but poverty all their lives do not have this comparison, for they never had anything to lose. Yet nine-tenths of human sympathy goes their way simply because the human being in comfortable circumstances allows himself to judge the man and woman living in poverty from his own plane.

This thought led me on to admitting that there is more real contentment in some hovels of the very poor than there is in some of the homes of the wealthy.

If I could have had just one human companion in the wilderness I would have been perfectly contented away from the luxury of the world. Human companionship is the greatest luxury I know of.

My mind was starving!

I began to wander farther from my lean-to, leaving it for whole days.

On rainy nights I crept into some thicket to rest, while on fair ones I would pick out some tree and curl up on the ground close to the trunk.

Every day I would say, "I'll stick it out just for today."

Twice along the trails I had come upon the carcass of a deer, which in each instance had evidently been killed by wildcats. But in both cases the skin was so badly decomposed that it was impossible to use any of it.

A short time later I passed the body of a deer still warm. A cat must have killed it just as I approached and was possibly hiding near me in the thicket.

Here was an unexpected find. While it was a small deer, it offered some sort of a skin, and every bit would help me now.

I hunted around for the wildcat, but it was nowhere to be seen.

Then I began to search for rocks with which to skin the animal, and presently finding some I commenced to work.

Skinning a deer is a very different proposition from skinning a bear. Breaking the skin is not so difficult, and when once it is broken it peels off very easily.

After completing the task I cut off what venison I needed and hunted for a place to camp. I really dreaded the night now. It brought too many thought pictures of the outside world with it.

I camped under the shelter of a big spruce blowdown that night. Having an extra skin and a fresh supply of meat helped me to decide to stick it out a little longer, which I did before I fell asleep.

I felt myself very close to the wild creatures. I understood them because I was living among them and had lived among them before.

Whenever I chanced to come across a deer on one of the trails that deer knew instinctively the moment she saw me whether or not I had an idea of doing her harm. She understood me very quickly, and I understood her. That is why the red deer and the little white fawn that came to my spring every morning were such good friends of mine.

There isn't an animal in the forest that doesn't want to make friends with man.

I had a flock of partridges in the woods so tame that two of them would actually follow behind me on the trail. I used to laugh at them. They were jealous for fear one would get nearer to me than the other. Whenever one would come quite close to me the other would peck at him and drive him back.

One morning I came across four or five of these birds on the lower limb of a tree. As I went closer and began talking to them they daintily sidestepped on that limb for all the world like a lot of coquettish young women.

Finally it got so I could put my hand out and touch them. They knew that I wouldn't hurt them. Under such conditions I never caught a partridge. It would have been a breach of confidence.

When I needed a bird for food I went hunting for one, but in such instances I never made the bird feel that I was friendly.

Those partridges I was speaking about on the lower limb of that tree wanted me to touch them. They would playfully peck at my hand and dance coyly along the branch in a kind of teasing way, exactly as a woman says "no" when she means "yes."

As to the deer, they will get so tame that they will come right up to your lean-to and eat out of your hand. You cannot tame deer by going to them. Arouse their curiosity and show that you will not harm them. While they are still curious they will never forget you. They see and smell you, and their curiosity will bring them back.

MELONS ARE HERE.

MELON lovers may now enjoy their favorite fruit, juicy watermelons and spicy cantaloupes being available in gardens and market. Some nice ways of serving them are suggested:

For a Warm Day.

Watermelon and Raspberry Ice.—An ice of watermelon and raspberry juice may be served in a watermelon shell. One may add a bit of sweet chocolate to the mixture to imitate the seed.

Watermelon on Ice.—A popular method of late has been to cut the pulp in little spheres and to serve it in a great compote glass on a bed of shaven ice. It should be chilled before cut, so as to be as nearly as possible the temperature of the ice.

Frozen Watermelon.—Cut a melon into halves and, with a spoon, scoop out large round pieces, pick the seeds out with a fork, arrange in a pail with powdered sugar sprinkled on each layer, and bury in ice and salt four hours. Then serve.

Watermelon Cocktail.—Serve this in glasses as a first course at luncheon or dinner. Cut cubes of watermelon from the center of ripe melon, well chilled. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and ground ginger root. Cinnamon may be used in place of ginger if desired.

Luscious Desserts.

Cantaloupe, Cream and Peaches.—Take small cantaloupes and cut in half, removing the seeds. Fill the hollowed half of the melons with ice cream and lay slices of sweetened peaches on top.

If more convenient the melons may be filled with whipped cream into which small pieces of peaches have been stirred. Flavor this cream with bitter almond.

Cantaloupe Glace.—Cantaloupe glace is delicious. Take melons that have been thoroughly chilled. Cut in halves lengthwise and scrape out the seeds. Fill the hollow of each half with vanilla ice cream, packing it in as firm as possible, leaving a little mound in the center. Place the halves together tightly, thus forcing the cream up into the fruit, causing the melon juice to mingle with the cream. When ready to serve, a knife run between the halves separates the fruit and slices the cream.

"He's as beautiful as you are."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Rose And the Dandelion.

"I WAS over in the field this afternoon gathering dandelions, daddy," said Evelyn as she climbed upon daddy's knee for the evening story.

"Oh," exclaimed Jack; "they're such a common flower!"

Daddy smiled. "Jack, did you ever hear about the dispute between the rose and the dandelion?"

"No," Jack replied.

"Well," pursued daddy, "it wasn't exactly a dispute because the dandelion is a very meek and lowly flower and, in fact, doesn't stand up for its rights nearly as much as it should. It was so meek on this occasion that I fear it would have fared sadly had it not been for the dandelion's great big cousin, Mrs. Sunflower.

"You know, children, that the rose is one of the most beautiful of flowers and very sweet, too, but it has been made so much of by brides and lovers and girl graduates that I'm afraid it has grown quite proud. Anyway, this rose was. She grew in a garden in back of a big white house.

"Now it chanced that right at the feet of the bush where this rose lived with her bud sisters a dandelion had sprung up somehow. Though dandelions usually grow in the fields, this little fellow had strayed in as a seed and blossomed in the summer to a vigorous youth. He was rather timid to find himself in such a wonderful company of gay flowers.

"One day the haughty rose, nodding in a breath of wind, leaned over and saw the dandelion, and she stared and stared. 'My,' said she, 'what a homely little fellow! Who are you?'

"'Madam,' he replied humbly, 'I am one of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Dandelion. There are quite a number of us scattered around.'

"Mme. Rose looked him over again. 'Really,' she said, 'I do not know the Dandelions. How little you are and yellow and coarse!'

"The poor little dandelion was very much taken back and hadn't a word to say. But up spoke a great, big lordly sunflower, away up on a stalk high above the rose's head, where she could look over the garden wall and see the scenery away off.

"'Mme. Rose,' said she, 'I'd thank you to stop picking on my little cousin. He's here just by accident. If he could he'd rather be over in that field I see with thousands of his brothers and sisters—a glorious sight. He's as beautiful as you are, Mme. Rose, in his own way, and he's more useful, for if they want to people can eat the green part of him."

"And then," concluded daddy, "Mme. Rose decided that she didn't know it all, and she hadn't another word to say."

NEW B. & L. SUCCESS.

The Middlesex Borough Building and Loan Association, which was organized last week, has already proved to be a success. A large number of shares have already been subscribed for, with the committee in charge of making up the charter list still at work. It has been estimated that over 500 shares will be disposed of prior to Saturday evening.

The steady growth of Lincoln and Middlesex Borough during the course of the past five years, with the erection of a large number of workingmen's homes has made a Building and Loan Association a long felt want, and will undoubtedly meet with a great response from the residents of these places. W. D. Voorhees, of Lincoln, is the secretary.

RACE WAR THREATENS.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 18.—With two white men dying in hospitals, a third seriously wounded, while more than fifty are slightly hurt and with crowds of whites and negroes threatening to fly at each other, the race riot situation here is hourly becoming more acute. The militia may be called upon tonight. The police fear nightfall will see a fresh outbreak more serious than last night's, or that of the last preceding week, when three men were shot.

AN EXPLANATION

We are compelled to give you stylish, dependable wearables at right prices, because as you pay us for your purchase, a little at a time, you have plenty of leisure time to discover unworthiness of quality or overcharge, if either exists. But we are so confident of the really excellent values we offer that we welcome charge customers as much as we do those who pay us cash. If you wish to purchase for cash or credit we will be pleased to have you call.

WANT TO RETAIN PRESENT COUNCIL

Edmund Rushmore and Julius Stahl Endorsed By Borough Republican Club.

WILL BE UNOPPOSED

Mayor Clark Urged the Retention of the Present Members of the Borough Body Until Important Questions Are Settled.

Two present incumbents of councilmanic offices in the borough of North Plainfield were unanimously endorsed for re-election by members of the Republican Club at an enthusiastic meeting in Debele's Hall, last night. Councilmen Edmund Rushmore and Julius Stahl were lauded by many of their constituents during the session and after considerable urging agreed to cast their hats into the ring once more for the Republican nominations. Both will be unopposed on the G. O. P. ticket this fall for the candidacy and their return to the Council is conceded. Rumor had it several weeks ago that a certain faction of borough Republicans were urging former Councilman William L. Smalley to run on the ticket for Mr. Rushmore's seat in the Council, but that sentiment has gradually died down and when approached by a Plainfield Daily Press reporter, Mr. Smalley said that he would under no conditions be a candidate.

Although he has had his petition in circulation for some time and has found many ready signers, Mr. Rushmore has not been a keen aspirant for the political berth. He has served two terms on the North Plainfield Board of Education and one term of three years in the Council and this year made a request that he be relieved from further municipal service. Mr. Rushmore was praised during short impromptu speeches by prominent members of the organization, among whom was Mayor Robert Clark, for his conscientious work in the Council and the resolution to endorse him as the club's candidate was carried unanimously.

Up to last night Mr. Stahl had declined to be a candidate for re-election and at the meeting stated that two terms of three years each had been enough for him. He suggested that a new man be sought by the club to take his place this fall inasmuch as he did not think it was up to him to devote three more years of his time to the cause. Captain William C. Smith and Mayor Clark urged that Mr. Stahl reconsider his action and when a resolution was introduced to endorse him for renomination it was carried and accepted.

In a brief talk to the gathering last night, Mayor Clark advocated the continuance of the present Council as a unit, urging the return of both Mr. Rushmore and Mr. Stahl. He outlined the important work now in progress in the body, with which they have familiarized themselves and stated that to elect new members would be to jeopardize the chance of this work being carried through satisfactorily to the borough tax-payers. Both of the men whose terms expire this year have been active in the sewer question and Mayor Clark declared that their presence in the Council was essential next year when the project will be completed.

Owing to the fact that four of the five Somerset county committeemen

DETECTIVES TAKE RAILROAD CROOK

New Yorker Arrested After Struggle, Confesses to Stealing Brass Journals.

Detectitves John Hiney and Mike Laverett, of the Central Railroad force, made one of the best catches in years this morning, when they subdued a desperado at the Bound Brook station after he had been detected in the act of stealing brass journals from a B. and O. train. The detectives have been trailing the thief for some time and a number of journals have been found missing since the first depredation was reported. When cornered at Bound Brook the crook, who is a giant Italian, put up a stiff fight in an effort to make a getaway.

When taken he was boarding a car bound for New York, where he intended to dispose of the loot found on his person. In a confession made this morning, the prisoner admitted committing several of the thefts for which he is wanted and when arraigned before Judge Suydam in Bound Brook gave his name as Mike Rogulski, of New York city. He was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

In his confession the man said he had made three previous trips to New York city for the purpose of disposing of stolen brass journals. He says he has operated with considerable success on the B. and O. Railroad and on the Key West line. He makes a speciality of stealing brass journals. When arrested he had a pair of rubber gloves and seventy-five pounds of brass journals, the latter being stolen out of car inspector's building on the P. and R. Railroad at Port Reading junction.

LOCAL TOURISTS ARE HEADED FOR AMERICA

Party Chaperoned By Dr. Snodgrass Will Arrive In New York, August 28.

Word has been received in this city that a party of tourists, including several Plainfielders, in charge of Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of a Paterson church, and formerly of the First Methodist church here, sailed on Monday on the San Giovanni of the Italian-American line. The party was one which was arranged by A. V. D. Honeyman, of Plainfield, who is also in Europe with another group of tourists. The steamer is due to arrive in New York, on Friday, August 28.

The Plainfielders include Mr. and Mrs. William Sandford and daughter, Miss Pauline Sandford, Miss Florence Burt and Miss Sparks, the latter a sister of Mrs. Richard Haden Hood.

James R. Joy, Who Was a Passenger On the Nieuw Amsterdam, Describes Ride.

HEARD SHRIEK OF SHELL

When Boat Misunderstood Signals and Failed to Stop, Black Horse Cavalry of Sea Fired On Her; Picking Way Through Channel.

James R. Joy, of Myrtle avenue, was one of the passengers on the Holland-American line ship "Nieuw Amsterdam," which arrived in New York with American refugees from Europe on Monday night. Accompanied by Mrs. Joy, he went abroad to attend the Peace Conference, which of course was not held, and he returned on the first available boat. War was declared on the day that they arrived in Holland, and they had to remain in that country for a week before they could find transportation home. They spent the time sightseeing in Holland. Mr. Joy has written a very interesting article about the experiences of the ship, on which he was compelled to take accommodations temporarily arranged in the hold. He says:

"The Nieuw Amsterdam, Capt. Baron, rom Rotterdam to New York, was the first big liner to pass westward through the English Channel after it became a mine-field. There had been much speculation as to her sailing at the advertised date, 2:30 a. m., Saturday, August 8, but

DEMOCRATIC HOSTS OFF ON ANNUAL OUTING

Many Local Leaders Left Elizabeth For Witzel's Point, This Morning.

Fair weather appears to be smiling upon the heads of the Democrats as well as the Republicans this year. Local politicians left this morning for the annual outing of the county Democrats being held at Witzel's Point Grove, Long Island. All parts of the county were well represented on the steamer which left the pier at Elizabethport, with all the big and little candidates on deck seeking signers for their petitions.

The features of the outing will include the regular shore dinner, with athletic events filling the spare moments of the afternoon. New booms are unexpected, or at least, were this morning when the local delegation left, many believing a sufficient number of condidates had already entered the race for various nominations. The advance sale of tickets appeared to indicate that the number to take in the affair would equal, if not surpass, previous attendance figures.

Among local Democrats in attendance were Mayor Percy Hamilton Stewart, who is candidate for the nomination for State Senator, Councilmen Richard A. Claybrook and Theodore Martin, Edward Strappe, John W. Caulfield, chairman of the city committee, James J. McCann, John P. Owens, candidate for county clerk, Constable George York, William A. Collington, John Coyle, William Rafferty, Charles Senger, DeWitt C. Ivins, David L. Coleman, Michael Devine, Thomas Hughes, Daniel Couraine, John Conway and Patrick T. Melvin, candidate for councilmanic honors in the First ward.

The outing committee is composed as follows: Hugh Boyle, chairman; Fred Zior, secretary and treasurer; Edward J. Carolan, Joseph Meehan, James H. McLoughlin, Richard J. Cavanagh, Edward Brennan, John J. McGowan, James B. La Corte, Edward M. Neafsey, Anthony Sattler, James P. Kelly, Edward M. Meek, James J. Coleman and J. H. R. Corbett.

BOY PAROLED.

Charged with drawing a knife on Frank Mullin, of North avenue, James Ross, a colored bootblack, was hailed before City Judge W. G. DeMeza in the city court, this morning, and after listening to a severe reprimand was placed in the custody of the probation officer. The colored boy claimed that Mullin called him names and he lost his temper.

POPE PIUS X DEAD AT ROME

Prelate Passed Away This Afternoon After Long Illness.

Rome, Aug. 19—Pope Pius died here today following a sinking spell. The cause of his death is assigned to bronchial catarrh... News of the war coupled with his realization that thousands of Catholics are on both sides of the titanic struggle in Europe, hastened the end.

His death has been expected since early this morning and members of the Vatican were in constant attendance at his bedside. During the night the temperature of the pontiff rose to 99 and was accompanied by violent pains... The catarrh was complicated by gouty affections, an affliction from which he had long been a sufferer.

In the poor home of a humble couple in the simple little town of Riese, Italy, there was born on June 2, 1835, a boy destined to become pre-eminent in ecclesiastics and one of the greatest figures in the world's history. His parents named him Giuseppe (Joseph). It would have seemed idle then to predict an uncommon career for this child reared in peasant environment; it was enough for his parents that they brought him up to be good. Unaccustomed to a life other than their own plodding one and contented with it, they considered themselves blessed that Giuseppe showed none of the harmful vices. That he would become a parish priest was the goal of his mother's ambition, but that he would become a bishop, a cardinal, was beyond this work bent woman's powers of conception. And yet her son became not only a bishop and a cardinal, but pope—Giuseppe, the child of poverty and hardship, who wore the fisherman's ring as the two hundred and sixty-fourth successor of St. Peter, ruler of the Roman Catholic church.

Guiseppe Sarto was one of eight children. The family which gave to the church the first pontiff in a century and a half of such lowly origin had a hard struggle in their quiet corner of the diocese of Treviso, a see just to the northward of Venice. Sarto, father of the future pope, was a town messenger at a meager pay, and Giuseppe's mother utilized her time when not needed by her large family in sewing for those in Riese who had more means than the Sartos. Of Giuseppe's six sisters, Antonia married a tailor, Lucia the sacristan of the church of Salzano and Teresa a Riese innkeeper. Giuseppe attended school four and a half miles from his home and walked the distance, carrying his lunch, usually a solid cold polenta, a kind of porridge made of coarse maize meal. That the future highest dignitary of the Catholic church was no exception to the mischievous small boy of all generations is apparent from the following interesting anecdote. An old farmer of the district where the Sartos lived, upon being told that Giuseppe had been elected pope, exclaimed: "Not little Beppo! Not that little rascal! Many are the cherries he has taken off my trees with a stick, and he bidding defiance and pelting me with stones. The last time he did it I caught his boot, and a merry dance we had about that field. But he was a good chap. When my old woman died and he was already a cardinal he helped me with money and with prayers."

"Beppo" (diminutive for Giuseppe) was the name by which his relatives spoke of him. Even when he became pope it is related that one of his sisters, visiting him at the Vatican, in an outburst of joy called him Beppo, to the consternation of others present. But the pontiff seemed not to notice the incident.

Was Brimful of Fun.

When Giuseppe's father died in 1852 the mother no longer could afford to send the boy to school, and she had him recommended to the patriarch of Venice, Mgr. Monaco, who got him into the seminary at Padua. Her beloved Beppo was going to be a priest, and the old mother's heart was filled with gladness. Although studious, it was said that Giuseppe still

GERMAN ARMY NEAR BRUSSELS; LIEGE FORTS STILL UNCAPTURED; BELGIANS VICTORS AT TIRLEMONT

Switzerland Has Begun to Purchase Supplies Here--Food Situation There and In Austria Said to Be Grave--Stock Exchange Not to Open in New York for Some Time--Russian Grand Duke Goes to Front--Encouraging Reports About Americans.

London, Aug. 19 (CentralNews Cable)—An official communique issued by the French embassy, this morning, announces that the French army has taken Saarburg, a glove manufacturing town in the southern part of Lorraine, about 25 miles northwest of Strassburg. The French now occupy the entire region as far as Fenestrage. The communique adds that the retreating Germans burned 84 houses before evacuating their position, and also states that none of the Liege forts have as yet fallen into the enemy's hands.

A message was received at Paris from Brussels, today, to the effect that cannonading was heard distinctly in Brussels at 6 o'clock this morning. The German army was said to be moving forward on Brussels by way of Huy No Jodoigne.

An unconfirmed report that Brussels has fallen before the Germans, following a heavy engagement, is in circulation today.

This report bears out the theory that Brussels, in line with the strategy planned by the allies, has simply been held out as bait for the Germans, who were expected to enter a trap in the desire to capture the Belgian capital. If the Kaiser's troops actually are in possession of Brussels, it is believed the world may expect to hear very soon of the most severe battle that has yet been fought, and one in which the Germans suffered overwhelming defeat.

The censorship is more strict today than at any time since hostilities began. This is taken as indication that a most important movement of some kind has taken place, the details of which are for the present being withheld.

Every effort is being made here and on the Continent to confirm the report of the fall of Brussels.

The Times publishes this morning the brief details of the final interview between the British ambassador at Berlin, Sir Edward Goshen, and the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg. Greatly irritated, the Chancellor expressed his inability to understand England's attitude and exclaimed:

"Why should you make war upon us for a scrap of paper?" The reference was to the treaty guaranteeing Belgian neutrality.

Sir Edward answered that he understood the Chancellor's inability to comprehend the British action, but that England attached decided importance to the scrap of paper because it bore her signature as well as that of Germany.

Before the Belgian royal family withdrew from Brussels to Antwerp, the queen supervised the reconstruction of the palace into a model hospital to care for the wounded Belgian soldiers. The cabinet members accompanied the king, queen and princess to Antwerp, where the seat of government is now established.

A St. Petersburg despatch said that the Russians have repulsed the Austrians at Viadimuir in the government of Volhynia. The Austrians attacked in force.

Unremitting activity continues to enable Great Britain to obtain the bulk of Germany's foreign trade. The foreign and colonial ministers are collecting data rapidly from consuls and are making public the information through the Board of Trade which is besieged with inquiries. Hopes are growing that there will be a war boom in the autumn.

The Lisbon correspondent of the Morning Post, says that on account of the fear of running short of coal only half the usual number of trains run through Portugal.

The Venice correspondent of the Daily Mail states that all kinds of trades, steamships and railways in Italy are suffering from shortage of coal.

Advices received here today indicate that the German troops after battling with the Belgians have pushed forward to new positions. The Kaiser's forces opened the fighting east of Brussels, using long range guns.

The Central News pulishes a despatch from Rome saying that the German Gunboat Vaterland has been forced to disarm at Nanking, China.

A message from Berlin via. Amsterdam says that German troops today occupied the town of Mlawa, in Russian Poland, close to the German frontier on the Warsaw Railroad.

A despatch from Rome says that a message received there from Cettinje indicates that the Montenegrin army is within two hours march of Ragusa, a fortified seaport of Austria Hungary, 38 miles northwest of Cattaro.

According to advices received here today from St. Petersburg, Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, a brother of Emperor Nicholas, has left St Petersburg to join the Russian fighting line.

Brussels, Aug. 19 (Central News Cable)—An engagement between German troops and Belgians began yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Tirlemont, in the Belgian province of Brabant. The Germans kept up an incessant artillery fire, dropping shells in the nearby villages, but were unable to make any headway owing to the stubborn defense put up by the Belgians, who ultimately charged the German position at the point of the bayonet, repulsing the enemy with heavy loss.

Washington, Aug. 19—President Wilson has signed the amendment to the Panama Canal Act under which foreign built ships may be admitted to American registry for overseas trade.

The bill providing for the registry of foreign ships under the American flag now is a law. President Wilson stole a march on those who would have made a ceremony of the signing of the measure and, slipping into the executive office late last night, attached his signature to it without fuss or circumstance. He also signed the cotton futures bill.

Switzerland has begun to draw on America for food supplies. A cargo of whea thas just left the United States for that country, which in the past has been getting most of its wheat from Balkan and Russian sources. Dr. Charles Paul Hudscher, Charge of the Swiss Legation here, who arranged for the shipment is trying to arrange for others. Bread it is said, has trebbled in price in Switzerland since the outbreak of the war.

First reports for several days of the condition of Americans in Austria reached the State department today. There are about 2,200 Americans there, two-thirds of whom wish to return immediately to the United States. Numbers are daily crossing the frontier into Italy in the hope of securing steamers there. Conditions are constantly improving and the banks are honoring checks and cable transfers.

In response to cable inquiries, United States Consul Adams at Dublin today, assured the State department that destitute Americans are as scarce in Ireland as snakes since the campaign of St. Patrick. American Express Company's checks are now being honored by German banks.

Further improvement in condition of Americans marooned in Germany was reported today. Ambassador Gerard cabled the Secretary of State that a special train has been arranged for and had taken 140 Americans to Rotterdam, where they will take ship for the United States.

President Wilson sent for leaders in Congress today to discuss the final touches to the Marine Risk Bill which will launch the government in the marine insurance business. Those who went to the White House and were closeted with the chief executive for nearly two hours were Senators Simmons and Clarke, Representative Ely, House Leader Underwood and Representative Alexander. It is hoped that the bill may be put in its final shape and be introduced in both the Senate and House before adjournment today.

It is understood that the President,

LISTMAN ACCEPTS BROCKTON CHARGE

Popular Director, Formerly of the Local Y. M. C. A., Takes Important Position.

Announcement was made today that George L. Listman, formerly physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., has accepted a similar position in the Association at Brockton, Mass. Mr. Listman has been the director of the Montclair Y. M. C. A. since he left Plainfield four years ago after serving in the Plainfield Association for a number of years. He is recognized as one of the most efficient instructors in the State and is at present the president of the New Jersey Physical Directors' Association.

The charge at Brockton is considerably larger than the one at Montclair. He will start work in the fall in a $150,000 building which has been recently erected. He will remove with his family to that place. Mr. Listman was in town today and at that time announced that he would accept the new offer. When a resident of Plainfield the director became widely known in this section for his all around ability as an organizer and promoter of athletic endeavor. He was the head of the Charter Day athletic committee and acted as starter at the recent Fourth of July meet held on Parker Field.

In Plainfield he organized the Leaders' Corps and under his direction the local Y. M. C. A. baseball team won the State championship. He is one of the Metropolitan Athletic Union's officials and one of the best athletic starters in the country.

FUNERAL OF MRS. REVILLE.

A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral services of Mrs. Margaret Reville, which were held at 9 o'clock this morning from St. Mary's R. C. church. Father Sciola was the celebrant at the solemn high mass of requiem. The bearers were John D., Richard, Robert and James Scott, nephews, and James Cullen and Joseph Smith, grandchildren of the deceased. The service at the grave at St. Mary's cemetery was in charge of Rev. Father Griffen, of Seton Hall College.

LOST GIRL FOUND.

Miss Helen Leighs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leighs, of South street, aged ten year, caused some excitement in the West End by becoming lost yesterday afternoon, and a search was at once instituted by the neighbors. Policeman Martin Flatley was called into action later in the afternoon. After a search of an hour and a half, the young girl was found on the banks of Green Brook and returned to the home of the parents.

VILLA AT CHIHUAHUA.

El Paso, Tex., Aug 19.—General Villa has arrived in Chihuahua City from Camargo, Ohih., where he has been visiting friends. In Camargo, General Villa received George C. Carothers, special agent of the United States State department, who presented a message from the American government. It is believed the message was a protest against the break between the General Villa and General Carranza. Preparations for troop movements are in progress today. It is believed the troops will move in the direction of the south.

BOUGHT SUIT FOR $10 IN PLAINFIELD THAT COST DOUBLE IN NEW YORK

Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, rector of the Heavenly Rest church, was the winner of the second prize, a cash order for $6 on any store advertising in the Daily Press, in the Trade in Plainfield contest which closed last Wednesday. In his letter he tells of a bargain secured in a Plainfield store, and generally deals with the advantages of buying in this city. His letter follows:

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

The following experience in trading in Plainfield being the outcome of an advertisement seen in the "Daily Press," will be my reason for entering the "Trade in Plainfield" contest you are now conducting in your newsy, enterprising and up-to-date paper. It would be a pleasure to relate this experience even if there was no contest connected with it, as I believe that local foresight, courtesy and efficiency on the part of a newspaper and tradesman ought to be commended, irrespective of any reward for doing so.

Having seen Mr. Samuel Rothberg's clothing advertisement in the "Daily Press," and having previously purchased articles from his well conducted establishment which were entirely satisfactory, I inquired at this place of business for a light summer coat and pair of trousers. It took but 10 minutes for me to decide to purchase as the quality of the goods, fit and price ($10.00) were all that could be desired. I came to this conclusion from the fact that three years ago when about to start on a trip to Bermuda, I purchased similar garments in New York, but had to pay $20, just double for them. If this is not a clear cut demonstration of the wisdom of purchasing from local merchants, not to mention the time, trouble and expense involved in a trip to the city, I do not know what is.

Finally by watching the daily advertisements apearing in the "Press" coupled with the use of the telephone one can buy advantageously from merchants known to the purchaser with its accompanying satisfaction and have the goods delivered in the house by the time a mail order could be written out and posted, or a ticket purchased and a train boarded for the city.

Sincerely yours,

REV. C. H. MALLERY.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Weiner, of Prospect avenue, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cook, of Raritan, over the week-end.

Borough Engineer Churchill, has given line and grade for a concrete sidewalk to be laid in front of the property of Edward Daniel.

Miss Margaret Beitler, who has been spending a week in the borough as the guest of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, of Front street, has returned to her home at Allentown.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Luckings, of Astoria, L. I., are passing the remainder of the month in the borough as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Vander Veer, of Prospect avenue.

Mrs. Henry S. Garretson and daughter, Miss Lillian, of Front street, departed yesterday for Lake George, where they will spend two weeks.

Borough Engineer Churchill was a business visitor in Garwood, last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence D. Roner and children, Robert and Aline, of Plainfield, passed Sunday in the borough as the guests of Mrs. Roner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, of Front street.

Mrs. Lewis Schneider, of Front street, who has been confined to her bed for two weeks with lumbago, while not fully recovered as yet is able to be up and around again.

Teller Charles Starker, of the local bank, departed yesterday morning for a three or four days' visit at Niagara Falls and points in Canada.

Miss Lilla R and brother, Morris Stites, of Front street, departed yesterday for Pleasant Plains, L. I., where they will spend the remainder of the week with their aunt, Mrs. Frances Leggett.

LeRoy Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, of Front street, who was operated upon a little over five weeks ago for appendicitis, has practically fully recovered from the effects of the operation.

Miss Hazel Watson, of Dunellen avenue, departs the latter part of this week for Point Pleasant, where she will visit her grandmother.

REMOVED TO HOSPITAL.

Anna Ryno, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ryno, of Center street, was taken to the Muhlenburg Hospital, at Plainfield yesterday morning. She was taken ill about a month ago with what was first supposed to be either rheumatism of the hip or a severe wrench. Later developments led her attending physician, Dr. J. T. Longbotham, to fear that she had hip disease and upon his advice she was removed to the hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Scofield, of Yonkers, who have been visiting Dr. Scofield's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Scofield, of Washington avenue, since Friday, have returned home.

Raymond Wyckoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wyckoff, of Front street, was able to return to his duties at the plant of the Railway Acetalyne Light and Signal Company, at Lincoln, today, after a week's illness with malaria.

ACIDENT TO AUTO.

While attempting to demonstrate a Cadillac touring car, which he was endeavoring to sell for John Manville, superintendent of the Railway Acetalyne Light and Signal Company, Oscar Harrison, of Front street, came to grief at Bound Brook yesterday. Harrison was backing the car at a rapid clip when a child darted across the street in its path. In order to avoid running the child down he threw the reversing lever forward tearing the inner mechanism of the car all asunder.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Block, of Orange street have returned from an eight days' sojourn in the Catskills.

Borough Clerk Deering is confined to his home on Lincoln avenue with an old complaint.

Miss Julia Dodwell, of Jackson avenue, who is on her vacation, and Miss Eva Schneider, of Front street, went on the weekly excursion run by the Central Railroad to Newburg today.

Eugene R. Smalley and Charles Johnson, both of New Market road, are fishing off the lighthouse at Perth Amboy today.

Adam Dealaman and Leslie Apps, are planning to spend the week-end with friends at Blairstown.

Mrs. Egbert Gessner, of Second street, is on the sick list.

CELEBRATED 73RD BIRTHDAY.

C. Wesley Blaine, of Lincoln avenue, quietly celebrated his seventy-third birthday on Sunday. In the afternoon his daughters, Mrs. Goldson W. Smalley, of Fairview avenue, Mrs. Theodore Voorhees, of Jackson avenue and Mrs. Nelson M. Giles, of Harris Lane, called at his home with their sons and daughters and remained until nightfall in honor of the event.

DEATH OF DR. BRADLEY.

Dr. Nathan E. Bradley, brother of Mrs. John Fedderman, of Washington avenue, passed quietly away at 9:00 o'clock yesterday morning, in the Harlem Hospital, New York city, as the result of being knocked down and run over by an automobile at 125th street and Lenox avenue, a week ago last Wednesday. The funeral services were held this afternoon at Cambbell's undertaking establishment on West Twenty-Third street, New York. The body will be accompanied by Fred A. Fedderman to Pittsburg tomorrow where the interment will take place. The deceased besides Mrs. Fedderman, leaves a brother, Emerson Bradley, of Idaho, and three other sisters, Mrs. Angeline Case, of Chicago; Mrs. Happy Stevenson, of San Jose, Cal., and Mrs. Mary Taylor, of Konkee, Ill. Dr. Bradley was eighty-one years old and had always lived in the city, where he practised medicine for over thirty years.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kirch, of Newark, motored to the borough in their Packard this morning, and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Augustus F. Samson, of New Market. Mr. and Mrs. Samson will return with the Kirch's this evening to spend a few days with them at their home. Mr. Kirch is the senior member of the large furniture house of E. A. Kirch and Company, at 77 Market street, Newark.

COUNCIL MEETING.

At an adjourned meeting of the Mayor and Common Council, held in the upper room of the borough hall last evening, Mayor E. B. Latham was empowered by a unanimous resolution of a full Council chamber to affix his signature to the contract engaging George W. Fuller and James McClintock, under the firm name of George W. Fuller, as engineers of the borough's collecting sewerage system. The contract had been read at the last meeting of the Council and forwarded to the borough's legal advisers on sewer matters, Lindabery, Depew and Falks for their approval. Under the terms of the contract the Fuller firm is to receive 6 1-2 per cent. of the total cost of the system minus an allowance of $417, for previous work, which at the present estimated cost, $90,000, would make their compensation $5,433.

Chairman Castner, of the street committee, reported that the second application of oil had been given North avenue, by the Standard Oil Company. Councilman Richard J. Boland called the Council's attention to the fact that a large number of the trees of the borough need trimming badly and also to the presence of weeds that are allowed to grow between property line and curb in front of various properties of the borough. Street Commissioner Isaac V. Smalley was instructed to investigate the conditions in this respect and report to the borough clerk, who will write letters to the ones whose names are turned in by the commissioner. Upon the recommendation of Councilman Boland it was voted to have the telephone company replace the party wire in the borough hall with a private line. The Council then adjourned at 10 o'clock, leaving business that did not absolutely have to be taken care of over until the next meeting on account of the humidity.

Two Italian farmers residing in back of New Market had their troubles straightened out by Judge Rene P. F. von Minden in the borough hall, yesterday morning. A cow of one of the farmers had ventured into the garden of the other, doing considerable damage. After listening to both sides of the story the court awarded the complainant a verdict of $10.00 and costs.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Prior to the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education, of the Township of Piscataway, in the New Market School last evening, a public meeting was held on which the citizens of South Plainfield viewed their opinions on the site of the proposed new school at South Plainfield. The citizen's committee reported that they had found three sites available for the new school. They said that either the Hamilton or King estates could be procured for a small amount and that Milton Mendel had offered a site free and clear on Plainfield avenue, 750 west of Park avenue. The culmination of the discussion was the passing of a motion asking the Board of Education to investigate the tracts. After the investigation the Board is to call a public meeting at South Plainfield, so that people can voice their choice. At this meeting of the Board it was decided to rent the second story of Sourer's building at South Plainfield, for elementry school purposes pending the erection of a new building which it will be impossible to complete this year.

A delegation from the Socialistic colony near Stelton was present and requested that proper transportation facilities be granted their children to get to and from school.

On recommendation of teacher's committee Miss Mildred Bush and Mrs. Margery C. Mineah were engaged as instructors for the coming year. The resignation of J. C. Nescs, as teacher of the 6th grade of the New Market School was received and accepted with regrets. After the transaction of routine business the meeting then adjourned.

'Plains & Fanwood.

The Fanwood Township Board of Education meets in School No. 1 tonight at 8 o'clock.

The annual picnic of the Willow Grove chapel is being held this afternoon and evening in the church grove, the proceeds of which will be for the benefit of the chapel. The arrangements for the affair have been in the hands of the Ladies' Sewing Circle, who have worked hard to make it a success. The members of the circle are in charge of the various booths about the grounds and between the hours of 6 and 8 will serve supper.

Mrs. M. W. Hyer, of North avenue, is entertaining her sister from Philadelphia.

Mrs. A. D. Beeken, of the borough, is entertaining her sister, Mrs. LaZelle, of Brooklyn.

The Rev. J. Madison Hare will be in charge of the prayer meeting in the Baptist church tonight.

Miss Merle Walker has returned to her home on Springfield road, after visiting her aunt, Mrs. William Dean, of Summit.

Mrs. William Bellerjeau, of South avenue, is entertaining relatives from Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Jahn have returned to their home on Park avenue, after visiting Mrs. Jahn's mother at Bernardsville.

Miss Beth Crolius, of New York, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Rainer, of Martine avenue.

Supervisor of Local Schools S. Dana Townsend has but one more vacancy to fill on the roster of teachers in Schools Nos. 1 and 2 for the coming fall. That vacancy was left by the resignation of Miss Jessie C. Walker, teacher of the fifth grade in School No. 1 for the past five years. It is probable that the assembly room in School No. 1 will be made over into class rooms in the fall. The coming term will necessitate the hiring of four new teachers and when School No. 3 in "Graceland" is completed four more teachers will be added.

If the Parish House is going to reopen this fall it will do so around the first of September, and although that is only a couple of weeks off no one, not even those on the board of trustees, seems to know anything about it. It is known that the money taken in from the bowling alleys and pool tables last year was not sufficient to cover expenses and the board of trustees was without funds to keep the building open.

Miss Marjorie Allen, of Plainfield, has been spending several days with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Meggy, of North avenue.

Miss Mary Kaufman, of the township, is spending several weeks at Atlantic City.

A postcard received from Fred Coombs states that he has joined the Navy and is at Norfolk, Va., where he is on a training ship. Coombs has been a resident of Scotch Plains for a number of years and is a graduate of the local public school.

Miss Edith Jahn, of Park avenue, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from her position in Plainfield.

The Fanwood Field Club, an organization composed of young men in the 'Plains and borough, has been disbanded. The club flourished last spring and placed a ball team in the field that was very successful. The members did not give the financial support and failed to take any interest in the club's welfare.

The residence of James Minninzeck on Midway avenue, the borough, is nearly completed and will be ready for occupation within two weeks. O. S. Ostlin, of Richmond Hill, L. I., has the general contract. Work has just been started on the residence of Mrs. Mary MacGuire on Forest avenue, also the borough, but will not be finished until late fall. A new residence for Walter Van Riper is in the course of construction on Mountain avenue, Scotch Plains, and the remodeling of a house on Park avenue owned by H. C. Meyers has just been completed. E. J. Edris has moved into his new bungalow on King street, while Reed Holiday is having plans drawn for a residence of Spanish architecture to be built on North avenue, near Westfield.

Wright McAnneny, of North avenue, has resigned his position with F. A. Dunham, of Plainfield, and will leave shortly to spend a few weeks at Asbury Park.

Miss Dorothy Beeken is detained at her home on North avenue by illness.

Persons living in the vicinity of the new water tank that is being built on Jerusalem road, near the Westfield line, are protesting against the way the laborers, for the most part Italians, live up there. Now that it is summer they sleep out of doors and raise such a disturbance that quiet is impossible. They also trespass on property in the section, taking things they happen to like, according to the residents. The Westfield police have been appealed to and send a man up once in a while as Scotch Plains does not patrol in that section.

Residents of the township that are Prohibitionists are going to have the annual fight on their hands to keep the number of saloons from growing larger. There are at present two saloons in the township and both of those being in Scotch Plains, the residents of the "Big Woods" are trying to get one in that section. The man who wishes to run the place, if he can secure a license, is circulating a petition among the men of that end of the township. It is really a settlement between Scotch Plains and Westfield, composed of colored people and Italians. The police do not patrol there and brawls are frequent and there would be more if a saloon was handy.

The Election Board for the borough and township for this fall will remain the same as last year.

George Rainer, borough postmaster, has purchased the building in which the postoffice is situated from Miss Carrie Bettman, who was the postmistress for thirty-two years, and will move in his household effects in a short time. Miss Bettman will spend a few weeks at Asbury Park, after which she will make her home in the borough.

The house on Martine avenue that has been occupied by George Rainer for a number of years, has been leased by C. H. Stevens, of Brooklyn, who has been visiting this summer at the home of Hudson Thompson, of the borough. He will take possession as soon as a few necessary repairs have been made.

Mrs. George Dunn and son and daughter have returned to their home on Front street, after spending several weeks at Asbury Park.

Miss Marguerite Stiliger has returned to her home in Brooklyn, after visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark, of Front street.

The children of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home were entertained last night by Mr. Hill, of this city. He told them of his trip and experiences on his recent vacation. Mrs. Lewis Matlack will have charge of the meeting next Friday.

TRIP THROUGH MINED WATERS

the Holland-American Line contrived to supply her with coal and provisions, and to improvise staterooms for the 1,200 Americans, twice her usual list, who clamored for accommodations. The Dutch Government released her captain from his command of a gunboat for the voyage, and the chief steward recruited waiters, cooks, and room-stewards from everywhere to replace the fifty militiamen who had been called to the colors. At 2:45 a. m., the 17,000-ton liner slipped her cables and steamed down the Maas to the German Ocean, and at once turned her prow southward toward the narrow seas.

"England had been at war with Germany since Tuesday, and on Thursday, not far from where the liner took the sea, the Kaiser's mine-layer, Koenigin Luise (known to American tourists as a de luxe pleasure yacht) had been overhauled and sunk by a squadron of British destroyers of the "L" class, led by the smaller cruiser Amphion. A few hours later the Amphion had struck a cable connecting two floating contact mines, which had swung against her sides, blowing off her bows, and killing 135 men. With mines like this scattered mercilessly in the route of commerce, the Dutch commander had to face an invisible and unexpected peril.

"Early-rising passengers had their first intimation of the day's program when four low-lying, dark vessels, vomiting smoke, and throwing furrows of foam, suddenly appeared, racing toward the liner at express speed. They showed the French tricolor, and when they were near enough to iddntify the big ship they sheered off in a graceful curve and went elsewhere.

"In the middle of the forenoon four more black fellows, steaming in pairs, appeared on the starboard quarter, and, making two knots to the Dutchman's one, soon overhauled him and fired a gun for him to heave to. Evidently Capt. Baron thought it was meant for a tramp steamer on the western horizon, for he kept his screw turning. Two minutes later the bow-chaser flashed and barked again and the Americans who blackened the rail on every deck heard what few of them had never heard before, the shriek of a shell, and saw it splash in the sea, 400 yards ahead. The engine stopped instantly, and the four British destroyers, Lysander, Laurel, and others of the 'L' division came up. A battery of American cameras wheeled into action, only to be spiked by the captain's 'kind but urgent' request not to photograph visiting warships. The Lysander's chief officer megaphoned, 'Have you seen the German ships?' We had not, and perhaps as a neutral we had no right to give information. So the black fellows let us go our way, swinging about, with the waves breaking over their low decks.

"The Nieuw Amsterdam resumed her course, with some of her passengers in hysterics, for there were bundles of nerves on board that had been sorely strained by the experiences of the flight from Germany, with separation from relatives, loss of baggage, and even for fear of personal peril.

"At 11:30 a. m. the watchers on the rail descried four more of the Black Horse Cavalry of the sea, galloping up, the Amazon leading. Her officer shouted his warning to Capt. Baron very distinctly and solemnly as if every word weighed a ton. 'Be very careful in the English Channel. The dangers there are very great.' Then he added graciously: 'I am sorry to have detained you. Bon voyage!' The Americans gave the destroyers a volley of cheers, as they dropped astern, and the screws began to churn. At 1 o'clock, when the English coast was in sight, and the ship was entering the Straits, a black navy tug ran up close, put out a boat, from which a young officer came on board and went to the captain's quarters. He was clad in a union suit of black rubber, with a holster at his belt. When he left the ship and we started again our course was altered so sharply that the despondent were certain that the ship had been forbidden to go through, and would have to take the northern route around Scotland.

"At 2 o'clock we were on the Goodwin Sands, near the Bull floating beacon. To the southwest, in the mouth of the Thames, lay two great four-funnelled cruisers who began to converse (presumably about us), with the utmost animation in dots and dashes of intense light. Nearer by a four-masted square rigged German oil ship, a prize, was being towed into port. Soon another tug came up ahead of us, and we followed it in a tortuous course, turning sharply to the east after rounding the Bull. Soon the chalk cliffs loomed on our starboard bow, and we went ahead full steam until nightfall, when speed was reduced, and off the Isle of Wight the captain, playing safe in dangerous waters dropped anchor to await the sunrise. The night passed without incident, but all night long the searchlights of the King's guard ships ceaselessly swept the water for signs of the Kaiser's stealthy torpedo craft and submarines.

"The Dutch Liner usually touches at Boulogne to pick up passengers from Paris and London, but under existing conditions the Boulogne stop had to be cancelled. The stopping of the channel boats on account of the dangers to navigation, marooned in London a hundred or more frantic Americans, who had booked for the trip. Pressure was brought through the American Embassy to have the ship touch at Plymouth. But Plymouth is a naval station, its entrance mined, and its port closed to commerce. The British Admiralty reluctantly granted permission for the liner to come in, and on Saturday night a train from London brought the American pilgrims to the port of their Mayflower.

"Nieuw Amsterdam weighed anchor at daylight and at 9:30 a. m. was off the jagged rocks that lie to the eastward of Plymouth Harbor. The Sir Richard Grenville, a Great Western Railway tender, in naval service, came out of the harbor soon after the pilot came on board, and hailed. The ship had run up the Stars and Stripes at the fore, the house-flag, 'N. A. S. M.,' at the main, and a big Dutch tri-color at the quarter. 'What is the captain's name?' queried the Briton. 'Baron, B-A-R-O-N,' came back from the lofty ridge. 'Disconnect your wireless and lower your aerials,' shouted the Briton, 'and then we will give you a pass—and not before!' This with emphasis. There was a sharp order from the bridge, and in a moment, wires, antennae and bamboo spreaders lay in a tangle along the boat-deck.

"Further directions came up from the Grenville. 'Hoist international code flags 'B. G. R.' '. The Nieuw Amsterdam ran up a red flag (B), a blue and white pennant (D), and a blue flag with a yellow cross (R). This did not suit the Britisher, who vociferated slowly and clearly: 'B, for butter; G, for God; R, for right!' A yellow-blue flag took the place of the pennant, and the Grenville shouted, 'Proceed to the coast.' The screw churned ahead until the Dutchman was within 200 yards of the cliffs on the west side of the harbor. The hills on both sides were crested with cannon in the open, with huddles of white tents on the green slopes. A slim black torpedo boat, marked 07 in big numerals, circled the liner and ran back to the shore. A British officer in white cap, with a big pad of paper under his arm, came on board from a rowboat, and was closeted with Captain Baron for a half hour, while the Dutch anchor bit the English mud. It was dirty weather, rough and rainy, and the breakwater that guards the outer anchorage was white with tumbling seas. When at noon the British visitor went over the side, there was a smile on his smooth-shaven lips, in which the waiting passengers read a good omen, and they gave him a hand-clasp of good-will as he went down the ladder. After he had made his report, the Grenville came up again, and ordered the code signals altered. The liner ran up 'B' and 'N,' but this was not satisfactory, and the command came to 'hoist E instead of Hen.'

"This done, the coast was clear, and permission came: "Proceed to anchorage in the sound." At 12.25, after three hours of knocking at the door, the Nieuw Amsterdam passed the breakwater light and five minutes later her mud-hook went home. In the lee of the breakwater, clustered about a black-and-white painted turret fortress, were four torpedo boats and three destroyers, steam up, hounds in leash. Farther in lay the Russian liner Kursk, from New York, and fifteen freighters of various descriptions, two of them German prize ships.

"In another half hour the tender Atlanta came out with her ninety-three pilgrims, waving hats and flags as they came. Places were found for them in the already crowded ship, and by four o'clock the anchor was again a-weigh, and the Nieuw Amsterdam was on the open sea bound for the city from which she took her name."

WITH THE BOXERS

A boxing club has been incorporated in Los Angeles to run opposition bouts to Uncle Tom McCarey.

Dick Stosh, the Cleveland lightweight, has come under the management of Matt Hinkle, a popular sporting man of Cleveland.

Gardner Brooks, of Lowell, probably will meet the winner of the Eddie Campi-Kid Herman bout which is billed to take place in New Orleans on Labor Day.

STORES CLOSED TOMORROW.

A majority of the stores in the business section of the city will be closed tomorrow, in accordance with the announcements made by many of the merchants several weeks ago. This arrangement has been made to give the clerks a day of recreation and rest, which is appreciated by many. This is the first week since July 1 in which there has been no excursion to Asbury Park.

FIRST WARD CLUB TONIGHT.

The First Ward Republican Club will hold its second session of the season this evening at the offices of V. W. Nash, Jr., at which time several matters of importance will be presented to the meeting. Candidates for the city and county executive committees will be discussed and plans for one or two ward rallies will be talked over.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOUND BROOK will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Hoagland, Union News Stand at station, and A. Aaron, newsdealer.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOMERVILLE will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon after 4:30 by Jacob Gernert, the Main stret newsdealer and stationer.

PANAMA CANAL OPEN.

Important events, even of national interest, are side-tracked to such an extent by the war news that matters which would command columns and even pages of space in normal times are given but the briefest mention. The Mexican troubles have been practically forgotten by the American people, and the opening of the Panama Canal to the traffic of the world, or at least for all but the very largest ships, has been passed by with little more than mention.

While the formal ceremonies attending the opening of the canal will not be held until some time next year, they will really be little more than commemorative, for on Saturday last, with the passage through its waters of the steamship Ancon, the waterway was thrown open to boats of 10,000 tons or less, and there are few boats larger than that. All vessels now pay toll.

It is true that the passage of the Ancon was "local," and the celebration incident thereto was confined to the canal zone, but had there been no war thousands of words would have been cabled to this country, recording the incident as such a triumph of peace as the opening of the canal deserved.

The canal will bring the commerce of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts within easier reach. Just now, when South America is clamoring for coal it has been in the habit of buying from Europe, but which it must look to the United States for while the war in Europe rages, the canal will be found to be of great economic advantage. Transcontinental railroads are not apt to suffer. The canal will cut time and expense in shipping. It will be a boon to world commerce and promote especially our trade with South America.

The official opening of the canal will not be until next March but the canal is finished and doing business. From now on until the opening, the duties of the canal force will be devoted to operating the canal with a view to obtaining that smooth perfection in operation that is had when the finished product is finally and formally turned over.

The gigantic job was a piece of world engineering that will perpetually reflect credit upon Americans. That it was done ahead of time is one remarkable feature of the entire work. It demonstrates that the government is capable of doing work which until the canal was built was always thought to be better in the hands of private individuals and contractors. Unstinted praise is due to the army engineers and the force of diggers who built the canal. Their place in history will be an illuminated page.

DEFEND THE KITCHEN.

The defense of the American kitchen has come to be as absorbing a problem as whether the kaiser's army is going to move northward toward Brussels or southward toward Paris. With a half dozen nations at war it was inevitable that innocent bystanders would get hit by flying missiles. We happen to be one of the innocent bystanders. If we were rushing into the fray as actual would-be peacemakers we would no doubt get hurt more, but we're getting hurt enough as it is.

If European countries, with their hands fairly tied with the big business of moving armies, and all that goes with the war game, can take over the actual control of food supplies to forestall piracies, why can't our government, with nothing more to do than the routine?

Isn't the United States government able, isn't it big enough, to protect the kitchens in American homes? Isn't our government strong enough to put down food pirates as the poor old mandarin government of China did? Are we to be the only nation in the world with a government that can't, or doesn't want to protect the lives of the people through their kitchens?

If the government took over the food supply right now and assumed charge of its movement that would be an end not merely to the pirates' added tribute in criminal prices, but it would lop off at one blow all the costs except those of actual production and distribution. That would make a big difference. It might not seem quite the same to the fellows who had the millions of surplus profits counted, but it would be a real live defense of the American kitchen.

In common with all of the other newspapers in the United States, The Daily Press has received an appeal from a Chicago newspaper, urging it to join in a great peace movement to bring "persistent pressure" to bear, so that the great European war may be ended. There is not a newspaper in this land that would not do all in its power to bring about such a condition, but, as the Camden Post-Telegram says, "it seems to us that what is suggested is like expecting the small boy to stop the farmer's wagon by catching hold of the spokes. If the belligerents will not heed the American government's proposal for mediation they are not likely to listen to the peace proposals of a Chicago newspaper. To our mind there will be no opening for overtures for peace until the belligerents have measured strength in several bloody battles on land and sea."

When Senator Pierce was suggested as the only logical candidate for the State Senatorship in the Republican party, and worthy of the endorsement of the Progressives, some of the leaders of the party wanted to know what Pierce had done, and went so far as to say that he could not get the support of Republicans in his home town, Cranford. But he has now received the endorsement of the Republican Club of that city, which represents a large number of voters there. Union county can go a long way before securing a more able representative than the present Senator, and that is said without any intention of disparaging others who seek the place.

Like all other American newspapers, The Daily Press relies upon its advertising columns for support. It also seeks to bring prosperity and benefit to those who advertise in its columns.

The death of the Rev. W. E. L. Ward removes from local activities a clergyman who has made many friends since coming to this city, and he will be much missed in the community.

Even the borough has felt the effects of the war. The firm which offered to buy its school bonds turned down the opportunity because of the conditions abroad.

A shrewd observer and student of history is preparing the editorial for Saturday of this week, and The Daily Press promises its readers an interesting article.

DUTCH ARMS PLANS.

The Dutch Arms Men's Club, of Trinity Reformed church, through their officers, have started to plan for the work of the coming season. Plans for increasing the membership of this live church organization are well under way. The first meeting of this club will be held Monday, September 21, at which time the annual banquet will be held. Gatherings will be held the third Monday of each month, at which an entertainment or lecture will be given.

God the Scapegoat

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

In the explanatory note, "The Socialist Point of View," in yesterday's issue of the Daily Press, the editor makes me say that "I firmly believe that if the church did its full duty it could find a way to stop the war." I don't believe that at all. The church could not stop it even if it wanted to. The question naturally arises then, why blame the church if you say it could do nothing in the matter? My aim in the article, "Christian Civilization," of August 6th, and the one appearing today is simply to show its hollowness and pretense.

DONATO DI LONARDO.

"I believe this war is a visitation of Almighty God upon the hypocrisy, greed, extravagance and irreligion of modern civilization."—Rev. Charles A. Eaton, in the contributed editorial of the Daily Press, Saturday, August 15, 1914.

A minister, the other day, took me to task for my article "Christian Civilization," which appeared in the Daily Press, Thursday, August 6th, wherein I arraigned Christianity for its failure to prevent this stupendously eythmical and ghastly dance of death; that it stands by the picture of utter helplessness and impotency while upon the alter of greed and vanity millions of lives are sacrificed cruelly, pitilessly. He said, "Christianity has nothing to do with this war, the Kaiser is responsible for it." I replied, "granted, then you confess that the will of one man can shatter and scatter unto dust the cumulative preaching of nineteen centuries and the sentiment of nearly four hundred millions of European christians?" Silence on the part of the minister. I continued, "why did not the clergy at least refuse to pray to God for the success of the armies when ordered to do so by the rulers of the countries at war? It was the supreme chance of the Christian church, and it would have gone far to remove from the clergy the stigma of hypocrisy and abject servility which now is indelibly marked upon it?" He answered, "Had any clergyman refused to comply with that request, they would have been shot as the Socialists were shot who refused to take up arms and openly protested against the war." That answer was the greatest tribute that could be paid the Socialists for their undaunted spirit of fealty to the cause of humanity. Oh shades of Jaure and all the host of the privates in the army who bravely met their death and whose names could not be featured because unknown exult from the black shroud of night in which the gory hand of the master class has enveloped you for a "servant" of the persecuted Galilean has said that you were not afraid to be crucified as his Master was while they, poor creeping things, had to comply with the order of their masters!

It is gratifying at this juncture to find a preacher in no less a person than Rev. Dr. Eaton who supports and strengthens my indictment of "Christian Civilization"—he uses the word "modern" but "modern civilization" is Christian and not atheistic unfortunately.

Now, since it would be inconceivable that God would curse the earth with such dire visitation and destroy his own followers just for the pleasure of punishing the negligible minority who don't go to church or openly deny him; since no ruler has been publicly excommunicated by the church authorities; since they all move in the name of God to make mince meat of one another; since the majority of the people of these countries are Christians, and since the majority rules we can logically conclude that Christianity, as exemplified today, is "greedy, hypocritical, extravagant and irreligious," and God, his patience tired out, according to Rev. Eaton, is sending his thunderbolts to teach it a lesson.

Sometimes it is the paradoxical function of those who are accused of "irreligion" and of "not" believing in God to defend the latter from the aspersions and libelous attacks of his self-appointed representatives.

In so far as the description of the Christian religion in its practical application to our social life is concerned, I agree with the Rev. Doctor, that it is "greedy, hypocritical, etc." but that God would deliberately send this scourge upon earth to punish that "greediness, hyprocisy and irreligion," I cannot believe.

One of the reasons why many intelligent people reject God is to be found in the fact that those who always speak in his name make a monster of him; a cruel pitiless, revengeful instrument, a thing to be despised, not loved.

The earth quakes and human life is shuffled out. "God did it to punish the wicked." The convulsive grip of the ocean carries down in his fathomless bosom, men, women and children. "God did it!" Thousands of children on a Sunday-school excursion burn and drown, "It is the hand of God!" God is made the scapegoat of every happening that strikes terror to the hearts of men. The responsibility for everything that is appalling, repulsive, inhuman, beastly is rested with him. And that is a very convenient thing to do for the reason that to trace the cause of these happenings would, in one case, disprove the existence of an External Agent controlling the destinies of men, and, in another, would reveal the social sores and the causes of most of the evils efflicting mankind which seems to be the principal occupation and main function of the ministers and priests of all religions to conceal in exchange of their position of economic security so generously given by the plundering power.

If these be not the reasons then their conception of God is still that of the barbarians and their boasted progress a hollow mockery.

We experience a feeling of horror when we read of the sacrificial rites of the priests of Moloch. How much better are we to think that God demands the sacrifice of millions of human beings so that, with Satanic glee, he may amuse himself in contemplating this most exquisite picture of desolation, fields strewn with torn and bleeding corpses of men, putrefying carcasses of his creatures now become breeding places of maggots and food for vultures, shattered clay no longer able to clasp to their quivering breast the virgin left behind just blooming into womanhood, or whose wives haggared and dishevelled with fatherless children tugging at their hanging skirts, pleading for a morsel of bread, vainly waiting for their return.

Come, O ye preachers, away with this anthropomorphic conception of God! Stop crediting or, rather, discrediting him with your vices and virtues, your feelings of love and hate, pride and jealousy, forgiveness and revenge; of all the emotions and passions that man is still slave to in this "distracted globe."

POLITICAL NOTES.

August 23—Last day for filing Congressional petitions.

August 28—Last day for filing county petitions.

September 2—Last day for filing petitions for local offices.

September 8—First registry day. Also last day for filing petitions to fill vacancies in all offices except Governor and Congress.

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

Union County elects a new sheriff this year, and numerous Republican candidates are in the field for the nomination. They all seem to be pretty good men, any one of whom would doubtless fill the office satisfactorily.

In such circumstances, the question before voters becomes largely one of availability and locality. Which candidate is likely to be the strongest at the polls in November? Which comes from that part of the county which is best entitled to the honor?

A few years ago Dr. Lawrence of Summit filled the office. Then Mr. Kirkland of Elizabeth was elected to it. After him came Wright, of Rahway. It would now seem to be the turn of Plainfield to provide a candidate.

John H. Cose, of that city, an able business man and a lifelong Republican, loyal and progressive, is a candidate, and is receiving many signatures to his petition. He would seem to be the logical candidate, so far as locality is concerned, while as for strength at the polls, he is fully the peer of any man in the county.

We cordially commend Mr. Cose's candidacy to the favorable consideration of our constituency.—Passaic Valley News.

By the latter part of this week the lines should be well drawn in the primary campaigns of the different parties. Considerable doubt and uncertainty should be dispelled, and the exact lists of entries and some of their leading backers fully known. The Republican outing Saturday did considerable to bring this condition about, while the Democratic excursion today should put on the finishing touches.

With ex-Mayor George W. V. Moy running for Congress instead of State Senator on the Progressive ticket, supporters of Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of Plainfield, for State Senator on the Democratic ticket, are said to be considerably cheered up. While they profess to have no fears about Mayor Stewart in the primary election, they did fear that many Plainfield votes would be cast for Moy for Senator on general election day, that would otherwise have gone to the present Executive.

William Torrence Stuchell, one of the Republican candidates for the Congressional nomination, is quite a framer of epigrams, as anyone knows who has heard him speak on almost any subject. "Party success is not an end; it is a means to an end," and "the party is something that should serve," and "the basis of prosperity is the protective tariff," are some of the ones he uttered in a recent speech.

ADVOCATES ESTABLISHMENT OF INSURANCE INSTITUTE

The establishment of a national institute for the scientific study of insurance is one of the numerous suggestions embodied by President Forrest F. Dryden, of The Prudential Insurance Company of America, in an article prepared for the World's Insurance Congress to be held at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco next year. In the same paper Mr. Dryden advocates the inclusion in the institute of an insurance museum for the collection and preservation of insurance literature, experience, and the documentary methods and means by which the business has been carried on in the past, and is being carried on at the present time.

"Those plans would tend measurably to advance the dignity of insurance as a social institution," writes Mr. Dryden, "and make manifest in the most convenient form the services rendered by sound insurance in all its branches to governmental, associated or individual efforts to make the world a better place to live in by eliminating the risks of the individual life. Such an institute would also serve as a means of welding together all of the numerous and at present widely separated insurance interests into the one vast national and even international organization for the development and conservation of insurance as a science and an art making effectively and progressively for human betterment."

Mr. Dryden, along the same lines, also urges anew the practical teaching of insurance as a science in universities, commercial high schools, and other public institutions of learning, the same as is now being included in the curriculum of some colleges and preparatory schools.

The Prudential's president's article was prepared at the request of Commissioner of Insurance W. L. Hathaway, who is to be in charge of the World's Insurance Congress to be held at the San Francisco Exposition, and besides the three features already referred to, also includes a brief explanation concerning the exhibit the Prudential Insurance Company intends to present to the Exposition visitors. This exhibit, which will be unusual, will not be limited, Mr. Dryden states, to the methods and results of insurance, but is expected to embrace an extended consideration of insurance history from the earliest times, insurance practice throughout the world, insurance architecture as it appears in the buildings of the leading institutions, insurance mortality experience, and insurance in its relation to public welfare as illustrated by the numerous problems of public health and personal hygiene all over the entire western hemisphere. The Prudential exhibit will be in the section on Social Economy, which has been assigned space in the Mines Building instead of the Education Building, as originally planned.

The subject of taxation of insurance as a social and economic problem, the commercial aspects of insurance, which always has been an integral element of commerce, the more effective and comprehensive supervision of new forms of insurance so that the prestige of the business may be enhanced and the chances of unintentional error or deliberate fraud minimized, the co-ordination of life and other forms of insurance to public health activities, and the great problem of social insurance are other matters touched upon by Mr. Dryden in his paper.

SOME BABY TRICKS BY THIS YOUNGSTER

For She Is the Baby Elephant With the Johnny J. Jones Shows.

"What is home without a baby?" The Johnny J. Jones Exposition Show, which opens here on Monday under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, believes that a show is nothing more than the home is minus the baby. Hence the baby of the Jones shows, "Baby Sue," and Sue is some baby. She is a baby elephant and if you think that baby elephants are so very very difficult from "little Willie full of tricks, ain't he cute, he's only six?" you evidently have never seen "Baby Sue." This young lady elephant likes to be coaxed and petted and applauded and babied just like any other great big blue eyed baby of the gentle sex. "Baby Sue" is just chuck full of tricks, to, and she is never happier than when she is doing her tricks for the public.

Once upon a time it was customary to put "Baby Sue" through her paces in a tent and charge an admission. One day, however, after she had done her turn "Baby Sue" slipped her moorings and unbeknown to her keeper took a quiet sneak down to the far end of the midway where she started carrying out a program of her own. In less time than you could say "Johnny J. Jones," "Baby Sue" had five or six hundred people rubbernecking at her. Efforts were made to break up her little party but all in vain. She carried out her bit to the end and then walked back to her tent. Every day after that "Baby Sue" set up an awful howl if she wasn't allowed to do her stunts out in front and in order to satisfy the little lady's temperamental cravings she was put on the free program and now does her turn three times a day, one of the most popular of acts.

Thomas Quincy and Margaret Quincy who are the head liners of the big free act program offered by the Jones shows are among the highest salaried performers in the world. Thomas goes 92 feet high to jump and Margaret 60 feet, both diving into three feet of water, but the high old joke about their salaries stops there, according to the management, who foots the bill of this costly act. But it is all worth it, says Mr. Jones, for the satisfaction of knowing that the best has been shown is worth a whole lot. Both the Quincys are champions at high diving and the acts they give on the free program are remarkable in every way. There are also concerts by Vitucci's Royal Italian band under the personal direction of the renowned Micheal Vitucci and Joe Oppice's Rag Time band.

The other attractions of the Jones shows include: Captain Curley Wilson's trained animal circus; monster pit show by world wonders; Babcock's motordrome; Johnny J. Jones Minstrels; Kinsel's $20,000 merry-go-round; Ferris wheel; Trip to Mars; Alma and Zada, gaint and pigmy; Prof. George, giant midget, Edna and her strange pets; Joyland, the place of mirth; Tango palace, everybody's doing it here; Roger's athletic show; Flea circus and the world's greatest congress of concessioniers.

DOBBINS' FRIENDS ARE CIRCULATING PETITION

Considerable progress has been made during the past week with the petition of Assemblyman Francis V. Dobbins, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for State Senator. Mr. Dobbins, as assemblyman, was acknowledged to be the spokesman for Governor Fielder on the floor, and through his efforts much of the progressive legislation was affected, and it is said, in recognition of this support, Governor Fielder will stump Union county in behalf of his candidacy.

Mr. Dobbins has been the city attorney for Rahway for the past ten years and is well known throughout the county.

WEDS SON OF CHICAGO'S MAYOR

Trenton, Aug. 19—A wedding of interest to society in several cities took place here today when Miss Lucy Brady Cook, daughter of Charles Howell Cook, a wealthy pottery manufacturer of this city, became the bride of Carter Henry Harrison, Jr., son of Mayor Carter Harrison of Chicago. The bride was attended by Miss Eleanor Harrison, a sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor.

YOUTHFUL THIEVES LET GO.

Tony and Jean Danoto, two small Italian boys, were arrested and brought before City Judge W. G. De Meza in the city court, this morning, to answer to a charge of stealing pumpkins from the garden at 1183 South Second street. They were allowed to go with a suspended sentence after being warned not to repeat the offense.

NAMES M'REYNOLDS TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

Washington, Aug. 19—Attorney-General McReynolds was nominated today by President Wilson to be associate justice of the Supreme Court. The President also named Assistant Attorney-General Gregory to succeed Mr. McReynolds in the Department of Justice.

ED. RUSHMORE'S PETITION FIRST FILED IN BOROUGH

The first petition to be filed in the borough during the present political campaign was placed in the hands of Borough Clerk Charles Dolliver, this morning, naming Edmund Rushmore for councilman. The petition contained twenty-six names, and will be supplemented before the end of the week with another petition with an equal number of names.

The petition endorsing Julius Stahl is now being circulated throughout the borough, and is being signed readily. It is expected that the petitions of Mr. Stahl, who is seeking a renomination, will be filed by next Monday morning.

Together with these activities on the part of the borough Repjublican clansmen, comes an unofficial announcement that the Democrats will undoubtedly place a local ticket in the field this fall. Among those already mentioned for councilmanic honors among the followers of Jefferson, is Frank Mobus, of Watchung avenue, who is the head of the Union Grain Company, of this city.

OFFICIAL MAP OF WAR INCLUDES MANY FEATURES

Judging from the interest aroused in yesterday's announcement readers are anxious to get the latest authentic map showing the exact location of the great European war. The Daily Press is passing out these maps at the mere expense of promotion, as shown in the war map coupon printed elsewhere in this issue. The big war map is 18 1-2x 16 1-2 inches and takes in the entire war area. Included in this map is a smaller map showing the ground plans of the five big European war capitals, namely: London, Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg, and Vienna. The frontier between France and Germany shows the great French fortified towns, which also include Liege, in Belgium, where the first great land conflict occurred. There is also a chart of the North Sea and the Kiel Canal as well as the Baltic Sea and the Gulf of Finland.

The unique features described are not to be found in any other war map of Europe. They will appeal to newspaper readers who are watching the greatest of all war struggles.

For a short time these useful educational maps will be passed out to readers for ten cents each, or twelve cents where they are to be sent by mail. Act quickly so as to be able to talk knowingly of the greatest war of the age. Clip your war coupons and present them without delay.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From the Experience of Plainfield People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Plainfield residents on the following subject will interest and benefit many of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. William E. Gardner, 322 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I suffered a great deal from rheumatic pains across my back. My kidneys were weak and irregular in action. I was in a miserable condition for months. Nothing I tried seemed to give me any relief until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's drug store. They seemed to take hold at once, banishing the rheumatic pains and regulating the action of my kidneys. They improved my condition so much that I soon felt like a different woman. I will always endorse Doan's Kidney Pills."

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

On Thursday evening, John C. Fisher will present at the Plainfield theatre a new play by Paul Wilstach, called "What Happened at 22." Shortly after finishing the engagement in Plainfield, "What Happened at 22" will be seen in New York at the Harris Theatre for a run. In his latest endeavor Mr. Wilstach has departed materially from his previous efforts and has written a play that is expected to be "close to the people." It is said to be a new idea in the way of crook plays and to present the wrongdoer from an entirely different angle than writers along these lines have previously done.

Aside from offering a drama that is intensely interesting and replete with human interest, "What Happened at 22" shows the danger that lies in the acceptance of circumstancial evidence where a man's life is at stake, especially if this evidence is contributed by criminals. One of the principal characters is that of an accomplished forger who is so very clever with his pen that he defies detection for many years and it is only through the wit of a woman that he is finally unmasked and then only after her sweetheart is attacked and is in danger of suffering for the crime of another. The scenes of the play are laid in New York and it is described as a modern American drama, the numerals in the title referring to the number of the house in which the incidents elaborated on by the author are supposed to take place. Among those whom Mr. Fisher has engaged for the principal characters in "What Happened at 22" are Reginald Barlow, GFrank Kemble Cooper, Malcolm Duncan, Robert Fischer, Charles Abbe, J. K. Hutchinson, Wadsworth Harris, Carroll McComas, Estar Banks, Elizabeth Ariaans and Helen Crane.

"The Line Up at Police Headquarters," with former Commissioner of Police George S. Dougherty, head of the detective department of New York city, in the principal part, opens an engagement of two days at the Plainfield Theatre, on Friday, with one matinee daily.

"The Line Up" is a six-reel feature film depicting the official or inside doings of the Police Department on Mulberry street, New York city. It is the first time that the actual workings of police machinery has been shown on the screen. Some of the interesting and educational features are, "The Rogues Gallery," "The Bertillon System," "The Thumb Print Bureau" and "The Third Degree"; the police parade and review by Mayor Mitchell and Commissioner Woods. The sensational features and thrilling adventures of Dougherty's detectives are various and many; including the battle royal on a Curtis Hydroplane going at sixty miles an hour; the dive of crook and detective from the rails of an ocean greyhound and fight in the cold waters of New York Bay; Dougherty's hand to hand fight with a burglar, the most fiercely exciting conflict ever acted for the camera; the modern safe drillers at work; the raid in Chinatown and leap from the roof of a skyscraper.

PLAN LONG AUTO TRIP.

Councilman Edmund Rushmore, of North Plainfield, and Dr. J. H. V. Bache, of Beechwood avenue, Bound Brook, are making arrangements for an automobile trip to the Adirondack Mountains. Upon arriving at the objective point they will spend some time in camping in the open.

SAMPLE SHOE STORE.

The Boston Sample Shoe House, conducted by the Weiss Brothers, will be opened at 147 East Front street, Saturday. This is one of the several branch stores under the control of the concern, others being located at West Chester, Pa.; Pottstown, Pa., and Coatsville, Pa.

FEW CHANGES IN 1914 FOOTBALL CODE, BUT TRICKERY HAS BEEN MINIMIZED

There have been few changes in the football rules for the coming fall. More than one rule has been modified and rearranged to a certain extent, but there is not difference enough in any part of the code to make the game appear anything other than what it was a year ago. In other words, it seems that those who have the codifying of the rules in charge each season are satisfied that the games are controlled very well by present conditions and that tinkering with the provisions will not alter the sport to the best advantage.

One of the most important alterations is that in relation to the forward pass. It was the custom last year, when a man ran ten or fifteen yards back behind his own line of scrimmage to make a forward pass, if he found no man clear to throw the ball to, to toss it ahead of him on the ground and thereby get the benefit of the penalty for an incompleted pass instead of losing the distance as well as the down. The penalty was that the ball should be played over from the spot of the previous down, the failure to make the pass simply counting a down. Had the penalty not been incurred deliberately the distance also would have been lost. Any time the player attempts to evade the loss of the distance when forced back on an attempted forward pass by this method now his team will be penalized ten yards.

It used to be that any kick that hit the goal posts other than a free kick was a touchback; but when a free kick struck one of the uprights and bounded back into the field of play the ball was not dead. This has been changed so that all kicks hitting the posts and bounding back will be touchbacks. This was done to avoid confusing the players. The rule relative to the roughing of the fullback has been made a little different, so that now, when a lineman breaking through to block a punt is carried into the kicker by his momentum, his side will not be penalized unless in the opinion of the referee the action is intentional.

The rule made to prevent the head coach from walking up and down the side lines probably will not be adhered to any more than the one which declared that only one man should have that privilege. There is likely to be an agreement between coaches that each allow the other that much laxity. Especially will this be true in the early games, when each coach is desirous of getting as close a line as possible on his men.

A forward pass that goes out of bounds this year on the fly, or after being touched by an eligible player, will go to the opposing eleven. There will be no kickout from behind the twenty-yard line after a touchback, the team making the touchback having no alterative of a kickout or a scrimmage. The ball must be put in play on the twenty-yard line by scrimmage. There are one or two other slight modifications which will not affect the game considerably in any way.

The changes in detail as outlined in the guide for 1914, just issued, are as follows:

The last privilege of the head coach has been removed and in 1914 no one will be allowed to walk up and down the side ines.

Those who witnessed one of the principal games of 1913 will remember the safety made by a player caused by his failure to diagnose between an ordinary punt in the field of play and a free kick hitting the goal post. In order to have no complication of this kind arise again the rules have been altered so that a free kick hitting the goal post and bounding back into the field of play becomes automatically a touchback, just as though it was an ordinary punt.

The field judge is to be brought back (optional) to act as assistant to the referee and linesman in the big games. This was voted by the rules committee, although on account of the expense in small games the addition of this official is left optional.

The words "running into the fullback after the kick" have been changed to "roughing the kicker," etc., in order that a man coming through and trying to block the kick will not necessarily incur a penalty if he happens to run against the kicker.

A rule also is added putting a penalty on a man who roughs a man who has just made a forward pass.

A forward pass that goes out of bounds either on a fly direct or after being touched by an eligible player of either side goes to the opponents.

It also has been determined that the receiver of a forward pass in the end zone, regardless of the position of his hands and the ball, must have both his feet within the end line or side line to make the catch legal.

One of the most important changes is the cutting out of the kickout. After a touchback or a safety the ball always must be scrimmaged on the 20-yard line.

Another important alteration is designed to prevent a man taking advantage of the rules when he finds himself attempting to make a forward pass and is forced back. The trick was worked cleverly last year of throwing the ball to the ground and thus, by a loss of a ball go back to the place where it was scrimmaged. This is prevented now by a ten yard penalty, measured from where the ball was put in play, against any man thus intentionally grounding a forward pass.

In the case of a player out of bounds when the ball was put in play, the play is not made over again, but a five-yard penalty is exacted.

"Hiding" on the side lines is classed under unsportsmanlike conduct.

Teams no longer will be allowed to encroach upon the neutral zone in making shift plays. As soon as either team is lined up on the offensive any shift must be made without a player passing into this neutral zone, under a penalty of five yards.

A clause is inserted to include "tripping by hand" under the rule of tripping ,which formerly covered only tripping with the foot and leg.

ROD AND REEL

Weakfish and bluefish are being caught in Raritan Bay and some heavy catches have been reported, especially of the former.

Many crabs are being caught in Newark and the Shark River at Belmar. All that try for the blue claws can get all they can carry.

Weaks and fluke are still biting well at Morgan Station and Corson's Inlet. Most of the fish are good weighers.

The Long Branch pier is very popular with anglers as there are many large catches of weakfish made from that place.

The weakfish in Raritan Bay yesterday was erratic. Some of the boats got fairly good catches, while others were not so fortunate. One man brought in forty nice weaks and croakers.

Some good catches of sea bass, blackfish and sea porgies were made yesterday by those who went out from Freeport. Two men caught a big bagful of fish. They are heading for the East grounds now, and the sea bass and fluke are running to five and six pounds, respectively.

CHAMPIONSHIPS POSTPONED.

Charlottetown, P. E. I. Aug. 19—The championships of the Canadian Athletic Union, which were to have been held here today in connection with the Confederation jubilee celebration, have been indefinitely postponed because of the conditions arising from the war.

Y. F. A. TEAM TAKES SEVEN INNING GAME FROM COURIER

The Courier-News baseball team met defeat for the second time this year at the hands of the Y. F. A. nine on the Watchung avenue field, yesterday, by the score of 10 to 2. The C-N boys made one run in the first inning, but for the next six innings they were helpless before the pitching of Vail. VanNess was hit hard at times and the winners scored four in the seventh round.

After being shut out for two frames they batted a brace of tallies over the plate, and in the fifth were credited with three. That was enought to clinch the game, but they also scored one in the sixth and four in the last round. The Courier team scored their last run in the fifth.

The score by innings:

Courier	1 0 0 0 1 0 0—	2
Y. F. A.	0 0 2 0 3 1 4—	10

Batteries: VanNess and Serviss, Vail and Clarkson.

FIRST CUP FOR COMING CHAMP

Ralph Runyon Awarded Plainfield Daily Press Cup, His First Silver Trophy.

WON AT PARKER FIELD

Athletic Experts Herald Plainfield Youth As a Coming National Title Holder In This Event—He Will Compete In Senior Championships

Ralph Runyon, winner of the Plainfield Daily Press trophy for the Plainfield boy scoring the most number of points in the athletic meet held under the auspices of the Playground Commission, on Parker Field, July 4, has received the award. Runyon won first place in the pole vault from a large field, scoring five points which was enough to place him two points ahead of his nearest contender, Jack Fritts.

The winner of the Press cup, competing from scratch, gave a wonderful exhibition of the difficult event, clearing the bar in a finished style and having little trouble in outleaping his other opponents, many of whom competed from a twelve-inch handicap. He did thirteen inches better than the second place winner. Runyon has the makings of a champion in this event, and although he has annexed numerous medals and other awards for first, second and third places in the pole vault, the Daily Press cup is his first trophy of this nature. The cup has been suitably engraved and is the largest, with the exception of the Board of Trade cup, that was given in the meet.

Since he gained prominence in this line Runyon has had many tempting offers from the New York and Irish-American Athletic Clubs, to become a member of one of the metropolitan organizations, but has declined each. When but a novice in the event he was picked up by the Pastime A. C. and has elected to compete under that organization's colors. Jack Fritts, another local athlete, is also a member of the Pastime Club. Runyon has entered the senior championships to be held at Celtic Park, September 19, in the pole vault event and will be opposed by Gordon B. Dukes and Frank Babcock, the 1912 Olympic stars.

He is a junior in the Plainfield High School and competed in many schoolboy meets during the past season. Runyon is also proficient in the high jump.

COPS AND FIREMEN MEET TOMORROW

A Great Game Will Be Staged On Parker Field Between Kiely's Men and Canucks.

The local guardians of the peace and the borough fire fighters, will open hostilities on Parker Field, tomorrow, when they meet for the first time this season. The city team is confident of winning the game, inasmuch as it has been playing regular all year,while the Canucks have only tossed the ball around between fires. However, the players from across the creek have something up their sleeve and are going to spring it tomorrow.

The firemen have rounded up a good bunch of ball players to appear and they will give the coppers a hard fight. They are noted for being heavy hitters and are no rookies in the field. Wilson will do the heavy work for the boroughites and he has all kinds and varieties to serve up to the cops. Hand will be on the receiving end and his wing may prove fatal to the fleet footed runners who try to run from first to second. Wilson will have a stonewall infield behind him that can pick up anything within reach.

Fritts will again be on the mound for the cops and "Connie" McCarthy will be behind the bat. The cops will get some good practice for the game, this afternoon, when they play at Newark, and Fritts will limber up for tomorrow on third. The teams will lineup as follows:

FIREMEN	POLICEMEN
Barrett, 3b	McGinley, ss
Hann, ss	Martin, 3b
McCullough, 1b	Fritts, p
Al Fritts, rf	McCarthy, c
Townley, lf	Keller, 2b
Young, cf	Berger, 1b
Wilson, p	Muir, rf
Hand, c	Mernagh, cf
Schuck, 2b	York, lf

RUSTLERS WILL PLAY.

The Rustlers, a newly formed borough Sunday baseball team, will go to Bound Brook next Sunday, and play the St. Joseph team of that place. This will be the second game for the local team, the first resulting in a defeat at Bound Brook last Sunday.

ONLY TWO ATTEND LEAGUE MEETING

Session Called For Organization of Junior Basketball League Postponed.

For some unknown reason, probably a misunderstanding, the meeting that was called to organize a junior basketball league in this city, last night, did not materialize and only one or two of the delegates appeared at the appointed time at Hope chapel. The representative from Heavenly Rest school was present, but it was decided to try again. Why the other three representatives did not attend the meeting is not known, but all of the five were notified as to the date.

Several persons who read about the proposed league in the local papers, last night, have already expressed their sentiment in favor of this plan. Some ardent supporters of the court game also think that such an undertaking would be a great success in every way. From a financial standpoint all of the receipts would be profit except a few minor expenses as there would be no team traveling or hall debts. The last is a big factor and as every team that has yet signified its intention of entering the league has its own floor, a schedule could be made up to the satisfaction of all concerned. As soon as the organization is well under way a board of directors will be selected from the schools represented and a schedule made.

The teams that are now willing to take part in the league are the Hope chapel, Heavenly Rest, St. Stephen's, Grace and Holy Cross. Any other Sunday-school team would be welcome into the league and managers can get any information from George Leighs, of Hope chapel.

RECREATION NOTES

The Washington Dramatic Club, one of the organizations of the Public Recreation Committee, met last night in the Washington School. There were about twenty present and after the business meeting a short program was given by some of the club members. This was followed by a rehearsal of one of their plays, "Sarah's Young Man."

The Folks Dance Club will meet tonight in the Bryant School at 8:15.

The Italian Social and Educational Club will meet tomorrow evening in the Lincoln School.

DOES NOT WANT TO FIGHT.

A telephone call from the Westfield police received at the local headquarters, yesterday afternoon, requested the Plainfield authorities to be on the lookout for a short, stout German, who had made several attempts yesterday to buy poisonous drugs for suicidal purposes in Westfield. It was stated that he boarded a Main Line trolley car for Plainfield. The man told several persons that he was going to do away with himself and the supposition is that the troubles in his native country had something to do with his condition.

POPE PIUS X. SOON AFTER HIS ELECTION.

POPE PIUS DEAD

was possessed of the spirit of mischief that had led to his cherry tree encounters with the wrathful farmer of Riese. In fact, his first teacher, Father Joseph Innocente, described his former pupil as "a great little rogue, but always good, obedient and God fearing." He also said he was a lad of pronounced natural talent, decidedly shrewd and sagacious.

Finally came the time, 1858, when Giuseppe was ordained as a priest. He was twenty-three years old and said his first mass in the tiny chapel at Riese to the poor folk of that parish. It was the fiftieth anniversary of that mass that was celebrated at St. Peter's, Rome, on Jan. 1, 1908, without pomp or show of power, as was the wish of the former poor young priest, then supreme pontiff of the faith to which he consecrated himself. For nine years he was a county curate at Tombolo. When Father Sarto tried to induce his mother to live with him in the parish rectory, she said: "No, my dear. I was born in Riese, and here I shall die. Go your way, enjoy your good fortune and send me your linen when it needs mending."

Fasted to Feed the Poor.

From Tombolo Father Sarto went to Salzano as parish priest. That was in 1867. His work had commanded such attention that he was elected chancellor of the diocese of Treviso and then spiritual director and examiner in the seminary and vicar of the chapter of the Cathedral of Treviso. In 1884 Pope Leo XIII. appointed him bishop of Mantua, where he remained until 1893, when he was made cardinal and appointed patriarch of Venice. His motto had been "Give, give," and he carried his benefactions to the point of personal impoverishment. One day when he was bishop of Mantua one of his three unmarried sisters who kept house for him, as they subsequently did when their brother was patriarch of Venice, went to him to report that somebody had stolen the meat she had left on the stove for their dinner. The bishop, with a twinkle in his eye, suggested that it might have been the cat.

"The cat, indeed!" replied the sister in ridicule. "The cat does not carry off likewise the broth pot."

"My dear sister," then said the bishop gently, "if you wish to know, it was I who carried it off. A poor man came in and told me his wife was ill in bed and needed broth, and I gave it to him already made."

St. Bernardo delle Terme was the title Pope Leo bestowed upon Bishop Sarto when his holiness elevated him to the cardinalate. Cardinal Sarto's sole article of value was an episcopal ring, the gift of friends. His revenues, not more than $2,500 yearly, permitted no extravagance, and his eminence often was sorely vexed at the forced curtailment of his allowances for the needy. When he could devise no other plan, it has been said, he would have his bishop's ring put in pawn to raise funds. The first of each month Cardinal Sarto's secretary would deliver to him the sum that could reasonably be expected to be applied to charity and would advise caution in its disbursement. But in a very short time the capital would be gone.

Cardinal Sarto had quickly won the love of the Venetians wherever he went, and when his gondola passed along the canals the people rushed to the bridges and along shore to salute him. The women would cry "God bless the patriarch of Venice!" His popular diversion was these gondola trips, and he would land at some point to pay surprise visits to the priests under his jurisdiction. At 6 o'clock every morning he went for a walk, quite often to the sandy islands of Lido, which separate the lagoons of Venice from the Adriatic. Frequently he would visit his home village, Riese, where he brought sunshine and assistance to many an afflicted family.

Beloved by Pope Leo.

Pope Leo in his last talk with the patriarch of Venice was quoted as having said, referring to his own approaching end and consequent impending change in the pontificate: "You may perhaps be that man. We know, my son, that you would be in a position to render great service to the church, for you possess qualities which would render you precious to her."

Commenting on the fact that the patriarch of Venice, upon discovering that his name was mounting to the top in the conclave that chose him pope, had broken down with alarm at the sense of his "unworthiness" and that it required overwhelming persuasion to overcome his objections, one biographer said: "I have little doubt that Cardinal Sarto genuinely felt himself unequal to the great responsibility. One of his difficulties was a small and yet an important one. Never out of his parish until he was more than forty, never trained in Rome, never a representative of the holy see as nuncio in the courts of Europe, he had not learned any of the arts or the language of courts. He spoke only his native Venetian tongue."

Devoted to Spinster Sisters.

The devotion of the spinster sisters, Maria, Rosa and Anna, who moved to Rome to be near their "Beppo" when he entered the Vatican, was touching. They had ministered to his every want when he was bishop of Mantua and patriarch of Venice, and when he became pope he sent for them, intending they should have a villa in the Vatican park. But the sisters for some reason chose to occupy a flat in an apartment house within ten minutes' walk of St. Peter's palace. The elevation of their brother to the pontificate entitled these devoted kinswomen to be called countesses. "No, they are the pope's sisters; that is enough," declared Pius X. And so the three women remained in comparative obscurity, but close to him they loved so dearly.

Pope Pius, according to Vatican decree, never could dine with them, but the sisters always placed a chair for their absent brother and had said that they knew he was with them in spirit. The pope's mother did not live to see him in that high office, but he had received the red hat when she passed away.

late last night, received assurances from Senator Clarke, chairman of the Senate commerce committee, and House Leader Underwood, that the administration bill providing for governmental marine risk insurance would go through virtually without opposition.

While the White House conference was in session the committee on treasury and shipping and grain recently appointed met in a downtown hotel. Seth Low, chairman of the committee presided. The report, when it is drawn, will be submitted to President Wilson through Secretary McAdoo for the information of the Legislators.

Paris, Aug. 19.—In many respects, life in Paris has become more comfortable since the war began than during the first days of mobilization. Movement in the streets continues to cease at nightfall, but some of the subway lines are now permitted to operate until 8:30 p. m., and the tramways are in service until 10 p. m.

The disappearance of practically one-half of the vehicular traffic has left the streets in a state of tranquillity such as hos not been known for years. As a result, the number of accidents has been greatly decreased.

Strict military law is being enforced. The sale of absinthe is strictly forbidden, and the military censors, in addition to supervising the sale of alcoholic beverages at the bars, have also prohibited all gambling. Even motion picture theatres are required to submit their programs before presentation to the public.

Havre, via Paris, Aug. 19—It is announced that the Austrian S. S. Dinorah, laden with barley and wheat, was captured off Guernsey, one of the channel islands, by the French despatch boat Pluton.

Oran, Algeria, via Paris, Aug. 19—The Austrian steamer Emilia of 3,597 tons, bound for Triese, was stopped by guns from Fort St. Gregoire and brought in here as a prize by a tug. The captain of the Emilia was unaware that war had broken out.

Honolulu, Aug. 19.—The British Steamship Yagara, bound for Australian ports and the Warama, bound for Victoria, B. C., which have been held here for several days, owing to fear of capture by German cruisers, have sailed for their respective destinations. The Japanese Steamship Seiyo Moru, bound for Yokohoma, also has cleared.

Amsterdam, Aug. 19 (Central News Cable.)—It is reported here that the German forces have occupied the small Dutch village of Cannea, a few miles to the south of Maestricht. Several inhabitants who sought to oppose the invaders were killed. The rest fled to Maestricht.

Rome, Aug. 19 (Central News Cable.)—Travellers who have arrived here from Tricste state that the Internal situation in Austria is grave, one of the worst features being the scarcity of food.

New York, Aug. 19—James A. Patten, the Chicago grain man, returned today on the S. S. Finland of the Red Star Line, after a strenuous trip out of Germany. "It has been said that the war in Europe will benefit America," said Mr. Patten; "for the life of me I cannot see that when the whole world is hard up, our export trade is seriously diminishing. If the war lasts for any length of time, we may see a period of distress throughout the world, equal or worse than that which existed during the Napoleonic wars. If the crops in Europe cannot be planted or harvested next year prosperity all through the world will receive a serious blow. Money! Why everybody will hoard money everywhere."

The Finland brought 252 first, 215 second and 615 third class passengers. Most of the cabin passengers were without baggage.

The statement comes from several highly important sources that there is no possibility of the New York Stock Exchange being opened in the near future. A prominent banker said that there are already a large number of problems growing out of the European war which have not been solved and which cannot be for some little time.

Louvain, Belgium, (via. Paris) Aug. 19.—As a warning to the Germans as to what awaited them at Haelen, two men and a woman were shot as spies after the battle of Diest.

WAR NEWS IN BRIEE.

England.

There is reason to believe, according to the advices from the continent, that a serious engagement has been going on since Monday south of Brussels and that the troops of the allied armies are stubbornly contesting the German advance. No definite news of this contest has been received, but it seems evident that the Germans are endeavoring to break through the center of the allied armies, driving the French toward France up the Sambre valley and the Anglo-Belgian forces to Antwerp down the Scheldt.

Interest in the impending battle upon Belgian soil became intense when the war office admitted that the British army, a force in excess of 100,000 men, was actually upon the firing line. The whereabouts of this force is a secret, but that it is at the front is indicated by an address sent by the king to the British commander, Field Marshal Sir John French.

France.

General Joffre, the French commander in chief, reports to the war ministry at Paris that the French have been advancing steadily in upper Alsace and that the enemy's retreat in this region was disorderly, the Germans abandoning their wounded as well as munitions of war. He reports that the Germans, who occupied a strongly fortified position south of Saarburg, retreated precipitately, pursued by French cavalry. His report also indicates that the French are clearing out the Seille region, part of the passages of which have been evacuated, and have succeeded in cutting the railroad between Metz and Strassburg.

Sweden.

Patriotic fervor is sweeping Sweden, according to cable dispatches from Stockholm, uniting all parties in a demand for neutrality in the present crisis. The extension of obligatory military service to two years and increased armament are demanded. Mobilization is proceeding perfectly. National feeling has not run so high before in a hundred years. There is a strong belief in Sweden that an opportunity may come with the territorial readjustment after the war for Sweden to regain her former Finnish provinces.

Servia.

A dispatch from Premier Pasitch of Servia announces that an Austrian army which tried to penetrate the Sabatz mountains was routed and 15,000 men killed, wounded or captured. A strong Servian detachment supported by machine guns trapped the Austrians in a mountain valley. The Austrians were unable to form a battle line and retreated in confusion, leaving fourteen cannon.

Japan.

A copy of the official announcement by the British government that the operations of Japan will be confined to the China sea and the mainland of China was handed to Secretary of State Bryan by the Japanese ambassador in Washington. It had a noticeable effect in relieving uneasiness in official circles.

LAWYER CHALLENGED TO A FISTIC BOUT

Robert Newton Crane May Appear In the Ring With a Dunellenite.

As the result of a decision handed down by Justice of the Peace R. P. F. von Minden, in the City Hall, Dunellen, yesterday, Counselor Robert Newton Crane, of this city, who represented the victorious complainant, was given his choice as appearing as a cambatant in an unclassified pugilistic encounter or facing a slander suit as a defendant. In summing up the case, in which an Italian farmer of New Market had brought suit against his neighbor for damages alleged to have been caused by the latter's cow, Mr. Crane took occasion to "ride" Thomas Smith, one of the defendant's witnesses. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Crane likened the witness to a fly on a hot summer's day trying to dodge the glue on some sticky flypaper.

When Justice von Minden ordered the defendant to pay the local counselor's client $10 for damages and to turn over $6.70 for costs of court, Mr. Smith made his way from the opposite side of the Dunellen courtroom and offered the counselor his verbal challenge. Mr. Crane declined to act hastily on the proposition, but thanked his would-be opponent for serving previous notice on him and consented to give the matter due consideration.

Not to be outdone or forgotten by his much-sought foe, Mr. Smith appeared in Plainfield this noon with a companion, thought to be his second, and approached the local lawyer on North avenue. Like all other pugilists, Mr. Smith appeared unusually friendly to his quarry in the public thoroughfare and extended his hand as a greeting. Mr. Crane, who is a featherweight, declined the handshake as a greeting from the heavyweight and was informed by the latter that he didn't intend to shake hands when he extended his right hand.

On being informed that the challenge had not been accepted as yet, Mr. Smith took occasion to expound on the genealogy of Mr. Crane and from the information he dealt out in the few minutes he graced North avenue with his presence, indications are that he has been doing considerable scouting since he became infected with pugilistic aspirants. Friends of both parties are now awaiting their advent into the roped arena. In the event of a time and place being decided upon, Wayside Park being the favored spot, it is said that Mr. Crane will ask for bids from local carpenters for the construction of a pair of stilts to bring his head up to a level with that of his adversary. The two parties offer a great contrast when standing side by side. Crane is one of the individuals who is measured by the foot and jumps on a postoffice scale when he desires to ascertain his weight while Smith takes his altitude by the yard and records his weight from statistics presented on the dial of a coal scale.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB ENDORSES STEWART FOR STATE SENATOR

Members of the Plainfield Democratic Club met in their headquarters on North avenue, last night, and officially endorsed Mayor Percy H. Stewart as the Democratic candidate for the State Senatorship. The meeting was one of the largest ever held by the organization and much enthusiasm was in evidence.

The club made plans for the annual Democratic outing to Witzel's Grove, today, and was well represented on the special train that left here this morning.

A large delegation was present from the Jefferson Democratic Club. A committee was appointed to obtain the sentiment of the members as to who they would like for candidates at the coming fall elections. Those on the committee are Howard Lapsley, chairman; Councilman Theodore Martin, Henry Rosenbaum, Charles Senger and Daniel Couraine.

CHAPTER VIII.

Wilderness Neighbors.

YOU don't have to go near any wild or domestic animal to tame it. It will come to you and live with you and sleep with you. All you have to do is simply to conceal your own curiosity.

Whenever you see a wild animal in the woods go toward him carelessly. Let the creature know that you have seen him and then suddenly change your course or do something to show that you aren't apparently interested in him. Pay absolutely no attention to him. He knows that you saw him and yet went about your own business without offering to harm him. That animal will never forget you.

It is not man that the wild animal is afraid of, but the human scent. If a deer, for instance, sees a man standing still in the forest and the wind is blowing in the wrong way for him to catch the scent, he thinks the man is a part of the forest just like a log or a tree, but the minute he catches the scent he is on the alert. Perhaps in his own life the human scent has meant danger to him. One the other hand, while it may never have bothered him, the human scent may have meant injury to some of his forbears and so he naturally inherits the instinctive fear.

However, in that scent the animal can analyze the man. He can instinctively read a man's character by his smell. This is the reason why a deer will fly from one person the moment he gets his scent, while he will stand by and watch out of curiosity another man who means him no harm.

Deer and moose never fight unless cornered. Even the wildcat will slink away to the underbrush at the sound of a man's footfall. A hunger enraged wolf will never dare approach a fire. Fire is protection from any animal.

All kinds of dogs will come up to me. They seem to know instinctively that I am their friend. I don't care how cross a dog is I can readily make friends with him.

Don't think for a moment that you can say to any ugly dog "Nice doggy" in a voice that is quavering with fear and get away with it. The dog won't pay any attention to the "nice doggy" part, but he will scent that fear.

There was one saucy chipmunk that used to come and visit me daily at my Bear mountain lean-to. He would chatter with me, fill his chops with bits of food and scurry away to bury them. Sometimes he would come around three or four times a day. He paid no more attention to me, as far as being afraid of me was concerned, than as if I were not there.

One day while I was cooking some trout I heard an awful disturbance around the back of my lean-to. I investigated and found a furious battle going on between a red squirrel and my friend the chipmunk. The big red squirrel had trespassed on the chipmunk's stamping ground, and, of course, that would never do. It was a dreadful fight for little fellows to be engaged in. Around and around they tore, through the leaves, under the tangle, over fallen trunks, up the trees and down again. Occasionally they came together, and then nothing could be seen but one flying ball of fur. Getting apart again, they would rest a second, panting, before resuming the contest.

Swish! They were at it again, and another wild scene would be repeated. In the end that spunky little chipmunk actually beat the red squirrel and drove him off.

After that the red squirrel used to come around every day and from a distance would scream and scold at the chipmunk (the red squirrel has a sort of bark). Then he would see me and begin to bark at me because he knew I was friendly with the chipmunk. At this the chipmunk came right up to me and began to play around my feet, though I had never attempted to make friends with him. He made friends with me.

I knew what went on in the minds of these little animals.

Sleeping with one's back against the roots of a spruce blowdown in fair weather is not the worst thing in the world, but that morning when I awoke in the wilderness—the day after I had found the deer killed by the wildcat—it was raining hard.

Digging down into my pack, I found some dried raspberries, of which I ate sparingly.

After breakfast I packed up my small deerskin and bearskin and started off again along the natural game trail. I didn't select any special direction, but after walking for some time I saw that I was headed for what is known as the Horseshoe country.

This morning the feeling within me to give up the experiment was stronger than ever. I hated the woods, the world and myself.

I walked on for miles, going wherever the path took me, until well into the afternoon, when I suddenly perceived that I was pretty well into a swamp. Desirous of getting as far away as possible, I hadn't noticed where the trail was leading me.

Thinking I could get through the bog all right, I kept straight ahead.

Night came on with a rush. I decided to pick out the driest place I could find and camp there for the night, but with the soggy condition of the ground itself and the rain that was still falling it was impossible to find a dry spot.

I attempted to make a fire, but after a quarter of an hour of the most discouraging work I had to give it up.

By this time it was very dark, and I saw that something must be done. I couldn't stand there all night, neither could I rest on that soaking ground, so I started blindly through the tangles, sinking down into the mud and water at every other step.

My pack hampered me greatly, and I saw that I must get rid of it. I swung it off my back and hung it on to the limb of a dead cedar and proceeded to spot the trail by breaking over limbs and underbrush. At daylight I planned to come back for my pack.

It began to get cold now, and I realized how foolish I had been to leave that bearskin behind. I was naked. For the first time since entering the wilderness I was really suffering physically. Above all else I wanted a solid place to put my feet.

Once when the moon came out again I saw some kind of a clearing in front of me. In the distance I could just make out the outline of higher land against the sky. With this goal in sight, I increased my weary efforts.

I had nearly reached the center of this opening on the dead cedars, which were half buried in the grass and mud, when I discovered in my path a dead stream. I followed along the mud sogged bank, searching for a fallen tree where I might cross. Finally I found one and was mighty thankful for it, as the footing was getting almost impossible. Carefully I began to walk over that fallen tree, and treacherous footing it was, for the bark was as slippery as glass. I curled up my toes like a monkey to get a better hold, hoping that the moon would light my way until I got to the other side. But luck was not with me that night, for no sooner did hope of the moon enter my head than a black shadow fell across my path. Inky blackness again settled down over the wilderness, leaving me helpless.

I tried to stand perfectly still to get my bearings, but suddenly the bark under my feet seemed to slip, and I was thrown into the mud and water below. I remember as I rose to my knees I felt as if I didn't care what happened. I was weary in body and mind, but I kept on struggling.

It took every ounce of strength I had left to get my legs out of the mud and crawl back on to the log. I waited for the moon again, but it didn't appear, so I commenced to crawl along on my hands and knees to the other end of the log.

Finally I reached the other side. Over there, what was my dismay to find that the mud was even worse. Then I discovered that I was on a floating bog. I knew it would be useless to go on, so I again crawled back over the log. Struggling back to the big bog I had just left, I found a place under some scrub spruce and cedars, where I waited for the morning light.

It was the longest night I ever spent, and when morning finally dawned I was, to use a familiar expression, "all in."

The mere realization that I could move myself around without fear of tripping over some fallen tree gave me courage to go back through the swamp in search of my pack. After a short tramp through the mud I came upon signs of my spotted trail and presently found the dead cedar on which it hung.

That night found me with a good fire in my lean-to on the northwest side of Bear mountain. More from exhaustion than anything else I dropped into a deep sleep, but it was not a restful one.

I awoke in the darkness burning up with heat. I threw my bearskin covering to one side for relief. My head was splitting. I was sick. I began to have chills, and I reached for my bearskin and threw it over me. Then I felt as if I were on fire again.

"It's all off now, for sure," I muttered to myself. "I'll make a try to get to King and Bartlett's in the morning."

All the rest of the night I thrashed around on my bed of moss and boughs.

I began to wonder if I was going to lose my mind.

When daylight came at last I tried to get up. I felt light headed, and my head ached dreadfully.

Aching all over, I finally gathered myself together and made my way down the trail in the direction of King and Bartlett's. I was going out of the wilderness. I had fully determined upon that.

I would walk a little distance and then, feeling too badly to go on, would sit down with my back against a tree to rest. It didn't seem as if I could go very much farther.

The thought came confusedly into my mind that it was September. Anyway, I had stayed until September!

Presently I started off again. I could not see very clearly. Nevertheless I could hear perfectly well, for the next moment I heard an awful racket off the trail to my left.

LINED GOWNS.

Made With Stripes Running In Many Different Directions.

MORNING DRESS.

Dress designers have a remarkable penchant for making the lines of the fabric diverge at eccentric angles. The little morning costume pictured here includes a hemstitched batiste blouse and skirt of white pique. The skirt has two tunics, with the lines running in opposite directions, while on the skirt they take still a third direction.

ordinary bathhouses are not to be considered by fastidious women. The monograms are stamped on one end of the towel. Embroidered monograms are out of place on Turkish toweling, and a stenciled monogram may be substituted by the woman who likes to decorate her own towels.

The Age Test.

All sorts of tests are given for determining the age and quality of a fowl. Dark looking birds are not apt to be freshly killed ones. Freshly killed poultry has full, bright eyes and moist, pliable feet. If the eyes are dry and sunken and the feet and legs are stiff it is evidence that the fowl is not so fresh as it might be. The neck is the first part of the fowl to discolor. A young fowl will have pinfeathers, and the end of the breastbone will bend when pressed with the finger. Old fowls have long hairs and a hard breastbone. The skin on the legs will be scaly and thick and tough.

Old fowls are suitable only for boiling. The cold meat from the boiled fowl may be made up into many tempting forms. The ancient bird, if subjected to the boiling process for awhile before it is put into the oven, may often be roasted with fairly satisfactory results.

New Finger Bowls.

Poiret, swayer of fashions, has found time between designing gowns to design colored finger bowls. The colors of these are cherry red, orange, green, yellow and black—three of each color going to a set. It is whispered that the hair and dresses of the diners will have to match these articles.

Prayer Beads.

Judging from the number of strings of oriental prayer beads seen in the displays there is a decided vogue for them. They are gorgeous affairs, with beads of translucent rich colors and a gay silk tassel finish.

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

The really protective apron always finds a place. For the housekeeper it serves many needs, and it is indispensable in the studio.

Here is one that can be made with or without the sleeves and with high or half low neck. It is perfectly simple and perfectly practical—just full enough to be worn over the gown without rumpling it.

In the illustration it is made of white butcher's linen, with collar and cuffs of blue, but ginghams and chambrays are used for aprons of the kind; percale is liked or any simple washable

TOOTHSOME JAMS.

THE little folks' favorite winter sweet is jam. In households where there are children the wise housewife prepares her own jams and thus insures absolute purity in the product.

Grape Jam.—Take the smaller Concord grapes. Stem, weigh and wash. Weigh out a pound of sugar for each pound of uncooked grapes. Put the grapes in a preserving kettle with enough water to keep from sticking on the bottom. Cook gently for half or three-quarters of an hour, then press them through a sieve to remove stones. Add the sugar, stir well and cook gently until it drops from the spoon in a jelly-like consistency. Skim as it needs it, and when thick as you wish it turn into glasses.

An Appetizing Sweet.

Plum Jam.—Stone damsons or plums and weigh them. Save any juice that comes from the fruit while stoning it. Allow half a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit, unless it is very tart, in which case increase the proportion to three-quarters of a pound of sugar to a pound of fruit. Stew the fruit for half an hour, put in the sugar and simmer gently for an hour. By this time the jam should have cooked down until it is quite thick and may be put into glasses or jars and sealed.

An Odd Combination.

Melon and Plum Jam.—Take four pounds of melon, four pounds of red plums, five pounds of sugar. Halve and stone the plums and mix with them about half of the sugar. After removing a thick paring from the melons, cut them into half inch dice and add the remainder of the sugar. Cover the pulp and seeds of the melons and the stones taken from the plums with water, boil them for about half an hour, then strain. If necessary reduce the liquid to a teacupful by rapid boiling; remove the kernels from the stones and mix them with the plums. Allow the whole to stand covered in separate vessels for a day and a night. When ready boil the melon and liquid from the seeds for forty minutes, then put in the plums and continue the slow boiling from thirty to forty minutes longer.

Deservedly Popular.

Blackberry Jam.—Take six quarts of berries, and to these allow nine pounds of sugar—that is, in the proportion of a pound of fruit to three-quarters of a pound of sugar. Put the berries in your preserving kettle, crushing them with the back of a wooden spoon, and let them come slowly to a boil. To avoid the risk of scorching it is well to put a thick inverted plate in the bottom of the kettle. Cook steadily half an hour after they reach the boil, stirring them often, and then turn in the sugar. Cook for twenty minutes after this goes in.

Anna Thompson.

"I have never lost it."

Daddy's Bedtime Story — Where the Fountain of Youth Is Hidden.

"DADDY, is there really a fountain of youth?" cried both kiddies eagerly one evening. "We heard something about it today."

"Why, yes!" laughed daddy. "Suppose we let the funny little old Spaniard, Ponce de Leon, with his queer dress and wistful wrinkled old face, find it right here in this little town. We'll set him down on the corner of Main street. Now, there he is!

"A dapper young man came hurriedly along. The old Spaniard stopped him. Making a low bow, he said:

"'Good day, kind sir. Prithee, tell me where the fountain of youth is to be found?'

"'Don't detain me, old man,' the youth said rudely. 'Can't you see that I am in very much of a hurry? Besides, don't ask me about the fountain of youth. I have worked so hard to make money that I have forgotten all about youth.' The young man passed on.

"A pretty young girl approached, or, rather, she would have been pretty had not her face been disfigured by a frown.

"'Will you tell me, my pretty maid, where I can find the fountain of perpetual youth?' asked the poor tottering old Spaniard.

"'Oh, don't ask me that!' cried the girl fretfully. 'I feel as old as the hills. I have dinner and dance engagements. I have clothes to buy and about a million things to do, and I feel about a million years old myself. I hope you find it, though,' she added wistfully.

"So he kept asking all the young people, and after awhile he grew so discouraged that he thought he would give it up, when along came a dear little old lady with the silveriest hair and the sweetest smile and the softest dark eyes twinkling behind her spectacles, and she was about five feet tall.

"And she was stopped by the old man. He swept off his hat with its long feather and made a very low bow and said hopefully, for there was something in her face that inspired him with hope, 'Prithee, madam, can you direct me to the fountain of perpetual youth?'

"'Oh, yes! I found it in childhood, and I have never lost it,' she replied.

"'But you are wrinkled, and your hair is gray!' cried the old Spaniard.

"'To be sure; to be sure! But I am always happy, always smiling, never in a hurry. I never take my pleasures sadly nor too many of them. I haven't much money; but, you see, my needs are few. In fact, the fountain of perpetual youth is in one's own heart. Of course if you wish to look young I cannot tell where that fountain of youth is.'

from the borough were not present at last night's meeting the club took no official action in endorsing candidates for the county nominations. A committee composed of the following was appointed to interview the present committeemen and to decide on a slate for the fall elections: First district, Judge Isaac P. Runyon; Second district, Daniel Hewitt; Third district, Henry DeMott; Fourth district, Julius Stahl; Fifth district, David Uhrhalin. Although he would not officially confirm the rumor, Mr. DeMott is said to be an aspirtant to the Third ward berth to succeed Theodore Martin. The present members of the county committee from North Plainfield are: First district, Alexander Milne; Second district, Edmund Rushmore: Third district, Theodore Martin; Fourth district, Edward Smith; Fifth district, William H. Hudson. Mr. Hudson has moved away from the borough and his place will have to be filled by someone else this year. The name of William L. Smalley was suggested by Daniel Hewitt as a successor to Mr. Hudson.

William de la R. Anderson, Republican candidate for the Congressional nomination, was present at last night's meeting and in response to a request for a speech outlined his campaign plans and told of the cordial reception that had been extended to him in a majority of the places which he had visited to date. During his talk Mr. Anderson stated that his success had been unusually encouraging to him in Somerset and Hunterdon counties, and also in Mercer. He said he had been endorsed by former Governor Stokes for the office and that the backing of the Somerset county Republicans would probably mean the election of that county's first Congressman.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Permit me space for the following statement, which I make in justice to the National Association Opposed to Woman's Suffrage:

For the first time in its history, the president, Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, made a public appeal for funds in the August issue of the Woman's Protest.

I beg to state that this appeal had already gone to press, when war broke out in Europe, or it never would have been published.

Since the war has created the urgent need of funds for the Red Cross Society and alleviation of general suffering, we beg it to be understood that those persons who are unable to give to both are neither asked nor expected to give preference to the appeal for political purposes.

Yours very truly,
R. A. LAWRENCE.

In Chancery of New Jersey.
To Israel Belowin and Mrs. Israel Belowin
By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Sarah E. C. Atwood is complainant and you and Isadore Friedlander and The Plainfield Ice and Supply Company are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of complainant on or before the 14th day of October, Nineteen hundred and fourteen, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Isadore Friedlander and Tillie his wife and Harry Gordon and Fannie his wife, to the said Sarah E. C. Atwood, dated January 16, 1913, on lands in the city of Plainfield, New Jersey, and you the said Israel Belowin are made a defendant because you are the owner of said mortgaged premises and you the said Mrs. Israel Belowin are made a defendant because you are the wife of said Israel Belowin and entitled to an inchoate right of dower in said lands or some part thereof.

Dated August 13, 1914.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

PREDICT SWEEP FOR DEMOCRATS

Candidates Galore On Annual Outing Inspired By Much Optimism.

DOBBINS WITHDRAWS

Path Now Clear For the Nomination of Mayor Percy H. Stewart in State Senatorial Race—Leonard Looms Up As Owens' Opponent.

Many Plainfielders took advantage of the opportunity to get a line on the Democratic conditions in the county, yesterday, and joined the throng that went on the nineteenth annual outing of the Union County Democratic Committee, to Witzel's Grove, Point View, L. I. Optimism and harmony were the keynotes of the trip, more than 1,200 men from all parts of the county attending, making it one of the largest and most successful outings the Democrats have ever held.

A number of surprises were sprung on the boat enroute to Witzel's Grove, the most important to Plainfielders being the withdrawal of Francis V. Dobbins from the State Senatorial race, and he will again be a candidate for the Assembly. This paves the way for the nomination of Mayor Percy H. Stewart, of this city.

John P. Owens, of this city, who is out for the nomination for county clerk, did a lot of campaigning on yesterday's trip. Assemblyman William Leonard, who it was thought would be a candidate for State Senator, yesterday appeared as one of Owens' opponents. He declared that he was in the race to stay and that under no circumstances would he withdraw.

A report was circulated that Mayor Thomas Fyffe, of Rahway, would not enter the race for the shrievalty nomination, although he was urged to do so by many of the Democratic leaders. This report was strengthened when a nominating petition for Fred C. Englehart, of Rahway, for sheriff, was circulated. Mr. Englehart is a Rahway councilman and is known as a Fyffe man. It was said that the Rahway Democrats would insist that the shrievalty nomination go to a man from that city.

The situation, however, was clarified following the return of the excursionists. Mayor Fyffe announced that he would retire from the shrievalty race in favor of Mr. Englehart.

Excise Commissioner Devine and Assemblyman Hugh McLoughlin, of Elizabeth, were busy on both the going and return trips furthering their fight for the shrievalty nomination. Both declare that they are in the race.

Bradford Jones, of New Providence, appeared on the decks with a petition for himself for the shrievalty. It was signed by many voters. In fact, those on the outing were kept busy signing petitions for the aspirants for office.

Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., of Westfield, came from Washington expressly to attend the outing He declared that he was pleased with the outlook for his being renominated. "I regret," he said, "that I cannot leave Washington to fight for myself. However, I am confident that my battle is safe in the hands of my friends."

Thomas J. Peirson, who also is seeking the Congressional nomination, said that he was pleased with the outlook. About one hundred Morris county Democrats who are interested in the Congressional battle were among the guests.

Petitions also were circulated for Assembly nominations by Vincent Serler, of Elizabeth; Charles Dooley, of Westfield, and William F. Callahan, also of Elizabeth.

Candidates for local offices did a lot of campaigning, especially those who are seeking ward offices.

At the grove dinner was served after which there was a baseball game. On the trip to the grove those on board saw the British steamer, San Jose creep into port after eluding the German warships.

The return trip was made about 10 o'clock. Among the Plainfielders in the party were Mayor Stewart, Councilmen Claybrook and Martin, Thomas J. Hughes, Howard Lapsley, John Caulfield, James J. McCann, George York, J. F. Callahan, D. J. Courain, William Rafferty, Edward Strappe, William A. Coddington, John Senger, Frank Wagner, John H. Coyle, A. E. Hoagland and Jacob Moledezky.

TWO SHOWS NEXT WEEK.

In "Stop Thief," the successful farce will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre, Thursday, August 27. Two Kleptomaniacs and one plain, ordinary crook who get their personalities so mixed as to excite much laughter and create many funny situations, form the basis for the plot. "Mutt and Jeff in Mexico," will be here on Friday night of next week.

CHAPEL OUTING WAS EVENTFUL

Belated Announcement of Second Secret Marriage On Hope Excursion Is Made.

ROMANCE IN CHURCH

Miss Mabel E. Hunter and Marcus Clark Were Wedded at Ocean Grove—Both Are Active Choir Workers and Bride is Local Girl.

Culminating a brief courtship that had its beginning in the choir of the Hope chapel church, in this city, the belated announcement of the marriage of Miss Mabel E. Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hunter, of West Fourth street, to Marcus Woolston Clark, of Stebbins place, was made today. The ceremony was performed at Ocean Grove while the couple were at the shore on the Hope chapel excursion August 8, being the second secret marriage to be credited to that outing, Miss Florence Neal and Arthur Williams, of this city, having been wedded under similar conditions on the same day.

Mr. Clark is an active worker in Hope chapel and a member of the church choir, with which Miss Hunter was also connected. The bridegroom is forty years of age, while his bride is nineteen. They first became acquainted while engaged in church work here and their marriage does not come altogether as a surprise. Mr. Clark is the assistant treasurer of the church and has been for several years an employe of the Potter Printing Press Company in this city. Until June last Miss Hunter was a student in the Plainfield High School. She is a teacher in the primary department of the Sunday-school.

Leaving this city with the other excursionists on August 8, the couple went to the shore where they sought the Rev. Henry Wheeler at his residence in Ocean Grove. Dr. Wheeler is one of the religious workers in charge of the camp meetings at the Ocean Grove Auditorium and the couple were married at his residence. Their plans for the future have not as yet been divulged but both are now living at their homes here.

BIG SAVING OVER CITY PRICES IN LOCAL STORES

Miss Lena Brugger, of Duer street, was the winner of the third prize in the Trade in Plainfield contest conducted by the Daily Press. Her letter is as follows:

Editor Plainfield Daily Press:

My experiences has been that one can get better values in Plainfield than anywhere else. For an instance, about a week ago I went to New York shopping, thinking I would get big bargains, but to my surprise I was not able to get a thing I wanted, so I came back and looked through the paper and saw The Paris adv. I went up, bought a dress, paid $1.98. It was all linen, dark blue, white collar and white belt made beautifully. The dress was regularly $4.00. In Macy's I saw the same thing marked special a dollar more than what I paid here for it. Not only that, but was not able to find a thing that fitted me. Here I had no trouble at all.

I do most of my shopping at The Paris and have always found things very reasonable and satisfactory, far more so than in New York. I always believe that one should patronize their own town. Should one find anything cheaper in the city, one must always count on what it costs to go in, and by the time you get up town to any of the stores it always counts up to at least $1.25, whereas if one shopped here they can save all that extra money. No one can get anything cheaper than that dress I bought Saturday, August 1, at The Paris. One always gets their full value at Force's.

PROTESTS TO MAYOR ABOUT WATER CO.

W. W. Stryker Says That He Has Been Made Victim of Unfair Stand.

Walter W. Stryker, who has taken over the management of the garage formerly occupied by the Service Motor Car Company on Fourth street, has sent a written protest to Mayor Stewart, at what he calls an "arbitrary and unjust stand" on the part of the Plainfield-Union Water Company.

When the garage was taken over by Mr. Stryker, following the failure of the Service Motor Car Company, on Saturday last, the Water Company he says, not only refused him service until he had put down a deposit of $40 for water which he might use in the future, but compelled him to pay an old bill of $45 which had been run up by the former tenants. His letter to the Mayor was as follows:

"I rented a garage on East Fourth street this week and the former tenants had not paid the water rent.

"They had no deposit with the company against this contingency, and as soon as I took possession, the Water Company sent over a gang of men to shut off the water until I had paid them the former tenant's water rent, amounting to $45.00.

"In addition to this, they demanded a deposit of $40.00, being money advanced to guarantee the payment of my bills. I had to meet both demands, because I must have water to conduct my business. Don't you think this is an arbitrary and unjust stand for them to take. Why should I be beholden for somebody elses debt?

"Won't you ask them to return this money to me Does everybody that uses water in your city deposit money to secure the payment of their bills? Why should I furnish them with money to use if my neighbor does not?"

TABLES TURNED ON COUNT VAN NEST IN CITY COURT

James Mair, of East Front street, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, on a complaint lodged against him by Count VanNest, an old opponent of his in the local police courts. After hearing lengthy testimony on both sides of the case, Judge DeMeza dismissed the complaint against the accused and scored the complainant for his desire to stir up trouble among his neighbors. According to the Count, Mair allowed his cattle to run at large in the Netherwood section of the town, causing considerable damage to crops.

When placed on the stand, Thomas Mair, a son of the defendant, testified that VanNest had maliciously raised the bars that kept the cattle in the pasture and after the animals had made their escape chased them to the pound.

DEATH OF YOUNG GIRL.

Gladys M. DeNise, the nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. DeNise, of Grandview avenue, the borough, died yesterday afternoon after a short illness. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of the parents, 26 Grandview avenue, at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made at Evergreen cemetery.

CABLE FROM TOURISTS.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, of Third place, received a cable from her husband, who is at present conducting one of his European tours, this morning. The party are at present in Copenhagen, Sweden, and expect to go to England as soon as possible. All of the eighteen in the party are reported well.

WILL RETURN TONIGHT.

The final section of Plainfield Y. M. C. A. boys at the New Jersey State camp, at Lake Wawayanda, will return home tonight. The camp has been conducted for the past eight weeks and forty-five Plainfield boys have spent their vacations at the rendezvous.

DYING PLEA OF POPE FOR PEACE

Pontiff Broken Hearted Over War and Depressed Since It Started.

ROME IS IN MOURNING

Until Successor Is Chosen, Cardinal Della Volpe Will Be Acting Head of the Church—End Was Peaceful.

POPE'S LAST APPEAL TO WORLD FOR PEACE.

Rome, Aug. 20.—Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria on Monday asked the pope to bless the army and navy of that country. Pius X. replied that all the belligerents were equally his children, and consequently he was unable to invoke the divine blessing on or intercede for the triumph of any particular nation, but that he was praying fervently for peace.

Following is the exhortation by the pope addressed to the whole world:

At this moment, when nearly the whole of Europe is being dragged into the vortex of a most terrible war, with its present dangers and miseries and the consequences to follow, the very thought of which must strike every one with grief and horror, we, whose care is the life and welfare of so many citizens and peoples, cannot but be deeply moved and our heart wrung with the bitterest sorrow.

And in the midst of this universal confusion and peril we feel and know that both fatherly love and apostolic ministry demand of us that we should with all earnestness turn the thoughts of Christendom thither "whence cometh help," to Christ, the prince of peace and the most powerful mediator between God and man.

We charge, therefore, the Catholics of the whole world to approach the throne of grace and mercy, each and all of them, and more especially the clergy, whose duty furthermore it will be to make in every parish as their bishops shall direct public supplication, so that the merciful God may, as it were, be wearied with the prayers of his children and speedily remove the evil causes of war, giving to them who rule to think the thoughts of peace and not of affliction.

From the palace of the Vatican, the 2d day of August, 1914.

PIUS X., PONTIFEX MAXIMUS.

Rome, Aug. 20—The entire city is in mourning today, in common with Catholics all over the world, because of the death of the Pope, which was briefly announced yesterday. Until the conclave is held, and the next Pope chosen, Cardinal Camerlengo (chamberlain), who is Cardinal della Volpe, will be acting head of the Roman Catholic church.

The deepest sorrow over the death of Pope Pius early this morning, is indicated on every hand today. Rome and the Vatican seems stunned with the swiftness with which the venerable Pontiff passed away. Although it was known that his condition was critical, it was not generally believed that the end would come so swiftly.

Even now the exact hour of his death is not known. A pall of grief seems to envelop the Vatican, and it is practically impossible to obtain anything further than the most meagre details. It is known, however, that the Pontiff's condition became serious enough to alarm the staff of medical specialists at his bedside about twelve hours before the end came. Stimulants were administered constantly, and although the Pope

JOSEPH DUNHAM MARRIED TO LOUISE M. PETERSEN

Miss Louise Margaret Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Peterson, of Fillmore avenue, and Joseph Dunham, of this city, were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents, last night. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Morgan Ashley, former rector of St. Stephen's church, of which the bride is a member. Because of the illness of the bride's father the wedding was a quite one and only the relatives and intimate friends of both families were present.

The bride wore a gown of white silk crepe, and wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Jeannette Peterson, of Brooklyn, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, and wore a gown of pink silk crepe and carried pink roses. The best man was Walter Peterson, also a cousin of the bride. The home was tastefully decorated with hydrangeas.

The bride is a graduate of Plainfield High School and has a large circle of friends. Mr. Dunham holds a responsible position with the Plainfield Savings Bank. The bride received a large collection of beautiful presents. After a short honeymoon the couple will reside at the home of the bride's parents.

"WHAT HAPPENED AT 22" AT THEATRE TONIGHT

Through a mistake in the advertising of the Harris theatre in the New York papers, this morning, it was stated that "What Happened at 22," which is to be presented tonight at the Plainfield theatre, would open in the metropolis tonight. The show will be given here, as originally announced, the company having arrived in town with its scenery and equipment early this morning.

Berlin, Aug. 20 (Central News Cable.)—It is authoritatively announced that the German government has decided to reject the ultimatum delivered by Japan, that Germany restore to China, Kiau Chau and Tsing Tao.

Berlin, Aug. 20 (via Copenhagen and London)—The American ambassador today distributed 400 tickets for the special train leaving today for Holland, among Americans here. Many more requests for tickets have been received at the embassy and the American representative is trying to accommodate all who wish to leave the country. Two refugee trains have already left this city.

An attache will go on the train in charge of a number of Americans who are without money and will see that they obtain accommodations in Rotterdam while waiting for a ship to the United States.

Special trains will leave Munich and Nuremberg next week for Rotterdam. It is estimated that 1,822 Americans will have then been assisted in leaving the country.

Washington, Aug. 20.—German commerce is virtually swept from the seas while Great Britain's naval strength has restored her over sea commerce to normal, according to a statement from the British foreign office issued through the British embassy here, today. The statement says: "The German fleet outside the Baltic is confined to the harbor. English commerce is almost normal. German seaborne commerce is paralyzed. Only casualty is the loss of light cruiser Amphion blown up by mine after having sunk the German mine layer Koenigin Luise. One German submarine has been sunk in the North Sea.

"German troops have now crossed the Meus, both above and below Liege, and are gaining some ground slowly westward, but their advanced cavalry has been constantly checked by the Belgians."

St. Petersburg, Aug 20.—According to a despatch from the Kieff correspondent of the Navoe Vremya, a serious revolt against Austria has occurred among the Czechs. Polish and Czech soldiers in Bohemia are said to have shot their officers, shouting "Down with Emperor William!" "Down with Austria!" "Long live Russia!"

The mutineers held Prague an entire day, but were finally conquered when the Austrian troops received reinforcements. Terrible reprisals were begun at once by the Austrians. Every Czech in the streets was killed and women and children were shot down without mercy. The Austrian soldiers pillages stores and assaulted women. As a result of the Austrian cruelties, another revolt which lasted two days followed, and this in turn brought fresh reprisals from the Austrians.

Rome, Aug. 20 (Central News Cable.)—It was announced today that German diplomatic representatives are enroute here to take up with the foreign office the matters in connection with the war. It is understood that they will endeavor to get Italy to take up the struggle as a member of the Triple alliance.

A despatch from San Giovanni to the Corriere D' Italia, today states that the French fleet in conjunction with the Montenegrin forts kept up a continuous bombardment of Cattaro on the Dalmatian coast, Austria, all day Tuesday and yesterday, with the result that one fort was completely destroyed and the others rendered useless.

Travelers arriving here from Vienna announce that the government has withdrawn the public office staffs, archives and cash from Lemberg, Czernowitz, Hermanstadt, Trieste, Trient, Pola Zala, Spalato and Sarajevo, and is concentrating them all in Vienna and Budapest.

Brussels, Aug. 20 (Central News Cable.)—The Germans bombarded Tirlemont following severe fighting at Gembloux and Jovoigne. A manufacturer who left Liege Tuesday said that the Germans had imposed a war charge of 50,000,000 francs on the Province of Liege.

Alfred J. Rorke, special correspondent for the Central News, returned to Brussels from Louvain yesterday. He said that he found the Belgians strongly entrenched around the town.

"The Germans are advancing along three roads and the defending forces are awaiting them," said Mr. Rorke, "determined to hold their positions until the Germans bring up their heavy artillery. Then the Belgians plan to evacuate in order to save the town from destruction. They will then take up their position with the French on the roads leading to Brussels, which are strongly defended. The wounded are arriving in a steady stream.

"The advancing force is enormous. The losses of the Germans Wednesday morning were terrible. They persisted in close formation, with the result that the Belgian machine guns literally mowed them down."

Paris, Aug. 20. (Central News Cable.)—It is officially stated that the French advance into upper Alsace continues satisfactorily. The French forces have reached Worsange and Delme, in the Province of Lorraine and an advance guard has penetrated further into German territory by occupying Chateau Salin and Dieuze, two small towns situated midway between Strasburg and Metz. The main advance has been somewhat retarded owing to the solid strength of the enemy.

An official statement issued today says that the Germans have succeeded in crossing the River Meuse in considerable strength between Liege and Namur.

That the European war will not last longer than two or three months was the opinion expressed by Count Witte, who is now en route to Russia from Biarritz.

The Russian statesman is quoted as saying that the downfall of Germany is inevitable, as Russia is now ready to play her part in the great European conflict.

London, Aug. 20.—A despatch from St. Petersburg says that an official communication was issued today to the effect that a force of Russian troops have occupied Gumbinnen, about 20 miles from the Russian frontier of East Prussia. According to the communication the Russians captured 12 German guns and a large number of prisoners.

Advices from Paris says that the recapture of Mulhausen was preceded by a severe battle, during which the French troops took one of the suburbs at the point of the bayonet. They also captured six German cannon and six ammunition wagons. An official note says that the situation in the Vosges Mountains is unchanged. In Upper Alsace the French have occupied Guebwille, fourteen miles southwest of Colmar, in Lorraine. It is stated the French line extends from the north of Saarburg, passing by Morhange to Delme. The situation in the Duchy of Luxenburg and in Belgium is unchanged.

A message from Stockholm says that the Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, brother of the Emperor of Russia, arrived at Christiania today from Newcastle, England, on his way to Russia.

The Brussels corespondent of the Daily Chronicle telegraphs that the Germans have occupied Louvain.

The hotels at Stockholm are slowly emptying. All foreigners are returning home, but there are still many Russians and Americans coming from Germany, a large number of Americans from Russia and a few from England. First class passage to the United States is unobtainable. The Amsterdam correspondent of the Chronicle states that the French minister at the Hague, E. A. Marcellin

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

James Day and family, of Dunellen avenue, have returned from a ten days' sojourn at Copesbury.

Miss Sarah Dayton, of New Market road, is substituting in the local postoffice for Miss Lillian Garretson, who is taking her vacation.

Mrs. Edward Maurer and daughter, of Madison avenue, have returned from Lake Hopatcong, where they were stopping at the Durban Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Little, of Washington avenue, departed this morning for Budd's Lake, where they will remain over Sunday as the guests of Mrs. William E. Terry.

Gustav Winter, proprietor of the Park Hotel, is entertaining friends from Michigan.

Barnard McGovern is repainting his house on Greenbrook road.

Mrs. Charles C. Vail, of Washington avenue, is spending three weeks at Richfield Springs N. Y., as the guests of her brother, Herman Egerland.

Miss Ernestine Richter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Richter, of Prospect avenue, is expected home today, from two weeks spent in camping in upper New York State, and visiting friends at Brooklyn.

Mrs. Ida M. Glddes, of Lincoln avenue, is acting in the capacity of nurse in the household of Clarence Vliet, of Jackson avenue, during the illness of Mrs. Vliet.

Borough Engineer Churchill and force gave line and grade yesterday, for a concrete sidewalk to be laid along the front and the side of the Dumont property, at the corner of Washington avenue and Third street.

Amedeo Scheltz, of New York city, has accepted a position as assistant in the barber shop of George H. Richter on North avenue.

SMASHED HIS THUMB.

Fred Greninger, of Fairview avenue, who works for the Central Railroad, of New Jersey, on what is known as the bridge carpenter's gang, met with a very painful accident on Tuesday morning while working at Chrome on the sound shore branch of the Central. He was endeavoring to lift an end of a large piling when it slipped out of his hands smashing a thumb.

A SOCIABLE EVENING.

The summer boarders at the Ellsworth on Grove street, held their regular weekly sociable last evening. It was held on the lawn, which was lighted by myriads of Japanese lanterns, making a very attractive scene. A dainty repast was served during the evening.

The Misses Ransome, of New Market road, are entertaining their niece, Miss Elsie Ransome, of York, Pa.

Fred Ward, of Ocean Park, California a resident, is expected to arrive in the borough sometime between now and the first of the month, for a months or so visit.

Miss Jessie M. Stites, daughter of Tax Collector and Mrs. Isaac J. Stites, departs to morrow for a visit until Monday at Ocean Grove, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. G. Kinney, who are spending two weeks there.

Borough Engineer Churchill and force were engaged at Garwood today.

Mrs. William K. Hartpense, of New Market road, is entertaining young relatives from out of town.

Charles Dodwell, of Jackson avenue, has returned to his duties as conductor on the Central Railroad, after an illness with ptomaine poisoning.

Miss Katherine Samson, of New Market road, entertained Miss Gertrude Giles at luncheon today.

SWIM IN POLLUTED WATER.

We note that a number of the young boys of the borough still persist in swimming in the polluted waters of Greenbrook. By being permitted to do this the boys are jeopardizing their health and the health of this community as the danger of an epidemic of some contagious disease resulting is very imminent. A group of boys returning from a swim were asked by a representative of this paper yesterday, whether their parents knew that they swam there. The boys replied that they did and that they had not been forbidden by them to do so. If they spoke the truth it is surely time for quick and decisive action by the local Board of Health.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hill are the parents of a son. The little fellow arrived Saturday evening and weighs twelve pounds.

Miss Mabel Whitford, of New Market road, entertained friends from Millbridge yesterday.

The local organization of Boy Scouts meet in the Whittier School this evening. Scout Master William Elliott will give them their first lesson in scout craft.

Mrs. Edward H. Dean, of Prospect avenue, entertained the members of the Hi-du-de bab at a dainty luncheon yesterday.

Edward J. Dusel, of Walnut street, was in Plainfield yesterday, as the guest of Steven J. Higham. The day was pleasantly passed on the tennis courts of Mr. Higham.

AT PAST COUNCILLOR'S OUTING.

Judge Rene P. F. von Minden, F. O. Nelson, William Van Ninne, H. S. Titsworth and Rene P. von Minden, Jr., attended the Somerset County Past Councilor's Association, at North Branch last evening, motoring there in Judge von Minden's automobile.

DANCING CLASS MEETING.

The Monday night dancing class that meets around at the different homes of the members, met at the home of Mrs. J. Z. Kelly, on Second street, this week. The dancing was held on the porch, which had been especially waxed for the occasion. Light was furnished by strings of Japanese lanterns and music by a Victrola. A buffet luncheon was served.

IMPROVING RAPIDLY.

The condition of Mrs. Lewis D. Walker, who underwent a critical operation in the Muhlenburg Hospital at Plainfield on Saturday, is very satisfactory, at present, to her physician Dr. G. W. Endicott. She is now able to take nourishment and all danger of complications appear to have passed.

PARTY FOR DORCAS HOFFMAN.

Mrs. Samuel Hoffman, of North avenue, gave her daughter, Dorcas, a party yesterday afternoon, in honor of her tenth birthday. The party commenced at 2 o'clock and lasted until 7. The time was pleasantly passed by the young hostess and her guests in playing games and listening to records on a phonograph. Many pretty and useful gifts were received by her. Refreshments were served during the afternoon. Those present were: Willard Tomlinson, Mildred Tomlinson, Gladys Pensore, Wilifred Nelson, Mrs. J. H. Penrose, of New Market; Gladys Hoffman, Adolphus Hoffman, Alice Hoffman, Mrs. Smalley, Mrs. G. Johnson, Mrs. Anna Johnson, Ethel Lewis, Dorothy Shivley, Ruth Shivley, Helen Smalley, Arthur Shaw, James Shaw, Jr., and Myrtle Vossler.

FEW AT DANCE.

A dance given by the young men of the borough, at Wayside Park last evening, was very slimly attended, only fourteen couples being present, whereas forty couples or more had been expected. The height of the humidity undoubtedly accounted for the difference between the expectation and the realization.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Camp Endeavor, which opened on the mountain in back of Scotch Plains the first of July, will remain open two weeks longer, until the first of September, and in that time twenty mothers and children from Plainfield will have the benefit of the fresh air. For the month of July only those from Elizabeth were taken at the camp and in August, Plainfielders had a chance. Those in charge of the camp expect to have given a hundred people vacations that would otherwise have not had any.

Borough Collector Charles Sheelen has lived up to his reputation this year that he has obtained in the fifteen years that he has held the office by collecting all of his taxes of any sort. Township Collector John Z. Hatfield, has not been so fortunate as his territory is much larger. He will hold a sale of lands for unpaid taxes late in September or early in October.

Dr. H. K. Carroll will be in charge of the weekly prayer meeting in the Methodist church tomorrow evening.

The mid-week prayer meeting in the Baptist church, last evening, was in charge of the pastor, Rev. J. Madison Hare.

The annual picnic of the congregation of the Willow Grove chapel, which was held in the grove alongside of the church, yesterday afternoon and evening, was a great success, not only in affording those present much pleasure, but resulted in a financial gain as well. During the evening the grounds were lighted by electric lights, setting off the decorations of the booths in a splendid manner.

Miss Edith Jahn, of Park avenue, is spending her vacation at Lake Hopatcong.

Southard Outwater has returned to his home in the borough after visiting friends at Boonton.

Miss Marion Johnson has returned to her home in Scotch Plains after visiting at Asbury Park.

Miss Madeline Clark, of Front street, is visiting her cousin, Miss Marguerite Stilliger, of Brooklyn.

Herbert Hood has returned to his home in Jersey City after visiting Mr. and Mrs. William R. Buckley, of Front street.

The Italians are already making great preparations for their annual celebration on Labor Day in honor of a religious holiday. As the baseball grounds on Westfield road have been done away with the festivities will probably take place in the field at the corner of Park avenue and Greenbrook, where it was held several years ago. Athletics and other sports, such as a greased pig chase and climbing a greased pole, will take place during the day and in the evening fireworks wil be set off. In previous years the exhibition has been the feature of the day's program. The fireworks are bought at a cost of hundreds of dollars, raised by popular subscription among the local Italians, and represent different figures, the last one always being of the saint in honor of whom the day is held. Booths are situated around the grounds selling Italian laces and other goods.

The next meeting of the Fanwood township Board of Education will be held in School No. 1, on Wednesday evening, September 2.

The matter of the transportation of local children attending either the Plainfield or Westfield schools, being paid by the local Board of Education, has been brought to the attention of the Board by several parents and it is probable that the carfare of school children to either towns on the trolley will be paid the coming term.

Samuel Hollingsworth has returned to his home in the township after spending his vacation at Indian Lake, N. Y.

Dr. Ray Munger has returned to his home in the borough after visiting his parents at Clinton, N. Y.

Richard Hatfield, of Stout avenue, is visiting Norman and Maurice Mathews, of East Orange.

The Plainfield-Union Water Company is putting a four foot main along Jerusalem road and when it is installed Graceland will have fire protection for the first.

Miss Helen Nielson, of the borough, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. R. R. Benton, of Perth Amboy.

Miss Marguerite Jahn, of Park avenue, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Rowland Tomlinson, of New York.

Father McGrath, pastor of the Stony Hill Catholic church, held one of the popular dances in the parish hall at that place, last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Head, of Springfield road, have returned from visiting relatives at Long Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter, of Willow Grove, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Terry, of this place, but who are summering at Asbury Park.

Walter Baird and family, who have made their home in Scotch Plains for several years, have removed to Westfield. H. C. Daniels, of Plainfield, has leased Mr. Baird's residence and moved in the first of the week.

Township Committeeman William Ward has moved into his new residence on Grand street.

Mrs. F. W. Westcott, of the borough, is spending her vacation at Sea Gate.

Miss Gertrude Head has returned to her home on Springfield road after visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Joule, of Newark.

James Kaufman, of the township, is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kaufman, of Jersey City.

FIFTH BAND CONCERT TOMORROW NIGHT

West End Civic Association Plans More Innovations For Next Year.

The fifth of the series of concerts given by the Dutch Arms Band, under the auspices of the West End Civic Association, is to be given at Monroe avenue and West Fifth street, tomorrow evening, when an attendance far n excess of previous evenings is anticipated. The figures for attendance at these affairs have steadily grown since the opening concert and the committee in charge is greatly encouraged by the interest manifested by the public.

It had been arranged that the Nuian Quartet participate in the last concert, and several vocal numbers were to have been interpolated, but at the last moment one of the members of the quartet telegraphed that he had been detained at Atlantic City, thus precluding all opportunity for the quartet's appearance.

At tomorrow's concert, however, aside from the attractive program the band is to present Harold Lead bitter, a tenor, is to appear and sing several selections.

The concerts that are now a weekly feature in the West End have already passed the experimental stage. At first the committee was somewhat dubious as to the success of the venture, but with a foresight and energy that has characterized every venture the association has launched, its members set to work with a will and a might and the result is that thousands of residents of the West End, to say nothing of the hundreds who come from other parts of the city and surrounding towns and hamlets, have been provided with a weekly innovation whereby a real musical treat is afforded them. The music is of a high order and the rendition of the various numbers would reflect credit upon an organization far older than the Dutch Arms Band. That the excellent work of the band is appreciated is attested by the generous rounds of applause that follow each number and with a public so appreciative the committee in charge feels that its effort has not been in vain.

From the impromptu affairs that are now being given, the association sees a way being opened to making these concerts much more pretentious another year. If plans already under way do not miscarry, it is possible that Plainfield at last will be provided with an amusement park of some sort, an attraction it has been in dire need of for many years. If arrangements that are progressing satisfactorily can be consummated such a park will be a reality another year and the West End Civic Association will have accomplished what no other organization, or individual, hitherto has done.

From a pecuniary viewpoint the concerts have been an unqualified success, although the association does not share in these profits. The association is glad to provide diversion for its members and their friends and the proceeds of the concerts are permitted to go to the band. Only the bare expenses attached to each concert are deducted from the sum total, and the balance turned over to the band.

The association expects a big attendance tomorrow evening and since an especially attractive musical program has been promised, it is hoped that all real lovers of harmony will turn out in force.

DEMOCRATS SUGGESTED AS COUNCILMANIC TIMBER

Political activity about the city is thriving during the hot season, and booms for candidates for local offices still continue to be heard in every section of the city. Three worthy of note which have developed during the current week are those for councilmanic honors in the First and Fourth wards of this city. Joseph Tate, of East Front street, and James P. Homan, of Sandford avenue, are being referred to as candidates for the nomination of ward councilman from this section of the city by the Democrats. It is understood from good authority that the local Democratic club will endeavor to secure the consent of one of these men for the use of their name in connection with these booms, Patrick J. Melvin, of East Second street, has withdrawn from the race.

Democrats in the Fourth ward are quite as active as those in the First ward, and John H. Coyle, of Waynewood place, is being groomed for the nomination as councilman from this ward. Mr. Coyle ran on the Democratic ticket last fall as a candidate at large for the local governing board.

DISCUSS IMPORTANT PROBLEMS.

Fort Worth, Texas, Aug. 20.—The financing of the farming and ranching interests of the country will be the leading subject of discussion by the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America when it meets here in annual convention week after next. The convention will be attended by 2,000 or more delegates representing the branches of the organization in thirty States. President Charles S. Barrett, of Georgia, will preside.

The Masonic lodges of this city are all planning for the resumption of their work for the fall and winter seasons early next month. Anchor Lodge, No. 149, will confer the Fellow Craft Degree upon three candidates at their session of September 8, and the Entered Apprentice Degree upon two September 22.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

made a gallant fight against his old enemies, bronchial catarrh and gout, his strength slowly, but surely ebbed.

His holiness died peacefully. Realizing the end was near, he said farewell to his sisters and his brother and laid his last injunctions upon Cardinal Merry del Val, the papal secretary of state. Even the physicians and the nurses withdrew at this conference, which was in absolute secrecy. It is believed that the pope then told Cardinal del Val that he was about to die, for the visitor emerged from the sick room weeping and immediately thereafter there was put in motion those ceremonies and other observances which only mark the passing of the august head of the church. The sad message went forth to all the cardinals, to the Catholic capitals of Europe and to America.

It was officially announced death was due to his ancient enemy, bronchial catarrh, which became acute on Sunday. The attacks which he fought off a year ago returned to find him overwrought with the grief inspired by the great European war. The vitality with which he fought former attacks had been absorbed in his prayers and mediations for peace. The assistance he once rendered his physicians was lacking as he forgot himself and thought only of the catastrophe which the world is facing. Even his dying prayer was for peace.

The condition of the pope was due to the war. He was broken hearted. For days before the war broke out he was gravely concerned, and he notified all the heads of the church throughout Europe to work for peace. Until hostilities actually commenced the pope did not believe that war would come between civilized nations at this late day. When he heard that Germany had declared war on Russia and realized that the conflagration actually had been kindled he broke down. His holiness swooned and was unconscious for several minutes. His physicians were called in and had to administer powerful restoratives.

There was a slight recovery, and the pope was able to be about the Vatican. He spent most of his time in prayer and in all of his devotions impressed upon every member of his household that his entire heart was set on the restoration of peace.

When the emperor of Austria asked that he send his blessing to the Austrian forces the pope sorrowfully sent word that he would bless all of the combatants; that he considered all of them his children.

Finally he issued an appeal to every Catholic throughout the world to pray for peace. This appeal was distributed broadcast everywhere.

As the news of the terrible fighting throughout Belgium began to reach the Vatican the sorrow of the pontiff became very great. He had long spells of weeping and would sit for hours at a time murmuring the prayers for the dying.

On Sunday he was too ill to leave his bed. The doctors in attendance were not alarmed, as they hoped that his malady, which at that time was believed to be bronchial catarrh coupled with gouty manifestations, would yield to treatment. But it did not. His stomach would not retain nourishment. Yet while conscious he prayed incessantly. When the doctors gave him liquid nourishment he would shake his head in mute protest.

It was plain that he realized that he was very ill, but it was also plain to those about him that the melancholia induced by the war was having a more depressing effect on him than was his actual illness.

NEW POPE MATTER OF CONJECTURE

Name Cannot Be Suggested Before Conclave.

Rome, Aug. 20.—The vacancy in the papal see caused by the death of Pius X. naturally directs interest which is all absorbing toward the cardinals in line for papal succession, the so called "papabili." Unfortunately in the case of a conclave, the unexpected invariably happens and discussions about the candidates for the papacy, although often very interesting, are always misleading.

The cardinals during the lifetime of the pope are forbidden to presume to treat of the election of his successor or to promise an vote or determine anything about the conclave in private gatherings. They are to abstain from all pacts, conventions, promises and other obligations whatsoever by which they may be bound to give or not to give their vote to any person or persons. The mention of names of likely successors or candidates constitutes mere conjecture.

There are no rules by which the successor of the pope can be guessed before the conclave. It is possible, however, to make allowance for certain well established facts and circumstances and to follow the so called method of elimination, and with more or less certainty group the cardinals in such a way as to know who are the papabili. The element of guesswork still exists in following such a process, but it is greatly diminished, and although the name of the actual successor can rarely be predicted, still the future pope is generally elected from among the cardinals grouped together as papabili.

The new pope must be a cardinal whose piety, intellectual attainments and executive ability are well known. He must be an Italian, as although the Sacred college is free to elect a foreigner, for many centuries the pope has been an Italian, and a foreign pope, it is feared, would compromise the question of temporal power. Every cardinal is bound by oath to defend, integrally and strenuously, the temporal rights and the liberty of the holy see, especially the civil principality of the pope. This implies that if elected pope he is expected to oppose reconciliation with Italy, and a foreigner may fail to do so, while the three Italian popes since 1870 followed implicitly this policy.

The new pope must be comparatively young so as to insure a long pontificate. Finally, he must not belong to a monastic order. The majority of cardinals are secular priests, and although hard to explain it is obvious to any one even slightly acquainted with Rome that a monk or a friar will never be elected pope.

SERVICES IN CHURCHES.

Principal Ceremony For Pope to Be Held in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

New York, Aug. 20.—For the next few days, until the body of Pope Pius X. is interred at Rome, there will be special services and prayers in his commemoration in all the Catholic churches of the United States as well as throughout the world.

In New York the principal services will be held on the day of the funeral in St. Patrick's cathedral, with the Right Rev. Mgr. M. J. Lavelle officiating in the absence of Cardinal Farley. Burial generally takes place on the ninth day after death, nine days being required for the elaborate services at Rome.

In other churches of the New York diocese the services in the late pope's commemoration will take place probably on next Sunday.

BARNES BEATEN ON TEST VOTE

Wanted Ivins and Guthrie as Delegates.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 20.—A proposal in which State Chairman Barnes was keenly interested was beaten in the closing session of the Republican convention 411 to 161. As to the significance of the defeat there is sharp difference of opinion.

Such anti-Barnes men as Herbert Parsons, Ogden L. Mills and Henry L. Stimson hold that the vote was a real measure of the party's faith in the state chairman and that in the long awaited test of an issue in which his leadership of the Roosevelt fight was not involved he was unmercifully repudiated by delegates from all parts of the state. The Barnes partisans, on the other hand, insist that the vote represented other considerations entirely.

The facts are these: Mr. Barnes wanted to have William M. Ivins and William D. Guthrie of New York designated among the fifteen candidates of the party for delegates at large to the constitutional convention—the convention's honor roll. These candidates were selected by a committee of forty-three, one from each congress district, of which George W. Aldridge, who is hostile to Mr. Barnes, was chairman. The members from New York, Kings and Erie counties combined and with their twenty-three votes caused the rejection of both Mr. Guthrie and Mr. Ivins.

After mediation Mr. Barnes carried the fight into the convention. He had Elon R. Brown, majority leader of the senate, move that the convention disregard that part of the committee's report indicating Henry L. Stimson, George W. Wickersham, Louis Marshall and Seth Low of Manhattan and William Berri of Brooklyn as the delegates at large apart from those chosen from the nine judicial districts and apart from Elihu Root. He proposed that the convention itself should fill these five places. He hoped that if this was done Mr. Guthrie and Mr. Ivins would be chosen.

"The committee has violated Republican principles in getting together in this unrepresentative manner and choosing candidates," he said.

TO REPATRIATE GERMANS.

Committee Formed in London to Send 20,000 Home.

London, Aug. 20.—A London committee has been formed at the American consulate here under the chairmanship of Baron von Horst, well known here and in America, to devise a scheme for repatriating the Germans in Great Britain.

There are still 20,000 Germans in the British isles, and of these 8,000 are destitute. The home office is co-operating with the committee and is appealing to Americans to help.

FRED SCHILLER GETTING TRY-OUT WITH YANKEES

Fred Schiller, formerly a member of the Dunellen baseball team, who is now trying out with the New York Americans, has made a fine showing and has been asked to report today, when Manager Frank Chance will be present to witness his work. Schiller has been under the eye of Roger Peckinpaugh, the Yankee captain, and has been playing third base. He has a perfect throw to first base and can pick-up all kinds of grounders.

Schiller was also sent to the outfield where he performed with credit. He was sent to the plate to bat against the pitching of Ray Keating, and the first ball that the pitcher served up he hit to the right field stands. This gave him confidence and he connected with the ball after that. Schiller has been playing fine ball for a number of years and will probably get a berth with the New Yorks.

HAND MADE A HOMER.

"Nibs" Hand came across with a four-base clout in the game with Danbury yesterday. There were four circuit clouts made and three were credited to the Perth Amboy team, which won the game by the seven putouts and one assist. He played an errorless game.

HOPE WILL HAVE TO PLAY.

The Hope Chapel baseball team, having an off day in the Sunday-school, League, Saturday, will go to Bound Brook and meet the St. Joseph team of that place. The locals will have their hands full with this aggregation and will have to extend themselves to the limit. Schott and Leithman will be in the points for the Hopes and McFadden and Teeling will be the battery for the Brookers.

CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST.

The third and deciding game between the West End Civic Association and the Netherwood Residents' Association will be staged on the Clinton avenue field Saturday. Each team has won a game and both are sure of taking the third. Both of the previous games have been swatfests and one team generally makes about twenty runs to the other's five or six.

RUNYON ENTERED.

Ralph Runyon, the local pole vaulter, who competes under the colors of the Pastime A. C., of New York, has entered the Michelin meet at Milltown, Labor Day. He will take part in the pole vault event and stands a fine show of winning it. The Pastime A. C. has just sent Runyon a new fourteen foot pole and he is practicing constantly for this event.

READY FOR BIG AUTO RACES.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 20.—Officials of the Chicago Automobile Club have completed all arrangements for the annual road races to be held over the Kane county course tomorrow and Saturday. The Chicago Automobile Club trophy race will be the event of the opening day. On Saturday the free-for-all, or Elgin National trophy contest, will be decided. Six thousand dollars will be divided among the winners of the two big races. Oldfield, Grant, Anderson, Babcock and a number of other famous drivers will take part.

PERSONAL.

Miss Margaret Falkenberg, formerly a teacher in the North Plainfield schools, but at present of Barnard College, is spending some time visiting friends in the borough.

Guy Snyder, who has been employed in the offices of the Pond Machine Tool Company, has resigned to take a position as timekeeper with Burke & Bonham. Mr. Snyder will leave for Dover, Del., next week, where his employers are to construct three miles of road.

Dr. Frank T. Clawson, of West Seventh street, is spending his vacation at Spring Lake.

Miss Caroline Deatz, of Duer street, is spending a few days visiting relatives at Newark.

Mrs. A. P. Shephard, of Park avenue, has returned home from Ocean Grove, where she has been spending her vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Shephard, of Mountain avenue, the borough, have returned from Egypt Mills, where they have been sojourning during their vacation.

Miss Janetta Touchon has been spending the past week visiting her sister at Philadelphia.

Miss Eva Maxwell, of Park avenue, has returned from her vacation, which was spent at Atlantic City.

Mrs. C. B. Morse, of Watchung avenue, has returned home after spending some time at Morrisville, N. Y.

Mrs. William Latourette, of Kensington avenue, is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Griggs, of Woodbury.

Lindsey Best, principal of the local High School, is spending the summer with his family at Indian Lake, N. Y.

MAKE YOURS A PUBLIC SERVICE STORE

This is the age of service. The rewards of today go to the men who give the most in return.

Translated for you, Mr. Merchant, this means that the customers are certain to patronize the store that will give them what they want when they want it.

Cut prices may bring some trade, but better service will bring more.

This is the age when people are reading the advertising in their daily newspapers because they are finding it a distinct part of the service they expect their newspapers to give.

When a nationally distributed article of merit is advertised in the newspapers a demand for it sets in right away.

People want to see it and, if satisfied, want to buy it.

They are going to turn to the store that lets them know it has the article. That store will be giving them the service they want at that particular moment.

If it is a good article they are going to remember the store where they got it and will come back to that store again.

Co-operate with the manufacturers who come into the newspapers of your town to exploit their goods and you will be building business for yourself.

PIUS X.

Nothing of less importance than the death of the Pope would divert the attention of the world from the great strife in Europe at the present time, to a large extent one being the outcome of the other. The history of his life will be an inspiration to all who are born in lowly circumstances, regardless of church or creed. That the death was hastened by the struggle between the nations of Europe is admitted by those who were with the Pontiff at the last, and it is but another evidence of the inhumanity of the warfare.

Pius X ruled over more Catholics than any of his predecessors, and because of his lowly birth and rise to the Papacy through unusual ability, he undoubtedly was as much loved as anyone who ever occupied St. Peter's chair. As the New York World this morning says:

His peasant birth and nurture, his seventeen years as a parish priest, his transparent simplicity, made plain Joseph Taylor, as we should call him, seem more one of his people than had the brilliant Leo, who was every inch an aristocrat.

The historians of posterity will not rank Pius X. with the great Popes. His place is not with the Gregories and the Hildebrands. In the endless complicated struggle with the civil power in Catholic countries for authority over the local clergy, the property of the church and the monastic orders, he suffered some reverses. The times, also, have changed. Ultramontanism is a waning force. But none of his defeats, none of his discouragements, ever went to Pius' heart like the spectacle of more than a hundred million Catholics divided by the bloody chasm of war. Its sudden outbreak appalled and amazed him as it appalled and amazed the world. His dying message to humanity was a prayer for peace. It was the summit, as it was the end, of his career.

Americans who have traveled in Japan in recent years take an altogether different view of the feeling in that country toward the United States from that which the editors of the jingo newspapers are displaying. We'd be willing to wager that when former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman gets back to America from the Mikado's country, he will say that there was not the slightest evidence displayed of hostile feeling toward this country, and he was in Japan when the message was sent to Germany demanding that she give up some of her possessions in China. American visitors to Japan during the time since the Russian-Japanese war have come back enthused by the spirit of friendliness which the Japanese have shown toward this country. They say that all of the men in high position there have every regard for our people, and give them a splendid reception. The statement by the Japanese Government, backed up by assurances from England, that the Mikado intends to do exactly what he says he will, can be taken at its face value. Japan is not going to start any kind of a dispute with the United States, and the commercial and diplomatic relations will become more friendly as time goes on.

In the New York newspapers a discussion is going on, with several correspondents, not unlike the articles which have been written from the socialist point of view by Donato De Lonardi and printed in The Daily Press. But the remarkable part of the New York discussion is that the writers are not socialists, anarchists or theorists, but Christian ministers, and their topic is "Has Christianity Collapsed?" One of them goes so far as to suggest that the church doors be closed because the ministry is not doing what it is paid for nor what it is expected to do. Another writer recommended that American women wear mourning clothes because of their sorrow over the wholesale massacre of Christians by fellow Christians in Europe. The New Brunswick Home News sums up the situation when it says that "there is said to be compensation for every affliction, and perhaps a European Republic may be the outcome of the barbarous warfare now affrighting the world, for which the Kings and Emperors, not the plain people, are responsible."

What better evidence is there that business is not up to the standard than the fact that some of the New York evening newspapers are printing but eight pages, and then have plenty of room for unnecessary matter.

Certainly it is not the retailers that are taking advantage of the war to raise prices of food. One local butcher said yesterday that he had not made enough last week to pay for his ice.

The Plainfield Democrats seem to have difficulty getting a man to run for Mayor. It would be a fine thing were all parties to endorse Leighton Calkins, and forget party lines.

"Lives Two Hours After He Dies," says a headline on a dispatch from Dwight, Kansas. You can expect almost anything from Kansas.

MYSTERY ABOUT ORDERS TO BATTLESHIP MISSOURI

Norfolk, Aug. 20.—Fully coaled and provisioned for a long voyage, the battleship Missouri will put to sea today under sealed orders. The orders were received from Washington yesterday and the destination of the warship is not known. All of the crew were recalled from shore leave and the last of the vessel's complement were on board early this morning.

There is much speculation as to the reason for the rush orders, but no satisfactory explanation is forthcoming.

Officials of the Navy department declined to comment on the sealed and rush orders issued to the Missouri but it is believed that she is intended for patrol duty probably off New York or Philadelphia, or else is being dispatched to Dominican waters to be on hand in case of emergency.

GIRL WHO DANCED WITH PRINCE OF WALES IS DEAD

Washington, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Nelson B. Sweitzer, widow of General Sweitzer, of the United States Army and known to history as "the Girl who danced with the Prince of Wales," is dead here. She was 77 years old. The funeral will be held tomorrow.

Mrs. Sweitzer, who was then Miss Helen M. McGregor, was 17 years old and already a noted beauty in Cincinnati, her birth place, when the Prince of Wales, afterward King Edward VII, of England, visited the United States in 1860.

At Cincinnati the Prince was entertained at a dance and elected to dance with three girls, one of these being the beautiful and vivacious Miss McGregor.

The incident was described today by Mrs. Nathan H. McLean, of this city, who was present at the famous ball and who was a girlhood friend of Miss McGregor.

"Miss McGregor was the prettiest of the three girls delegated to dance with the Prince," says Mrs. McLean. "The Prince was not supposed to spend the intermission with his partners, the arrangements being that at the conclusion of each dance the father of the young lady who had been his partner was to come forward and claim his daughter.

"But at the end of Miss McGregor's dance with the Prince, her father, Robert McGregor, one of the finest and most courtly gentlemen that ever lived, was conversing with friends in the corridor, and did not notice that the music had ceased. So the Prince, with Helen on his arm, promenaded three times around the ball room. She was greatly embarrassed, but the Prince did not mind, and besides reassuring her, paid her the most marked attention. No other girl in the country was so honored by the Prince."

FREDERICK WILHELM.

Kaiser's Heir Is Reported Shot In Fight In Belgium.

Reports reaching London from The Hague and printed in the London newspapers say it is persistently rumored there that Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm has been wounded in the fighting in Belgium and has been taken to Aix-la-Chapelle, where the kaiser will join him. Those reports are at variance with the news received from Berlin via Rome, which said that the crown prince had been summoned from the front and had joined the kaiser and the general staff at Mainz.

Watchung.

A farewell surprise party was tendered William C. McClelland by the "younger set," last evening, in the Improvement Society's Hall. Mr. McClelland, who has been principal of the Watchung Schools for two years, expects to enter Penn State College in September. The evening was socially spent in dancing and playing games. During the course of the evening a signet ring was presented to Mr. McClelland as a token of remembrance from the young people. Among those present were the Misses Nora Koons, Agnes Mantz, Helen Hughes, Gladys Sullivan, Francis Newman, Adele Herrmann, Myrtle Davis, Elsie Schmidt, Dorothy Underhill, Daisy Schmidt, Dorothy Neal, and the Messrs. Clarence Schmidt, Douglas Demler, Edward Bodin, Roy Herrmann, Robert Young, Harold Schenck, William Demler, Richard Underhill, Thomas Fetherstone, George Schmidt and Mrs. J. Koons and Mrs. G. W. Schmidt.

Mrs. George N. Beeching is entertaining Mrs. G. Young, of Newark.

Miss Caselli, of New York city, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Poggio.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Improvement Society will give a dance Friday evening, August 21, in the society's hall.

Among the first of the season's attractions in New York is "He Comes Up Smiling," a comedy in which Douglas Fairbanks is featured.

POLITICAL NOTES.

August 23—Last day for filing Congressional petitions.

August 28—Last day for filing ounty petitions.

September 2—Last day for filing petitions for local offices.

September 8—First registry day. Also last day for filing petitions to fill vacancies in all offices except Governor and Congress.

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

The Union County Federation of Patriotic Societies has prepared a list of questions to be mailed to all candidates in the county who aspire to county, State or national office. Owing to the number of candidates in the field some may fail to receive letters and not be acted upon by the Federation. We take this method of announcing our intention and request that all candidates send their names and addresses at the earliest convenience to the Secretary, W. H. I. Cubberly, Plainfield, N. J.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Union County Federation of Patriotic Societies, held at Garwood, it was reported that the work of organizing similar federations in Somerset and Morris counties was progressing rapidly. This will complete the organization of the Fifth Congressional District and all candidates for public office in this district will be watching the activity of the organization with keen interest. While a member of the American Federation of Patriotic Voters, the federation has no connection whatever with the Loyal American League, the new political party formed by the Camden County Fraternal Societies. The Union County Federation will endorse only such individuals for public office as are true Americans and will advocate and endorse the principles of patriotism. Full information will be sent to all candidates for county, State or national office on application to the secretary W. H. I. Cubberly, Plainfield, N. J.

The Cranford Republican Club has adopted the following resolution regarding Senator Carlton B. Pierce, a resident of that borough:

"Whereas, our esteemed fellow-townsman, Hon. Carlton B. Pierce, is a candidate for re-election as Senator from the County of Union, and

"Whereas, during his term of service in the Senate of New Jersey and previously in the House of Assembly he has proved himself a fearless, energetic and successful advocate of measures for the lasting good of the whole people, and to whom must be given credit in great measure for whatever of value has been accomplished by the Legislature of the State during his service therein; and it being our firm belief that the best interests of the State demand the retention of Senator Pierce in the service of the State, therefore

"Be It Resolved, that the Cranford Republican Club endorses most heartily the candidacy of Hon. Carlton B. Pierce for re-election as State Senator from the County of Union and we urge upon all voters the wisdom of retaining Senator Pierce in the service of the State, using all honorable means to this end."

A political meeting is scheduled for Summit tonight, when William T. Stuchell, of Rahway, and Sheriff William H. Wright, candidates for the Republican Congressional and county clerk nominations, respectively, will speak. This will be the first speechmaking event of the campaign, so far as Summit is concerned. A flying squadron of Rahway automobiles will make the trip.

In answer to the widespread opinion that the Progressives were holding back on the primary campaign because they intended to swing back into the G. O.P. line, a county leader today reiterated that a full ticket would be named. Mayor Harwood Fish, of Roselle Park, is already starting his campaign for registrar, it was declared.

A big Republican primary vote is predicted by the party leaders this year. The contests for nominations will bring out the voters as they have not been brought out before for a semi-final test, it is asserted. The people are also beginning to realize their power in the primaries better than in past years, it is believed.

That almost every county primary candidate has secured several hundred more petition signers than necessary, is understood. However, none is required to file more than about 150 or 200 names. It was explained by one of the candidates that filing too large a list of names would "give their hand away."

Peilet, has been recalled and left Paris Wednesday. He will be succeeded by M. Allisy, formerly French minister to Bavaria.

According to a despatch from Hugh Martin, Rotterdam correspondent for the Daily News and Leader, Prince Eitel Freidrich, the Kaiser's son, has taken up his residence at the Palace de Justice at Liege and has been commissioned commander of the First Regiment of Foot Guards. Prince August Wilhelm, another son of the Kaiser, is also staying at the palace.

Messages were dropped into Liege on Sunday by a French aviator which read: "Keep up your courage, people of Liege. We are winning."

Washington, Aug. 20.—Great Britain today replied in favor of, but in indefinite terms to the inquiries of the United States government regarding its position toward German or Austrian ships being used solely for bringing stranded Americans in those countries back to the United States. Secretary Bryan conferred with Secretary Garrison for half an hour upon receiving the communication. The secretary of war declared that the reply was not sufficiently definite to permit the United States government to take the responsibility of bringing Americans out of Germany in German ships. It is probable that a diplomatic request for a more specific scheme of Great Britain's attitude will be sent to that government today.

Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, chairman of the Commerce Committee and Representative Alexander, chairman of the House Committee on Merchant Marine, started work today to frame the legislation necessary to provide for the $25,000,000 purchase of ships that will form the nucleus of the government's merchant fleet. It is expected that the bill will be drawn without difficulty and that the approval of the White House will be obtained later in the day. It probably will be introduced tomorrow. No fears are felt by the administration that the undertaking will meet with the disapproval of foreign governments.

Representative Underwood today urged the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee of the House to lose no time in reporting to the House the Alexander War Risk Insurance Bill, prepared by the Treasury department and bearing the approval of the White House. It is an emergency measure. He told the committee it ought not to be amended on the floor. "The real necessity for the bill grows out of the fact that we owe Europe a lot of money," he said. "We would not want to ship our gold there but we would like to move our crops there. I do not think the bill, if enacted, will cost the government a dollar, because I do not believe any losses will arise. I believe this bureau of war risk insurance provided for in the bill will be in existence only a short time, but I also think we ought to establish it to quiet the unrest which has been caused by the lack of protection at sea."

In reply to questions from Chairman Adamson, Representative Underwood explained that it would be the policy of the government to insure American cargoes in any ships and American ships carrying out cargoes.

Representative Lewis, of Maryland, author of a bill to allow the government to embark on the Marine Insurance business and to make it illegal for any private concern to compete, complained to the committee that the administration measure is selfish and that it is drawn in the interest of New York shippers only and in the face of a demand for government operated insurance officers.

The War Risk Bill was later reported to the House by the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee and was also favorably reported to the Senate from the Senate Committee on Commerce.

Amsterdam, August 20.—A German aeroplane piloted by an aviator officer was observed this morning, over Dutch territory near Oostburg, in the Province of Zeeland. Dutch frontier guards by means of rifle shots compelled the German to descend and he was promptly disarmed and taken prisoner.

Paris, Aug. 20.—Automobiles will play an important part in the European war and will be of much greater value to the various armies than aeroplanes, according to leading motor car agents of this city. The agents argue that motor cars will increase the speed of advance guard movements, as shown by the German operations, and will be of material value in the speedy handling of the wounded, saving thousands of lives which would be lost if horse-drawn ambulances were used.

The French army's automobile equipment is equal if not superior to the German. Their cars are exceptionally strong and speedy, being capable of carrying ten soldiers each at thirty miles an hour over ordinary roads.

A large number of fine, high-powered cars have been turned over to the government by agents here for the special use of the intelligence departments of the General Staff. Professional chauffeurs, several of whom are noted racing drivers, have been assigned to drive the cars of high officers while they are on scout duty.

Antwerp, Aug. 20 (Central News Cable).—It is officially reported that the German cavalry yesterday made another attack on the Belgian front, but were repulsed with considerable loss.

New York, Aug. 20.—The Southern Pacific Steamer Creole, chartered by tourists' agents, to bring home stranded Americans in Europe, will sail for Liverpool this afternoon, between 2 and 3 o'clock.

Honolulu, Aug. 20.—The Toyo Kisen Kaisha Liner, Seiyo Maru, which left here for Yokohoma, Tuesday, has informed officials of the steamship line that it is returning to Honolulu. The North German Lloyd steamer Pommern, seeking refuge from hostile warships, arrived here today disguised as a Swedish vessel.

WAR NEWS IN BRIEF.

Belgium.

Germany, regardless of her heavy losses, has advanced her line in northern Belgium so far that Louvain, the Belgian war base, is reported in danger. Profiting by this advantage in the north, the German troops have advanced to capture forts at Namur on the second line of defense of the allied troops. The kaiser's force has brought up heavy artillery to use in this attack.

The German advance forces came in contact with the allies at Gembloux, but according to French reports they were repulsed.

There are rumors that Brussels has fallen. The French war office admits knowledge of the report, but declares that it has not been confirmed. In connection with the rumor about Brussels the French war office points out that the Belgian defense plan centers around Antwerp, which is the Belgian base, and which is well fortified, whereas Brussels is not.

The fate of the Liege forts is not definitely known. Belgian military authorities say that they are still holding out, while German dispatches say that they were taken or destroyed after the arrival of heavy artillery.

France.

The French embassy at London issued an official statement that the French army has taken Saarburg, twenty-five miles west of Strassburg, and that the French are occupying much of the territory in Lorraine contiguous to Alsace. The report says that the Germans in their retreat burned eighty-four houses. The French are now operating from the Swiss border, from Nancy and through the passes of the Vosges mountains.

Germany.

A report from Berlin says that German troops have occupied the town of Mlawa, Russian Poland, on the Warsaw railroad and close to the German frontier. Russian spies, according to a dispatch from Berlin, attempted to blow up the Friedrichstrasse railway bridge in Berlin.

Austria.

External and internal conditions in the dual monarchy, according to a report, are in a serious condition. The Austro-Hungarian bank has announced that the boerse will not be reopened until there is report of a decisive victory. All foreigners who are in the country are to be kept under strict surveillance until the end of the hostilities. Large Austrian forces, including mountain artillery, in which the German army is deficient, are said to be in western Germany ready to co-operate in direct movement against France. An Austrian attack on the town of Vladimir, in Volhynia, was repulsed, according to St. Petersburg correspondence, with heavy Austrian casualties.

Montenegro.

A message from Cettinje says that the Montenegrins had captured several forts along the Bosnian border and that the Montenegrin army is within two hours' march of Ragusa, a fortified seaport of Austria-Hungary in Dalmatia. King Nicholas, according to the message, has been notified by the Austrian authorities that if his army attacks the town a number of prominent Servians and Montenegrins held in Ragusa as hostages will be shot. Among these is a brother of King Nicholas. An official communication also confirms the Servian victory at Sabatz, west of Belgrade. Of 80,000 Austrians engaged 3,000 men were killed and 5,000 wounded.

London, Aug. 20.—Brief flashes from the front in Belgium saying that cannonading was heard by the residents of Brussels and unconfirmed reports that the Belgians are retreating toward the heavily fortified city of Antwerp, whither the government already has been moved, coupled with the complete silence of the several war offices regarding what is transpiring on the long line from Louvain to Namur indicate that the battle which is to decide whether the Germans may enter France by way of Belgium without leaving their flank exposed to an attack from the north is on.

Little information has been forthcoming from official sources regarding the movements of troops of the two great armies for several days, but today even this slight information has been stopped at its source, and with the stoppage has come the belief that the crucial moment in Belgium is at hand.

That the Germans, too, are looking toward the north of Belgium as a possible battleground should it be decided by the allies not to allow the decision to be made on the line to the south is indicated by reports from Gheel and Moll, towns well to the north of Louvain and almost on a line with Antwerp, that German cavalry is retiring through that district after a sortie toward the south.

Other dispatches suggest that the Belgians may not try to defend Louvain after the Germans have brought up their heavy artillery in order that the town may be saved from bombardment. That communication has not been shut off with either Brussels or Louvain is shown by brief dispatches from those cities, although the censor has allowed no news of the real events in that quarter to pass him.

No Serious Checks.

A message from the Cologne Gazette giving the only German news of the operations received here says that the German advance has been slow, but that it has not met with any serious check anywhere.

Brussels advices report that German cavalry patrols were forced to retreat from Namur with heavy losses under fire from the guns of the Namur forts. Other advices from the same city say that a battle was fought yesterday at Tirlemont, but details are lacking.

COUNTY SEALER VISITED LOCAL GROCERY STORES

Assistant State Sealer of Weights and Measures Schwartz, of Elizabeth, and Union County Sealer Isaac Seeley, of Westfield, were in town, this morning, inspecting the scales and measures in use in the local grocery stores.

Their itinerary this morning was made up of the stores on West Third street and in the West End section of the city and reports at noon today showed that several confiscaions had been made. The inspectors carry a complete equipment with them for testing scales and dry liquid measures.

DEATH OF MAURICE CASEY.

Maurice Casey, a brother of John F. Casey, of West Third street, this city, died yesterday afternoon, at his residence, 5722 Fourth avenue, corner of Fifty-eighth street, Broklyn. Mr. Casey is survived by four children, Mrs. Edward Casey, Frank Casey, Helen Casey and Mrs. Quienza. The funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from the Church of the Mother of Perpetual Help, Fiffy-ninth street and Fifth avenue. The mass will be in charge of Rev. Father James Casey, of the Society of Jesus, at Lola College, Baltimore. Father Casey is a brother of the deceased.

NEWS FROM JIM PENNY.

Postcards have been received from James Penny, of this city, who is at present staying at Manchester, England, indicating that he is having his troubles in moving from one place to another. Mr. and Mrs. Penny left this city July 26 for England, with the idea of visiting many of the scenes of Mr. Penny's childhood in various parts of the country. The outbreak of the war in which England has become implicated has changed their plans to a great extent. Mr. Penny has indicated that he is glad he took out papers in this country.

LOCAL WOMAN TO SPEAK.

Among those invited to speak at the conference on national legislation, at Marble House, Newport, on August 29, is Mrs. Edward F. Feickert, of this city, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association.

WANTS A DIVORCE.

Mrs. Pauline Hamilton, wife of John Hamilton, of West Fourth street, has filed a petition, through her counsel Robert Newton Crane, for a decree of absolute divorce. She charges her husband with desertion.

AT ATLANTIC CITY.

Edward Mundy, James P. Lynch and James Cullen left this afternoon for Atlantic City, where they will spend a short vacation. They will be registered at the Lockhart Hotel.

HIS EVENTFUL REIGN AT ROME AS PIUS X.

Modestly Deprecated His Fitness For Such a Vast Responsibility, Accepting Only at Prelates' Most Urgent Behest.

Inaugurated Unexpected Reforms In Vatican and Outside of It---Opposed "Worship of Music" and Decreed Ancient Chant.

"OH, what misfortune! My poor Beppo, who so loved a comfortable chat! Who knows the misery he will go through in Rome?" This was the lament of Maria Sarto, one of the three devoted unmarried sisters of Pius X. when she heard that her brother had been chosen to succeed Leo XIII.

Maria Sarto, daughter of a peasant family, wept because Beppo, as she always called Giuseppe Sarto, had been elevated to the pontificate over such conspicuous princes of the church as Cardinals Rampolla and Vannutelli. And it is on record that the former patriarch of Venice did not want custodianship of the keys of St. Peter's; indeed, before he had been elected he besought the prelates to omit him from consideration, but they then were resolved that he should hold the scepter.

The conclave had been remarkable for its indecision until Cardinal Sarto, boasting of no noble ancestry, modest and unassuming, but whose executive ability and luminous record had been recognized by Pope Leo, was put forward and elected as the dramatic climax of the conclave in spite of his protestations that he was unfitted for an office of such tremendous responsibility. Pope Leo loved the Venetian, who never had a servant and traveled through his diocese on foot or on the back of a borrowed mule.

POPE PIUS X.

Riy AP. X

THE POPE'S SIGNATURE.

Appalled by His Election.

It was on Aug. 4, 1903, that Cardinal Sarto was elected pope by forty-two votes, one more than the necessary two-thirds. The sacred college chose him as in his case there was none of the opposition that existed in the candidacies of Cardinals Rampolla, Vannutelli, Gotti and Oreglia. Pius X. was elected on the feast of St. Dominic, one of his favored patron saints. The conclave stayed far into the night to persuade him to accept. To the last he hesitated; then, when he must give his answer, it was, "If this cup cannot pass from me"—he paused, then added firmly—"yes."

He was the first pope in 150 years of such humble lineage. He never forgot that he had been poor. In his first encyclical he wrote, "The poor should not be ashamed of their poverty nor disdain the charity of the rich, for they should have especially in view Jesus the Redeemer, who, though he might have been born in riches made himself poor in order that he might ennoble poverty and enrich it without merit beyond price for heaven."

Pope Pius X. was criticised by some outside the church and even some within it, but all through his reign none could assail the great cardinal virtues of this peasant born pontiff. He was a tireless worker and a rigid but just disciplinarian. He made it clear that he believed that a pope should have some liberty. Etiquette in the Vatican had demanded that the pope dine alone. Whether Pius X. knew this or not, when it had been called to his attention he asked, "Who was the pope that established the custom that those holding the chair of St. Peter should eat alone?"

"Urban XIII., your holiness," was the answer.

"Well, if he decided upon that custom he was in his right," said Pope Pius X., "but as much have I to discontinue it."

His Reforms Stunned Italy.

One innovation of the new pope was the discarding of the closed carriage in which other pontiffs had ridden for an open one. When Pius X. opened the Vatican for an exhibition of athletics at a great Catholic athletic festival Italy was aghast. Addressing the boys, the pope said: "I bless your games and athletic exercises. While they make your bodies healthy and strong, they are certain also to have a powerful and beneficent influence on your minds." The pontiff had been used to exercise, and the close confinement of his new life harassed him.

Numerous stories have been told about the pope's objections to such restrictions as the Vatican imposed upon him; but, while no doubt exaggerated in many instances, it was known that Pope Pius X. would have liked more freedom than he felt warranted in demanding or taking. He caused a stir by deciding to close the celebrated Academy for Noble Ecclesiastics, which for more than three centuries had supplied the church with diplomats and cardinals and which was founded by Cardinal Imperiali for the diplomatic training of Italian nobles who wished to follow an ecclesiastical career. The object of Pope Pius was to utilize the funds required to maintain the academy in other ways for the good of the church.

During the first year of his pontificate Pius X. issued his "Instruction on Sacred Music." The time had come, he thought, to draw a distinction between "the worship of music" and "music for worship" and to define that sacred music should be a help to reverence, instead of a distraction. Therefore, in pursuance of his views, he especially advised the restoration of the Gregorian chant by the people, "so the faithful might again take a more active part in the ecclesiastical offices, as in ancient times."

Pius himself loved music and played the organ with a degree of no mean attainment. He had a clear baritone voice, and it has been said he sometimes sang the songs of his exiled home to his sisters when they were permitted to meet him in the Vatican garden. Finding seven cooks were employed in the papal kitchens, the pope is said to have asked, "Why have seven cooks to make a little broth for a poor man?" The holy father preferred the plain food he had eaten in Venice to the delicacies from the larders of St. Peter's. At most of his meals he sat at a table with his secretaries.

With slight variations, this was the routine of the late pontiff: Celebrated private mass at 6 o'clock; ate a light breakfast; attended to a vast correspondence and met the papal secretary of state; devoted an hour to audiences to foreigners; visited the Vatican museum of inscription; was driven to the grotto of Lourdes, built in the gardens by his predecessor; prayed at the shrine of the Virgin in the grotto, took a short walk and usually stopped at the den of caged lions that Negus Menelik of Ethiopia gave him; took a short walk, followed by his carriage; had luncheon in his private apartment of the palace, followed in the warmest weather by a siesta, according to Roman custom; received his prelates, who apprised him of their decisions and asked his approval; omitted dinner as a rule and spent the evenings alone in his study reading the day's reports and deciding cases upon which only the pope could act; ate a light supper and retired for the night. His apartments were practically policed by the Swiss guard, which had strict orders to let none approach the chamber.

Rumors as to Pope's Health.

Rumors regarding the pope's health were circulated at frequent intervals. Some said the holy father suffered from gout and others that his heart was affected. But Pope Pius X., so far as the public knew, had never been dangerously sick until his fatal illness. When he read that he was expected to live to be pope not more than nine years he is said to have remarked, "This time I am going to disappoint them."

When he had been pope seven years he had become stouter than he was when patriarch of Venice, but this might have been due to the more phlegmatic life he was obliged to lead. On Aug. 4, 1906, the third anniversary of his elevation, there had been two momentous questions to absorb the attention of Pope Pius—the separation of the church and state of France and the attempt of the pontificate to establish some sort of modus vivendi with the government of Italy. On the fiftieth anniversary of his first mass emperors, kings and republics lavished gifts upon the holy father. Women of the United Kingdom sent 362 chalices to Rome. Pope Pius named a commission to revise the Latin Bible, and in January, 1909, it was said this task would take eight or ten years. In August, 1909, the pope criticised an address of Dr. Charles W. Eliot at Harvard's summer school on the "Religion of the Future." Dr. Eliot had said the new religion would not be based upon authority, spiritual or temporal, and would admit no sacraments except "natural, hallowed customs."

Pius X., having no family coat of arms, adopted part of those of two bishops of Treviso, his friends, and preserved his arms as patriarch of Venice. His escutcheon or shield was oval, and the crest, which was exclusively his, consisted of a tiara with fanons or flaps and St. Peter's keys in saltire above the chief. "It was neither an imperious nor strictly ecclesiastical pope I represented on canvas," said a painter for whom Pope Pius once sat, "but rather an indulgent, pitying and deeply religious pope."

A London photographer who had been asked to Rome to take the pope's likeness asked the pontiff to place himself in the attitude of pronouncing a blessing and later said: "A marvelous change came over him. The man vanished, and the pope, the great father of his people, appeared. His face wore a look of wonderful love and power. I never could have believed that any human being could become so instantly transformed."

A graphologist said of the pope's handwriting: "The large, round letters, substantial, grave, elegant and harmonious, pointed to an artistic imagination, a large, strong, simple intelligence, a great depth of thought. The signature denoted gentleness and kindness, but the flourish beneath the signature disclosed the man of action."

Pope Pius gave away large sums of money for charity, although $1,250,000 of his estimated income of $2,500,000 a year was needed for the upkeep of the Vatican.

Speaking of the election of Pope Pius X., Archbishop Logue, primate of Ireland, said at a dinner in New York city on April 30, 1908: "It was a sad sight. The cardinal selected to be our holy father did not want the office. He had lived among the poor and was accustomed to his labors."

Hot Water Always on Tap

Every home needs a supply of hot water in summer as well as in winter.

To heat water over a coal or wood fuel in hot weather is a nuisance and causes unnecessary work and heat.

Gas Water Heaters of the Circulating Type provide all the hot water needed, quickly and cheaply.

They cost little and can be installed on a Service Payment Plan.

TO VOTE ON $16,500 SCHOOL FOR FANWOOD

Township Board of Education Also Not to Send High School Pupils to Plainfield.

The Fanwood Township Board of Education met at Scotch Plains last night to receive a report from the building committee in regard to the proposed new school in the "Graceland" section of the township. Architect George Palcanis was present and presented plans for the new building and said that they had been approved by the State inspector. As the site for the new school has been picked and the plans approved, the Board has called a meeting of the township voters for Tuesday evening, September 1, when an appropriation of $16,500 will be asked for to cover the cost of erecting the structure and purchasing the school site, at an approximate cost of $15,500 and $1,000 respectively.

The building will be of the latest fireproof construction and of one story with provision for the adding of a second. It will contain four rooms with a main corridor running from front to rear. It will have all modern improvements, including electricity and heating system. The location of the building will be on Plainfield avenue seven hundred feet north of Jerusalem road on a triangular lot with a front of 230 feet and depth of 469 feet on the north side and 547.5 on the south side.

The matter of relieving the congested conditions of School No. 1 were also discussed. The expense of building School No. 3 coupled with the flurry in the money market caused by the European war has made it impossible for the Board to build an addition onto the school for the present. As a temporary solution of the trouble the assembly room will be partitioned into four rooms and the office will also be used as a class room. In this way it will make it possible to have all of the children attend the full day. Work will be started the first of September in order to have the change completed by the opening of school on the eighth.

Miss C. Florence Reed, formerly a teacher in the Rahway school, was engaged by the Board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Jessie C. Walker is teacher of the fifth grade in School No. 1. Owing to the rapid raise in the tuition rates as charged by the Plainfield Board of Education for children sent to that place to High School, the possibility of sending them to Westfield has long been considered and a resolution was passed last night providing for the sending of all of the graduates of the township to Westfield. This does not effect those who have already attended at Plainfield for several years. The difference in the tuition of the two places is $23 and anyone wishing to pay that difference may go to Plainfield instead of Westfield. A resolution suggested by the Plainfield Board of Education was passed making it necessary for all pupils that enter Plainfield High School from the township hereafter to show a certificate of vaccination.

Sale of Lands for Unpaid Taxes

Collector's Office, City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, will on at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the said Collector's office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said city, expose for sale and sell the several tracts or parcels of land hereinafter specified, or any part or parts thereof severally sufficient for the purpose, on which taxes for the year nineteen hundred and thirteen remain in arrears, to such person or persons as will purchase the same for the shortest term and pay the tax lien thereon, including interest and costs of sale, or in fee where no one will bid for a shorter term.

This sale is made under the provisions of the act of the Legislature of this State, entitled: "An Act for the assessment and collection of taxes," approved April 8, 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the land to be sold, as shown on the City records, may be obtained at the office of the subscriber any week day prior to the day of sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The folowing is a list of the several tracts and parcels of land to be sold, which shows the names of the delinquents, the supposed owners thereof as the names of the delinquent owners appear on the books of the taxing district, together with a statement of the wards of the city wherein said lands are respectively situated, and the street in which each lot is situated, the block and lot number of each lot as they appear on the Official Assessment Maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, and the amount due from each of the said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot and parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum from the twentieth day of December, 1913, to the day of sale, and the fees provided by said act of the Legislature, viz.: for preparing and publishing notices of sale twenty-five cents for each parcel of land advertised; and for selling twenty-five cents for each parcel sold; and for each certificate of sale, fifty cents, besides necessary disbursements for printing, postage, affidavits and acknowledgements, which are hereby estimated at three dollars for each item of arrearage, and the City Clerk's fee for recording report, ten cents for each parcel of land sold, and all said fees and expenses shall form part of the tax lien and be paid by the purchaser at the tax sale.

SHERIFF WRIGHT SEEKS OFFICE ON RECORD

Friends Think Conduct of Sheriff's Office Indicates Would Make Good Clerk.

Prior to the enactment of the jury reform law, taking the selection of the Grand and Petit juries out of the sheriff's offices, Sheriff William H. Wright, who is now a candidate on the Republican ticket for county clerk, had the reputation for having the highest class juries in the State. He took a pride in having them so and on more than one occasion has been complimented by the court and others having to do with the trial of suits, for selecting such a number of representative men to decide the issue being considered.

This manner of conscientious jury drawing was in keeping with the method employed in discharging all the other duties of the office and has won for him an enviable record, despite the fact that many of the duties were disagreeable and meant hardship to those concerned.

In all such cases, the defendant, no matter what the action, always was given the chance and protection allowed by law, in so far as Sheriff Wright was able to extend it.

These things, in connection with his term, now drawing to a close, have prompted his friends to express their regrets that he is not permitted by law to succeed himself. And they are rallying to his support in his campaign for the county clerkship nomination, realizing that the same methodical, businesslike administration will be installed in that office if he should be elected to it.

There is much in common between the two offices and with his intimate knowledge of county affairs and administrative ability, those backing him feel that in a very short time he would be capable of conducting the county clerk's office like a veteran.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

With the ideal weather and thousands of vacationists returning from the mountains, everything is in full swing at Luna Park, Coney Island.

Modern dancing continues to hold sway at the Castle's Summer House and the Luna Park Ball Room. Every evening both dancing palaces are thronged with dance enthusiasts, despite the exceedingly warm weather. Dancing contests for sterling silver prizes is one of the popular diversions.

The various rides and slides distributed throughout the park, are also popular features among the visitors to Luna daily, while Noah's Ark, where toys are distributed free to the "kiddies" is the mecca for the little tots, who find enjoyment playing in the sand piles, protected from the hot rays of the sun by huge canopies.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Miss Carroll McComas, who has been engaged by John C. Fisher to play the role of Louise [illegible] in Paul Wilstach's new play, "[illegible]hat Happened at 22," to be seen tonight at the Plainfield theatre, comes from an old Baltimore family and is a direct descendant of the Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. It was this Carroll for whom she was named. In the city of Baltimore there is a monument erected to the memory of one of the McComas branch of her family. A most versatile young woman is Miss McComas, and since she has been on the stage has appeared not only in dramatic productions but in musical comedy and vaudeville in a whistling specialty and she has been particularly successful in musical comedy. Last season she was prominent in the support of Donald Brian in "The Marriage Market," and previous to that she appeared in a leading part with Billie Burke in "The Mind the Paint Girl.". She has just finished a summer engagement in San Francisco with a stock company.

"The Line Up at Police Headquarters," with former Commissioner of Police, George S. Dougherty, head of the detective department of New York city, in the principal part, opens an engagement of two days, matinee and night, at the Plainfield theatre, commencing Friday. The producers of this picture have been able to hold the interest of the audience for one and three-quarter hours without the necessity of resorting to "White Slave," sex problems, or questionable sensations of any kind. It's a melodrama, a detective story without a scene that will bring a blush to the cheek of a single patron. Detective Dougherty is in every reel of the picture and is a surprisingly good actor. If you enjoy a picture without a dull moment, go to the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow or Saturday.

FINE ANIMAL ACTS AT KNIGHTS' CARNIVAL

Johnny J. Jones' Shows Arrive Next Monday With Many Feature Exhibitions.

If you are interested in wild animals, you cannot afford to miss the animal show and pit show of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition shows which open a week's engagement as the feature of the Knights of Columbus carnival at the West Front street grounds on Monday. The animals shown with the Johnny J. Jones shows are credited with being the best trained and most intelligent of any tented exhibition company. The annual show includes such acts as Captain Curley Wilson and his wrestling lion, Lewis; Iola Daniels and her four lionesses; Frank Levine and his polar and cinnamon bears; Albert Stattler and his trained elephant "Baby Sue"; Princess Louise and her leopards, jaquars, panthers, pumas and hyenas, and Charles Hustin and his four full grown forest bred African lions. Besides the sea lions and monkeys of the pit show there are many other wonderful things to be seen. This show also includes the glass blowers, Prince Omar, the Australian bushman and expert boomerang thrower; the Ale Zaza troupe of mentalists who tell one his name and do many other wonderful telepathic tricks; Leo, the armless and legless wonder, and others.

The big free attraction of the Johnny J. Jones show includes the wonderful Quincys' champion high divers. Thomas Quincy dives from a height of 92 feet and Margaret from 60 feet into three feet of water. These two have time after time defended their title as champion high divers and $10,000 is now posted as a forfeit for them to meet all comers in high diving competition. The other free acts include a turn by "Baby Sue" the trick elephant, and concerts by the renowned Vitucci's Royal Italian band and Joe Oppice's Rag Time band.

Besides the free acts there is provided by the Johnny J. Jones Shows the greatest congress of exposition events ever gathered together under one management. These special features include such thrilling acts as Babcock's motordrome, the Johnny J. Jones Minstrel shows, Joyland, where things turn upside down and give every one a laugh. Rogers' athletic show, the flea circus and a midway of concessions with which none other can begin to compare.

MAP OF NATIONS IN BATTLE; LOCATIONS FOUND QUICKLY

The Daily Press is making an offer that is of interest to every reader. An authentic map of the great European war country is printed in five colors and encased in covers, which include educational charts showing the strategic points in which all are interested.

The face of the map shows the whole of Europe and it has been prepared from the latest official sources. It was originally published in Edinburgh and made by the wax process, which is the most accurate and best process ever discovered for map making. Full advantage has been taken of the authentic data available and every effort has been made to incorporate important information. It is a genuine work of art in which are brought out the details not found in folders and cheap Atlases. Portraits of all the great European rulers are shown and a wealth of data and information which will be of value to all. Among the features are valuable tables giving the distances between European cities, the strength of the aeroplane fleets, the army and navy strength, a chronicle of the nations involved, a brief account of the decisive battles of the last century in which European powers have taken part, coin values of European money in United States money, and other valuable information. These maps are being passed out at ten cents each, which barely cover the cost of promotion. Present your coupons without delay.

ANDERSON SPEAKER AT HARVEST HOME

Candidate for Congressional Nomination Explains Position of United States.

Before a large audience at South Branch, last night, former Assemblyman William de LaR. Anderson, who is a candidate for Congress in the Fourth district, said that in the next two years the United States would be called upon to settle the peace of the world and in so doing it would be able to remove the overwhelming financial burden of militarism and bring about a permanent practicable world peace. In part, Mr. Anderson said: "The cries for peace in time of peace are futile and bring us nowhere—the cries for peace, caused by the world travail of this world war, coming as they will from the throats of the suffering millions, the widows, the orphans, the aged and the hordes of starving, not in one land alone, but in all lands, will broaden national self-interest into a world interest so strong that the nations of the earth will unite with and against themselves—one for all and all for one—in all matters relating to human welfare as a whole—through the medium of a World Congress which will have control of the armed strength of the world to such a degree as will make war almost impossible.

"The party which carried on the reconstruction in this country after our own terrible Civil War will be the party which will be entrusted by the people with the reconstruction of the world."

The Dutch Arms Band, of this city, rendered a musical program.

Flemington.

Professor Paul R. Radcliffe will spend next week fishing in Chesapeake Bay.

Miss Ella Thatcher, of Trenton, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Julia Roth.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Poulson, of Red Bank, are guests of Mrs. Urania J. Dilts.

Rev. Robert H. Robinson, of Monmouth, Ill., will preach in the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Professor Raymond Higgins, of Ottawa University, will preach in the Baptist church.

FIRST WARD REPUBLICANS HEAR ENCOURAGING REPORTS

The First Ward Republican Club held their second session of the season last evening, with an attendance of nearly fifty. Several matters of a routine nature was disposed of by the gathering, and many details of the campaign previous to the primaries were planned.

Frank H. Smith, chairman of the Republican County Executive Committee, was present, and reviewed the situation as he found it throughout the entire county. He feels that the Republican party will regain much of the lost ground this fall should they nominate candidates for the various offices who were well known as progressive men. He pointed out the much needed asset of a business training for all candidates for local, as well as county offices.

The committee composed of Elias H. Bird, James Buckle and Albert I. Littel on securing a candidate for ward councilman reported of their success in securing A. D. Edgar to seek re-nomination for the office he now occupies. Mr. Edgar was endorsed for the office by resolution.

Candidates for membership in the city and county executive committee were discussed to some extent and the matter was referred to a committee composed of William G. DeMeza, A. I. Littel and Herbert Templin to seek candidates for these committees. The candidates secured by this committee will be discussed at the next meeting of the club, and a full list made public at that time. Fifteen new members were elected to membership of the club. The next session of the organization will be held Monday August 31.

BUYS AT SHERIFF'S SALE.

Elizabeth, Aug. 20.—There was but one sale by Sheriff Wright Wednesday, and that was a piece of Plainfield property. Eleanor W. Dodd, complainant, purchased two tracts from Elston M. French, et al, defendants for $1,000. The tracts are located on the southerly side of Martine avenue and the easterly side of Hillside avenue and on the southerly side of Martine avenue and the westerly side of Woodland avenue.

TO ORGANIZE ANTI-SALOONISTS.

A Somerset county organization of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League will be affected at Warren chapel next Monday evening. The meeting has been called for eight o'clock of that evening by Wendell G. Shields, superintendent of the State body.

—If you have a really desirable house or apartment to rent, your "ad" will constitute GOOD NEWS to some anxious people in this city.

TUTTLE AND CAPSTICK FILE THEIR PETITIONS

Former Judge Runyon On Morris County Man's Committee On Vacancies.

Trenton, Aug. 20.—Following immediately upon the heels of similar action by Congressman William E. Tuttle, Jr., the present Democratic Representative from the Fifth District, John H. Capstick, Republican, of Montville, Morris county, has filed his petition for the nomination for Congress in this district.

Mr. Capstick, who was formerly a member of the State Board of Health, names himself as his campaign committee, and the only party designated he requests on the primary ballot is the word "Republican." As his committee on vacancies, Mr. Capstick names former Senate candidate Edward K. Mills, of Morristown, former Judge William N. Runyon of Plainfield, and Albert Richards, of Dover.

Although Mr. Capstick has the support of former State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees and the other regular Republican leaders of the district, he will have a primary fight to face before he can win the nomination. Rev. William Torrence Stuchell, of Rahway, is an active candidate for the Republican nomination, will file his petition in a few days and former Congressman Charles M. Fowler, of Elizabeth, has also entered the race for nomination.

The campaign will be further complicated by the candidacy of former Mayor George W. V. Moy, of Plainfield, on the Progressive ticket. Petitions for Mr. Moy's nomination are being circulated and his friends declare that he will be a candidate.

Congressman Tuttle will also be his own campaign committee and he has no special party designation for the party ballot. The Democrats also have a fractional fight for this nomination, as Thomas J. Pierson, a former Freeholder of Union county, and proprietor of the Burkely Hotel in Elizabeth, is a vigorous aspirant for a seat in the House of Representatives on the Democratic side.

CHAPTER IX.

The Battle of the Moose.

CURIOSITY cleared my brain, and temporarily I forgot my own condition. There was a fallen tree just ahead, which I walked up to and then stopped, for just a little way beyond a crotchhorn moose and a big bull moose were engaged in a terrific struggle.

Watching them draw apart only to come together again with mighty impact, smashing the branches of the trees and tearing up the underbrush, the excitement made me completely forget myself.

That was the most terrible battle I ever saw between animals in the forest. Evidently they had been fighting for some time, for they were bleeding badly and breathing heavily.

The last charge had resulted in a clinch, and already the big bull moose was drawing back for another rush. Lowering his head, he made a savage plunge. The younger moose cleverly sidestepped the attack, and as the big animal crashed by he drove his sharp spikes into his neck with fearful force.

Down they went to the ground together.

Being the more active, the young moose recovered his footing first, striking out savagely with his forefeet at his rising foe. Then the big bull staggered to his feet. A huge gash in his neck showed red. With a shaggy mane bristling and lowered head he prepared for another charge.

The young moose was apparently fighting on the defensive. He evaded rush after rush and retaliated with hoofs and horns, tearing gash after gash in the head and body of his aggressive enemy.

Sometimes it was a running fight. At others they would rear on their hind legs, fall into a clinch, lock horns and during the struggle continually surge against the saplings and dry cedars, breaking them down with a crash and tearing up the ground around them.

I think in an affair of this kind it is natural for any man to take sides. I took sides with the young moose. The big bull was forcing the fight, and I hoped to see him beaten.

They paid no attention to me, however, and once even came within twenty feet of where I was standing.

After awhile the big fellow got the crotch horn down and began to gore his side frightfully. I yelled and, picking up a club, hurled it at the bull. He threw up his head, panting, and stood looking straight at me.

In an instant the young moose was on its feet and away. Then the big moose whirled about and followed after him.

Completely forgetting my sickness, I threw down my pack and went after them. At first I thought they were running away from me, but just then the crotch horn dashed into a thicket of saplings, through which the big bull tried to follow. The trees, however, were not spread wide enough apart to admit the broad antlers, and so the big fellow was hung up in fine style.

Then you should have seen that young moose! He turned like a flash, rushed back with lowered head and thrashed that big bull in terrible fashion. He gouged him again and again, besides drawing fresh blood with his hoofs. Rising on his hind legs, he would strike with all his strength with his front feet.

The repeated blows staggered the big moose, and he fought frantically to free himself. This he managed to do after a time, and, bellowing at the top of his lungs, he made for the young moose, who sidestepped and dashed away again.

The crotch horn was foxy, for he would choose the narrow places, thus constantly slowing up the big bull. So the nimble one got quite a distance ahead for a start.

Presently they disappeared off through the trees, going in a different direction from the one I was traveling, so I turned back toward the game trail.

About an hour afterward I caught sight of that young moose some distance ahead of me, walking off into the woods. He was sauntering along as independent as could be. The big bull was nowhere to be seen. I honestly believe that the two had come together again in a battle to the death and that the young one had conquered.

With the excitement over the effects of the fever—for it was a fever—returned. I lay down by the side of the trail and tried to sleep, but I could not, though I didn't feel cold. I got to my feet again, feeling so badly that I thought I was going to lose my head.

The idea of my leaving the woods did not enter my mind just then. I said to myself, "I will go down near the camps so that if I do go out of my head they will find me, sooner or later, and take care of me." I reasoned also that if I found myself getting worse and was in the proximity of the camp I might have strength enough left to find my own way there.

It was a long journey, and I don't remember a good part of it. However, as I neared the camp my mood changed somewhat. Somehow I didn't quite want to give the experiment up, and yet at the same time I did. I was pretty close to the camp and occasionally could hear voices, but I was well out of sight.

Resolving to try and stick it out a little longer, I lay down and tried to sleep again. I became dazed and didn't seem to want to move.

Then darkness descended.

The first thing I remembered after that was hearing a little noise close beside me on the trail. I made no effort to see what it was. I was too sick to care.

Presently I felt some animal sniffing me over. It was a dog! Had it been a man I should have spoken to him. It was an Airedale terrier belonging to Harry Pierce of the King and Bartlett camps.

The dog remembered me. He was tickled to death to see me. I spoke to him, and he couldn't get close enough to me. In his enthusiasm he sprawled all over me.

After the preliminary greeting the dog became quiet and lay down beside me with his back against the bearskin.

Then I fell asleep. I must have slept well, for when I awoke my headache had disappeared. So had the dog. I felt better in every way. I could see things from the right point of view.

After moving around a bit I said to myself, "I guess I won't give up today."

Presently the dog came trotting along down the trail again. I talked with him for awhile, and then turned back into the woods. I walked on and on until I came to the side of Black Nubble. Evidently the dog had gone back to the camp.

On the slope of Black Nubble I threw up a little shelter, and all day long I lay around there.

The next day I felt a great deal better, so much so, in fact, that I didn't entertain an idea of giving the experiment up. Early in the morning I headed for the Horseshoe country again.

That fever was my only sickness during the entire two months. I took no barks or medicines I might have thought of in the forest, for I considered that the fresh air, which is always laden with health giving properties, was sufficient. It proved to be.

The civilized world is inclined, I believe, to be medicine mad.

Since coming back among my friends I have often thought of how I completely forgot my sick and weary condition while watching that battle between the crotch horn and the big bull moose out there in the forest. It only emphasizes a belief I have always maintained regarding how much the mind has to do with physical aches and pains.

During that conflict in the woods my mind was wholly taken up with the combat itself. There was no room left in that mind to think of my physical self. Therefore, so far as I was able to feel, I was perfectly well.

I mention this because once again the outdoor life plays its part. It is fresh air that makes rich red blood, and it is rich red blood that makes a healthy brain. A healthy brain does not recognize sickness.

My idea of perfect health is when a man can absolutely forget that he has a stomach, a throat or any other part of his body that is apt to be troublesome.

With that one exception of fever caught in the swamp I was in perfect health during my two months in the wilderness. When I came out of the forest I was not only improved physically, but my mind was improved, in spite of the fact that I had not come in contact with a human soul.

MOTHERS' WORK

Conducted by the Plainfield Mothers' Association. Every Thursday

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. H. E. Parker, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Smith and Mrs. J. L. Evans.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

A children's market is the latest innovation in the civic enterprise of Norwalk, Conn. This market is conducted Saturday mornings from 8 to 10 o'clock on the main street in front of the Norwolk Hotel by the Garden Committee of the Norwalk Civic League. On display are all sorts of garden truck grown by the youngsters of Norwalk in their own gardens. For several years the committee has awarded prizes for the best six children's gardens in town. A few weeks ago the chairman, Miss D. S. Pinneo, hit upon this additional inducement to juvenile industry.

At Saturday's market all sorts of fresh vegetables and flowers were for sale. Beans, peas and potatoes were five cents a quart. Beets, onions and carrots were sold at the same price a bunch, while cabbage and lettuce heads ranged from four to eight cents a head. There were also peppers at "three for five" and cucumbers "two for a nickel." Prices are fixed by a representative of the Civic League after inspecting the wares offered and consulting with nearby tradesmen. Account is kept of each child's sales, and at the end of the season a prize will be given to the youngster with the best record.

Among those offering vegetables for sale the boys outnumber the girls, but the girls' vegetables are much better prepared for the market. One little girl, in a freshly laundered white sailor suit, presided over bunches of beets and carrots which were scrubbed until they shone, and were as carefully bunched and tied as were her own two pigtails.

When asked where she raised her notable crops she replied with a decided lisp, "in my own garden. I grew them all myself and nobody helped me," at the same time patting her ware affectionately. The value of a lisp as a commercial asset, though not included in the standard works on salesmanship, was undeniably demonstrated by this mite of ten years, whose lingual impediment proved the undoing of all the women shoppers.

Another hustling young merchant hung a sign before his pile of crops reading, "We deliver your orders free." That there was a very fair business done was shown by the cash returns which ranged from $1.29 to 15 cents. On his four cabbages and twelve cucumbers, Jack, aged 12, realized 57 cents.

Another lad, who proudly proclaims himself to be the brother of a rising young prizefighter, delivers goods throughout the week, thus making $4.75. When asked what sort of a garden he had, he answered, "Oh, me fader gived me a piece off his." Like true grown-up farmers, these youthful agriculturists complained that this summer had been too cold and rainy for crops.

Flowers as well as vegetables were included in the children's market. Anything from bachelor's buttons and pinks to pond lilies could be had in bunches costing 5, 1 and 15 cents, according to the size. Pond lilies proved to be a great favorite with the customers, who came in their cars and scarcely an automobile party left without a bunch of them.

Another regular flower customer is Father Flynn, of St. Mary's church, who each week purchases flowers for the altar. The girls lead in horticulture, their only competitor being a boy with pond lilies, who does not raise his flowers, but merely gets them from a nearby pond.

Last Saturday was the third time that this market had been held, and those in charge were much pleased with the success of their venture which promised to become a local institution. Receipts vary a bit, the highest day's total being $9.72. This sum was earned by ten girls and nine boys.

"The market is part of our plan to beautify Norwalk," said Miss Pinneo, chairman of the Garden Committee, "We encourage the children to plant gardens, supplying the seeds free as an inducement. Our inspectors make sure that the children are doing the work themselves. So far, so good. But then our small farmers' had the fruits of their labors and no outlet. So we planned this market, and we are delighted with the results. There has been a decided increase in trade since the opening day a few weeks ago."

Mrs. I. H. Welling, head of the finance and legislative committee of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers, sent out a call today to the National and State Congresses of Mothers asking them to take steps to hold mass meetings to urge peace in Europe and to indorse President Wilson's offer of mediation.

Mr. Martin Observes the One-Piece Bathing Suits at Ostend.

Ostend is entirely different. Our errand there, as by my instructions, was to inspect the bathers. Cousin Felicia pretty much skipped the errand, but Jane and I were faithful to it. We walked down on the beach, and the first bather we noticed was sitting in the sun, on the back steps of a bathing-machine, taking the air. She was a lady bather, and it seemed to me that at least sixty per cent. of her was handsome, bare, white legs. Jane thought seventy per cent. We went on, very much encouraged, to where the bathing was still active. It was just as you have so often read or seen in pictures. One very much abbreviated garment such as men bathers wear here, is what most of the women wear there. The effect is interesting and cheering. Jane and I both liked it very much, and hung about till lunch time, getting lessons in civilization. It was very improving. You can't tell what you admire until you have seen it. Here at home we have been working along up from pantalettes and have come, after some generations, to a convention that lets men into water fairly free from excess of raiment, and has shortened the bathing-skirt of women. But it still prescribes the skirt and stockings for women. But at Ostend, and I guess all up and down that shore from Scheveningen to Gibraltar, the bathing girls and women are emancipated both from skirts and stockings. And they look very nice and quite proper, because propriety is all convention. A girl in tights in the water at Ostend was more conspicuous, and therefore seemed less modest, than her bare-legged sisters, and the women in skirts and stockings (there were a few) seemed conspicuously prudish and less suitably clad than the rest. "Proper" really means suitable, and the single-piece suits the girls wore were certainly suitable and therefore presumably proper.

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

The skirt that is draped to give the bustle effect is one of the best liked of the season. This one also falls in soft, jabot-like folds at the sides. It is extremely pretty and attractive, graceful in its lines and adapted to many uses.

It makes up charmingly in taffeta; it is eminently smart for cotton crape, cotton voile and other materials of warm weather wear; it is charming for foulard, and it can be utilized for various silk and cotton materials with great success.

ONE PIECE DRAPED SKIRT.

For the medium size the skirt will require five and one-quarter yards of material twenty-seven inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 24 to 32 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8309, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Some Cookery Suggestions

AN ECONOMY HINT.

DINNER MENU.
Soup.
Potato Croquettes
Vegetable Hash.
Broiled Tripe.
Red Cabbage Salad.
Peach Compote.
Coffee.

AN appetizing way of cooking tripe is to broil it. Owing to the reduced price at which it is sold its use gives the housewife an opportunity to exercise economy.

Parsley Sauce With This.

Broiled Tripe.—After the tripe is well cleaned and washed put it into a bowl of cold water and soak for several hours. Drain and cut into small pieces, put them into a saucepan with sufficient water to cover, add cut up vegetables, some spices and salt. Boil for about three hours or until done; then drain and cool. Pour over it melted butter, season with salt and pepper and sprinkle with breadcrumbs. Broil. Serve with parsley sauce.

Potato Croquettes.—Remove the inside from freshly baked potatoes. Pass through a colander; then make into a stiff paste or mixture, adding a little cream, butter, a dash of sugar and a well beaten egg. Make into croquettes by rolling portions of the prepared potato into sifted breadcrumbs, then dipping into the white of egg beaten to a froth. Fry in butter or fresh lard.

An Inexpensive Salad.

Red Cabbage Salad. Take a firm red cabbage, trim off all outside leaves, cut the inner portion into quarters and remove the stalks. Cut the rest into fine shreds and add to it in the salad bowl a head of celery cut into inch pieces. Make a dressing by beating an egg, stirring into it gradually a tablespoonful of salad oil, a tablespoonful of vinegar, a pinch of sugar and mustard, salt and pepper. Pour over the cabbage and celery.

Peach Compote.—Take three pounds of peaches free from skin and stones, three pounds of sugar, two chopped oranges and a pound of raisins. Put all on the stove and cook until of the thickness desired. When ready to put in the jars add a pound of English walnuts chopped rather fine.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How the Busy Beavers Kept House.

They Sawed With Their Sharp Little Teeth.

"KIDDIES, I'll tell you a story tonight about the first Mr. and Mrs Beaver and the little children beavers.

"It was very long ago, and then, I think, the family of beavers must have lived altogether on the land. But it was by the side of a little running stream that gurgled happily through some dense woods, and the beavers used to drink from it, but they hadn't thought then of how they would use it later.

"The beavers were very contented for awhile. Papa and Mamma Beaver used to feed from the juicy bark of trees and the tender green shoots and the leaves, and when the little kiddie beavers came their good parents taught them to do the same thing as soon as they were old enough.

"But after awhile Papa Beaver got worried, and he was almost afraid to leave his wife and children alone in the woods. You see, children, there were other larger animals that were enemies of the beavers, and they were always planning to attack and eat them. But Papa Beaver was very smart. He had been watching the little stream, and by and by he told Mamma Beaver of a very smart plan.

"'Mamma,' said he, 'I have thought of a way to fool these big enemies of ours. This stream is quite narrow, but you and I will build a dam across it and make a pool, and in that pool we will build a house to live in, so that the big animals cannot get at us.'

"'Yes,' said Mrs. Beaver, 'but how shall we do it, dear?'

"'I will show you,' replied Mr. Beaver, and he set to work.

"First they gnawed with their sharp little white teeth till they actually caused a big tree which grew on the bank to fall into the water clear across. Then they filled in all the chinks with twigs and mud, using their big fat tails for shovels. It was a funny sight, you may be sure. By and by, after many days, there was a big dam there that widened out the stream so that there was a big pool for the beavers.

"And there they built the funniest little round house, half in the water and half above it. It was built of twigs and grass and mud. The door of the house was under water, so the beavers had to dive to get into it, and the part that was above the water was the cunniest little round, dry chamber you ever saw, and there the family moved.

"Mr. and Mrs. Beaver told their children how to do it, and in time the children told their children, and the beavers still build their funny little houses in just that way to this day. So when you hear of people being 'as busy and as smart as beavers' you'll know just what is meant."

BANNER SEASON OF BASKETBALL

Interscholoastic League Troubles Exploded and Big Year Is Expected.

MANY VETERANS BACK

Plainfield and North Plainfield High School Have Plenty of Material While Leal School Is Not Far In Arrears.

As the baseball season draws to a close those interested in football and basketball begin to make preparations for the fall and winter sport season. Although the most distant at the present time the basketball "bug" is doing the most buzzing and the 1914-15 season promises to be a banner one, from early indications.

With the completion of the Plainfield High School symnasium the Interscholastic Basketball League troubles will be solved, for in past years squabbles over playing courts have always existed. Heretofore the High School gym, has been declared too small for interscholastic clashes but the completion of the new rendezvous does away with this old kick. The addition to the present institution on West Ninth street provides for a gym. of ample playing and seating capacity and the new centre will probably be the best one on the league circuit. North Plainfield, it is said, will return to Saengerbund Hall while the Leal School aggregation will hold out at the Y. M. C. A. This provides three excellent playing floors for the contests and early indications are that the schools will all be represented by excellent teams, particularly Plainfield and North Plainfield, each of which has an excellent nucleus left from last season.

Hyman Abrams, captain of the North Plainfield High School team for next year, is making early preparations for the season. Tentative arrangements provide for the return of Paul R. Collier as coach. Roy Love will probably be shifted from forward to center to fill the vacancy left by Frank Dunning's graduation. Van Mater will again hold forth at one forward and Warren Townley will probably be Van Mater's running mate, stepping into the shoes vacated by Love. Captain Abrams will play one of the guard positions with Addison Newkirk, a promising recruit of last year, as his running mate. This quintet is an unusually strong one but there is a bare possibility that it will have to be disrupted in the event of Newkirk's rumored leaving of school is true. Newkirk was recognized as a strong substitute last season and would make an excellent goal preventer this season. However, there is plenty of other material in the school that can be rounded into shape prior to the opening of the season.

The Plainfield High School schedule will open the first part of December with a big demonstration in the new gymnasium. It is probable that some banner attraction will be booked for the opening contest and several side issues will also be arranged. Daniel F. McNamee is captain of the team this year and he also has the makings of a fine squad of players. Ralph S. Patch will again do the coaching. East Orange High School, one of the strongest athletic forces in the State, will be added to the Plainfielders' schedule this season. McNamee will probably play one forward with Bennie Rosenson or Bill Peacock as his running mate. In the event of Rosenson playing forward Peacock will play center. Peacock is considered an excellent man at forward, however, and it may be possible to round Hirsch into shape for the pivot job sending Rosenson back to guard where he starred last year. Another guard will have to be developed in Plainfield, as well as in the borough.

Chauncey Stewart is captain of the Leal School team this year but it now looks as though he had a harder task before him than either Abrams or McNamee. Coach Wardlaw will again do the training.

CINCI, WANTS OLYMPIC GAMES.

Cincinnati is in the field to hold the next Olympic games, provided the German Olympic Committee at any time desires to relinquish its right to hold the international contests in Berlin in 1916. James E. Sullivan, secretary of the American Olympic Committee, yesterday, received a letter from W. C. Culkins, executive secretary of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, bearing on the subject. The Ohio city is particularly adapted for the various sports which comprise the Olympic program, especially the marathon and aquatic events. There is an athletic federation in Cincinnati, including several clubs in Kentucky, which would take charge of the games.

VIC SAIER LIKELY TO BREAK RECORD

Hard Hitting First Baseman of the Cubs Has Made Most Home Runs This Year.

If Vic Saier, of the Cubs, should make as many home runs during August and September as he did during July, he would pile up more four-baggers than did his team-mate, Frank "Wildfire" Schulte, when Schulte was going after "Buck" Freeman's record and winning a Chalmer car three seasons ago. The Chicago first baseman last month sent the sphere hurling through space for six round-trip wallops, getting a brace of homers on July 2 off Phil Douglass of the Reds and touching Bob Harmon of the Pirates, Christy Mathewson, of the Giants, and Dick Rudolph and Otto Hese, of the Braves, for circuit clouts ere trial balance day arrived.

Saier failed to hit for the grand tour during April, but in May he rid his system of three four-masted drives, an exploit which he duplicated in June. His record for August, to last Sunday, was one four-furlong slam, made off Christy Mathewson, who has allowed more homers this year than any other National League hurler.

John ("Bucky") Freeman holds the modern National League record for homers, having poled 25 while with the Senators in 1899. Schulte, twelve years later, tore of 21. Cravath of the Phillies last season manufactured 19, getting next to all seven pitching staffs for at least one of these noble swats.

Saier still has to do business with the Brooklyn boxmen before he equals Cravath's record of making homers in all seven series. By an odd coincidence the Home Run King of 1913 had an awful time striking a four-bag blow in a contest with the Superbas last season, not doing so until September 29.

The pitchers Saier has made most of his home runs off this year are those employed by John J. McGraw. "Vic" has jarred Mathewson for three loop-the-loop clouts and Fromme for one. The Chicagoan finds the Red artillerists the next easy, having made a brace of homers off Phil Douglass in one and one four-bagger off Leon Ames.

Saier also has secured home runs this season off Oeschger and Alexander of the Phillies, Rudolph and Hess of the Braves, Doak of the Cardinals and Harmon of the Pirates.

It is not until last season that Saier started to shine as a home run manufacturer. In 1911 Victor Sylvester had only one circuit clout to his credit and in 1912 only two. Last year Saier boosted his output of swats of this kind to fourteen, a figure he is sure to excel this season.

Mathewson, as before told, has allowed more home runs this season than any other National League hurler. He has permitted fourteen. Larry Cheney, of the Cubs, has yielded ten and seven have been garnered off Hub Perdue, of Boston and St. Louis, Jimmy Lavender, of Chicago, "Rube" Marquard, of New York, and Erskine Mayer and Grover Alexander of Philadelphia.

The pitchers off whom the National League batters have procured their home runs this season follow:

Boston, 29—Perdue, 5; Rudolph, 5; James, 5; Crutcher, 4; Tyler, 4; Hess, 2; Cocreham, 2; Strand, 1;

Brooklyn, 19—Reulbach, 5; Allen, 4; Brown, 3; Pfeffer, 3; Aitchison, 2; Rucker, 1; Ragan, 1.

Chicago, 26—Cheney, 10; Lavender, 7; Zabel, 4; Pierce, 2; Humphries, 2; Smith, 1.

Cincinnati, 18 — Douglass, 6; Yingling, 4; Ames, 3; Benton, 2; Adams, 1; Davenport, 1; Rowan, 1.

New York, 35—Mathewson, 14; Marquard, 7; Fromme, 5; Tesreau, 4; Demaree, 3; Schauer, 1; Wiltse, 1.

Philadelphia, 21—Alexander, 7; Mayer, 7; Oeschger, 4; Jacobs, 1; Marshall, 1; Mattisen, 1.

Pittsburg, 19—McQuillan, 5; Adams, 4; Cooper, 3; Harmon, 3; O'Toole, 2; Conzelman, 2.

St. Louis, 20—Perritt, 4; Steele, 3; Griner, 3; Doak, 3; Sallee, 3; Perdue, 2; Robinson, 1; Niehaus, 1.

BASEBALL NOTES

Al Piatte of the Providence team is the real batting leader among the regular performers of the International league.

Manager Joe Tinker of the Chifeds is not batting so well in the Federal league as he did in the National last season.

The poor showing of the Cleveland Naps doesn't seem to effect the fine batting of Joe Jackson. The great slugger continues to lead the American league batsman.

Pretty loose stuff for Tex Erwin to be hitting for .348 when he is released outright by Brooklyn, with nary an American or National league club to put in a claim for him.

Walter Johnson stands sixteenth in the list of American league pitchers. The big fellow is surely having a tough season, but he is the best flinger in the business at that.

South Michigan league fans claim that the Chicago White Sox have copped the class of the league in outfielder Coombs of the Bay City team. Coombs has been hitting the .375 mark all season.

"Red" Smith says he is glad to get a chance to play with the Boston Braves. The former Dodger third sacker believes he scents a chunk of world's series money.

The Athletics certainly boosted their percentage at the expense of the western teams. It came near being a case of four straight against every team they met.

No wonder the British press censor blue-penciled baseball scores. Look at the Cincinnati lineup: Mollwitz, Herzog, Niehoff, Berghammer, Schneider, Groh and Von Kolnitz.

Not an American league catcher is hitting in the .300 division, while the National league boasts of Gonzales of Cincinnati, Wingo of St. Louis and Archer of Chicago, all in the .300 list.

The Day the Boston Braves broke into the first division a Boston fan offered $15 to $200 that the Stallings crew would win the National league pennant. Some speculator, this fellow.

Even the speedy Giants have to back up on the paths when they try to swipe a base on catcher Frank Snyder of the Cardinals. The Card backstop nailed six Giants in two games at New York and no steal was recorded against him.

The war has crabbed the proposed trip of an all-Irish and all-German baseball team to Europe next fall. An Irish team would have a plumb chance to perform in Germany and the same may be said of a German team in Ireland.

FOR COUNTY TITLE.

Arrangements are being completed for the Union County Clay Pigeon Championship shoot to be held at the Tremley Gun Club traps, Elizabeth, Labor Day. Joe Rochietti, holder of the championship trophy, which he won from Frank Glaser, of Elizabeth, has had things his own way since Glaser temporarily retired from the game, but expects considerable opposition at the Labor Day shoot. The Rahwegian has continued to shoot in small matches and is convinced that he still has the championship eye.

LOCAL COPPERS WERE REVENGED

By Defeating Newark Champs at That Place Yesterday They Tie Up the Series.

McLAUGHLIN THE STAR

Warry Pitched a Stellar Article of Ball and Also Made Two Doubles and a Single, Which Practically Won the Game.

Warry McLaughlin led the local policemen's baseball team to victory over the Newark cops, at that place, yesterday, by a score of 4 to 1. The game was well played and kept the spectators on their feet and yelling at all times. The locals made a late start in the scoring line, but when they started the result of the game was never in doubt. McLaughlin and Mullin were the talk of the day and it was the stellar pitching and hitting of the former that spelled victory. All of the locals played good ball and only made three errors, but two of these were bad ones.

Leary, the pride of the Newark force, was on the mound and it looked for a while as if he would get a shutout victory, and for six long innings the locals were given the kalsomine. The home twirler struck out at least one man in every inning and in five cases had two to his credit. In the first round, McGinley fouled the ball twice and then swung without touching it and returned to the bench. Berger hit to third, but was thrown out at first, and Fritts took the count of three.

Warry started off easy and the first man went out, Miller to Scott. Langheld, the best batter on the Newark team, singled, stole second and reached third when Mullin threw bad to second. McLaughlin was credited with the next two strike outs. Miller singled in the second, but was caught off first. The home team went out in order in its half of the second inning.

The home team scored its only run of the game in the third frame on an error and a double. Dougherty made first on Nelson's miscue and scored when Langheld doubled. The latter was thrown out trying to take third base. In the fourth, Warry made his first hit, a double, and Fritts took his place on second base. He went to third on a passed ball, but was caught napping at that station. The Newarkers came near scoring in the fourth when, with two down, Flatley dropped Leary's long fly to center. Collins hit the ball an awful whack and Leary scored when Collins drew up at third. He was called out for not touching first or second and the run did not count. Three strikeouts were credited to Leary in the fifth. Nothing exciting happened until the seventh when the locals put the game on ice.

McLaughlin was the first man up and he hit the ball so hard that it looked as though it was going over the right field fence. The spheroid fell some short, however, and Warry drew up at second. Fritts ran for him and scored the tying run when Miller doubled to right field. Scott and Flatley both fanned, but Nelson came to the rescue with a timely single to right scoring Miller. In its half of the seventh, the home team did not see first base, although Lawrence would have had but Miller ran to right field and picked off a sure hit. McGinley led off in the eighth and fanned. Berger singled and Mullin was hit. A passed ball advanced each man a base and then old Warry faced the pitcher. He made two bad strikes, but on the third singled, scoring Berger and Mullin. The Newarkers were not dangerous in the next two innings and McCarthy was the only one to get to first base.

Leary fanned fourteen and McLaughlin ten. Both pitchers had the Indian sign on one batter four times and each fanned the man three times straight. The locals gathered up nine hits, four of which went for extra bases, while the home batters found Warry for six, one being for an extra base. Each team has now won one game and a third contest will be arranged soon to be staged on Parker Field. After the game the local team was the guest of the Newark force at a fine outlay to which all did full justice.

"NIBS" HAND SIGNED BY NEWARK INDIANS

Scotch Plains Youth Will Join International Leaguers In the Spring.

"Nibs" Hand, the pride of Scotch Plains in the minor baseball league circles, has had an offer from the Newark team of the International League, to do the backstopping for that organization next season, and has affixed his signature to a contract that will go into effect next spring. Harry Smith, of the Newark aggregation, has long been dickering for the services of the popular Scotch Plains youth, and friends of the player have urged him to go South with the International Leaguers next spring.

For several months Hand has been doing the receiving for the Perth Amboy team of the Atlantic League, of which Cliff Randolph, of this city, is the leading pitcher. Since joining that organization he has climbed to the top in the hitting and fielding departments and is recognized as one of the most valuable additions to the club.

Before going to Amboy, Hand caught for a number of semi-professional teams in this section, performing for Plainfield, Scotch Plains, High Bridge, Bound Brook, Dunellen and New Brunswick on different occasions. Prior to entering league baseball he caught Sunday afternoon games for the fast Trenton combination. He was a member of the outlaw league, together with Louis Slocum, that sprang up in the metropolitan district several years ago, playing on the New York club.

BUSH TOPS LEAGUE IN PASS GETTING

Detroit's Midget Shortstop Has Secured 74 Free Trips, Leads By 14.

Owen Bush, of the Tigers, probably will lead the pass getting brigade in the American League this season, the tiny Detroit shortstop having, in the first four months of the campaign, received fourteen more complimentaries than any other player in the younger organization. Bush set the pace in procuring bases on balls in the American in 1912, but last year the athlete who most often did the promenade act was Bert Shotten of the Browns.

Shotten is leading his team in being walked by the pitchers this year, but he does not come anywhere near leading the American League in this respect. To August 1 the St. Louis suburbanite had been favored with 39 gratuities by the moundmen. Bush, best at the waiting game, had wended his way to first over the Four Ball Route on 74 occasions. Second to Bush among the pass getters is Eddie Collins, of the White Elephants, with 60; third, Eddie Murphy of the same combination, with 57, fourth, Tris Speaker of the Red Sox, with 53, and fifth, Roy Hartzell, of the Yankees, with 51. The five best waiters in the American League last year were, in the order named, Shotten of St. Louis, Collins, of Philadelphia, Wolter, of New York, Jackson of Cleveland and Bush of Detroit.

It is a toss-up this year which team has the best three athletes at working the hurlers for transportation—Philadelphia or Detroit. Collins, Murphy and Strunk, of the Mackmen, have drawn 155 passes, so have Bush, Crawford and Kavanaugh, of the Jenningsites.

The team leaders in procuring passes this season are Collins for the White Elephants, Bush for the Tigers, Hartzell for the Yankees, Speaker for the Red Sox, Moeller for the Senators, Graney for the Naps, Shotten for the Browns and Blackburne for the White Sox. Of these men Bush, Collins, Speaker, Hartzell and Moeller find places on the American League's best waiting club, the other members of this suppositious combination being Murphy of Philadelphia, Crawford of Detroit, Carrigan of Boston and Faber of Chicago. These nine men have acquired 425 passes this season, or 61 more than the Yankees, who are at present the most watchful waiters in B. B. Johnson's league.

The greatest number of complimentaries secured by a player in one game this season is four. Jack Barry of the Mackman turned this trick on April 24 in an eleven-inning game with New York, Keating and Warhop being the Peerless Leader's pitchers. On June 13 Tris Speaker of the Red Sox touched a group of Detroit boxmen for a quartette of complimentaries, but by so doing the Chalmers Car winner of 1912 neither broke his own or his league's record. Tris, two years ago, walked five times in one controversy. According to the best available information on the subject the major league record for getting a bunch of bases on balls in one game is six. Walter Wilmot of Anson's old Chicago White Sox got the half dozen free tickets to first in 1891 in a game with Pittsburg.

The three best men on each American League team at getting passes this year and the American League's best "waiting team" are named below:

Each Team's Three Best Waiters.

Athletics, 155—Collins, 60; Murphy, 57; Strunk, 38.

Tigers, 155—Bush, 74; Crawford, 46; Kavanaugh, 35.

ROD AND REEL

The weakfishing at Morgan Station has been so good that hundreds of powerboats were out Sunday and the noise they made probably had a tendency to keep down the catches of fish. Several good catches were made, however, but they were not up to the average mark that has prevailed during the weekdays. Rowboats were at a premium, and after the first morning train pulled in and deposited the horde of anglers, no boats were left for the late comers. There was also a record breaking crowd out from Keyport, and all of the boats came in with fish.

The lake at Weequahic Park, Newark, is purging, but the trouble will only last a few days, as the discolored water will quickly pass over the overflow. Up to the first sign of the purging the fishing was good, and it will no doubt be better when everything is normal again. A little later in the season the perch fishing will be good at this lake, as there seems to be thousands of fish there.

The bluefish are taking the squid off Long Branch. The market fishermen out from Long Branch and Seabright hit into them in lively fashion Saturday. Big schools of bonita are also off shore, and some good catches are being made.

The crabbing season is at its best right now. July, August and September in the local waters is blue crab time, and the best days to catch this crustcean are between the new moon and the first quarter, and between the first quarter and the full moon. It does not require much skill to catch crabs. The only tackle required is weighted lines with meat or fish bait, and a scoop net. Some use the wire traps sold by tackle dealers, which have largely supplanted the old drop net.

One of the best bass reports of the month from nearby water came in yesterday, when one man brought in half a dozen small-mouth bass he had caught at Echo Lake. Helgramites were used, and the fish bit voraciously.

The fishermen of Lake Hopatcong are up in arms against the noise made by the motor boats as the gas is forced from the engines. They say that some owners have mufflers that muffle and others that fail to muffle, and if the noise is not stopped there won't be a fisherman with nerve enough left to visit the lake. They claim that the man and the rod make the lake and now the speed boats have taken possession. Under-water exhausts will stop all the trouble and an attempt is to be made to force them on the boats.

ANNUAL PLAYGROUND EXHIBIT SATURDAY

Work of the Summer Done In Local Centers to Be Placed On View Here.

The annual playground exhibition will take place on Parker Field, Saturday afternoon, starting at 2:30. At that time all the work of the year that has been done at the four recreation centers will be exhibited to the public. The playgrounds have been very well attended this year and much work has been accomplished. Basketry, sewing, pattern cutting and other branches of art will be seen, and also some of the athletics activities will be shown to the public.

The children will give exhibitions of folk dancing, which has been one of the main features this year. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance to see the kind of work that is being done in the city's playgrounds.

As in former years the Playground Commission has arranged to have street cars at each playground at 1:30 Saturday afternoon. The children are expected to be at their respective playgrounds at that time. The exhibition at Parker Field will begin at 2:30.

FRIENDLY INDIANS MONUMENT. St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 20.—A party of State officials and members of the Minnesota Historical Society visited Fort Ridgely today to attend the dedication of a monument to friendly Chippewas and their chief Moo-zoo-naun-nie, who are said to have rendered assistance by giving warning of the movements of the hostiles and conducting the whites to safety at the time of the Sioux massacre in 1862. The monument was erected by the State of Minnesota. The dedication was accompanied by a program of interesting exercises. The principal addresses were delivered by George P. Authier, private secretary to Governor Eberhart, and Theodore H. Beaulieu, of White Earth.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.

CONCRETE ROAD FOR W. THIRD ST.

Ordinance Passed By Common Council to Rebuild That Thoroughfare.

WITHOUT OPPOSITION

None Appeared at Public Hearing to Express Views On the Proposed Improvement—Minor Matters Disposed of By the Council.

Although previous announcement had been made of a public hearing for the benefit of West Third street property-owners who will share in the proposed reconstruction work from Plainfield avenue to Liberty street, no one appeared at the adjourneyed meeting of the Common Council, last night, and the ordinance was passed on this reading without objection from any source. The proposition provides for a concrete road surface for the street and the cost of the work will be apportioned among the various property-owners.

There has been considerable agitation in favor of this improvement for a long time and the action of the Council at its meeting in August was instigated by a petition signed by residents along that street and the Charity Organization Society of this city, urging that something definite be done in the matter immediately. The resolution was passed on two readings at that time and in accordance with the law a public hearing was set for last night.

West Third street is one of the most traveled thoroughfares in the city and is at present sadly in need of repair. The concrete bed is selected because of its durability and moderate cost of construction. A resolution was introduced by Councilman Blatz, chairman of the street committee, last night, to request the Public Service Gas Company, Public Service Electric Company, New York and New Jersey Telephone Company and other concerns to make what repairs are needed to their property on that avenue immediately so that there will be no necessity of tearing up the street for repairing purposes after it is once laid. It is requested that the wires and pipes be laid in a permanent manner with connecting facilities at the curb.

A communication was received from the Building Trades Council at the Council's special meeting, last night, inviting the members of the civic body to be present at the Labor Day demonstration being planned by the labor organizations here. The proposition met with the favorable approval of the Council, and Councilman Claybrook introduced a resolution suggesting that the members attend the affair and give the project their earnest co-operation.

A report from the joint meeting of Plainfield and North Plainfield officials in the sewer matter was submitted to the Council and placed on file. Netherwood residents, Edward L. Allen and other, presented a petition to the Common Council requesting that a light be placed at the juncture of Woodland and South avenues. This point is several hundred feet from the Netherwood fire headquarters and the residents claim that several accidents have been narrowly averted by the drivers of the fire apparatus due to the insufficient light-

SOMERSET BUDGET REDUCED THIS YEAR

Freeholders Make Up Their Yearly Schedule of Apportionments.

The Freeholders of Somerset county last week made up their yearly budget, with a total of only $195,000. Last year it was $230,000. This reduction of $35,000, together with the increase in ratables, will doubtless means a reduction of the county tax rate. It was stated at the meeting of the Board that the total property valuation last year was $33,000,000 as against $44,000,000 this year, an increase of $11,000,000; that the county tax rate last year was 60 cents, and that by judicious and economical management the rate this year would be but 57 cents and possibly less.

The board appropriated $44,500 for bridges as against $81,000 last year, divided among the municipalities as follows:

Bedminster,	$3,250
Bernards,	5,000
Bridgewater,	3,000
Branchburg,	4,500
Bound Brook Borough,	800
Franklin,	2,750
Hillsborough,	7,000
Montgomery,	6,000
North Plainfield Borough,	5,000
North Plainfield,	3,600
Somerville,	600
Warren,	3,000
Total,	$44,500

The budget calls for $66,000 for roads, which includes $30,000 for repairs.

The county superintendent has announced the apportionment of school moneys for the new year, on the basis of attendance, transportation, etc. The following are the allowances to the neighboring districts:

Bernards Township,	$21,659.59
North Plainfield Borough,	19,995.45
North Plainfield Towns'p,	2,430.46
Warren Township,	3,489.94

The total amount for the county is $138,458.85.

LABOR DAY PLANS.

The Labor Day committee of the allied trades met last evening, and heard reports from the various standing committees. The grounds committee announced that they secured Vail's Grove on West Fourth street beyond Monroe avenue, being a portion of the same tract on which the West End Civic Association hold their weekly band concerts. The line of march, together with the order of the organizations in line are to be announced within the course of a few days. The meeting next week will be held Thursday evening.

STRAWBERRIES IN DUNELLEN!

Strawberries picked in these parts during the month of August! Who ever heard of such a thing before? Well! You can believe it or not, but it is an absolute fact that William H. Snyder, of Penfield place, Dunellen, picked a quart of strawberries off of the vines in his garden yesterday.

SCHOOL COST IS $60.31 PER PUPIL

Teaching Upkeep and Everything Else Covered By That Amount.

4,132 PUPILS ENROLLED

$8 Per Pupil Represented Interest and Principal On Bonds and $52.31 Educational Cost—84 Cents Per Pupil to Care For Health.

Some interesting figures as to the cost of an education in Plainfield are found in the report of the clerk of the Board of Education recently filed at the office of the County Superintendent.

To give a year of school to each of the 4,132 children enrolled on the school register, and to pay the interest on all outstanding bonds issued by the city of Plainfield for school purposes and on the mortgages on the Lincoln and Whittier Schools, and also to pay off enough of the principal of these bonds and mortgages to provide for the discharge of the entire school debt before the year 1965 cost $60.31 for each child enrolled in the school system.

When this is compared with the cost of education in private schools which have neither the teaching talent, the varied courses nor the splendid physical plant of the Plainfield system, these figures are an excellent example of the not always understood fact that our school administration furnishes an education at one-third of the cost of private schools; and gives you a better article into the bargain.

This estimate of $60.31, it should be remembered, provides not only the cost of the teaching itself, but of the upkeep of all the school property and the full payment of all the cost of buildings and equipment within fifty years. In other words, the cost of getting the schools out of debt for what they have spent to build the plant.

The item of interest and principal of the bonds paid off during the current year amounted to $32,050.00, or about $8.00 a child, which leaves $52.31 to pay for the year's teaching of each pupil.

Of this $52.31, the sum of $40.16½ was spent for the actual teaching expenses, that is to say for the salaries and expenses of the teachers and superintendent and principals, the text books and supplies used in instruction and the pensions paid to retired teachers. $10.30 was the cost to each child for the daily care of the buildings used and the cost of heating, lighting, repairing and insuring them.

The care of the children's health and the lectures and recreations provided by the schools cost 84½ cents for each child, an insignificant sum to what it would have cost the children's parents to give them the same degree of medical attention and healthful recreation. In this connection it may be noted that all through the epidemics of childrens diseases which were so prevalent last winter, it was never necessary to close a public school in Plainfield because of the sickness of the pupils, and there was not a single case where a child caught a contagious disease from other children in the same school room.

The administration and miscellaneous expenses of the Board of Education amounted to almost exactly $1.00 per child.

The above figures are for the average cost of a year's education from the lowest class in the kindergarten to the graduating class in the High School. Assuming that the full public school life is thirteen years, or from six to nineteen, it will cost $738.03 to train up an American citizen in Plainfield.

This is not a small sum, but considered as an investment in good citizenship, or as an insurance premium against bad citizenship, whichever way you like to put it, it doesn't look so large and it is the sum which it costs in Plainfield to take a six year old child and turn out a trained boy or girl ready to attack life with the advantages of training and knowledge which make for ultimate success; and possessed of a better education than many colleges can offer.

DEBONAIR BANDIT IN THE HOSPITAL

W. Arlington Danton In the Toils of Troy, N. Y., Police, Says a Dispatch.

FORMERLY LIVED HERE

Fell From Window While Grappling With Dentist Whose Office He Is Said to Have Entered—Dentist Is Killed.

According to information given out by Chief of Police Mulcahy, of Elizabeth, W. Arlington Danton, alias Edward Farley, the debonair bandit who made his home at 413 Central avenue, this city, last summer, is again in the police toils. Information given out by the police of Troy, N. Y., where he is in custody, says that Danton was surprised last Saturday night while attempting to rob a dentist's office. The proprietor of the place is said to have grappled with the intruder and during the struggle both fell out of a second story window to the ground below. The dentist was killed, according to the report, and Danton was so badly injured that he is now in a Troy hospital in a serious condition.

The man was arrested several months ago on evidence obtained by Captain John Flynn, of the local police force, who had him under suspicion where he lived in this city. He was at that time charged with kidnapping two Summit policemen and after spending many weeks in the Union county jail at Elizabeth, was released after establishing a satisfactory alibi. The authorities at that time brought certain evidence against him in an effort to show that he was in the immediate vicinity of the Summit crime on the night it was commited, Saturday, February 21. Danton contended that he was in Newark on the night in question and went from there to Easton Sunday morning. His alibi worked out so well that he was given his freedom.

While in this city he posed as a mechanical dentist establishing an office of the "Correspondence School of Mechanical Dentistry" in the house at 413 Central avenue. While in Plainfield he became acquainted with a number of local dentists and several of the professional men became suspicious of his actions, reporting their distrust to the local police. A strict surveilance was kept on his actions by the police but so slick did he work that the authorities could get "nothing on him."

According to the local police he is suspected of having "pulled" several jobs in this city and Paterson. The police say that he has a particular hobby for the robbing of dental offices but this is the first time they have been able to catch him in the act. He has served time in Joliet penitentiary and has been in the police toils on a number of previous occasions. When sought by private detectives for the Summit deed, one of the most daring of its kind ever perpetrated in this State, he was found living in a boarding house in New York city. When detectives rang the door bell it was Danton himself who answered the call. He invited the authorities into his apartment and when acquainted with their mission became indignant. A search of his apartments revealed a set of burglars' tools and other implements which were confiscated by the detectives. He was lodged in the Tombs and later extradited to this State, going to the county jail in Elizabeth.

In this city Danton had the appearance of a man of means. He was always nattily dressed, as a rule wearing a black suit of clothes of the latest cut, a derby hat and black bow neck tie. He comes of wealthy parents in Easton, Pa., and claims to have been a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Mechanical Dentistry in the year of 1906.

The Troy police are keeping a careful watch over their man lest he should escape from the hospital. As soon as he is well enough to be discharged from the institution he will be arrested and arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering, and possibly manslaughter.

Austria-Hungary Has Ordered Drafting of Every Male Resident Between 19 and 60--Closing of Wires From Brussels Shuts Off Communication With Scene of Big Conflict--Bombardment of Libau is Described by Spectator.

Amsterdam, Aug. 21—A correspondent who left Antwerp and traveled over the Dutch frontier, telephoned from Rosendaal, last night, that Antwerp is being put in a state of defense. Woods are being cut down over a wide area and villas have been destroyed outside the town so as to afford no shelter for the Germans.

London, Aug. 21 (Central News Cable)—Communication between Great Britain and Brussels was completely interrupted today. No messages were accepted for any place in the Belgian provinces, Limbourg, Liege, Namur, Luxemburg, Brabant or Antwerp.

A despatch to the Central News from London says that one long line of burning villages marked the German advance to the Belgian capital.

Americans stranded here are highly indignant because of their inability to obtain through the American Embassy here funds which have been placed to their credit with the United States Treasury Department. It was stated that payment would be made as soon as instructions were received from Washington, but as these instructions have not been received, no action has been taken by the embassy officials. The waiting Americans were confident that orders for payment would be brought by the cruiser Tennessee, but they were disappointed.

Assistant Secretary of War Breckinridge, who brought over the funds on the Tennessee, is at Falmouth. He says he is of the opinion that the money sent over on the cruiser was for charitable purposes only.

The third list of Germans killed or wounded in battle has been published in Berlin, according to the correspondent of the Daily Mail, who says that about 1,000 names are included in the list. He adds that the report that Prince Frederick William was killed before Liege is confirmed by the Cologne Gazette.

In spite of the removal of the embargo on exports of coal, forward business is almost at standstill, owing to high freight rates. Sellers are demanding partial cash payments.

It is expected that a minimum of 30 hours work a week shortly will be fixed by the Lancashire cotton trade. The Government is arranging to place piece orders for cotton goods to help the industry. The financing of the Egpytian cotton crop is causing anxiety. Meetings that have been held in London and Alexandria have failed to bring about a decision.

Chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd George made an inquiry in the middle of the week of bankers and merchants asking their views relative to an extension of the moratorium. It is understood that a majority favored an extension for another month from September 4.

London, Aug. 21.—A despatch from the Daily Mail's correspondent at Brussels says:

"The Germans are using a bayonet with teeth on it. This weapon slips in easily, but tears the flesh to pieces in the process of removal.

"On the other hand, the Prussian bullet, by reason of its extreme pointedness, is saving the Red Cross much work. Extractions have been reduced 25 per cent., the bullet passing clean through more often than not.

Rome, Aug. 21 (Central News Cable)—An official despatch received here today from Vienna, states that a general levy has been ordered by the Governments of Austria-Hungary, whereby all citizens from the age of 19 up to 60 will be called to the colors.

An official communique received here today from Berlin, states that the German forces have only met with one reverse during the war, when they were defeated by the French army operating in Alsace, at Schirmeck, about 26 miles southwest of Strassburg.

A despatch to the Messagero today from Cettinje states that the Austrians attacked the Montenegrins yesterday at Crivoscie and Grahovo, two small towns in Montenegro, situated about four miles northwest of Cettinje. Fighting of a desperate character resulted all day with the result that the Austrians were repulsed all along the line. The success of the Montenegrins was so complete that the Austrians fled in great disorder, leaving a large number of dead, while 200 of them were made prisoners.

Gettinje despatch to the Tribuna states that over 160 sailors, rescued from Austrian warships which have been sunk here, arrived as prisoners of war together with 14 Austrian naval officers who are only just recovering from fever. It was understood although not officially stated, that these sailors and officers are from Austrian warships sunk in the Gulf of Cattaro by Montenegrin artillery, operating from heights close to the shores of the gulf and overlooking the Port of Cattaro. It was reported several days ago that a number of Austrian warships had left the gulf owing to its having become untenable.

Stockholm, Aug. 21 (Central News Cable via London)—The following story of the bombardment of Libau by the German fleet is related by the captain of a Swedish steamer which has just arrived in the port:

"It was on Sunday evening that the rain of fire began to fall on the city. The townspeople were thrown into a panic. They ran into the streets and other open places because their houses were falling and burning.

"Fifteen women who were seated on a pile of lumber were kiled by the explosion of a single shell. The bombardment continued for two hours. Many buildings and bridges were destroyed.

Life in St. Petersburg is running in a normal way, according to despatches received here from the Russian capital. No additional military precautions have been taken, the food supply is plentiful and the streets, cafes and amusement places are as crowded as they were before the outbreak of the war.

The captain of the Swedish steamer Bifrost, which has arrived here from Hango, Finland, reports the destruction of the harbor works of that port by German warships.

"We received orders from the Hango port authorities on August 2 to moor with the Dutch coal steamer Alcor across the entrance to the harbor, where our ship was to be dynamited in order to close the channel," he said.

"Later the authorities permitted us to anchor outside in security, but the Alcor was blown up according to the program, together with three valuable cranes."

Paris, Aug. 21.—According to the Brussels correspondent of the Journal, wounded German army officers state that all newspaper correspondents who fall into the hands of the German army will be shot without trial under orders direct from Kaiser Wilhelm.

Four kegs containing $250,000 in gold have been landed from the cruiser North Carolina at St. Lazare, under the direction of Major Hedekin, assisted by Major Henry and Lieutenants Sommerwell, Joirett and Treat, who acted as guards. When the treasure reached the American embassy the problem arose as to its distribution, as no list designating its disposal accompanied it. After Lieutenants Sommerwell, Joirett and Treat had sat on the kegs for four hours, the gold was removed to a safety deposit vault.

Ghent, Belgium, Aug. 21 (via Paris) (Central News Cable).—German Hussars and Uhlans are encamped today on the shooting

C. P. HAMILTON SUGGESTED AS SECOND WARD COUNCILMAN

The Second Ward Republican Club met last evening at the home of W. R. Townsend and discussed in an informal way the details of the fall campaign. The candidate for councilmanic honors will be decided on at the next meeting, giving the committee in charge further time to make a canvass of the ward. Among those most prominently spoken of in this connection, is C. P. Hamilton, of Denmark road, a well-known resident of the Netherwood section. Mr. Hamilton has not stated as yet as to whether he would enter the race. Another meeting of the club will be called for next week by the president, Howard H. Williams.

CHATHAM PLACE RESIDENTS ALONE IN THIS ENTERPRISE

Residents of Chatham place are planning to introduce a novel celebration in the borough that will undoubtedly prove popular, especially with the younger set. There are at present seven houses occupied on that street, which has just been completed between Manning avenue and Chatham street, and those who live in this "select" territory are planning a "block" party which will be held sometime during the last week in August.

When the time comes for this affair the two ends of the street will be roped off to prevent traffic so that the joy-makers may use that space to their heart's content with no danger of being interrupted. The highway will be illuminated with Japanese lanterns and all of the porch lights will be on and dancing will be the main feature. There is some possibility of securing one of the local bands to furnish the music.

This will be the first entertainment of its kind for this vicinity, but in Philadelphia they are a common occurrence and are exceedingly popular. Out of door games are played at these affairs and old as well as young always join in the festivities for a good time.

FLEMINGTON VISITED BY BAD STORM THIS AFTERNOON

Shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon a bad wind storm swept down on the section in the vicinity of Flemington doing a vast amount of damage to fruit crops.

Telephone communication with that town was cut off this afternoon and the exact extent of the damage could not be ascertained. A terrific wind accompanied by torrents of rain came upon the section almost without warning.

LIEBNECHT NOT KILLED.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—According to a telegram from Secretary of State Bryan to Walter Lanfersie, National Secretary of the Socialist party, the United States Ambassador at Berlin reports that the rumor of the execution of Karl Liebnecht, the German Socialist, is absolutely unfounded. It was stated several days ago in a despatch from Paris that Liebnecht had been condemned to be shot by a court martial for refusing to take up arms for Germany.

Franklin Lowe, of Fairview avenue, left this afternoon for Boston, where he will spend a short time. from there he will go to Vermont and remain until the latter part of next month.

BEING THE SAD TALE OF A BATHING SUIT WHICH RAN FROM ITS OWNER

George William Bantle was the winner of the fourth prize offered by the Daily Press in its recent Trade in Plainfield contest. He tells about his experiences with local stores in the following letter:

Editor Plainfield Daily News:

If you are looking for the short road to prosperity, switch off from that bumpy road you are traveling on (buying out of town), and "Shop in Plainfield." Nothing would be appreciated more by our merchants than to have every man and woman shop at home with the idea in mind that he or she were receiving the utmost in quality for the lowest in price. Several people are of the opinion that they are at a tremendous saving by shopping in Newark or New York; thinking apparently nothing of the car-fare and meals for which they are obliged to pay.

My friend, Mr. S——e, who is employed in Newark, decided to purchase a bathing suit in that city, and that he did—but never again!

He purchased what was supposed to be durable, fast color, and all-wool. The same day, I as a result of seeing the company's advertisement in The Daily Press, bought a bathing suit at the Woodhull & Martin Co.'s store for one dollar and ninety-eight ($1.98) cents. That night we compared our suits, and the only difference as far as we could see, was the price, Mr. S——e having paid one dollar more for his than I. We had planned to go to Asbury Park the following day on a Sunday-school excursion. Thursday came, and it will be a memorable one for Mr. S——e. Scarcely had he begun enjoying the breakers when, low, his fast color bathing suit turned almost white. He left the water immediately, and as he walked over the sand, the blue water trick'ed from his suit and body, putting most people in mind that he had purchased a cheap suit. When the unfortunate man appeared on the beach again, the spectators had a good laugh.

Had Mr. S——e bought his suit where I did in Plainfield, he could have saved time, trouble and 'ast but not least, a dollar. This is just one incident of the superior quality and low prices obtainable in our "Queen City.' Our merchants do not have to pay the expenses that the large stores in the cities do, consequently you are offered the advantages. Much credit is due the Business Men's Association, who are booming and advertising Plainfield and its merchants. Closing, I just wish to say that I hope several people will be benefitted by this experience that Mr. S——e had.

GEORGE WM. BANTLE.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day In Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sweetman will move tomorrow from the A. H. Burdick house on Washington avenue, that has been sold to J. J. Costalos, of New York city, to Plainfield.

Mrs. C. F. Richards, of New Market road, spent Wednesday in New York city as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth McAllister.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Schenck and family, of Center street, were crabbing down the shore, yesterday.

J. Cashin and family have moved from Plainfield into the flat over the grocery store of Frank Cashin, on North avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lane and daughter, Miss Ella, of Somerville, who have been in the borough since Tuesday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. George I. Apgar, Jr., of Lincoln avenue, returned home yesterday.

Mrs. Edward Kelly, of Raritan, was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers, of Prospect avenue, yesterday.

Contractor John McMahon is repainting his home on Railroad avenue.

Mrs. Charles Fedderman and daughters, of Brooklyn, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Fedderman, of Washington avenue.

Mrs. J. H. Thompson and sons, Philip and Stewart, of Prospect avenue, left by automobile on Wednesday morning, for Buffalo. They expect to reach there tonight.

A. H. Burdick, of Center street, is spending three weeks at his old home in Alfred, N. Y., with his sister, Miss Agnes Burdick.

The regular monthly meeting of the Dunellen Board of Trade was held last evening at the home of Secretary George W. Day.

TAX RATE $2.52.

According to the figures at hand, Assessor J. H. L. Peters says that the tax rate for this year will be between $2.52 and $2.55, as against $2.25 last year. While the valuation of borough property has increased $108,000 over last year, it has not kept pace with the increase of appropriations. It is known that both the State school and county taxes will be higher and the estimate of these two items is about seven points. The budget for borough purposes will be increased $1,200 and the special school $3,200.

The house recently erected by John P. Fenner, on Washington avenue, has been sold by Mr. Fenner to Arthur Duke, of Penfield place, who will move in next week.

NEW FACTORY.

It has been reported that the upper floor of the new Michael A. Gallagher building at the corner of Washington and North avenues, has been leased to VanBlaricorn & Co., manufacturers of muslin curtains and novelties, with present quarters at 314 Fourth avenue, New York city. According to the report they will be installed within the next three weeks and be in operation by September 15. They will employ between 60 and 80 helpers, it is said.

Miss Nora Bird, of Washington avenue, is visiting friends at Blairstown.

The Misses Anna and Frances Costello have returned from a visit at New Rochelle, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurman E. Ayers, of Center street, are spending two weeks with relatives at Holmdel.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Wynkoop are planning a vacation trip to the Thousand Islands.

Miss Bessie Morris, of Dunellen avenue, is spending the week in Bernardsville as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Meseroll, formerly of this place.

A. L. Barton, of Front street, returned last evening from a business trip to Rochester.

Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Miles, of Center street, are entertaining Mrs. Miles' brother, William H. Brokaw, of Philadelphia.

John Quinn and family, who reside in the Henry Dunham house on Prospect avenue, have decided to move back to Roselle, so as to be nearer the city. They have lived here nearly four years.

James Margentino, of North avenue, returned last evening from Keansburg, where he had been awarded the contract of erecting a house for Clarence T. Voorhees, on Lincoln avenue. Ground will be broken next week.

Next Tuesday will a gala day for the Democrats of Middlesex county, when the annual rally will be held at Feltman's, Coney Island. An old-fashioned shore dinner will be one of the features.

Mrs. Ziba P. Osmun is spending the week with friends in Quakertown.

The regular weekly meeting of the P. O. S. of A. was held in the W. G. Holton Hall, last evening, when the report of George I. Apgar, Jr., as a delegate to the State convention at Wildwood, on Tuesday and Wednesday, of this week, was listened to.

Miss Bertha Nelson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Nelson, is spending the week at Lake George.

Mrs. Margaret Spence and daughter, Miss Anna, who have been spending a month with Mr. and Mrs. Robert LeRoy Pierce, returned to their home in the city yesterday.

Rev. W. T. Dorward, of Milwaukee, Wis., will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist church, on Sunday. Mr. Dorward will be remembered as pastor for many years of the Stelton Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dayton, of Main street, are entertaining Miss Alice M. Abbott, of Peekskill.

Borough Clerk William P. Deering, who has been ill since Thursday, is reported as improving.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE BUSY.

Michael A. Gallagher has turned the case of the alleged excise violations of Andrew Hazlin over to the Anti-Saloon League, who are now taking full charge. It is said that a petition will be presented before Judge Peter F. Daly within the next few days praying for the revocation of Hazlin's liquor license. One of the number of reasons why Hazlin's license should be revoked, as alleged by Mr. Gallagher before Judge Daly, was that Hazlin was not a proper person to even drive a liquor wagon. In support of this allegation, a number of residents on New Market road, who witnessed an incident Wednesday afternoon, when a box of empty beer bottles fell out of the back of Hazlin's wagon on the macadam and the broken ones left there, will be subpoeaned.

PURCHASE CHICKEN FARM.

Morris J. Mendelsohn, the buff-orpington fancier and breeder, of Maplewood, has purchased a farm on Brunswick avenue, Piscataway, into which he moved recently. It is his intention to continue breeding exhibition birds, only on a much larger scale because of greater facilities.

Paul Anger, of Greenbrook road, is entertaining a cousin from New Haven, Conn.

Leslie Latham, of Grove street, left this morning for Squaw Pan Lake, Maine, where he will enjoy a three weeks' vacation.

Mrs. J. Newton Apgar and daughters, Ruth and Deveral, returned last evening from a ten days' visit at Atlantic City.

Thirty of the summer boarders at the "Ellsworth," on Grove street, will be motored over the mountains, tomorrow, in one of the trucks of the Smith Automobile Express, on a sightseeing trip through the farming country.

Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Arnold, of Dunellen avenue, are entertaining Mrs. Arnold's sister-in-law, Mrs. William A. Arrants, of Newark, for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ratti, of First street, are entertaining their niece, Miss Lena Ratti, of Cranford.

ANNUAL CLAMBAKE.

The annual clambake of the Ransome Concrete Company will be held tomorrow at the Hotel Pines between New Brunswick and Metuchen. The trucks of the Smith Auto Express will be the means of conveyance.

The condition of William Stites, of Jefferson avenue, who has been ill since July 4, remains about the same.

The employes of the Harrington Leather Works will hold another outing at South Beach, on Sunday.

The Middlesex County Agricultural Board will meet at Smith's farm, South River, tomorrow. Everybody is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hetfield and Mrs. George H. Richter went with a number of Plainfield people in one of the trucks of the Smith Automobile Express, to South Branch, on Wednesday night, where they attended the harvest home of the Reformed church of that place.

Miss Ethel Snyder, of Penfield place, is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from her duties in the office of the local water company.

ON SAD MISSION.

Clarence M. Haight, of New Market road, left yesterday morning on a sad errand to California. William Todd, a brother of Mr. Haight's New York city business partner, Charles Todd, met an untimely death on Wednesday, at Los Angeles, where he was spending the summer. Just how he met his death the telegram that was received did not state. Mr. Haight's partner did not feel safe in leaving his mother, who is prostrated by the blow, and so Mr. Haight goes in his stead to accompany the body home.

John Cashin, who moved into the flat at 446 North avenue, yesterday, has accepted a position in the grocery store of his brother, Frank Cashin.

Rev. J. Madison Hare will conduct the mid-week prayer meeting at the Methodist church this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meeker and daughter, Edith, of Martine avenue, are spending their vacation at Asbury Park.

Although the work on the erection of School No. 3 has not begun there have been no less than three applicants for the position as janitor.

The Fanwood Township Board of Education has received some criticisms for the way in which the matter of relieving the congested condition in the schools is being handled. Schools are really needed in the borough and Graceland and an addition is needed at School No. 1. John Z. Hatfield, chairman of the building committee, says that the Board is aware of this fact, but that they are greatly hindered by the condition of the money market and for that reason are putting the one school that it is absolutely necessary to have at the most needed point, at Graceland. That will take about fifty pupils from School No. 1, and with the assembly room turned into class rooms the addition will not have to be built for another year.

Miss Marion Hunter, of the township, is spending a few weeks at Atlantic City.

The monthly meeting of the Twilight Council, No. 7, was held in the lodge rooms at Scotch Plains last night. The degree team of the Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Plainfield, initiated several new members into the lodge.

Mrs. John Alberts and Miss Bertha O'Keefe, of Scotch Plains, are visiting Mrs. Raymond Ross, of Astoria, L. I.

Charles Sheelen, of the borough, is entertaining relatives from Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McAnneny and sons, Wilbur and George, have returned to their home in the borough after visiting Robert E. Bralberry, of East Pleasantville, N. Y. The Misses Mariette and Katherine McAnneny have returned from visiting their uncle, George McAnneny, at his summer home at Lake George, N. Y.

The date set for the election by the Fanwood Township Board of Education when they will ask for $16,500 to cover the cost of erecting a new school will be on the evening of Tuesday, September 2, at the Scotch Plains School. The polls will remain open for one hour, beginning at 8 o'clock and as long after as necessary to allow all those present to vote. The cost of partitioning the assembly room of School No. 1, will come out of the general fund.

There are a number of Scotch Plains poll tax delinquents and unless they settle with the township collector in a short time they will hear from the marshal.

Since the resignation of John Logan as truant officer for the local schools, Principal S. Dana Townsend has found it rather difficult to secure a suitable man. Mr. Logan had no stated salary but received so much for each bill sent after. The only man now available wishes a stated salary and as some weeks there is no calls the Board of Education think they have other use for money than paying a man when he does nothing.

Miss Christene Bettman, of the borough, is spending a few weeks at Point Pleasant, N. J.

Miss Townsend, of North avenue, is spending several weeks in Massachusetts.

Ten children of the class that graduated from School No. 1, that being the number who are going to continue their studies higher out of a class of fifteen, will be affected by the decision of the Board of Education to send pupils hereafter to Westfield instead of Plainfield, although several of these have announced their intention of paying the difference in the tuition. Nineteen local pupils will return to Plainfield High School this fall and in three years the last will have graduated.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wahl and family, of Scotch Plains, are visiting at Lake Hopatcong.

Floyd Jones, of Paterson road, has purchased a touring car.

Miss Nellie Linden, of Westfield road, is entertaining her cousin, Miss Josephine Wahl, of Westfield.

Mrs. Benjamin J. Moffet, of Westfield avenue, is entertaining Mrs. James Reid and daughter, from New Jersey.

Somerville

Clarence Duryee and family, of Davenport street, have gone to Atlantic City for a few days.

Mrs. Newton Bray and children, of Hampton Junction, are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. William Miller.

MRS. FEICKERT TO SPEAK.

A National Rally for Woman Suffrage is to be held at the Garden Pier, Atlantic City, on the evening of Sunday, August 23. Among the speakers will be, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, President of the National Suffrage Association, Senator Borah, of Idaho, Mrs. Antoinette Funk, vice-chairman of the National Congressional Committee and Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association. The special object of this meeting will be to raise funds for seven western campaign States, where the question of Woman Suffrage is to be decided this Fall. Mayor Riddle has donated the use of the Garden Pier and will preside at the meeting.

ESCORT HIT GIRL.

Charged with striking Freda Connett, colored, on West Third street, last night, Edward Brown was arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, and after admitting his guilt was given a suspended sentence of $10 or 40 days in the county jail. He was escorting her from a dance in Wayside Park when he became angered at a remark she made.

SOMERSET COUNCILLORS MEET AT NORTH RBANCH

The August meeting of the Somerset County Past Councilors' Association, Jr. O. U. A. M., was held at Branchburg Council, No. 121, at North Branch, Wednesday night, with the following county officers present: County Councilor Isaac N. Wyckoff, of No. 72, County Vice-Councilor C. A. Cole, of No. 263; County Jr. Past Councilor William B. LaRue, of No. 58; County Conductor Herbert VanPelt, of No. 263; County Warden Fred Conklin, of No. 150; County Inside Sentinel Harry G. Auten, of No. 72; County Outside Sentinel Steward Parker, of No. 150, County Chaplain B. V. D. Wyckoff, of No. 263, and County Treasurer P. Finley Wyckoff.

State Council Treasurer J. Morgan Reed was present and gave an address on Fraternalism, and Past State Councilor Frank Sharp, of Irvington, gave an address.

Three members of the Middlesex county association were present, also State Vice-Councilor R. F. von Minden and Deputy Frank O. Nelson.

The association will meet with Fairview Council, No. 248, at Mt. Bethel, on September 9. This will be the anniversary meeting.

grounds at the gates of Brussels, where they held parley with the burgomaster. German officers in an automobile went to the City Hall soon after their arrival and detachments of troops have been scattered throughout the city. The telegraph office and railway station have been closed, and while it is the general opinion that the Germans will only pass through the city, or at the most make a very short stay there, many of the inhabitants are leaving for Ghent and Ostend.

Peasants who abandoned the surrounding villages are pouring into the city.

Havana, Aug. 21.—The story of their capture by the German cruiser Dresden while 700 miles off Cienfuegos is told by members of the crew of the British steamer Hostilius, which has reached this port.

The officers of the Dresden tried to force the captain of the British vessel to sign a document swearing that he would not fight against Germany in the present war. The steamer's captain refused to sign the paper, even at the loss of his vessel, and the ship was finally released.

The crew of the Hostilius say the Lynton Grange, another British ship, was similarly captured, and her captain signed the German document.

Shanghai, Aug. 21 (Central News Cable).—All Japanese women and children have left the German stronghold of Tsingtau, it is reported here. The Japanese government has made all arrangements to attack Tsingtau immediately its ultimatum to Germany expires and it is expected that the bombardment of the city by Japanese battleships will begin at noon on Sunday next.

Washington, Aug. 21—The United States has received no assurance from Great Britain nor any government that the zone of warfare between Japan and Germany, should hostilities between these two nations be declared, is to be limited or defined. President Wilson, himself, stated it had not been the subject of communication between the United States and other governments. The United States is keeping a weather eye on German Samoa.

Emphatic denial of the published reports that the State department had failed to send the names and descriptions of Americans abroad for whom money has been deposited here was made by the State department. A twenty thousand word cable was despatched Sunday night.

In reply to inquiries from foreign governments, the State department is sending cables that the San Francisco-Panama Pacific Exposition will not be postponed and that the original schedule will be followed.

After conferences between J. P. Morgan and William Porter, and Secretary McAdoo and the Federal Reserve Board members, yesterday, Mr. Morgan returned to New York last night. The matters discussed embraced phases of commercial and financial relief, and it is said that the plan of having the United States Government underwrite war risks of foreign cargoes was regarded as practicable. Neither Mr. Morgan nor treasury officials would say definitely what conclusion was reached by the conferees.

Ottawa, Aug. 21—The House of Commons has voted for a $50,000,000 war appropriation to finance the military organization which Canada has offered England. There was no opposition. The duty on the following articles was increased: Sugar, green coffee, spirits, malt liquor, cigars and cigarettes and malt. The special taxes are expected to yield $1,000,000 a month revenue. The finance minister said that Canada would have to meet obligations amounting to $36,000,000 by borrowing.

New York, Aug. 21—Three thousand Germans and Austrians met here last night and raised a fund for the relief of the war sufferers in their native countries. During the meeting they passed resolutions asking the American press for "fair play." Henry Weismann, a well-known orator, said in a speech that a new "Triple Alliance of Germany, Austria and Ireland" would wrench from Great Britain the title of "mistress of the seas."

WAR NEWS IN BRIEF.

Russia.

Gumbinner, East Prussia, a town about twenty miles from the frontier, has been captured by the Russians. They have also encountered the Austrians at several places along the Galician frontier. The Austrian Fifth infantry division was defeated at Krasnik, South Poland, losing many men killed and wounded and 250 taken prisoners. Austrian cavalry, supported by infantry, in moving from Pimpchoff toward Kielce engaged a body of Russian cavalry in the village of Piaski. The Austrians met a strong resistance and were unable to penerate any further into the country. Russian dispatches also report a victory over the Germans on German soil. It is stated that the two forces met near Stalluponen, west of Eydtkuhnen, and in the fight that followed the Germans lost heavily, were driven back and obliged to abandon eight cannon, which fell into Russian hands.

Belgium.

The Germans continue to cross the Meuse between Liege and Namur in large numbers and they are pressing forward along almost the whole line in Belgium. They have occupied Tirlemont, Deist and, according to one report, Malines. It is admitted that the Germans have gained ground on both banks of the Meuse and that they are in contact with the allied armies. The advance guard of the German army that is operating through Luxemburg has reached Neuf Chateau, in Belgian Luxemburg, and part of this force, it is believed, is engaging the army of the allies at Dinant. The Belgian forces have retired toward Antwerp, but an unofficial communication from Brussels says that this retirement does not indicate defeat. The Belgians have abandoned many of their homes rather than have them subjected to German bombardment. German troops have been seen in the vicinity of Antwerp, and it is believed that the purpose of this move is to cut off Antwerp, which is now the temporary capital, from communication with the allied armies and the remainder of Belgium. It is also reported, but not officially confirmed, that a battle was fought near Charleroi, in which the Germans were supposed to have suffered a loss of 6,000 killed. It is reported that Brussels has fallen, but this has not yet been officially confirmed.

France.

The French army, according to the war office, has reoccupied Muelhausen after a fight which has been in progress since Monday. After the fighting had been in progress for two days along the line west of the city the French were massed against the western suburbs. The troops charged and carried by assault at the point of the bayonet the German intrenched position. So precipitate was the German retreat that they left behind them six cannons and six ammunition wagons fully loaded. The French have also occupied Guedwiller, fourteen miles southwest of Kolmar. The French army in Lorraine, according to official statement, is now well across the Seille river and the advance guard is in force at Morhange, nineteen miles southeast of Metz. It is admitted officially, however, that the French advance in Upper Lorraine is being strongly contested and that there has been some hard fighting. The Germans, driven back, assumed the offensive at several points.

London, Aug. 21.—Telegraphic communication with Brussels is cut off. The last dispatches to come through indicated that the Germans have occupied the city.

In an announcement based on the last official news from the Belgian city the British war office said:

"The Belgian field army, confronted by superior numbers, has fallen back."

Consistent with the policy of silence regarding military movements, knowledge of which might be of service to the enemy, the statement does not say in what direction the Belgians have retreated, but it is believed here that they have withdrawn toward Antwerp, to which a part of their army already has retired.

Newspaper dispatches received just before communication was suspended said that the burgomaster of Brussels had ordered the civic guard to disarm, and other dispatches tell of the arrival of wounded in the capital.

Official communications point out that the retirement of the Belgians does not mean defeat. The war office adds:

"The Belgians have admirably performed their duty in delaying the hostile advance and enabling the allies to complete their concentration."

If the Belgians are moving to Antwerp, one of the strongest fortified cities of Europe and fitted to accommodate the entire Belgian army, the German invaders may find it necessary to leave a goodly army before the city to prevent an attack upon their own flank as they proceed to their real purpose of invading France.

The suggestion is also made that the Belgian main army instead of falling back on Antwerp may be moving to the south of Brussels to join the armies of the allies in their first stand against the Germans.

The Germans are pushing their way across Belgium with vigor on both banks of the Meuse toward the line upon which the allies are expected to make their stand.

Belgians Fall Back.

The Star has a dispatch from Brussels, which says that the German occupation of that city is imminent and that the burgomaster has ordered the civic guard to disarm.

An announcement was made by the official news bureau yesterday that communication with Brussels had been difficult since early in the morning.

Reuter's has the following dispatch from Ghent:

"Yesterday's fighting at Aerschot was extremely hot. The appearance of two German aviators was the first intimation that the Germans, who had been repulsed on the previous evening, intended to renew the attack.

"Flying low, the German aviators surveyed the position and then returned to report. Soon afterward the German infantry, supported by machine guns and artillery, opened a fierce attack.

"The Belgians were outnumbered, but put up a desperate resistance. The troops on both sides fought like demons and the battle soon became a butchery.

"Two Belgian regiments which already had distinguished themselves in the forts of Liege held the invaders in check for two hours. Both sides were losing heavily when the retreat was sounded.

"Major Gilson, whose nose had been broken by a bullet, took charge of the Belgian rear guard, which fought so stubbornly that only seven out of his force of 288 men returned.

"When Major Gilson reached Ghent a friend suggested telegraphing to his father. At first he refused, remarking that his father would learn about his wound from the newspapers. Finally he consented, saying: 'I am at Ghent. No need to worry. Will shortly rejoin my regiment.'"

French Retake Muelhausen.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The French war office announced that Muelhausen has been retaken by the French troops.

The retaking of the Alsatian city was accomplished only after a severe battle. Again the French made good use of their bayonets, capturing one of the suburbs with a gallant bayonet charge. Six guns and the same number of ammunition wagons were taken by the French in the fighting.

Muelhausen was occupied by the French without resistance early in the campaign in Alsace, and the French column moved on to Kolmar. The invaders later were forced to evacuate Muelhausen, which is an unfortified town.

The official communique says that the situation in the Vosges mountains remains unchanged. Announcement is made that the French have occupied Gebweiler, fourteen miles southwest of Kolmar and about the same distance northwest of Muelhausen. In Lorraine, the announcement says, the French line now extends from a point north of Saarburg, passing Morhange to Delme.

The situation in Luxemburg is said to be unchanged.

CHINA ASKS THE ATTITUDE OF U. S.

Inquiry Sent on the Cession of Kiaochow.

Peking, Aug. 21.—The Chinese government sent an inquiry to the United States government through the American charge d'affaires here asking what attitude it would take toward a proposal for the cession of Kiaochow by Germany to the United States, to be ceded back to China immediately by the latter.

It is the understanding here that the action of the Chinese government was based on an intimation from Berlin that such use of the United States as an intermediary in the transaction night solve the present problem.

Whether the proposal will meet with the approval either of Japan or of Great Britain the Chinese government is not certain and the opinion is expressed in unofficial circles that they will disapprove.

In its communication to the Washington government China has given assurance that she will maintain an absolutely passive attitude no matter what action Japan may take to enforce the terms of her ultimatum that Germany surrender Kiaochow and withdraw from the far east.

PARIS MODIFIES MORATORIUM

Depositors Can Withdraw 10 Per Cent. War Risk Guarantee.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The moratorium has been modified so that depositors in French banks can withdraw 10 per cent of their deposits. The bank of France announced that it is prepared to discount commercial paper.

The French government is prepared to follow the example of England and guarantee maritime transports against war risks to the extent of 80 per cent.

AUSTRIAN FORTS WRECKED.

French Fleet and Montenegrin Forts Silence Cattaro's Guns.

Rome, Aug. 21.—A dispatch from San Giovanni to the Corriere d'Italia states that the French fleet, in conjunction with the Montenegrin forts, kept up a continuous bombardment of Cattaro, on the Dalmatian coast, Austria, with the result that one fort was completely destroyed and the others rendered useless.

ANOTHER BAR TO WAR NEWS.

Kaiser Orders Correspondents Shot, Captured Germans Report.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The Brussels correspondent of the Journal telegraphs that wounded officers of the German army who have been captured say the kaiser ordered that all war correspondents who fall into the hands of the Germans be shot without trial.

FATHER WERNZ, HEAD OF JESUITS, IS DEAD

Rome, Aug. 21.—The Rev. Francis Xavier Wernz, general of the Jesuit order and widely known as an authority on canon law, died here.

The Rev. Francis Xavier Wernz was elected general of the Society of Jesus, a post popularly designated as that of "Black Pope," in September, 1906. At the time of his election to this position he was rector of the Georgetown university at Rome.

Father Wernz was born in Rottweil, Wurtemberg, Germany, on Dec. 4, 1842. He entered the Jesuit order in 1857, when fifteen years old.

HAVE STRONG EVIDENCE AGAINST FOOD BARONS

Washington, Aug. 21.—Federal indictments are to be drawn against a number of corporations, manufacturers and dealers who have conspired to advance the cost of food. Attorney General McReynolds conveyed this information to the White House today. He also told the President that the Department of Justice had collected evidence of conspiracy which, in his opinion, was sufficient to inflict on the food barons the most severe penalties of the law.

At neither the White House nor the Department of Justice would any intimation be given as to the lines the prosecution would follow or the men to be prosecuted. The evidence, however, is to be placed before Federa Grand Juries in the districts in which the leading culprits conduct business and a number of indictments, the Attorney General expects, will be returned within the next few days.

It is known that the department's agents have been making a special and comprehensive inquiry into the causes for the sky-rocket rise in the prices of sugar, flour and other fundamental commodities. Advances in the price of certain cotton goods also have attracted the attention of the investigators.

Whether the indictments to be drawn contemplate prosecution under civil or criminal laws is not divulged. The expressed wish of the President and the Attorney General to impose penitentiary sentences on those guilty of preying on the people through artificial advances in the cost of the necessaries of life is accepted, however, as a certain indication that the government will not be satisfied with the imposition of fines, or similar punishment, in case of conviction.

ARRANGE FOR OBSERVANCE OF DEATH OF THE POPE

New York, Aug. 21—Arrangements for the proper observance of the death of the Pope have been started. Father William G. Hughes, president of the Cathedral College, has directed the Papal flag and the Stars and Stripes be hoisted over the college buildings. A great catafalque, fourteen feet in height, will be placed in the main aisle of the cathedral and decorted in black and purple, with the Papal coat of Arms.

Eighty bells, each representing one year of the Pontiff's life, will be tolled from the cathedral spires at 4 o'clock in the afternoon for the next ten days. The following has been sent to the churches:

"The news of his death has come, almost as suddenly as the fratricidal world-wide strife among the peoples, all of whom he regarded with the feelings of a father's heart. It broke that heart which ceased to beat with the accents of a last prayer upon his dying lips for the return of the Prince of Peace among the warring nations."

The Papal flag and an American flag will be hung between the twin steeples of St. Patrick's cathedral here.

AN ORDINANCE

For the Permanent Improvement of a Portion of West Third Street in the City of Plainfield with Permanent and Durable Concrete Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits.

The inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That West Third Street, from the northwesterly side line of Liberty Street to the southwesterly side line of Plainfield Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, shall be permanently improved with durable cement concrete pavement with Bituminous coating and with the necessary drains and abutments or curbs. Said concrete pavement to be of the depth and width hereinafter specified, and all work to be given out upon contract to the lowest responsible bidder, and only after bids therefor shall have been solicited and received according to law.

Sec. 2. That said portion of West Third Street described in Section 1 shall be paved for the entire width between the curb lines of said streets and to the side lines of said street at the two intersecting streets, with Portland cement concrete six inches deep, with a bituminous coating. The underdrains shall be of three inch drain tile surrounded by broken stone, and the abutments or curbs shall be of Portland cement concrete, six inches thick at the top, twelve inches thick at the base, and twenty inches deep. The pavement shall be laid down to the grade already established by ordinance for said portion of said street.

Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money for the said permanent improvement of said portion of said street as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the City does hereby authorize and direct, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the issuing in the corporate name of the City, seven bonds of the denomination of $1,000 each, amounting in all to $7,000, and which said bonds shall bear date on the first day of July, 1914, and be payable in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness, within ten years from the date thereof, to wit: on the thirtieth day of June A. D. 1924, but shall be redeemable at the option of the maker at any time after the expiration of one year from the date thereof at par and interest accrued to the date of exercise of such option, and shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, upon surrender of the coupons annexed to said bonds as they severally become due.

Said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and City Clerk and shall have the corporate seal of the City thereto affixed.

Coupons for the semi-annual interest may be annexed to said bonds, which coupons may bear the true or the facsimile signatures of the Mayor and City Clerk.

Said bonds shall be convertible into registered bonds at the option of the holder. Said bonds may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than the par value; and there shall be raised by tax in each year hereafter such sum of money as may be necessary to pay the interest on all such outstanding bonds and the principal of such thereof as may mature during that year; the money derived from the assessments upon property specially benefited shall, when collected, be held as a fund towards the payment of said bonds and interest, and shall be used for that purpose.

Adopted by the Common Council, August 20, 1914.

Approved by the Mayor, August 20, 1914.

The first of the local peach growers' crop in this vicinity is being brought in. The yield this year is very heavy and the early fruit looks good, but the flavor is lacking on account of the unusual amount of cloudy weather during the growing season. The average price is sixty-five cents per basket. The growers look for better prices for the later varieties.

The Republicon town executive committee met, Wednesday night, at the office of Codding & Oliver and laid out the work of the coming campaign. There is but little local interest in the campaign, as there are but five officials to be elected this fall, a mayor and four councilmen. Mayor Harry Evans, Republican, will be a candidate to succeed himself.

THE WAR REPORTS.

A German-born reader of the Press writes that "it is hard to digest the mass of lies and open discriminations against a friendly country. If you would follow the news of the world you would and could clearly see the injustice and the absurdity of your news."

The correspondent takes an entirely wrong view of the present situation in this country. Like all other newspapers, The Daily Press has to rely absolutely upon dispatches which come from countries which are now at war with Germany. Not a single message, official or unofficial, has come from that nation since the war started, and if reports are true the Germans have been cut off from receiving any news of the outside world. It was said in a news dispatch from the Hague the other day that up to Thursday of last week the residents of Berlin did not even know of Mrs. Wilson's death.

Up to the present time all dispatches that have come to the American newspapers have been censored. The Daily Press is represented in the foreign difficulties by the Central News of America, one of the newer news gathering agencies in this country, but allied with the Central News of England, which is the strongest and oldest agency of the kind in that country. Practically every dispatch we have printed up to the present time has been verified by later developments. We published but one story of the conditions after the German army retreated over parts of Belgium, and that dispatch, which described wanton acts on the part of the Germans was written by Alfred J. Rorke. Mr. Rorke is a New York newspaper man, who represented the Central News at Vera Cruz, and was rushed from that place to the scene of strife in Belgium. We have every reason to believe that what he wrote, and was passed by censors, is accurate.

It is true that scores of lies are being printed about the situation abroad, but they are only being printed by those metropolitan papers which issue extras every few minutes and must have something new and sensational for every extra. The temperate home newspapers are handling everything about the war carefully, and striving to sort the rumors from the facts. It is a difficult job, and in order to show that they are not biased, nearly every paper is warning its readers that sensational stories should be taken with a grain of salt, and they are printed for what they are worth. We fail to see, however, if view of the fact that no news whatsoever comes from Germany, just where the American papers can find "news of the world" which will make it possible for the publishers to see the "injustice and absurdity" of what they print. The people want the war news and if they cannot get any other kind they will have to be content with that which comes from English, Belgian, French and Servian sources.

WHY NOT TRY IT?

There isn't a man or woman who hasn't been told by a spellbinder and his or her favorite paper that the interests of the capitalist and the wage worker are identical. That what is good for the employer is good for the workingman. That when business is good work is plenty, and wages satisfactory. That when business is good times are good, and as good business and good times benefit the employers they also benefit the wage worker.

Why not try some of this? If what is good for the capitalist is good for the workingman, what is good for the workingman should likewise be good for the capitalist. What is good for the wage worker should also be good for business. Why not try to have the government do some of the things for the workingman that it has done and is doing and will do again when the occasion requires for the capitalist?

The government protects their industries, helps along their commercial enterprices, their railroads, gives them vast domains of public lands, shapes and reshapes its financial policies to suit them, and anything else they ask.

Now they have gone further. To restore that badly needed American merchant marine, these enterprising men are asking the government to fix a government insurance on American ships and cargoes that American commerce may find its way over the seas. All the big interests have appealed to the government to take this action. It is said to be too big a job for private enterprise. Only a great government is big enough to do it.

Let's have the government insurance of ships and cargoes. Then, also, let us have old age pensions, guarantees against disability and some of the long list of things the workingmen have been begging for so long.

If what is good for business is good for the workingman, what's good for the workingman ought to be good for business. Why can't we try and find out?

Not the least beneficial results to this country of the European war will be the opportunity for American manufacturers of women's wear to throw off the shackles of custom that have bound them to Paris for so many years and to make the creations of their own minds take the place of copies of the ideas of designers overseas. Whether the persons concerned will be able to stand alone is problematical. The designers and the manufacturers think they can, and that they can break Parisian domination once and for all if the war is of any duration. But some of the big retailers scoff at this suggestion and say that the coming fall season will see the greatest collection of "styles" it has been the good fortune of American women to look upon. They agree that the American designers are adept at toning down French and other European creations to fit American tastes, but they maintain that when the problem of originality faces these designers they will go all to pieces. The result at best, these retailers say, can be nothing more than a curious mixture of what has been considered good style for several seasons. The achievements will be interesting.

"Cosmopolitan" is the topic which has been chosen by Charles S. Sminck for the contributed editorial in tomorrow's Daily Press. He draws some interesting conclusions as to what may be the result of the struggle abroad.

FEAR ENTERTAINED FOR SAFETY OF SICK WOMAN

Charles C. Gambell, of Jerseyland Park, near Westfield, reported to the local police, last night, that his wife had disappeared from home under mysterious conditions and up to midnight her whereabouts were a mystery. Inasmuch as the woman has been in bad health for the past four years her husband fears for her safety. She was despondent.

When she left home at noon yesterday, the woman said she was going to Plainfield and was expected home by supper time. When she did not return her husband became alarmed and instituted a search. She is described as being a woman of about forty years of age and very slender.

GETTING RID OF COUNTY'S PESTS

Good Work Being Done By the Union Mosquito Commission This Summer.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

Local Inspectors Have Accomplished Remarkable Results With Limited Means—Chief Inspector Gies Gives Out Some Advice.

Marked strides in the mosquito extermination campaign have been made by those in charge of the wodk in this county during the present summer and the results have been noticeable. While the crusade against the pest has been actively waged there are few persons who are acquainted with the methods employed by the Union county employes doing the work. Despite many rains during the past two months marked relief has been secured against the ravages of the mosquito. The weather conditions have created stagnant pools and swamps and the Commission has had its troubles in keeping the breeding down to a minimum.

In neighboring counties, such as Somerset and Middlesex, where nothing is done in mosquito extermination, the pests have been almost intolerable this summer and the residents in those places have been "eaten alive" at times. The few mosquitoes felt in this locality come either from the border swamps or from the salt marshes which breed the Sollicitans or Cantator species, which has been known to travel long distances.

Middlesex county has a Commission, but practically no funds with which to carry on the work. The able leadership of Chief Inspector Russel W. Gies, of Union, has done much for the work in this county and an active crusade has been in progress since June. He is an authority on mosquito extermination. The yard inspectors in this district are Frank Putnam and Herbert Stine, and Harold W. Schenck has charge of the swamp inspections and contract work.

A feature of the county work this year has been the establishment of night patrols when specimens are collected. Severay stations have been selected in various portions of the city and one inspector will remain at each of the stations on a given night for twenty minutes. During this time he captures specimens and they are bottled and sent to the State Experimental Station at Trenton. Here they are identified and the Commission is thus enabled to determine just what sort of breeding places these kinds frequent and the remedy for extermination.

Included in the work already completed has been the draining of about twenty-five natural breeding places, and extensive extermination of the following properties: Bayles property, between West End and Compton avenues, along Green brook; swamp near Rushmore avenue and Second street; drainage ditch between Leland avenue and Terrill road; wood swamps south of Denmark road and Ravine road, and eight holes on the Westfield golf links have been filled in. One hundred catch basins have been oiled and the city dump and low streets have been drained. This summer 25,000 house inspections have been included in the work, visiting each locality every two weeks.

Before the summer is over it is proposed to clean up along Green brook and in the swamps between Compton and Jefferson avenues; to clean the wood swamps east of Leland avenue and the swamp south of Randolph road and Arlington avenue. Gratifying co-operation has been experienced by the Commission for the most part this year, but the work is still being hindered preceptibly by indifference on the part of some property-owners in hurrying the abatement of obvious nuisances. Property-owners have been warned to get rid of standing water in pans, tin cans, broken dishes and all other receptables.

In an interview, Chief Inspector Gies said to a Press reporter in part:

"I am well satisfied with the progress that is being made. Employes of the Commission are showing more initiative in the campaign that is being waged in each of the six districts of the county. This is due, no doubt, to the fact that most of the men have had the benefit of two or three years of training and are now thoroughly versed in all the intricacies of extermination methods. Of course, patience and perseverance are primary factors in the problem. It is not work of the mushroom variety, completing its course in the night, but demands first of all education of every tenant throughout the county in order that artificial breeding places may not give trouble. Then follows the abatement of such natural breeding places as it is posible to reach with the limited appropriation and the rather tardy assistance of land holders themselves. Anyone who understands the tedious nature of the work well realizes that only persistent and untiring endeavor brings satisfactory results."

DR. STRONG WILL REMAIN ON THE BRITISH ISLES

Friends of Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church in this city, have received word from him to the effect that he has decided to stay on the British Isles and complete his plans made before the European trouble broke out.

Dr. Strong was expected to sail for America last week, but has evidently changed his mind. He will not go in the continent, however, but will devote his time to sight-seeing on the islands.

NO ONE OPPOSES MOY FOR CONGRESSIONAL NOMINATION

Evidence of unity and harmony was apparent at the Progressive conference held in Elizabeth, Wednesday night. Some important developments cropped out during the evening, one of which was the withdrawal of O. F. G. Megie, of Morris county, from the Congressional race, in order to support former Mayor G. W. V. Moy, of this city. W. Lincoln Phillips, of Roselle Park, also announced his withdrawal from the Assembly race in favor of former Mayor James B. Furber, of Rahway.

Mayor Harwood Fish, of Roselle Park, will make the race for county registrar, and William R. Richart, of Elizabeth, will run for sheriff. Frederick S. Taggert, of Westfield, has refused to run for sheriff. Edward A. Leach, of Elizabeth, and C. Stacey Bender, of Westfield, have been mentioned as possible candidates, but neither of these men have as yet made a decision.

The Assembly candidates are William D. Jones, of Elizabeth, and ex-Mayor Furber, of Rahway. It is probable that the third Assembly candidate will come from Summit, where the name of Stephen Kent has been suggested. No candidate has been selected for State Senator.

The spirit of harmony was expressed by Mr. Megie in withdrawing from the Congressional race in favor of ex-Mayor Moy, of this city. Mr. Megie said that he had no personal ambition in seeking the office, but that he stood for certain principles which he felt should be upheld, and that if any other candidate from Union county were to be suggested who would uphold those principles he would willingly withdraw. On Mr. Moy's announcement that he would seek the nomination, Mr. Megie declared that he was satisfied that the things for which he stood would be championed by the former Mayor and that he would support him.

F. G. THOMAS SEEKING VOTES IN NORTH PLAINFIELD

Somerset Democrats have a lively fight on for the Senatorial nomination, three men seeking the job. Speaker A. M. Beekman, of the last House of Assembly; Mayor W. V. Steele and Frederick G. Thomas, all of Somerville, are the aspirants. Mr. Thomas is making an active campaign throughout the county, and was in North Plainfield campaigning last night. He is at present president of the Somerville Merchants' Association, a live wire civic body, having been instrumental in organizing it, but will resign at the meeting next Wednesday night so that there can be no charge of his using that office for political purposes. Mr. Thomas has been a speaker at meetings of the local Business Men's Association, and has many friends in Plainfield.

ing facilities at this point. An application was received from Mercellus Victoriano for a permit to move a frame dwelling from a lot on Church street to one at St. Mary's avenue and Hill street.

The name of John F. Zerega was presented by Mayor Stewart to the Council as a successor to Richard A. Claybrook on the Playground Commission, to fill an unexpired term. The appointment was endorsed by the Council. The overseer of the poor's report was received and filed last night.

An amendment to the tax ordinance for the appropriation for street improvements was read and passed on third reading at this meeting, becoming a law. The bid of the Consumers Coal Company for fuel for the city was accepted. The local concern has agreed to furnish stove and nut coal at $6.20 per ton of 2,000 pounds.

POLITICAL NOTES.

August 23—Last day for filing Congressional petitions.

August 25—Last day for filing county petitions.

September 2—Last day for filing petitions for local offices.

September 8—First registry day. Also last day for filing petitions to fill vacancies in all offices except Governor and Congress.

September 22—Primary election day and registration day for general election.

September 29—State convention of each party at Trenton and date on which county committees meet and organize.

October 20—Last registry day for municipalities over 5,000.

November 3—Election Day.

At a meeting of the City Executive Committee of the Republican party in Westfield, the following resolution was adopted regarding one of the Assembly candidates of that party:

Arthur N. Pierson.

Resolved, that the Republican Executive Committee, of the town of Westfield, has learned with pleasure of the candidacy of Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, for member of the General Assembly; that he is heartily endorsed for the Republican nomination and is recommended to the voters of Union county as an upright citizen of progressive ideas, a loyal Republican, and in the judgment of the committee especially well equipped to represent the people of Union county in the Legislature of the State.

Only a few petitions for county candidates are still lacking the necessary number of signers, and within a few days the primary county tickets in the respective parties will be officially known. The full official list for the city will not be determined until later, however, for municipal candidates are given five days longer, or until September 3, to file.

No speaking engagements have been arranged as yet for ex-Congressman Charles N. Fowler and John H. Capstick in their campaigns for the Republican Congressional nomination. Supporters of both say they may not make any addresses at all in the ante-primary election.

Next year will be indeed an "off year." The most important county and city officials, as well as Congressman and State Senator, are to be named this year. In 1915 there will not be a single position voted upon by the electorate of the entire county, excepting for the Assembly. In the city, besides the councilmen, four freeholders will be elected.

It is reported that more Republicans are likely to get into the Assembly race. At the present time there are four aspirants, Arthur E. Warner and Charles N. Morgan, of Elizabeth; Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, and W. Edmund Clum, of Elizabeth.

Time for filing Congressional nominating petitions expires August 23. The time for filing petitions nominating candidates for county offices expires August 28 and the time for filing petitions for county committeemen and municipal offices expires September 2.

LOCAL BOYS RETURN FROM STATE CAMP

Forty-five Plainfielders Have Visited New Jersey Rendezvous This Year.

The final section of local Y. M. C. A. boys, numbering seven, returned home last night from the New Jersey State Camp at Lake Wawayanda after spending an enjoyable two weeks' vacation at the popular boys' rendezvous. The party was the last of the year to visit the camp and the season closed yesterday. The numerous tents on the island were taken down and the equipment packed away for the winter.

Hundreds of boys have spent their summer vacations at the Y. M. C. A. camp during the past season, coming from all sections of New Jersey. During the past eight weeks forty-five members of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. led by an experienced crew of leaders, visited the spot in northern New Jersey and established for themselves some enviable records in the various camp activities.

"WHAT HAPPENED AT 22" IS THRILLING DRAMA

A large audience attended the opening performance of the season at the Plainfield Theatre, last night. When the curtain rose for the first act nearly every seat in the house was occupied, and the audience showed its approval of the play by the applause willingly given the company after every act. "What Happened at 22," a modern American play, by Paul Wilstach, was the production and all of the eleven parts in the play were well done. The dramatic part of the play is strong throughout, but the farcial element came at the right points to relieve the dramatic tension.

Miss Carroll McComas, as Louise Lloyd, scored a big hit and took her part to perfection. She is exceedingly graceful and her dramatic ability as brought out in the final act, where she pleaded for time to prove her lover innocent of murder, was splendid.

The play tells the story of numerous forgeries in New York that have foiled the city officials, and in the latest one, the TenEyck case, they have employed Francis Knowlton, the city's best lawyer. Miss Lloyd is the niece of Hollister, proprietor of an employment agency, and in seeking a companion for his aged sister, the lawyer gets Miss Lloyd. She and his son fall in love, much to the discontent of the forger, Dave Wilson, who is in league with Mr. Hollister and wants his niece for a wife. The lawyer gets a clue through the cunning of Miss Lloyd and in seeking a valet secures Wilson. The lawyer's will in which he left his estate divided between three children, is changed by Wilson.

The lawyer is murdered and the son is accused. The valet, whom Miss Lloyd is sure is guilty, is brought in and cross-examined. The maid and cook are also called in and the latter's actions afforded the audience plenty of comedy. The most effective part of the play is when the son is put under arrest and Miss Lloyd begs for five minutes time to clear him. She not only does this, but traps the valet into an accidental confession. The dramatic effect at this point is startling.

It was the first time the play was shown and it opens at the Harris Theatre, New York, tonight.

The play was staged by Eugene B. Sanger, who coached the Comedy Club of Plainfield in their performance of "Her Lord and Master" in 1913.

FREEHOLDERS RECEIVE CIVIL SERVICE PETITION

Elizabeth, Aug. 21.—The Board of Freeholders at a special meeting, yesterday, received the petition calling for a referendum vote on the question of civil service for county employes. The petition will now be certified to the county clerk and the voters will pass on the matter at the next election. Francis J. Blatz, assistant county attorney, advised the board on its procedure. The Board failed to act on these petitions a year ago. For several weeks past county employes have had them in circulation and signatures were easily procured.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

BORO FIREMEN BEAT COPPERS

They Take the First Game of the Series By the Score of 15 Runs to 11.

HITTING THE FEATURE

Circuit Clouts, Triples and Doubles Were Not An Unusual Occurrence In This Game—Mullin Gets Four Hits Out of Five Trips.

The borough fire department's baseball team proved its superiority over the Plainfield cops, yesterday afternoon, on Parker Field, when it took the long end of a 15 to 11 score. The contest was a swatfest for both teams, but the batters from across the brook hit at the right times and hammered Fritts for safeties when the bases were populated. Before the game the cops could not find all their men and had to swear a few in right on the field in the presence of the large body of spectators that were there to witness the game. Curley Taylor and Coriell are now members of the local force, although they have not yet been given a beat. The former played around the third station while Cory held his own at second and let McGinley take Mullin's throws to second so that he could not make errors. The Pets "Ump" wants so much to play a perfect game. The fire laddies had their own lineup throughout and when Mullin went to pitch in the ninth round there was an awful kick from the borough captain, but he was finally induced to let the cops battery reverse.

Fritts lost his reputation in the first inning when Barrett, the first man at the bat and incidently the captain of the invaders, hit the ball so hard he easily trotted to third base and might have stretched it to a homer, but waited for a passed ball and then scored with the first tally. That was the only one they made in the initial inning and the cops rallied for four. McGinley led off, as usual, and singled. Taylor did the same and Fritts hit one to left which Fritz muffed, McGinley scoring and Curly moving to third. Taylor chalked one on the scoreboard on a passed ball and Mullin singled scoring Fritts. Tommy was caught between first and second for an out and Berger managed to get hit. Mernagh drew a pass and stole second after Berger had made third. The latter scored on a passed ball.

The firemen tied the score in the second with three scores, which resulted from hits, passes, stolen bases and errors. Wilson held the cops scoreless in their half of the second and his team took the lead in the next frame. Hann started off with a circuit clout in deep left which Mernagh could not find. Fritz also scored after hitting a single, making the score 6 to 4. At the end of this round the score was again tie, as the cops scored two in their half. Barrett drew a pass in the fourth and then Captain McCullough scored him with a triple. The "guardians of the peace" were blanked in the next two innings while the Canucks increased their lead to three runs by scoring two in the fifth. The sixth gave the fire fighters one and the coppers two, but in the seventh the former clinched the game with a trio. Two singles and as many errors did the trick while the cops scored twice when Fritts was hit and Mullin tripled. He scored on Berger's single. Two more was credited to the borough team in the eighth which completed their fifteen runs.

In the ninth Mullin and Fritts changed places and Tommy struck out the first two men to face him. He also passed one, but caught him napping off first. The coppers made just one more in the ninth. This is the first of the series and the next issue will be played soon.

BASEBALL NOTES

Moose McCormick has made good as manager at Chattanooga and will pilot the team again next season.

Just one victory in each city visited was the record made by the Chicago Cubs on their recent trip east.

The New York Yankees have been displaying a better brand of ball since their return home from the disastrous Western trip.

If Bill Wambsgauss, Cleveland's new shortstop, will rip up his moniker and use a remnant, all will be forgiven.

By way of a war measure against the Feds Jack Dunn's Orioles will play a doubleheader every other day at the International League park in Baltimore.

Mike Mitchell, the former Red Bird, has found American League pitching to his liking. Since joining the Washington team Mike has hit around the .375 mark.

The Superbas have been soft picking for the Cardinals this year. The series to date stands 13 to 3 in favor of Miller Huggins hired help.

In Outfielder Roth the Kansas City American Association club has a likely looking candidate for the auction block. It is said the Pirates are willing to make a fancy bid for the Tebeau star.

Evidently Sir John McGraw has had his goggles repaired, John couldn't see the Braves a few weeks ago, but now the Beans look as big as watermelons to the leader of the Giants.

Olaf Henrickson, the lad who pinched-hit the blow that won a world's championship for the Red Sox in 1912, has failed as a reliable pinch swatter for the Carrigan outfit this season.

Young Martin, the Georgetown shortstop secured by the Boston Braves, has been sent home by Manager Stallings. Martin suffered a broken leg in the Georgetown-Princeton game last June, and will be unable to play with the Braves this season.

Kansas is well represented in big league pitching circles. The list of "Sunflower" twirlers includes: In the American League, Johnson of Washington, Wood of Boston, Scott of Chicago, Hagerman of Cleveland, Hamilton of St. Louis and Reynolds of Detroit; National League, Zabel and Cheney of Chicago and Aitchinson of Brooklyn. Federal League, Hendrix and Brennan of Chicago, Willett, of St. Louis and Packard and Harris, of Kansas City.

George Chip will engage in a return battle with Billy Murray, before taking on Mike Gibbons.

Matty Baldwin, lightweight champion of New England, has consented to give Eddie Murphy another chance to regain the title.

Can't get away from it. Charley White, the Chicago lightweight, certainly looks like the right person to tackle Freddie Walsh for the championship.

As the war has crabbed the boxing game in Europe, it may be expected that the near future will see a large gathering of the talent on this side of the wet.

DECIDING GAME.

The baseball teams representing the West End Civic Association and the Netherwood Residents' Association will meet in the final game of the series tomorrow afternoon on the Clinton avenue field. Each team has won a contest and there is sure to be some fun tomorrow.

RUSTLERS WILL TRY AGAIN.

The North Plainfield Rustlers will travel to Bound Brook, Sunday afternoon, and play the St. Joseph's team of that place. This will be the second game of the season for the boroughites as they have just organized and lost their first game last week.

HOPE vs. ST. JOSEPH'S.

The Hope Chapel baseball team will go to Bound Brook, tomorrow afternoon, and meet the St. Joseph team of that place. Both teams are playing good ball and probably the home club will have the edge on their opponents. Schott and Luthman will be in the points for the local aggregation, while McFadden and Teeling, the former Dunellen battery, will work for the home team. The Hope players and supporters will leave on the 2:15 trolley from the station.

MARTIN NOW BATTING SEVENTH.

Jack Martin has been shifted from second place to seventh place in the Philadelphia batting order. He has not hit safely for two days, but they were probably off days. In yesterday's game he helped win the contest from the "Cards" with a sacrifice hit in the ninth. His team won by the score of 1 to 0. He figured in one double play and accepted every chance.

N. B. H. S. WILL LOSE SOME GOOD ATHLETES

That Institution Will Have to "Make" New Players For Coming Year.

The New Brunswick High School baseball team will face a hard proposition next spring when it comes time to round out the regular baseball team. Unlike the majority of the high school teams in this vicinity the New Brunswick School will lose the majority of its best players who have either been graduated or have entered the business world and will not continue their education. During the last season that school had one of the best nines in the athletic history of the institution and Jake Deinzer was one of the teams strong points. For a high school twirler Deinzer was an exception and the team will lose his services next year as he is very well satisfied with the present position he holds with the Interwoven Company in that city. Warren Ingling, the other twirler of that team last year, was graduated last June and now a new pitching force will have to be trained.

One of the greatest losses to the athletic surroundings of the school will be Nathan Manley, the all around athlete. Besides being one of the stars on the baseball team Manley was the star on the basketball court and that team will miss his services greatly next year. Manley was also a good track man. He had intended entering Rutgers in the fall but is satisfied with his present position and will follow business lines.

The Plainfield and borough schools are lucky that they have a number of old men left and can count on as good teams next year as they had last season. Neither team has been affected to any great extent by graduation.

SAURERS ARE GOING AFTER ONE TEAM THAT BEAT THEM

The Saurer baseball nine will go to Recreation Park, Westfield, tomorrow afternoon, and play the strong Westfield A. A. team. Both of these teams have fine records and this game should be a good one. These teams have met once before and it was not until after the ninth inning had passed that the Saurer boys were defeated. That was their first contest of the season and since then they have only lost one match.

The Westfield team has lost several games, but it has put away some of the fastest teams in Elizabeth, Newark and other places in this vicinity. Pearsall will probably do the pitching for Westfield while Conshay or McLaughlin will be in the points for Plainfield.

CANUCKS AND INTERHAVENS TO CROSS BATS TOMORROW

One of the best games that will be played in this city tomorrow afternoon will be staged on Hyde Oval when the Canadians will again get into action against the strong Interhaven A. C. team. The two teams are about in the same class and a good game is looked for. The Canucks will have their strongest lineup and Manager Taylor has signed George Townley and "Hub" Stine as a battery. The remainder of the team will be the same as before.

The Interhavens have played more games than the Canadians and they are proud of the record established so far this year. Manager Smalley has a fine set of ball players with him and they always give a good account of themselves. George Conover will be on the firing line with "Newt" Spencer, the former High school twirler, ready to relieve him. Burner will play first again and Denny will take care of center field. The Canadians will lineup as follows: Hebert rf, Taylor 2b, Townley p, Dunning lf, Stine c, Bailey 3b, Burner 1b, Dilts ss, Denny cf.

DOUBLE HEADER SUNDAY.

Manager Martin has arranged to have a double header at Woodland Park, Sunday afternoon, and his team will meet the crack South River aggregation in the main attraction. In the preliminary contest the Highlanders and the Plainfield A.A. teams will fight. Both games should be fast and close and the fans will be repaid for going.

PETS WILL NOT PLAY.

Because of the playground exhibition under the auspices of the Playground Commission at Parker Field, tomorrow afternoon, Manager Dorflinger will give his Plainfield Pets a rest and they will not play.

WEEKLY S. S. GAME.

The First Baptist and Monroe Avenue ballists will meet tomorrow afternoon in the usual league game on the West End field.

ANNUAL PLAYGROUND PROGRAM COMPLETE

Big Exhibit Arranged For Parker Field Tomorrow Afternoon.

The annual playground exhibition will be held tomorrow afternoon at Parker Field. The program will consist of the work done in all of the four playgrounds this season and also some of the athletic activities that the boys have enjoyed. A very attractive program has been arranged and the authorities hope that there will be a large number of citizens of this city present to witness the work and progress made in this line. Exhibitions of basketry, raffia work, sewing and pattern cutting will be shown and some of the work accomplished by the children is remarkable. Folk dancing has been very popular this year and the surpervisors have spent much time with this work and there will be several exhibitions tomorrow.

The following program has been prepared:

Hungarian folk dance (four school playgrounds), interplayground relay race, ring games (drop the hankerchief, farmer in the dell, the squirrel), folk dances for the smaller children (carrousel, I see you), obstacle race (Parker Field boys), Parker Field Junior League relay race, Norwegian mountain dance (four school playgrounds), girls potato race, active games (dodge ball, cat and mouse), May pole dance (four school playgrounds).

All of the children are requested to report at their respective playgrounds at one o'clock and they will go to Parker Field in special cars starting at one-thirty. The exhibition will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

SOME THINGS THAT DOG OWNERS SHOW NOW

Mrs. Eva L. Van Hoesen, special officer of the S. P. C. A. in Plainfield and vicinity, has prepared the following notice to dog owners, which is particularly timely during the hot spell now prevalent. It reads as follows:

"You are respectfully notified that the State law requires all dogs to be licensed, whether running at large or kept on private property. The police magistrates are empowered to impose penalties upon persons keeping unlicensed dogs.

"Dog owners violating the law will be summoned to court. Unlicensed dogs found on the streets will be seized and taken to the pound. The courts have held constitutional the State law requiring dogs to be licensed.

"Persons permitting vicious, trespassing or dangerous dogs to be at large are liable to prosecution. The license tag does not prevent the dog from biting.

"If all dog owners would live up to the rules of law and common sense there would be no "mad-dog" scares and no cause for periodical attacks on dogs and their owners."

PARKER FIELD LEAGUE RACE.

The Parker Field Middle Baseball League race is becoming exceedingly close, and the Red Stars are going to make a strong bid for the title. They have closed up a wide gap between themselves and the leading Laurel aggregation and expect to tie the latter club for first place. The standing of the clubs is as follows:

	W.	L.	Td.
Laurels	16	5	0
Red Stars	15	5	1
West Ends	1	6	0

COPS vs. "DOCS" NEXT WEEK.

The cops will take on the doctors in the second of the series next Thursday afternoon on Parker Field. When these two aggregations first met a few weeks ago the cops were lucky enough to get away with a 7 to 6 victory and the medical men are going to even matters up next week so that a third game will be necessary (so they said).

MOSSERS MAY PLAY HERE.

The Moose baseball team is scheduled to play its Jersey City brothers, Sunday afternoon, but the place has not yet been decided upon. The local manager is trying to get his opponents to come here, but nothing definite has been decided.

ONE MORE GAME TOMORROW.

The Parks and the Independents will face each other again tomorrow afternoon on Crescent Oval and as these two teams have always played good games against each other supporters of these teams are anticipating a good encounter.

WORK FOR 10,000 MEN.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Work on Chicago's new $50,000,000 union station will start soon after September 20, according to an announcement made by one of the railroad officials. The work will afford employment for 10,000 or more men.

ELECTION BOARD MEETS TO FILL VACANCIES

Elizabeth, Aug. 21.—The County Board of Elections met this morning before Judge Connelly in the Court of Common Pleas, to fill the vacancies on the district boards of registry and elections. The list of appointments had not been completed up to one o'clock, when a recess was taken. A full list is to be announced before adjournment this afternoon.

Before taking up the regular order of business, Fred Ziot, clerk of the Board, filed a complaint against the Board of Freeholders for their failure to furnish the Election Board with the services of a constable and a furnished office in which the Board might hold their meetings. The complaint alleges that the Freeholder body had had their attention drawn to the law in regard to the matter, but up to today had taken no action. Judge Connelly stated from the bench that he had nothing to do concerning the office, but suggested that the Election Board hire a constable and bill the county with the expenses connected therewith.

RECREATION NOTES

The Dunbar Social and Educational Club will meet tonight, under the auspices of the Public Recreation Committee, in the Washington School auditorium. The evening is to be spent in dancing varied by a short musical program.

The regular Saturday night municipal dance will be held tomorrow night in the Washington school. Music will be furnished by Squires' orchestra.

NO LORIMER INDICTMENTS.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Indictments reported to have been voted Wednesday against William Lorimer and others involved in the failure of the La Salle Street Trust and Savings Bank have not been returned by the Federal Grand Jury, which has adjourned until Tuesday. It is rumored that indictments might be returned next week.

MORE MEN ON FULL TIME.

New York, Aug. 30.—As an instance of the improvement, however slight, the Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey has reinstated to full time about 1,000 of the 3500 employes who were put on short time, and only 2,000 men are now working on the part time basis of four days a week.

ELECT NEW POPE AUG. 30.

Rome, Aug. 21. (Central News Cable.)—The conclave to elect the successor to the late Pope Pius X, will be held Sunday, August 30, according to an announcement made from the Vatican.

WILSON MAY TAKE WEEK-END TRIP ON MAYFLOWER

Washington, Aug. 21.—The Presidential Yacht Mayflower, lies here today waiting for word that President Wilson is ready to take a week-end vacation trip on the ocean, either this week or next.

So far Dr. Grayson has not been able to persuade him to go. It is probable the President will spend four or five days on the water next week, although all his plans are contingent upon official developments, it was said today.

FIREMEN'S CARNIVAL.

The first annual picnic of the New Market Volunteer Fire Department will be held at Wayside Park, tomorrow afternoon and night. A special feature will be a baseball game between the South Plainfield and New Market fire department teams at 3:30 in the afternoon. Dancing will be enjoyed from 2 to 11 o'clock. A program of running races and other sports has been arranged for, including a sparring exhibition between Bob Fitzsimmons and his son.

MAGNIFICENT PALACE OF FOOD PRODUCTS COMPLETED AT SAN FRANCISCO EXPOSITION

North entrance of the vast Palace of Food Products; one of the colossal figures, "The Pirate," to adorn the niches above the entrance to the vestibule; and Thomas G. Stallsmith, expert, who is chief of the Exposition Department of Agriculture.

The most comprehensive display of food products in the world's history will be shown at the Panama-Pacific exposition. To the vital problem of increasing production and reducing the high living cost, one-fourth of the entire exhibit space is devoted. In addition to the Palace of Agriculture, covering seven and one-half acres, a special Palace of Food Products, five and one-half acres, has been completed. Large areas in the Palace of Horticulture and Social Economy and other buildings will come under this heading. The Palace of Food Products has a floor area of 236,000 square feet and will cost $342,000. Exhibitors are spending over a million on booths and decorations alone. Exhibits of processes is the rule. The government is spending a million on its exhibit. One of the elaborate private exhibits accepted by Chief Stallsmith will cost $80,000. This exhibit will show the entire history of bread from the field to the baker's oven. Also in the palace there will be the "bakery of nations," where every phase of the baking industry in all countries will be elaborated.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

"Potash and Perlmutter" is in its second year at the Cohan Theatre, New York.

Blanche Ring is to appear this fall in a new version of "When Claudia Smiles."

Fisk O'Hara is to star in a play by August Pitou caled "Jack's Romance."

Marie Tempest is to make an American starring tour, under the management of the Shuberts.

Hattie Williams and Richard Carle have decided to use "A Slice of Life" in their vaudeville tour.

Joseph Medill Patterson, author of "The Fourth Estate," has a new romantic play called "The Book of Judith."

Franz Lehar, the composer of "The Merry Widow," has two new operas —"Where the Lark Sings" and "Alone at Night."

Joseph Brooks will present Edith Taliaferro, Molly Pearson and Margaret Green in a farcial comedy called "Tipping the Winner."

Arthur Farwell, the American composer, has completed incidental music for the Liebler Company production of "The Garden of Paradise."

"Too Many Cooks" has passed its 200th performance in New York. Frank Craven, returned from Europe, again heads the cast in his own play.

David Belasco has postponed the premier of "The Vanishing Bride," having decided that the play needs many changes before it promises a success.

Richard Sterling, last season leading man in "Young Wisdom," has been engaged by Cohan & Harris for an important role in "Wanted—$22,000."

The cast for May Robson's new play, "Martha-by-the-Day," will include Julie Herne, Thomas Meighan, Coates Gwynne, Violet Howard and Edward Brandt.

Roy Atwell, who was the comedian in "The Firefly" last season, is presenting a new farcial comedy in New York called "Are You My Wife?"

Many of the big theatrical productions in New York have been postponed because of the inability of the actors abroad to get back home in time for the scheduled openings.

The authors of "Live Watches," Robert de Flers and Gaston A. de Caillavet, have written a "lyrical legend" in four acts, entitled "Beatrice," which is founded on a story by Charles Nodier. The music for it was composed by Andre Messager.

GERMANY'S COAST DEFENSE PROVIDES BASE FOR ATTACK

Military experts say that the German coast defense is better equipped than that of any other country in Europe. There are about 200 miles of coast line on the North Sea and something like 600 miles on the Baltic Sea. The great range of German batteries and the broken inshore of the North Sea will help Germany to prevent any great onslaught from that source. Along the coast line of the Baltic Sea are German batteries of great strength and range, and these fortifications will doubtless prevent any enemy from making much headway.

Readers of the Daily Press will have an opportunity of following the events in this great war of nations through an official map that is being presented on the popular coupon plan. Every day in this paper is printed a war map coupon which is good for one of these handy guides when presented with the bare expense of distribution. Out-of-town readers may take advantage of the offer, as explained in the coupon.

Owing to the great demand for these maps the supply is limited, and readers should present their coupons as soon as possible.

CHAPTER X.

Killing a Deer With the Hands.

THE days had been passing rapidly by, and, no longer fearing molestation from men in the Lost pond district, I returned there.

In the meantime I had been living anywhere in the forest, sleeping in the open or under rude shelters thrown together in a moment.

My cedar bark leggings had long since worn out, and I traveled about during the daytime with absolutely nothing on. I didn't need protection for my legs now, for they had become as tough as leather.

When I reached my old lean-to I found I was practically out of food, so I was obliged to go on another foraging expedition. When you have obtained things once it never seems very difficult to get them another time. I soon rounded up some more trout, driving them from the big pools into my own small artificial pools.

September was passing away, but the bears had not entirely cleaned out all the berries. I managed to find enough to supply my needs. I never went hungry.

Each night I slept about six hours and found that this was all the sleep I required.

I had a desire to accomplish some one big thing while I lived in the wilderness, and the biggest thing I could think of was to paint a picture in color right there in the forest. How I went about this task I will tell in a later chapter. This idea took complete possession of me. I figured out how I could get my color, my brushes and even paper right out of the material at hand in the woods. Then I set about making experiments.

In my enthusiasm I often forgot to eat.

This ambition helped me mentally, and I did not suffer so much with thoughts of the outside world while the idea held me.

Finally I found that I was neglecting myself. I was getting thin. Out of sheer necessity I was forced to look after myself and let other things go.

I contented myself with writing an occasional message on birch bark for the outside world or drawing a charcoal sketch on the same material.

At least once a week, no matter how far out in the wilderness I might have wandered, I made a trip to the cache to leave my messages. Once I left a pair of cedar bark shoes, which I had discarded. I wondered what people would think of them.

Each morning I had no idea where I would be at night. Some nights found me at Big Spencer, others at my lean-to on Bear mountain, and occasionally I went back into the woods near Lost pond.

Twice, out of necessity when I was hungry, I was forced to shoot a squirrel with my bow and arrow. I roasted the meat, and it was good eating.

Many times I saw rabbits, but I made no effort to trap them. I didn't need them. But necessity compelled me to bring down several partridges. While I caught a few with the slip-noose, as I have already described, I shot quite a number with my bow and arrow. The arrow would go clear through the bird and pin it to the ground.

One day, while strolling along the trail, I found a deer horn, which evidently had been shed the year before. Its peculiar shape gave me visions of a crude knife, so I began laboriously to scrape it. First I filed the horn in two by means of a sharp rock. Then I filed off one sharp prong and ground the blade to a keen edge with other stones.

In order to make a good grip I stripped the inner lining from the outer covering of some birch bark, which has the appearance of thin raffia. With this fine shred a fairly substantial cord can be woven. I wound the handle of my new knife with this cord.

Later on I found another horn, but I didn't utilize it, simply carrying it around for luck.

My horn knife proved most practical and useful. It would easily cut meat and later when I made my clothing it came in handy.

I was growing to be more and more a part of the forest every day. Whenever I needed anything I simply went and hunted for it. It was always waiting for me somewhere.

Even the mental side was losing its grip on me.

I was, in truth, a primitive man. I had gone back from the land of civilization to the forest of antiquity.

Sometimes we accomplish things before we realize it. The story of my getting a deer is very much like this. The incident happened just before dark while I was walking along a little trail close to the shore of a small pond.

Suddenly I heard a noise in the water ahead of me. I stopped still and presently heard the noise again. Then I walked on toward the shore until I reached an old spruce tree, whose roots were growing up on one side of the trail. Of course, any game going through the water to drink had to avoid these roots.

All around me was a thicket of spruce and cedar. From where I stood I could see quite an opening down toward the water. First I noticed ripples on the water, and then a little farther out I saw a young spike horn buck feeding on the bottom grass.

When I first saw him I did not have the slightest idea of catching him. The thought never entered my head.

I knew that if the deer were frightened he would run in the opposite direction from the sound that startled him. The wind was blowing from him to me, so he could not get my scent. I picked up a piece of spruce root and threw it out over the deer's back into the water. The animal threw up his head, looked around in all directions and then started out of the water up the trail toward me.

I picked up a stone and threw this out into the water, the second splash starting him along farther toward the root behind which I was hiding.

Carefully judging the time and distance, as soon as got opposite me I caught him by the forward feet, and down he fell in the trail. Then I caught him by the horns, and, with my weight on his back, I got control of him. I gave a quick twist and broke his neck.

I want to apologize for killing the deer in that manner, but under the circumstances it was the only way I had. I needed the skin badly.

It was so dark now I decided not to skin him that night. I pulled the body up a little to one side of the trail and left it there until morning.

Back at my camp that night I stirred up my banked fire and sat down to think. I didn't give the deer much thought. I said to myself, "Now I've got another skin." It was a small deer, but if I didn't waste too much of the skin making moccasins I would have enough, with bearskin and deerskin I had taken from the wildcats, to cover myself completely.

The next day I went and got this skin. Besides it I took some meat and all the sinew back to my camp. Some of the meat I ate, some I dried, and some I kept in the spring for several days where it would be cold.

Then I started to work making my wilderness suit of clothes. First I made my buckskin chaps. I doubled the skin and wound it around my thigh to see if it would be big enough to go around. I found that it would, but that it would not be quite long enough However, with the other deerskin I could add pieces to lengthen it.

After shaping the chaps I put the skins on to a piece of wood and began punching holes along the edge with the sharp point of a deer horn. These I laced together with strips of rawhide.

I made my moccasins by first wetting the rawhide and putting my foot on it to get the length. I used two pieces for each moccasin, turning the bottom piece up a little and stitching it to the top piece while it was on my foot. This raised the stitching above the ground where it would not wear out. When the wet rawhide dried they were a perfect fit.

Whenever I wore the bearskin I slung it over my shoulder and held it together in front with thongs.

There was nothing wonderful about killing that deer. Many people have seemed to marvel about that incident, and some, not understanding the woods, have openly doubted the story. To any one who knows the ways and habits of animals such a thing would not seem wonderful. Those who have hunted and lived among the wilds do not think so for a minute. It is really of such little importance that a man who understands such things would not even mention it. In fact, not until I had been out of the forest for nearly a week did I speak of the affair at all, and then only when I was asked to explain where I got my deer.

A Hut Erected in the Forest by the Author.

[Drawn in the woods by Knowles on a piece of fungus with burnt sticks.]

Skepticism is based largely on ignorance. When a man hears something that he does not know about he is either broad minded enough to learn more about it, or else announces that he does not believe it at all.

A man of the woods might ask you something like this: "Did you have a gun?"

"No."

"Well, that's pretty good. You were lucky to get your deer that way." He wouldn't ask any more questions because he would understand. He wouldn't ask you how the deer acted because he would know how it acted. Nor would he ask how much strength was used, knowing how much strength was necessary to kill a deer in that manner. He would also know that if you saw a deer too big to handle you would not tackle it.

In winter when the snow is deep the deer or moose has difficuty in getting about. They yard together, walking about in furrows worn by themselves. A man on snow shoes can run them down very quickly.

There are many different ways to kill a deer. In the yard you can kill him with a club. You can throw him and break his neck, just as the cowboys in the west throw a steer and break its neck. Then, again, you can strangle the animal by throwing your whole weight against him.

Talking with Andrew Sockalexis, the Indian Marathon runner, after my return to civilization, brought to light another experience similar to mine. This Indian had run down a deer on snowshoes in the winter and killed the animal with his hands alone.

I feel pity instead of anger toward those critics who do not believe simply because they do not know.

The deer fights with its forward feet more than it does with its horns. In winter a deer does not have horns to fight with. Summer is the mating season, and I suppose nature provided them with antlers at this time to protect themselves. In the mating season the horns of these animals are perfect, and they are always ready for a fight. They will resist any interference from other animals. But in winter they yard together and are peaceful, never engaging in battle, for at this time they shed their horns and are harmless

I have obtained some remarkable photographs of these animals in the yards in winter under the jacklight.

Jacklight photography is real sport, and when it is all over the animal is not harmed in the slightest degree.

In jacklighting first of all it is necessary to have a dark night. Then you need a canoe and a jacklight on a staff in the bow. Next a man who understands paddling is absolutely essential—one who when he dips his paddle in the water will do it so quietly you cannot even hear a ripple. All guides know how to do this.

Set your camera with the shutter open on a box above the light. Then you go paddling noiselessly down the stream with a broad cycle of light sweeping the shore.

Unless a beaver swimming along makes a dive and in plunging makes a noise with his tail as he goes down there is absolutely nothing to break the silence. That noise does not scare the other animals because they know what it stands for.

If the animals on the shore do not get your scent you can go very close to them with the canoe.

The first thing you see is two balls of fire in the circle of light on the bank. As you come nearer the form of an animal will take shape around those balls of fire. It may be a deer, a moose, a caribou, a bear, or it may be a crane—in fact, any animal or bird in the woods.

When you feel that you are close enough pull the flashlight and you have your picture.

Under the spell of the jacklight the animal stands fascinated, and it is a most cowardly thing to kill one under such conditions. There is a law against doing this, one of the few good game laws.

With the moose, especially the cow moose, it is different. The jacklight enrages the animal, and she bristles up and always prepares to fight it. She will set herself and wait until the canoe gets within about ten feet of her, when she will charge at it.

and joined over the shoulders. This closing can be made by means of buttons and buttonholes, providing a generous opening, or the edges can be stitched together and the neck edge of the blouse supplied with a casing and ribbon, by means of which it can be drawn up so that the blouse can be slipped over the head. It is pretty made of bright colored, soft material, such as crepe de chine, cotton voile, handkerchief linen, and the like, with frills of white lace, and shades of green and of yellow and of blue are especially in demand.

For the sixteen year size the blouse will require three and three-quarter yards of material twenty-seven inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for girls sixteen and eighteen years of age and for small women. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8319, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Chicken Consomme.
Browned Mashed Potatoes.
Boiled Chicken Legs.
Boston Brown Bread.
Cauliflower Salad.
Peach Snow.
Cocoa.

A LIGHT luncheon of this sort is delicious on a warm day when there is no appetite for heavier food.

Steamed Corn Bread.—Take two cupfuls cornmeal, one cupful of flour, one cupful molasses, two cupfuls sour milk, one cupful sweet milk, one heaping teaspoonful soda, one large teaspoonful salt. Steam one hour in cans or two in five pound lard pail. Set in oven about ten minutes.

Use For Cold Chicken.

Boiled Chicken Legs.—Cut the legs off a cold roasted or boiled chicken, dust them over with salt, pepper and a little dry English mustard. Squeeze some lemon juice over them, put them on a well greased gridiron, and broil till nicely browned on both sides over a clear fire. Serve with lemon and parsley butter.

Served With Fancy Border.

Cauliflower Salad.—Boil one large cauliflower for half an hour in two quarts of water, to which add one tablespoonful of salt, then drain, and when cold divide into small flowerets. Arrange these in the center of a dish and garnish with a border of pickled beets cut into fancy shapes; pour some mayonnaise dressing over the cauliflower and arrange a star of pickled beets in the center and serve.

A Rich Dessert.

Peach Snow.—Drain a quart of stewed peaches; take a teacupful of sugar and one and one-half cupfuls of the peach juice and boil them until the sirup is clear and rich. Drop the peaches in and let them cook a short time, not long enough to break them. Arrange in a glass dish and pour over them the snowdrift made by boiling one pint of milk, one-half cupful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch until thick and smooth; add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Serve cold with this sauce: One cupful of peach juice, one-half cupful of sugar and one teaspoonful each of cornstarch and butter. Mix cornstarch with sugar, add fruit sirup, boil five minutes and add the butter just before the last two minutes.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How the Parrot Saved the Little Girl's Life.

He Yelled "Help!"

"DID I ever tell you how the parrot saved the little girl's life?" asked daddy as the children came for the evening's tale.

"No, daddy; you never did," said Evelyn, "and I am glad you are going to tell a story about a little girl. You have had several about boys lately."

"Well, this is all about a little girl. She lived in a pretty white house about a half mile from a large town in the state of New Jersey. To reach the town she had to cross a stream which, though small, was deep, and there was a footbridge over this stream. This was what they call a private way, not owned by the town, so, I am sorry to say, the path and the footbridge were not kept in very good condition, and people had said for a long time that some day there would be a bad accident on that bridge, which had been up for a great many years and was unsafe.

"Now, this little girl had an auntie who lived in the town, not quite a mile all told from the home of the little girl. This auntie had a parrot, a very bright bird, of which the little girl was very fond, and she was overjoyed when the auntie, who was going away on a long trip for about a year, left the parrot with the little girl's parents for safe keeping. The parrot grew to be very fond of the little girl and would let her pet him, which was more than he would let anybody else do, for everybody was afraid of that strong beak of his, which he was always ready to use.

"The little girl enjoyed hearing the parrot talk very much and taught it many new words, and, among other things, she taught it to yell 'Help!' in the funniest, loudest, squawkiest tone you ever heard.

"The little girl was sad when her auntie returned and sent word for her to bring the parrot back, and she cried a little when she took Polly in his cage one summer morning and started, and when she got to the bridge, walking close to the edge, all of a sudden a board that had been rotten for a long time broke, and down went the little girl with the cage and the parrot inside into the deep water.

"And then the parrot saved the little girl's life. When she came up she was too breathless and too full of water to make a sound, and nobody had seen her fall in. But she had clung to the cage all the time, and when the parrot—a surprised and indignant bird—came to the surface he yelled, 'Help, help, help!' at the top of his voice. A man was working in a field close by, and, hearing that funny cry coming from the water, he looked over the bank Then he jumped in and brought the girl and the parrot safe to shore, and the little girl ran home for dry clothes. When her auntie heard about it she said that the little girl might keep the parrot that had saved her life."

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER
Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

CARDINAL GIBBONS.

Looked Upon as Probable Candidate From New World For Pope.

Under the peculiar conditions created by the world war there is a stronger possibility than ever before that the next pope will be an American, and the candidate of America undoubtedly will be, notwithstanding his advanced age, James Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore. As the sacred college is now constituted a slight majority rests with the Italian cardinals, which will be increased by the inability of all the foreign members of the church's senate to reach Rome in time for the conclave.

MOOSE TO DEMAND THAT COLONEL RUN

Leaders Rebel at Hinman For Saratoga Speech.

New York, Aug. 21.—The Progressive leaders of New York county have practically decided to turn down Harvey D. Hinman as the party's candidate for governor because of his statement at Saratoga on Monday night and to force Colonel Roosevelt to run himself by convincing him that they cannot in principle support the colonel's choice for the head of the bull moose ticket.

A meeting of the Progressive steering committee, which is on today, will probably settle the matter. State Chairman Theodore Douglas Robinson, George W. Perkins, Michael Schaap, Progressive leaders in the Assembly, and other state leaders are at the meeting. The revolt against Hinman among the rank and file of the party which has been brewing since Colonel Roosevelt first indorsed him last month will undoubtedly force definite action on the part of the committee of twenty-one. It will probably mean a representation to the colonel that he accept the nomination for himself.

William Grant Brown said that it was the concensus of opinion at the meeting that Hinman could not be supported for governor by the party because he had made it clear that he had no love for Progressives or their principles. It was a matter of principle with them, he said, and most of patronage. They felt it would be a distinct setback for the party to nominate him when he had declared that he would not campaign for himself or his associates on the Progressive ticket and that he is and shall continue to be a Republican even if not nominated in the primaries of that party.

CARRANZA ENTERS MEXICAN CAPITAL

Constitutionalist Leader Given Big Reception.

Mexico City, Aug. 21.—Enthusiasm mounted high when General Carranza entered the capital at the head of his troops. Streets were festooned with banners and underneath them a throng of men and women edged their way along, cheering the marching columns as they swept by the palace. All business, public and private, was suspended and the holiday spirit prevailed everywhere.

Arriving at the palace General Carranza went out on the balcony to greet the crowd that pressed into the plaza and to review his soldiers. He made a brief address, in which he said that the new government would hasten to enact into law the reforms for which the revolution had been undertaken.

Behind the Constitutionalist leader was draped the flag that Madero lost in the last days of his campaign. It had been presented to General Carranza by the labor leaders. The troops passing by the palace were marched to the different barracks throughout the city and quartered.

SISTER OF POPE DIES FROM SHOCK

Succumbs to Grief Caused by Pontiff's Loss.

ROME A CITY OF SORROW

Praying Crowds Throng Churches, and War Is Forgotten—Pope's Body to Lie In State Before Entombing—Ceremonies Will Take Nine Days.

BULLETIN.

Rome, Aug. 21.—The shock caused by her brother's death resulted in the death of the late pope's aged sister Anna.

Rome, Aug. 21.—The solemn ceremonies which will end ten days hence with the burial of the body of Pope Pius X. and the assembling of the conclave of cardinals to choose his successor have begun.

The Franciscan "confessors," who had remained praying at the bedside continuously since his death, reverently carried the body to another chamber of the Vatican, where the pontifical physician made ready to remove the viscera, which, inclosed in a plain terra cotta urn, will repose under the high altar of St. Peter's, where repose the remains of St. Peter himself. Thereafter the body will be embalmed and attired by the Franciscans, as it will be seen by the thousands who will do reverence before it in the great cathedral in the days to come. There will be the white lace cassock with a white sash, over which will be the red cape trimmed with ermine. Upon the feet will be the red papal shoes and on the head the red papal cap. Later will be added the full pontifical robes and emblems of office—the gloves, ring and mitre of gold.

All Rome In Mourning.

Rome, ecclesiastical and secular, is a stricken city. Never since the days of the separation of government and church was there manifest more genuine sorrow over the death of the head of the church. The newspapers appeared edged in black and devoted entirely to the life and death of him whom they called the "peasant pope," the churchman of the humble people. His last words—his blessing of Italy and the Italian people; his praise of the neutrality maintained by the government; his prayer that she may escape the ravages of war—are all displayed prominently, while there is little or no mention for the day of the war itself, which hastened his death.

The great square of St. Peter's has been filled by throngs of people praying, the noble and the peasant kneeling side by side. In all churches and chapels there are masses almost continuously and symbols of mourning. The devout kneel before shrines everywhere.

Precedent required that the public announcement of the death should be withheld until certain formalities were complied with. The cardinal chamberlain, Cardinal Della Volpe, was away, and everything had to await his arrival.

The cardinal chamberlain, dressed in the violet surplice and cape of his office and accompanied by the other prelates and priests of his apostolic camera, entered the chamber of death and sank upon a violet cushion, where he offered up a silent prayer. Arising, he approached the bed and, leaning over, drew back the veil with which the face was covered. Then, bending down, he called three times the baptismal name of the dead pontiff, "Giuseppe Sarto, Giuseppe Sarto, Giuseppe Sarto!" Receiving no response, he straightened up and in the prescribed manner announced, "The pope is indeed dead." He did not use the silver hammer to tap upon the forehead, as in ancient days. Its use was abandoned with the death of Pius IX.

Thereafter there came the temporary transfer of authority to the cardinal chamberlain, who will be the supreme head of the church until the legitimate successor of Pius X. is chosen by the cardinals. The sacred ring of St. Peter was presented to him and the sacred seals of his office. He will reside in the Vatican until the new pope is known.

WILSON PRAISES PIUS.

Sends Message of Sympathy to the Vatican.

Washington, Aug. 21.—At the request of President Wilson, Secretary Bryan sent the following telegram to the Vatican:

"The president desires me to express his sense of the great loss which the Christian world has sustained in the death of his Holiness Pius X. By his gentle character, his unaffected piety and his broad and thoughtful sympathy with his fellow men he adorned his exalted station and attracted to himself the affectionate regard of all who felt his worldwide influence."

ROOSEVELT SENDS NOTE.

Praises Pope in Message to Cardinal Farley.

New London, Con., Aug. 21.—Ex-President Roosevelt sent the following message to Cardinal Farley:

"Pray accept my sincere sympathy at the death of the venerable pontiff, whose unfailing kindness and love of humanity had won him the respect of the civilized world."

FINE TRAINED ANIMAL EXHIBITION PROMISED

Knights of Columbus Carnival Promises to Be Best Event of Kind Ever Seen Here.

While the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows are something more than a circus, or a side show, or minstrels, or vaudeville or Coney Island or any other individual class of show, being a combination of the best of all these and having an educational as well as amusement character, the ever popular and thoroughly American institution, the circus, does play a prominent part in the show s bilsl.

When the Johnny J. Jones combination arrives in town on Sunday preparatory to a week's run under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, one of the most delightful as well as instructing features of the exhibit will be the mammoth menageries, captured and exhibited by Captain Curley Wilson, and the trained wild animals under the direction and supervision of Charles Hustin, the boy animal trainer. With young and old of all classes, these features have ever been among the most sought and best patronized of summer amusement enterprises, and realizing that the American public will judge the Jones shows largely by the merit of the menagerie of wild animals, the trained animals, the management has secured one of the best shows of this character known to the amusement world. No more daring or successful explorer and captor of wild animals is known today than Captain Curley Wilson. There is none superior to harles Hustin, as a trainer of wild animals. Besides these, there is the Motordrome where four motorcyclists race 90 miles an hour.

Thomas Quincy, champion high diver of the world, ably assisted by Miss Margaret Quincy, in fancy swimming and high diving are today the greatest free act ever placed before the public. Their sensational double dive, Margaret diving from the lofty 60-foot pedestal, and Mr. Quincy from the apex of the ladder 90 feet, is enough to give one the most genuine series of thrills imaginable. These young people have an open challenge to all comers to compete with their exhibition.

In all there are some thirty shows going to make up the Johnny J. Jones combination. These exposition shows not only occupy a unique sphere in the amusement universe, but they are about the biggest summer show enterprise on the road. Both quality and quantity go to make up the Johnny J. Jones shows. It takes 20 double length cars to transport the luggage and 550 people of the show. This means that there are more individuals connected with the Johnny J. Jones outfit than any other show boasts and more paraphernalia than any other show combines can show. The lot at Front street and Grant avenue will be used for the shows.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Former Police Commissioner George S. Dougherty has the leading role in "The Line Up at Police Headquarters," a six-reel film, said to be based on actual happenings at police headquarters, which is being shown at the Plainfield Theatre today and tomorrow. Dougherty is the whole shooting match. He says, "Vernon, I want you to round up that gang tonight and get them alive." Although Vernon is obliged to take a dive from an ocean liner into the wintry waters of New York Bay in order to take "Dopey Dan" to the headquarters instead of sending him to the morgue, he don't hesitate a moment. It's all in a day's work. He catches another one about to escape on a Curtis hydroplane; by a flying leap he gets an "eyebrow" hold on the tail of the machine and an exciting gun fight is pulled off at sixty miles an hour through the water. Another chooses a jump from the tower of a skyscraper rather than arrest, but he's caught in a net, and his next appearance is in "The Line Up at Police Headquarters" with the rest of the gang.

A pyramid of thrills on laughing platform exactly describes "Stop Thief," the new farce success which will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre, Thursday, August 27. According to wide report it is one of the best of the many so-called "crook" plays offered the amusement seekers since the vogue for this style of entertainment became popular.

"Stop Thief" comes to us with the stamp of a "hit" placed upon it by audiences in New York, where the piece enjoyed nearly a year of phenominal prosperity. An irresistible combination of laughing thrills and suspense forms the appeal in the farce which is from the pen of Carlyle Moore. A view of it will not in all likelihood present a debatable moral but it will supply you with some of the heartiest laughs imaginable, and that's as good a recommendation as any one should expect.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOMERVILLE will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon after 4:30 by Jacob Gernert, the Main stret newsdealer and stationer.

HOW WOULD-BE CITIZEN PREPARES FOR TEST

County Clerk Calvert Has List of Questions Which Aids Them Greatly.

Through his service in the county clerk's office, for which he is now a candidate on the Republican ticket to succeed himself, James C. Calvert has officiated at the making of more citizens than any other official in the county, and for that reason is looked upon as an authority on the naturalization laws. During his term the growth of the county has been greater than at any other time. Where the applications formerly numbered less than fifty, it is not an infrequent thing now to have a list with the names of more than a hundred who desire to obtain citizenship privileges.

He was chairman of the committee of the Union County Republican Committee which recently prepared a list of questions and answers the applicants would be examined on, and which they would have to satisfy the government examiner they know and understood before the papers would be issued. The questions were printed on a large sheet and distributed. They have now become a sort of guide and handbook with the hundred odd applicants who will face the citizenship test at the next term of court.

While the work of the naturalization bureau in County Clerk Calvert's office has been a steady, healthy growth, the war at present raging in Europe and the one of last year, in which Greece and the Balkan States were involved, added a stimulous to the desires of residents of those countries who desired to take out their papers, and put a lot of extra work on Mr. alvert and his force of clerks. During the war last year, Greeks applied in the largest number on several days, but in the present rush for papers and declarations of intention, the number of Germans, Russians and Austrians is about equally divided. Many of those who apply have been taking an interest in local politics for some time and are familiar with the campaign Mr. Calvert is making. They express their regret at being unable to vote for him at the coming primaries, but assure him that his assistance to them will be remembered at any future time they can be of service.

SCOOP, THE CUB REPORTER — THE BEST ARMY COOK GETS THESE VOLUNTEERS — BY "HOP"

FOWLER, STUCHELL AND PIERSON FILE PETITIONS

Trenton, Aug. 21—Three more petitions for the nomination for Congress in the Fifth district, comprising Union and Morris counties, have just been filed with the Secretary of State. They were placed on file by former Congressman Charles N. Fowler, Republican, of Elizabeth; William Torrence Stuchell, Republican, of Rahway, and Thomas J. Pierson, Democrat, of Elizabeth.

Ex-Congressman Fowler and Rev. Mr. Stuchell will both contest for this nomination with John H. Capstick of Morris county, who filed his nominating petition on Wednesday. Mrs. Fowler designates the following as his slogan on the primary ballot: "Preserve American Markets for American Labor."

This party designation is in line with the recent declaration of former Congressman Fowler that there is need of immediate revision of the tariff for the purpose of protecting American labor and American agriculture and the preservation of American markets for American producers. Mr. Fowler represented the Fifth district in Congress from 1903 to 1911. He favors the immediate repeal of the Wilson-Glass-Owen financial legislation, as he deems it bad lawmaking and claims it will bring bad results to the country. He names himself as his campaign committee. Rev. Mr. Stuchell also appoints himself his own campaign committee and does not request any special party legislation. Mr. Stuchell, like Mr. Fowler, supported Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in the preconvention two years ago, although neither left the Republican party.

The filing of the nominating petition by Mr. Pierson, who is a former Freeholder of Union county, insures a primary fight on the Democratic ticket in the Fifth district. Mr. Pierson will be his own campaign committee, and will have no other party designation than the word "Democrat." Mr. Pierson's opponent will be William E. Tuttle, Jr., the present Congressman from the Fifth district.

TERRIFIC STORM BROUGHT RELIEF

Wind and Rain Swept Down Upon the City Without Warning Yesterday.

REPORT SOME DAMAGE

Store and House Struck By Lightning—Streets Flooded With Water—Fire In the Borough—Pedestrians Caught Unawares.

Coming up from the West accompanied by a hurricane gale, one of the worst electrical storms of the season swooped down upon the city shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon doing a vast amount of damage to fruit and shade trees and seriously impeding traffic of every variety. During the forty-five minutes the storm raged torrents of rain fell and the streets in some parts of the town were flooded from curb to curb. Sharp lightning and the resultant thunder lent emphasis to the storm and several places in the city and borough were struck, the heavy rain putting out the small blazes which were started.

Many pedestrians were caught unawares and a hurried scattering in all directions took place a few minutes before the rainfall came. The storm brought relief from the intense heat and cleared the air of the humidity that had been so heavy for twenty-four hours previous. Electric light wires in the central portion of the town were stripped from their moorings and in some cases the dangerous wires dangled across thoroughfares for several hours before they were fixed.

Trolley cars on the city lines were brought to a standstill, the water being too deep for them to pass under the railroad bridge at Watchung avenue. Large limbs were blown from shade trees and after the letup came the streets were strewn with debris of every kind. Occupants of dwellings hit by bolts had many narrow escapes.

Keenan's grocery store at Fifth and Richmond streets was struck and a piece of the roof ripped from the structure. Clerks in the store and residents in the apartments on the second and third floors were badly frightened. A residence in the Netherwood section was struck by lightning and caught fire. Before the family could notify headquarters the flames had been extinguished by the heavy downpour of rain.

The storm swept down upon Flemington and Somerville long before it hit this city and much damage was done to fruit trees in the former

BUS ORDINANCE HAS MANY GOOD POINTS

Proposed Regulations For Stage Lines In This City Under Consideration.

Considerable comment has been expressed by individuals on the proposed ordinance to license and regulate omnibuses, stages and other vehicles used for the transportation of passengers in or through the city of Plainfield in connection with an omnibus or stage line, but in most cases only a vague understanding of the merits of the resolution introduced by Councilman Claybrook is apparent. Since the proposition was originally broached in the Council chambers a number of protests have gone up from those affiliated with local bus lines and the consensus of opinion indicates that there will be some strenuous opposition to the adoption of such a regulation.

The ordinance requires the persons or corporation operating such a bus line in this city to make written application to the Mayor for a driver's license and to state in the application the kind of vehicles to be used. The power of granting or refusing the license comes within the jurisdiction of the Mayor and a license fee of $15 is provided for. This sum is levied on each vehible used by the concern running the bus line and is payable on March 1 of each year. The Mayor is also empowered with the right to suspend or revoke the licenses upon the violation of any city ordinance. The city judge, also has this right.

TAKE PARK AVENUE STORE TO DISPLAY BUICK CARS

Vossell and Pedeflous have engaged the show room at 331 Park avenue, and will have Buick cars there for demonstration and sale. Mr. Vosseller, as is well known, has successfully handled the Ford and Buick lines in this city for several years, and the new store is established in the city so that it will be more central. The Buick company are putting out an unusually fine car this year, a description of which will be found in the advertisement on page 3.

STUCHELL TO SPEAK

William Torrence Stuchell, of Rahway, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in this district, will speak tonight at an open-air meeting on the postoffice corner, Front street and Madison avenue. His topic will be "The Political Issues of the Day." He will also talk in other cities in Union and Morris counties next week. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock. Mr. Stuchell formerly was pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Rahway.

MISS JULIA CORBETT BRIDE OF JAMES STEWART WARR

Miss Julia Phelps Corbett, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Corbett, of 669 West Seventh street, was married to James Stewart Warr, of Newark, at the home of her parents this afternoon.

The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. R. F. Y. Pierce, of this city, was a quiet affair attended only by immediate members of the families. Mr. Warr is a New York business man and the couple will make their future home in Newark.

MRS. HELEN H. GREELEY SPEAKER AT MEETINGS

The weekly street meeting of the suffragists in this city will be held at Park avenue and Second street at 8:15 tonight. The sperker for tonight and for next Saturday night will be Mrs. Helen Howe Greeley.

In these two concluding meetings Mrs. Greeley will give some of her best arguments for woman suffrage. She is capable of presenting the fundamental principles of woman suffrage in a clear and logical manner.

RANSOME EMPLOYES LEAVE FOR ANNUAL DAY'S OUTING

Seventy-five employes of the Ransome Concrete Company, of this city, left town this morning in auto buses for The Pines, a resort near Metuchen, where they will spend the day. At noon a banquet will be served in the hotel, at which officials of the concern will be the honorary guests.

The committee in charge of the affair has planned for a program of athletic games to be held in the field near Metuchen this afternoon. Suitable prizes have been offered for competition along various lines and a large number of the men have signified their intention of entering. The outing is an annual feature and when the excursionists left here this morning they all wore white hats.

THUNDER STORM STOPS REV. W. E. L. WARD'S FUNERAL

Newburg, Aug. 22.—The funeral of the Rev. Warner E. L. Ward, former rector of St. Stephen's church, at Plainfield, who died on Monday, took place yesterday at St. George's church. The attendance was large, a number of his parishoners being among the mourners. The vestrymen were honorary pall bearers. Among the floral tributes were several handsome pieces sent by organizers of St. Stephen's church and by individual members. So extensive were the floral gifts that all the window benches and the chancel rail were banked with them. The service was under direction of the Rev. Frederic E. Whitney, a life-long friend of deceased. The Rev. Frank Hartfield, the Rev. Mr. Stevenson, the Rev. Mr. Houghton and the Rev. Monroe Royce assisted Mr. Whitney.

While the funeral cortege was on its way from the church to St. George's cemetery, a terrible electrical storm came up, accompanied by a miniature tornado. The family directed the funeral managers to abandon the progress of the grave, sending the carriages, about 20 in number, to their several stables with the occupants, there to remain until the storm passed over. A half hour later the funeral cortege assembled at the church again and proceded to the cemetery, where the body was interred. Among those from Plainfield in attendance were: Adam . Hill, Adolph C. Hagadorn, William L. Lockwood, C. P. Hamilton, Harry W. Butler, W. W. Corrieli, Sherman R. Joost, Wm. R. Townsend, E. W. Robinson, Chas. A. Sturtevant, and Harry Getsuka.

SERVICES AT CAMP.

A large number attended the regular service at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, last evening, at which time Mrs. Lewis Matlack, of Clinton avenue, entertained the childrn in a most interesting way, telling them stories, and otherwise making the evening an enjoyable one for the "kiddies." Vocal solos were also rendered. The usual Sunday service will be held tomorrow afternoon.

FUNERAL OF MISS DE NISE.

The funeral serivces of Miss Gladys M. DeNise, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. DeNise, of Grandview avenue, the borough, were held yesterday afternoon from the home of the parents. Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville, officiated. The interment was made at Evergreen cemetery.

ANDERSON "FOR PEACE OF WORLD"

Then Starts Movement By Throwing Bomb Into Enemies' Camp.

FILES HIS PETITION

Former Assemblyman Picks Unusual Slogan In Congressional Primary Fight, and Names County Chairmen As Committee On Vacancies.

Former Assemblyman William Delaroche Anderson, of North Plainfield, Somerset county, yesterday filed with the Secretary of State his petition for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fourth district.

Mr. Anderson has named as his committee on vacancy the chairmen of the county committees of the three counties comprised in the district. They are Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Somerset; Ellsworth P. Baylor, Hunterdon, and Newton A. K. Bugbee, Mercer.

As his slogan to be placed on the primary ballot, Mr. Anderson has selected "For the Peace of the World." He regards the securing of peace as the most important step that can be taken in any direction at the present time, as the questions of tariff, regulation of finances and business are all dependent upon conditions existing when the work of reconstruction starts following at the close of the war.

Mr. Anderson has made a thorough canvass of Somerset and Hunterdon counties and has the assurance of the undivided support of the Republican organization of his home country. He will shortly begin his campaign work in Mercer.

Concerning the candidacy of former Senator E. C. Hutchinson, of Mercer county, Mr. Anderson, yesterday, made the following statement:

"We in the country object strongly to the methods employed by the little ring of Trenton politicians in using star chamber proceedings in the effort to force the candidacy of Mr. Hutchinson on the voters of the Fourth Congressional district. From what I can gather many citizens of Trenton have also this objection. At the meeting which endorsed Mr. Hutchinson, not another name was presented, although many good names were offered as candidates at the time. Not an invitation to a Somerset or Hunterdon county man was sent out, so far as I have been able to learn. Not an invitation to any one in the country districts of Mercer county, except the organization workers. This method is absolutely resented by us who come from the country districts and who do not share in the councils of the Trenton politicians. I would say that should Mr. Hutchinson be nominated it will materially handicap the Republican success in Somerset county, which county will be the battleground this fall for the control of the State Senate of New Jersey. Should Senator Smalley be defeated, the State Senate will undoubtedly be Democratic, and I think it is only fair to those who have the welfare of the Republican party at heart to notify them that the nomination of a Somerset county man this year will materially aid in the success in electing a Republican Senator from that county."

LIQUOR DEALERS WILL BE ARRAIGNED IN CITY COURT

Morris Latzko, who conducts a wholesale liquor store on Somerset street, and Charles Smith, driver of a liquor wagon, will be arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, Monday morning, to answer charges preferred against them by Patrolman Martin Flatley, of the local police force. Each of the accused are charged with three alleged infractions of the city excise laws and were arraigned last Monday for a preliminary hearing. At that time they were held in $300 bail for the adjourned hearing Monday.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., will prosecute the alleged offenders for the city. The arrests were made following an investigation which had been in progress for several days. Beer belonging to the defendants was confiscated and will probably be used as evidence.

VAGRANT DISCHARGED.

Arraigned before Judge DeMeza in the city court, this morning, on a charge of vagrancy, George Thomas, of 633 Somerset street, Philadelphia, was allowed to go on a suspended sentence providing he would return to his home immediately.

GERMANS ADVANCE TOWARD FRANCE FOLLOWING CAPTURE OF BRUSSELS; AUSTRIANS LOSE 20,000 IN 3 DAYS

Russian Main Army Has Occupied Lyck, City of 12,000 In East Prussia--Ostend Reported to Have Fallen as Well as Ghent--Grand Duke Nicholas Personally Directs Russian Invading Army--Expect Sea Battle Off Coast of South America.

Rome, Aug. 22 (Central News Cable).—An official despaatch from Nish, the temporary Servian capital, says that in a three day battle, which was waged on the banks of the Rivers Drina and Save, a large Austrian force met defeat at the hands of the Servians, who succeeded in turning the Austrian left wing. It is said that the Austrian loss was 20,000 men in the three days battle.

An official despatch from St. Petersburg states that the Russian main army has crossed the German frontier, and occupied Lyck, in East Prussia, as the result of two days fighting. Grand Duke Nicholas is personally directing the operation of invading Germany. Lyck is a city of nearly 12,000 inhabitants.

A despatch to the Messagero today from Nish states that two corps of Austrian engineers were captured by the Servian army near Belgrade during the recent fighting. A despatch to Corriere D Italia from Scutari states that severe fighting between Austrians and Montenegrins continues at Grahovo, a small town situated about four miles northwest of Cettinje.

Amsterdam, Aug. 22 (Central News Cable.)—All indications now point to the advance of the bulk of the German army on France by way of Germany. This would seem to indicate that for some reason the German General staff has suddenly changed its plan of advance, and has found it expedient to push across the border and cross into France through Alsace Loraine.

Despatches received here indicate that Namur is partially invested, and that the Germans at noon on Friday opened a heavy artillery fire on the forts guarding the town.

The westward movement of the Germans continues along the banks of the River Meuse, outside the range of action at Namur. German cavalry passed through Brussels yesterday, going Westward. Later, an army corps followed. The Belgians continue to retreat. The German generals are insisting upon the payment of a war tax of $40,000,000 by the residents of the City of Brussels.

London, Aug. 22 (Central News Cable.)—Large German advance forces are today reported to have reached Ostend, on the Belgian coast. Frontier skirmishing has occurred between the French outposts and the German invaders near the frontier. Ghent is reported captured.

Official sources confirm reports that General Leman, Belgian commander of the forts at Liege is a prisoner, and enroute for Cologne.

British merchants may now, after taking necessary legal measures, manufacture patented articles hitherto bought in Germany, under rules issued by the Board of Trade regulating the procedure in nullifying or suspending patents, licenses and trade marks. The proprietor of which is subject of a state at war with the king.

A Central News despatch from Antwerp forwarded today says that it is reported from Brussels that assurance has been given by the Germans that they will not continue to occupy the capital, contenting themselves with having marched through the town.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Reports of the capture of a British steamer and a German steamer, off the coast of Brazil, reached the State departments today from the Consul at Rio Janeiro. The British steamer, Hyades, from Rosario, Argentine, to Rotterdam, was captured and sunk by the German cruiser, Dresden. Immediately afterwards the report reached Rio Janeiro, of the capture by the British cruiser Glasgow, of the German merchant steamer, Santa Katharina, in the same vicinity. A battle between the two warships is hourly expected.

With more than 1,000,000 bushels of American wheat on the way to Switzerland, the wireless today brought back word that the British vessels carrying it thus far had escaped detention. The wheat will be delivered to Switzerland through France and Italy.

Assurances of the safety of Americans in Eastern Belgium reached the State Department today from Consul Thompson, at Walls. This is the first direct word received from the vicinity of the operations of the main German army.

Predictions that the proposed purchase and operation by the Government of ships to transport American produce abroad during the war would be enacted into law was made today by Senators Simmons, of North Carolina, and Chamberlain, of Oregon, both members of the commerce committee which will handle the bill. Senators who discussed the bill with the President said that he appeared to be very strongly in favor of its passage.

Regulations regarding the coaling of vessels and as to the use of radio communication by vessels of belligerent nations in ports of the United States, have been issued by the Treasury Department to all collectors of customs at sea and lake ports. The regulation states that collectors of customs are charged with the duty of preventing violations of the neutrality laws, but may call upon the revenue cutter service of officers of the navy or army for such force and assistance as may be necessary.

Ostend, Aug. 22.—At 11:30 Uhlans arrived outside the city of Brussels on the Louvain road.

By 1 o'clock they were in Brussels, and to the astonishment of the inhabitants a full army corps, 40,000 strong, marched through the city.

Their plans, however, did not stop at mere occupation of the capital. They seized all the available motor-cars, loaded them with troops, and the bulk of the corps passed on, their objective being, it is stated, the seizure of the two forts of Teebrugge and Ostend.

Enter Capital as on Parade.

About 6 o'clock on Thursday morning the garde civique, singing "La Brabanconne" and the "Marseillaise," marched from their outposts and the barricades which they had built some days ago to the Gare de Nord and piled up their arms. Along the route the early crowds (and they were large, for every one slept lightly through the night) cheered them whole heartedly.

These men laid down their arms as bravely as many have carred theirs to battle. It was not easy to have the courage to obey and let the invaders in without a struggle.

Paris, Aug. 22.—Military critics who have watched the operations of the week declare that in Belgium the stage is set for such a fearful clash of arms as the world has never known.

Lieutenant Colonel Roussel, an authority on military matters, says that the battle has already begun and along a front of nearly 250 miles the German forces are facing the allies. He estimates that 2,500,000 men, the best of Germany, France, England and Belgium, are taking part in the conflict.

Other authorities agree that the time has arrived for a decisive trial of strength. Since Tuesday the right wing of the vast German force had been advancing, pressing the Belgians back to Brussels and then to Antwerp, while the center has been moving to meet the allies with the deliberateness and momentum of great bodies. Opinions vary as to the importance of the German triumphs over the Belgians to the north. In the opinion of ardent Frenchmen the taking of Brussels is of little strategic importance.

It is asserted that the French general staff has discounted just such a move on the part of Germany and that the positions of the French divisions have been taken up accordingly. Far from being unprepared the general staff has estimated the present circumstances to a nicety and is prepared to deal with them under the best auspices.

Germans Cross River Meuse.

London, Aug. 22.—The French war office announced that the German

BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL DISCUSSES COMPENSATION

Routine business prevailed at the session of the Building Trades Council, last evening. William H. Barry and Harry Dorflinger presented reports from the annual convention of the State Federation of Labor held at Newark the first three days of the week.

A short discussion of the Ohio Compensation Law took place, and the shortcomings of the New Jersey laws along these lines were pointed out. It is probable that the labor leaders throughout the State will wage an active campaign to improve the State compensation laws. The Ohio laws give employers of labor the choice of two ways in which to provide compensation for the employes, one way, to pay a premium of $16 or $17 per $10,000 pay roll per annum into the State treasury or, to insure the employes with an insurance company, but to file a bond with the State in the latter case. The law in his State is somewhat lax, in that practically every case goes into the court.

UNIQUE WAY OF DESCRIBING THE ADVANTAGES OF BUYING HERE

Rather an unusual treatment of the subject was given by Edward F. Bodin, of Watchung, in his letter in the Plainfield Daily Press Trade at Home Contest, which closed last week. Mr. Bodin wrote as if writing to a friend, describing how successful he had been in purchasing his supplies in Plainfield. His letter, which won the third prize offered by the Business Men's Association, was as follows:

Dear Jack:

You asked me in your last letter how it is that my clothes always fit me so well and although I pay no more than you, still I am satisfied while you are not. Since I know that you buy your clothes in New York let me explain the purchase of my last suit in Plainfield as an instance for comparison.

Last Saturday afternoon I wanted to buy a new ready-made suit, so going to my clothier on Front street, I told him what kind and color I wanted. He knew my size and my personal tastes because he knew me; therefore he picked one out immediately. I liked it so I tried it on. It fit nicely. I told him to press it up and I would call that evening for it. I did. I came in about 9 o'clock and the suit was completed. I tried it on once more to be entirely satisfied. It was dandy and looked all right to me. I was pleased but the merchant saw something uneven about the coat. He bit his lip and shaking his head told me about it. Still I was satisfied but he wasn't. He saw a slight imperfection which I didn't and which would make the suit hang badly after a few days. But I wanted the suit for Sunday and I was willing to take it in spite of the imperfection. But no, he made me take it off and he said he would fix it. However, instead of making me wait and carry it myself he promised to get it to me the next morning early. Smiling I went home. The next morning before I was up the suit was there, completed, perfect and both buyer and seller satisfied.

Now, Jack—When wou buy your clothes in New York the merchant does not know you. Probably he will never see you again. If you decide to take it he cares not whether the bargain was square. All he wants is to sell his goods and he even tells an untruth sometimes to gain a sale. But my merchant aims to please for he wants me satisfied. He knows what I want and his business depends not upon the number of sales but upon the number of satisfied customers. The key to it all is, "I am assured of my purchase and satisfaction is my advantage."

"He who buys in haste, a chance does take
And often a poor bargain he will make.
But I believe in trade that's worth repeating
And not the trade based solely on competing."

Therefore, Jack, let me conclude saying that "Plainfield's Purchasers are Perfectly and Perpetually Pleased.

Yours,
ED.

FUNERAL OF MICHAEL J. WELCH

The funeral services of Michael J. Welch, a brother of Mrs. Joseph M. Maier, of North avenue, were held at 10 o'clock this morning in the rectory of St. Michael's parish, Cranford. Interment was at St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield. Mr. Welch, who was a signal repair man, was instantly killed on Thursday morning when a train ran over him at Cranford. A train which had just arrived from Newark at 8:30 o'clock, was backing down preparatory to returning to that city and at the same time another train for Newark had gotten underway. Welch stepped from the tracks to avoid the northbound train and was struck by the rear of the backing train. The wheels ran over his head. The deceased was 55 years old and is survived by ten children, who are parentless, as their mother died about eight months ago.

SALVATION ARMY.

The Salvation Army, Provincial Encampment, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, in charge of Brigadier General George F. Sasler, have leased Wayside Park for ten days commencing with tomorrow, when an afternoon and evening service will be held. Officers from these three different States will be tenting on the grounds and will have amongst them twenty-five pieces of brass music and a string band of twelve pieces. A number of good male and female singers are again coming to make an endeavor to create a moral uplift amongst the weary and dejected. These people have visited Wayside Park for the past three years and have held very successful meetings there. These meetings have been attended by many people who have merely come during the heated spell for the sake of the shade offered by the beautiful park, but others listening to fervid speakers, impassioned addresses and the experiences of reformed convicts and drunkards, they have left the place rejuvenated spiritually and physically with the belief that these self-sacrificing people are actually accomplishing a good work in the world. As has been the custom heretofore, open-air meetings will be held in different cities within a radius of twelve and fifteen miles, at which programs of the regular meetings will be distributed.

FIREMEN'S CARNIVAL.

This is the afternoon of the big carnival of the New Market fire department at Wayside Park. In the afternoon between the hours of 1 and 6 there will be dancing, trial heats of various foot races, a quoit match and a baseball game between the New Market and South Plainfield fire laddies, which will commence at 3 o'clock. The evening will be featured by a three-round sparring exhibition between Bob Fitzsimmons, Sr., and Bob, Jr., the coming white hope. This exhibition will be staged at 10 o'clock. There will also be dancing between the hours of 8 and 12, and the running of the finals of the foot races.

Walter Vertels and Robert Bauer, of Wilkes Barre, Pa., are spending a few days with Councilman T. W. Sisty. The young men returned from Europe three days ago where they had been touring for six weeks on their motorcycles. It had been their intention to remain abroad throughout the summer, but the atmosphere of the war zone was getting a little too hot for them and they decided to disembark. They had cycled through France and were in Switzerland when the war broke out.

MISSED LIGHTNING BOLT.

According to the stories of Harold Damker and Leonard G. Huff, both of whom reside on North avenue, a bolt of lightning accompanying the terrific crash, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the storm appeared to be over, came within an ace of ending their careers. They had been up town during the storm and thinking that the elements were satisfied with the display that had been made had started on their way home. They had proceeded along North avenue as far as Stite's blacksmith shop when the terrific crash occurred and a ball of fire struck the pavement no more than ten feet ahead of them. Young Damker was knocked flat on his back and Huff was dazed for a second or two. According to his companion, Damker, who was more scared than hurt, instantly arose and quickly outdistanced him in a sprint down North avenue. On the other hand, Damker claims that he couldn't see Huff on account of the dust he made. Be that as it may, both of the young fellows must have made record time to their respective homes.

Robert Roskell, of North avenue, spent yesterday in crabbing off Seaworen. He had a lucky day, catching 56.

Miss Katherine Samson, of New Market road, is visiting friends at New Brunswick, today.

SOME CLASS TO PISCATAWAY; NOW HAS A TOWN HALL.

Piscataway has beaten New Brunswict and has now a town hall of her own, coming into possession of same last night.

It seems remarkable that a small village like Piscataway could outdo her wealthy sister, but this is how it happened.

Many, many years ago residents of the ancient village of Piscataway, by private subscription, managed to raise enough funds to buy ground and help the township to erect a frame schoolhouse, which was ample for the needs of the village at that time. Generations after generations of children have been educated in this schoolhouse, until a few years ago when Raritan township decided that a new building was a necessity.

The new building, a handsome structure and an ornament to the place, may be seen on the main avenue through the village. The old school building was deserted and it was expected that the School Board would turn the old building over to the village to be used for whatever purpose it should see fit to put it to, but time went on and no mention was made or any steps taken.

At a recent meeting of the newly formed Raritan Civic Association, of which Rev. Henry Hale Gifford, of St. James Episcopal church, Piscataway, is president, the subject of the schoolhouse was discussed and the association appointed Rev. Mr. Gifford and a committee to consult the Raritan Board of Education, which met last night, and find what could be done. As a result of Rev. Mr. Gifford's plea the Board, by a two-thirds resolution, conveyed the building to the township for a nominal sum, and the township presents it to the village.

The Civic Association is rejoicing today over the success and immediate plans will be made for the improvement of the building. The old school seats will be torn out and the building converted, as much as possible, into a modern town hall, where the business of the village may be transacted, and also a meeting place for the Raritan Civic Association The schoolhouse has grounds to the extent of ten acres surrounding it, and these will be converted into a beautiful park with playgrounds for the children, tennis courts, baseball diamond, etc.

The association plans to make Piscataway the "Village Beautiful," and they have an enthusiastic president in the person of Rev. Henry Hale Gifford, rector of the St. James church, to help carry out the proposed plans successfully.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Kleptomania is the theme of Carlyle Moore's farce, "Stop Thief," which appears at the Plainfield Theatre next Thursday night.

A kleptomaniac is defined by Webster as "a wealthy person of extraordinary absent minded tendencies and morbid impulse." The mania usually demonstrates its presence by the victim of it being discovered in making a collection of valuable articles that do not belong to him. When a poor man is caught doing the same thins he is looked upon as an ordinary thief.

There are two kleptomaniacs and a real crook in "Stop Thief." One of them is a millionaire, the other is his prospective son-in-law. The bride-to-be is aware of her father's predilection for stealing, but she is ignorant of the fact that her future husband is so afflicted.

Into this household a real thief is smuggled by a new maid, and the plot thus tangled in the first act calls for the presence of a batallion of policemen and the thrills begin. One valuable after another disappears in the most mysterious manner, and in the search for the culprit many funny situations are evolved.

Bert Leigh as the Thief, and Miss Hazele Burgess as the Maid, in the part his sweetheart, hold the audience in amaze as to what they will do next.

Bud Fisher's cartoon characters "Mutt and Jeff" are to re-appear at the Plainfield Theatre, on Friday, August 28, in a brand new dress called "Mutt and Jeff in Mexico." Gus Hill has given the new book a sumptuous production from every point of view. He has had a dazzling new set of spectacular scenery painted with some very startling mechanical effects and genuine dramatic thrills. New musical scores and lyrics are furnished and the "funny business" is, of course, from the fertile brain of Bud Fisher, who knows better than anyone else what his eccentric folks are capable of. It is an acknowledged fact that "Mutt and Jeff" holds more records for phenomenal business than any two other attractions in the history of theatrical entertainment. For the fourth season, Mr. Hill has made greater financial outlays than on either or both of his former productions. His confidence in "Mutt and Jeff" and the lasting qualities of the play and title are so strong as to induce him to increase his investment rather than decrease it from year to year.

Charlotte Walker is coming to Plainfield. Contracts for the appearance of this star at the Plainfield theatre, Saturday night, September 12, were signed last night. This means local theatregoers will get the first peep at Eugene Walter's new play, "The Better Way," on its road tour prior to entering New York city. "The Better Way" was tried out at the Garrick theatre in Philadelphia last May, and for five weeks did phenomenal business despite a warm wave. Philadelphia critics, who saw the new play claimed it is the biggest thing ever done by the famous playwright. The play is said to give Miss Walker ample opportunity to show her ability for character work of a deeper quality than the charm which she displayed in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Miss Walker is surrounded with an exceptional cast, foremost being Byron Beasley and Virginia Pearson. Mr. Walter will be on hand for the Plainfield engagement.

WONDERFUL DIVING AT K. OF C. CARNIVAL

Quincys Claim to Hold World's Records—All Sorts of Midway Offerings.

For one week's engagement under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows will erect their mammoth tents here at West Front street and Grant avenue. The big star act of the Jones Shows is Thomas and Margaret Quincy, champion exponents in aquatic feats of high diving and fancy swimming. These clever young people perform seemingly impossible and highly sensational leaps from the lofty pedestals and challenge all comers to compete with them in any or all of their exhibitions. This act is entirely free and may be witnessed daily at 3:30, 5:00, 7:30 and 10:30 p. m.

With all the Qunicys fame and excellence they are only one of the thirty big shows that are featured with the Johnny J. Jones people. Another act that is undying in popularity with the young and old, rich and poor, is the wild and trained animal circus. Captain Curley Wilson is general manager of and is one of the veteran capturers and tamers of wild animals. Charles Hustin, the boy trainer, is directly in charge of the animals and he has achieved wonderful success in his line of work. The old and vicious lionness that has been given up entirely by older trainers has been almost absolutely subdued by this young man and, although fights between the two are almost of hourly occurrence, young Hustin is determined to completely win over the brute and thereby establish himself as the peer of wild animal trainers.

The thirty big shows include "That Girl Edna," which is a mystery that will keep you guessing; the "Dixieland," colored minstrels, a real show with original plantation songs and melody unequalled anywhere; "Ten Shows in One," a tentful of wonders; the monster Motor Drome, the "Trip to Mars," a laugh provoker if ever there was one, and another big act as well as concerts by two bands including the famous Vitucci's Royal Italian Band.

At night Johnny J. Jones Exposition show grounds are transformed into a veritable fairyland. Every stretch of canvas along the midway is brilliantly decorated and these are set off by 10,000 Mazda lights, making the grounds as light as day. With the glittering lights, and thrilling music and spectacular acts in full sway the night is truly an inspiring one and one that is thoroughly enjoyed by all classes and all ages.

One of the features at the grounds next week will be Prof. Kuntz and his troupe of trained ants. The feature includes 300 trained insect acrobats, tumblers, jugglers, fighters and dancers.

POLITICAL NOTES.

John L. Crowell, of Rahway, has a petition out for his candidacy for the nomination for the county clerkship on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Crowell, who has been an active worker in the past for the Democratic party, has a number of supporters in Rahway.

Councilman Edward M. Neafsey, of Elizabeth, has entered the contest for the nomination for county clerk. His petition is in circulation, and many signers have already been procured. Mr. Neafsey was prominently mentioned as a candidate for the nomination on the Democratic outing last Wednesday. His name was suggested and discussed at a conference of the leaders at Witzel's Grove. William A. Leonard is a candidate for the nomination. Both men are considered good vote-getters, and a lively contest is expected.

The booming of Councilman Fred C. Englehart, of Rahway, as a candidate for sheriff, followed a meeting of Rahway Democrats aboard the Sirius after Mayor Thomas A. Fyffe announced that he would not run. Democrats from Rahway then got together, decided that their community was entitled to really good recognition from the county organization, and that those who had been assisting in booming Mayor Fyffe should be asked to support Mr. Englehart instead. Mayor Fyffe's decision was most welcome news to supporters of Excise Commissioner Devine and ex-Assemblyman McLoughlin, of Elizabeth, as they do not believe that Mr. Englehart will be able to command the same measure of local support as would unquestionably have been given the executive.

A meeting will be held on Monday night at the office of William Newcorn, at which plans for the local campaign to aid John H. Capstick will be completed.

Robert H. Cox, of West Seventh street, has been endorsed for the Common Council by the Third Ward Republican Club and his supporters expect to land him the nomination at the primaries next month. Although he comes from a strictly Democratic family, Mr. Cox cast his first vote on the Republican ticket and has been a staunch supporter of that party ever since.

Mr. Cox is connected with the Guaranty Trust Company in New York. He is the son of the late Rowland Cox and a brother of Archibald Cox, a member of the Board of Education. He will undoubtedly make a splendid councilman if elected and his knowledge of financial affairs, which his business has enabled him to secure, will be a great benefit to him.

COSMOPOLITAN.

Every American city shows that all creeds and races can live peacefully together provided there is no interference by the designing or ambitious. By reason of scientific progress in every direction the world is now closer together than were the thirteen original States of the Union at the close of the American Revolution. It follows therefore that we must either abandon our prejudices or else give up modern facilities and quick intercommunication if progress is to continue and peace reign throughout the world.

Being close together the nations of the world cannot fight and at the same time enjoy the great victories of peace as illustrated in art, music, literature, science, medicine and those achievements which have made the present the people's most progressive era.

How does this proposition apply to the United States? Let us remember that the world of today is a dangerous vortex and American statesmen who can safely pilot us through the fogs, the rocks, the storms and the breakers will deserve imperishable crowns of glory. Fortunately we are at peace. It should be our aim to remain at peace so as to preserve to mankind that which is being lost elsewhere. Let us talk more of merit and less of mastery. Let us treat the foreigner within our border with consideration and courtesy and show by example that we are worthy of our education and self-government. Let us be generous and liberal, calm and judicious, unselfish and charitable so that the world will recognize that we are not a nation of self-seekers and expansionists.

The narrow thoughts of provincialism must give way to a broad cosmopolitan attitude because Americans are destined to rub elbows with the people of all races, colors and creeds. This big world spirit must be the dominating force to bring order out of the existing chaos into which war has so suddenly thrown so many nations.

Let us not be objectionably alert to take advantage of the misfortune of others but be patient, knowing full well that the rewards of industry are going to the people who keep their self-possesssion, their fields cultivated and their factories in motion.

Why should we police foreign territory or guarantee the neutrality of lands beyond the seas? Is it for trade purposes? If so, the object fails for there is no sentiment in business. America should not be a catspaw. Buyers, domestic or foreign, are governed by price, quality, packing, delivery and credit; taking these into consideration the country which can sell the cheapest gets the market.

Let the United States keep within the proper sphere of its activity remembering that the problems of self-government are now beginning to receive their real test. Was it not Thomas Carlyle who said that the United States would not have dangerous problems until its population became large? It seems that we are now approaching that acute stage, for each day our numbers are greater and more mixed.

Let us hold fast to the good which we have and travel not after false gods. Let us remember that more is to be gained for our country and its prosperity by living in peace and unity; that we have got to rub off some of the existing race dislikes which some of us are so fond of coddling.

CHARLES STEWART SMINCK.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

Suffrage and the Liquor Traffic.

Comparing the six suffrage States of Wyoming, Colarado, Utah, Washington, California and Idaho with the six nearest male-suffrage States with approximately the same area (North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Montana and Nevada) it appears that the six suffrage States have only 37 per cent. of their population living in dry territory while the six male-suffrage States have 70 per cent. in dry territory. This is a rather striking contrast.

Strong Protest from Nevada.

The Nevada Association of Women Opposed to Equal Suffrage handed to officials at the White House today a formal protest against any action by the president that would give encouragement to the "Votes for Women" propaganda in that State. The protest says in part:

"We are informed that congress has been petitioned 'in the name of the women of Nevada' and that the president has been urged to advocate an extension of the franchise by amendment of the Federal constitution, notwithstanding the fact that the last three and most representative and populous States voting on the question, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Michigan, have recorded their vote against it by majorities approximating 90,000 each.

"We are advised that after a most strenuous and expensive campaign covering many months these petitions, assuming to voice the sentiments of the womanhood of Nevada, bore the signatures of 'more than 500 women.' There are more than 17,000 white women in Nevada over the age of 21 years. Less than one in 34 have petitioned congress, and we deny the right of these 500 women to speak for the 17,000, or the right of one in 34 to speak without consent, for the other 33 on a subject so vitally affecting the State, the family, and the home.

"In Colorado, the only State where time, population, and general conditions have afforded a test, we find after 20 years, a disappointment for every promise. In lieu of government we find anarchy, in lieu of order, chaos; in lieu of home rule, Federal control; in lieu of economy in government, the highest per capita tax rate of any state. We find, with but two exceptions, its capital and principal city with the highest per capita expense of those in its class. In lieu of improved domestic conditions we find but two States in 48 with a higher divorce rate; we find the social evil aggravated, not abated."—Boston Herald.

Women at Prizefight.

The Hartford Courant of July 10 says:

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, head of the Suffrage Association, says that the surprising number of women at the recent prizefight in London is no indication that the sex is casting aside the ideas it has held so long. She said the women had merely followed the head of the men who had wearied of the more conventional forms of entertainment. The trouble with this statement is that men have always prized these brutal entertainments. It was no wearying of "conventional forms" that attracted them; it was the old Adam. Hitherto women have avoided these brutalities, through the instinctive gentleness of their sweeter natures. Of course, as they harden and sour, they will graviate toward the lower things that man has always taken to. It is arrived quite in accord with the predictions of social philosophers and, it must be added, in accordance with the ambitions of certain masculine-minded feminists.

Suffragists Exploiting Young Girls.

A Boston business man who has just returned from a tour through certain of the western "suffragist campaign" States says:

"Before I went west, I was, let us say, indifferent on women suffrage. I regarded it as a rather amusing and trival struggle between two factions of women. I know that on the suffrage side I was continually reading the same names in the newspapers and I assumed, and rightly I guess that they were the professional paid workers. But when I found young girls standing on street corners soliciting every man who came along for signatures, and receiving and exchanging loose remarks because the signatures seemed so precious, I had a cold chill at the thought of my wife or my daughters at some stage going through the same service in Massachusetts. I saw the young girls blush time and time again at what was said to them, but still they held out the paper for the signature. One young girl told me she would like to leave her corner, but they were under strict rules, and she had no right to leave unless relieved."

Taxes Not the Price of the Ballot.

Miss Anne Rutherford, a prominent Georgia Anti-Suffragist, says, apropos of the "taxation without representation" cry of the Suffragists: "Taxes are not the price of the ballot. Taxes are levied for the support of the State or the government, and none are exempt. They must be paid without regard to sex or age. In consideration of this the State or government on its part covenants to give protection to life and property, and the benefits of a well ordered society. We tax foreigners who do not vote. The ballot is a privilege conferred by the State; the State does not sell it. The price is not tax money."

Suffrage and Mormonism.

The four States in the Union in which Mormonism is strongest are all suffrage States. That is a fact about which Suffrage writers and speakers preserve a discreet reticence.

The John Wanamaker Store

Formerly A. T. Stewart & Co., Broadway and Ninth, New York

Monday, August 24, Begins The

"Half-Price Days" in the August Furniture Sale

According to custom, during the last week of the sale, all odd lots, all samples without reserve stock back of them, and all single pieces and suites not to be carried in regular stock, are offered at exactly half our standard prices that prevail at other times of the year.

In this way we dispose of practically all the special August lots in August. We are then free to open the Fall season largely with our regularly assembled stocks.

Please Note Carefully

—that both single pieces and complete suites are included in the offering at half—for the bedroom, dining-room, living room and hall.
—that some of the costliest funiture on our floors is marked to half.
—that to begin with there are hundreds of pieces at half.
—that this final half-price week is not an advertising bait to draw people into the store, but that it is part of our regular August Sale plan to dispose of all August furniture during the sale and not carrying it over into September.

Monday is First Choice

Come Monday if you can and secure first pick.

To:—
Estate of Edward Morgan.
George F. Brown.
Fred A. Martin.
Walter F. Manning.
Central Holding Company
(a corporation)
Helen B. Bauchelle, and any other person, persons or corporations having any interest in the lands below referred to or any part or parcel thereof.

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that it is the intention of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, to take a part of certain lands or real estate, with the appurtenances necessary to be taken, for the laying out and opening of Spooner Avenue, and to appropriate the same for said City, pursuant to the provisions of an ordinance of said City of Plainfield, entitled, 'An Ordinance for the Laying Out and Opening of Spooner Avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Eighth Street to the northwesterly side line of Sherman Avenue," approved July 14th, 1914.

The centre line of said street shall begin at an iron monument in the intersection of the centre lines of West Eighth Street and Spooner Avenue, as the same are now laid out and opened, and running from said point in a southeasterly direction and at right angles to the line of West Eighth Street, over lands now or formerly of the Estate of Edward Morgan, George F. Brown, Fred A. Martin and Walter F. Manning, a distance of 580.2 feet to an iron monument in the centre line of the block between Stelle and Sheridan Avenues, as the same are shown on a map entitled: "Map of Woodland Park, Plainfield, N. J., November 1909. Owned and Developed by Central Holding Company., 1328 Broadway, N. Y. C.," on file in the office of the Register of Union County; and running from said point in a southeasterly direction and at right angles to the line of Sheridan Avenue, over lands now or formerly of the Central Holding Company, a distance of 108.02 feet to an iron monument in the center line of Sheridan Avenue; thence in a southerly direction in a straight line over lands now or formerly of the Central Holding Company and Helen B. Bauchelle a distance of 451.05 feet to a stone monument in the intersection of the center lines of Sherman and Stillman Avenues as the same are now laid out and opened, and there to end. Said street shall be 50 feet in width, that is to say, 25 feet on each side of said center line, and the roadway shall be 30 feet in width, that is to say, 15 feet on each side of said center line. Said center line and also the side and curb lines of said street are delineated on a certain map filed with the City Clerk, April 6, 1914, entitled "Map showing Proposed Laying Out and Opening of Spooner Avenue from West Eighth Street to Sherman Avenue, City of Plainfield, N. J., March, 1914," to which reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken for the laying out and opening of said Spooner Avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Eighth Street to the northwesterly side line of Sherman Avenue are all those lands, real estate and appurtenances included between the side lines above described lying 25 feet on each side of the above described center line and parallel therewith, and includes all that part of the lands, real estate and appurtenances now or formerly of the Estate of Edward Morgan, George F. Brown, Fred A. Martin, Walter F. Manning, The Central Holding Company and Helen B. Bauchelle which lies within said lines.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken and the lines of the proposed street as the same is hereinbefore ordered to be laid out and opened, are shown on said map on file with the City Clerk, hereinbefore referred to and made a part hereof.

YOU ARE FURTHER NOTIFIED that a meeting of the said Common Council will be held in the Council Chambers at No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, on Tuesday, the 8th day of September, 1914, at eight o'clock p. m., at which time and place you will please be present, then and there to treat with said Common Council for said lands or real estate with the appurtenances necessary to be taken.

By order of the Common Council.
JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.
Dated August 3, 1914. 8-15-4-S

TO:—
Estate of John Rafferty.
Bridget Rafferty, Executrix of the Estate of John Rafferty.
Mary E. Rafferty, Executrix of the Estate of John Rafferty.
Ernest White, and any other person, persons or corporations having any interest in the lands below referred to or any part or parcel thereof.

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that it is the intention of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, to take a part of certain lands or real estate, with the appurtenances necessary to be taken, for the laying out and opening of East Fourth Street, and to appropriate the same for said City, pursuant to the provisions of an ordinance of said City of Plainfield, entitled, "An Ordinance for the laying out and opening of East Fourth Street from a point 388.6 feet northeast of the centre of Washington Street to the southwesterly side line of Richmond Street," approved July 6th, 1914.

The center line of said street shall begin at an iron monument in the center line of East Fourth Street, said point being distant, in a northeasterly direction, 388.6 feet along said center line, from the center line of Washington Street, as said streets are now laid out and opened, and running from said point in a northeasterly direction, parallel with and distant 67.5 feet in a southeasterly direction from the center line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, a distance of 846.7 feet to a point in the center line of Richmond Street and there to end. Said street shall be 35 feet in width, that is to say, 17.5 feet on each side of said center line and the roadway shall be 25 feet in width extending along the northwesterly side of said street. Said center line, and also the side and curb lines of said street are delineated on a certain map filed with the City Clerk, April 6, 1914, entitled, "Map Showing proposed Laying Out and Opening of East Fourth Street, from a point 388.6 feet east of Washington Street to Richmond Street, City of Plainfield, N. J., 1914," to which map reference is hereby made for greater certainty.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken for the laying out and opening of said East Fourth Street (the larger part of said street having already been dedicated to the public), include that part of the property now or formerly of the Estate of John Rafferty, and Ernest White described as follows: Beginning at a point where the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street as formerly laid out and opened is intersected by the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street as herein laid out and opened, and running from said point in a northeasterly direction along said line as formerly laid out and opened, a distance of 61.45 feet to a point in the northeasterly line of said property now or formerly of the Estate of John Rafferty; thence along said line in a southeasterly direction a distance of 21.62 feet to the southeasterly side line of East Fourth Street as herein laid out and opened; thence along said line in a southwesterly direction, a distance of 65.42 feet to the place of beginning.

The lands, real estate and appurtenances to be taken and the lines of the proposed street as the same is herein before ordered to be laid out and opened, are shown on said map on file with the City Clerk, hereinbefore referred to and made a part hereof.

YOU ARE FURTHER NOTIFIED that a meeting of the said Common Council will be held in the Council Chambers at No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, on Tuesday, the 8th day of September, 1914, at eight o'clock p. m., at which time and place you will please be present, then and there to treat with said Common Council for said lands or real estate with the appurtenances necessary to be taken.

By order of the Common Council.

forces continued to press forward across the Meuse at Huy in great force. The announcement confirmed the belief here that the general attack of the Germans on the first line of the allied defense has already been begun.

Attention is also fixed on the Russian operations. The czar's military machine is in operation. Its methods, like those of the Germans, do not consider sacrifice of men if the object is attained. The St. Petersburg war office announces that both the Austrian and eastern Prussian frontiers have been penetrated and that the "advance is well in progress."

The Russians have an overwhelming preponderance of the forces engaged as the flower of the German army is engaged in the west, and the Austrian army available was weakened by troops withdrawn for operations against the Servians.

Because of this the British military experts believe the Austrian and German armies commissioned to check the Russian offensive movement will be unable to do so, and important developments are expected to be reported very soon.

A dispatch from Paris says that French cavalry defeated a German cavalry column that had crossed the Rhine from Leopoldshoehe, near the Alsatian village of St. Louis. The Germans were routed, losing 500 in killed and wounded.

U. S. PUTS LIMIT ON JAPAN'S ACTION

Expects to Be Consulted Before Kiaochow Is Occupied.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Japan has received from the United States a formal declaration of policy bearing on Japan's ultimatum to Germany demanding the surrender of Kiaochow.

The American government's attitude was outlined in reply to assurances which Foreign Minister Kato had given to Ambassador Guthrie, according to advices from Tokyo, to the effect that the integrity of China would be preserved.

While regretting that any differences had arisen between Japan and Germany, the United States pointed out that it must refrain from expressing any opinion on the merits of the ultimatum, especially since the ultimatum might lead to war, and it was the avowed policy of this government to maintain absolute neutrality in every phase of the European conflict.

The United States took occasion, however, in a friendly way and diplomatic way to place on record its understanding of the situation as follows:

First—That Japan's purpose was not to seek territorial aggrandisement in China.

Second—That Japan had promised to restore the territory of Kiaochow to China, maintaining the integrity of that republic and acting only in accordance with the Anglo-Japanese alliance, one of the objects of which is the preservation of the commercial commerce interests of all powers in China and the principle of equal opportunity to all.

Third—That in case of serious disorders or disturbances in the interior of China growing out of the unsettled state of affairs in the far east Japan would as a matter of course consult the United States before taking any steps beyond the boundaries of the territory of Kiaochow.

Germans in Heart of Belgium.

Paris, Aug. 22.—The German forward movement in Belgium continued. Their forces are moving steadily south from Brussels and south and west from their bases on the Meuse river.

Despite the great secrecy imposed by the censorship it is considered certain that the battle with the French forces cannot long be delayed. France, and probably England, whose expeditionary forces cannot be located, must now check the Germans.

The Belgians have done their utmost, but they are through. With their capital in the hands of the enemy and the bulk of the Belgian army in Antwerp to protect that fortified city from capture the opposition between the German lines and the French frontier now comprises the French main army.

The French defense plans contemplate a complete check to the Germans, according to officers of the general staff. They expressed supreme confidence in their ability and said that determination of the issue cannot much longer be delayed.

Even now it is stated the outposts of the armies have clashed. And as the movement continues the main forces must quickly be drawn into action.

The French operations in Lorraine have been checked to await the completion of the movement in Upper Alsace. Until that section is swept clear of the enemy from the Swiss border north and from the French frontier to the Rhine the attacks upon Metz and Strassburg cannot take place. The Germans are in strong force in Lorraine and have been intrenching and preparing for a stubborn resistance for several days.

The war bureau announcements were few and far between. It was very frankly stated that it was deemed impossible to permit any real news to become public in the present crisis because the enemy might benefit by the information.

GENERAL LEMAN A PRISONER?

London Hears Belgian Commander Was Captured at Liege.

London, Aug. 22.—A supposedly official message from Berlin which has reached here by wireless ridicules stories emanating from Belgian sources that General Leman, the Belgian commander, escaped from Liege. The message says that General Leman is a prisoner of war at Cologne.

The Daily News and Leader correspondent at Ostend telegraphs that information has reached there from Brussels that the Liege forts were still holding out on Aug. 18 and that the coal mines in the neighborhood were working, the miners being allowed to pass to and from their homes without molestation.

ENGLISH DIRIGIBLE.

Big Machine Shown as She Was Leaving Ground For Flight.

England has almost as many dirigible balloons as Germany. They will probably engage the enemy in the air before the kaiser's army invades France and assist the French in resisting the attack. This picture was taken in England the other day as one of the army aviators was leaving the ground for an experimental trip.

"BACK SOON," SAY GERMANS.

Reservists Expected to Return In Two Weeks, American Writes.

Paris, Aug. 22.—A letter has been received in Paris from an American girl in Berlin, dated Aug. 13, in which the writer says she does not wish to leave the German capital and that Americans there are receiving excellent treatment.

The population of Berlin, she says, was enthusiastic over the fall of Liege and Belfort. Reservists were taking train for the front, saying they would be back in a fortnight.

The fears of Americans in Berlin had been allayed by an announcement that a New York service with two German boats monthly had been assured.

GERMANS ARE CONCENTRATING

Large Forces Crossing the Meuse Near Huy, Belgium.

Paris, Aug. 22.—It was announced officially here that the German forces continue to pass the Meuse river in the vicinity of Huy and that an important German concentration is being carried out in Belgium.

It also was stated that no French territory is occupied by the Germans except a piece of inclosed land at Audun-le-Roman, in the department of Meurthe and Moselle.

BERLINERS ARE ANNOYED.

Over Report That German Music Is Barred at London Hotel.

Berlin, Aug. 22.—The feeling against the British is very strong and burst into a flame at the Hotel Adlon when the word was received that no more German music would be played at the Hotel Cecil in London.

At the Adlon the management announced that in the future the servants would be instructed not to speak good English.

SIBERIA THREAT EFFECTIVE.

Russians Get Better Treatment In Germany, Refugees Say.

London, Aug. 22.—The Times says that the Russians who are arriving at Copenhagen report that the treatment of Russians in Germany has vastly improved within the past ten days.

This is said to be in consequence of Russia's threat to send every German in Russia to Siberia if Russians were maltreated.

GERMAN SHIPS SEIZED.

Three More Are Taken Over by British in the East.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Seizure by Great Britain of the Hansa liners Rheinfels of New York and Warturm of Antwerp at Bombay and the Hamburg-American liner Alesia at Rangoon was officially reported to the state department by American consular representatives.

Ninety-one Servian Guns Taken.

Paris, Aug. 22.—The Matin says the French have captured thus far ninety-one German field guns, four flags and nineteen automobiles.

Lieutenant Colonel Rousset, a retired military critic of excellent reputation, says the great battle has begun along a front of nearly 250 miles, 2,500,000 men taking part.

Russians to Invade Prussia.

London, Aug. 22.—A correspondent in Rome says an official dispatch from St. Petersburg asserts that a Russian army composed of twenty army corps will carry out the invasion of Prussia under the direction of Grand Duke Nicholas.

THE WISCONSIN CAMPAIGN.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 21—One of the most spirited political campaigns that Wisconsin has seen in years is rapidly nearing a close. A week from next Tuesday a general primary election will be held at which all parties will name their candidates for United States Senator, representatives in Congress and a complete ticket of State officers. Factional fights have added interest to the contests in both the Republican and Democratic ranks.

The contest for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, to succeed Isaac Stephenson, is attracting particular attention. The aspirants for the nomination include Francis E. McGovern, of Milwaukee, the present governor; Thomas Morris, of La Crosse, the present lieutenant governor; State Senator Timothy Burke, of Green Bay, Assemblyman Charles E. Estrabrook, of Milwaukee, and Levi H. Bancroft, former speaker of the assembly, who has been indorsed by the conservative faction of the party.

GERMAN PICNIC TOMORROW.

The Plainfield Gesang Society is scheduled to hold a picnic tomorrow at the grove on Interhaven avenue, the borough. The proceeds of the affair are to be used to pay the expenses of the singing section of the society who are to take in the music festival at Trenton, Labor Day.

LABOR DAY NOTES.

The badges which have been secured for the Labor Day parade and the committee in charge, are now being exhibited at the store of Milton H. Hinchcliff, of North Avenue.

Both the local police and fire departments are to represent civic life in the line of march. The members of the local Common Council will also be in line, while the governing bodies of the boroughs of North Plainfield and Dunellen will review the parade.

Merchants entering floats in this parade are requested to report early next week to the committee so that they may be assigned their places in the line of march.

A local concern already has contracts for over $2,000 worth of decorations to cane for an Labor Day.

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT.

MACK'S ATHLETICS CAN BEAT BELGIANS

Only a Superhuman Bombardment Can Displace the Phillies From First Place.

Fort Mack and its valiant defenders, the Athletics, are still holding out against the combined attack of the seven other regularly organized and handsomely uniformed American League teams. General McGillicuddy, commander of the fort, opines that his boys will be able to hold the works until October 7, on which date the hostilities will cease and the allies will lay aside their heavy siege bats until another war is declared in 1916.

As is usually the case in campaigns of this sort the other American League generals do not agree with General McGillicuddy. The leaders of the allied forces call attention to what they consider the weakness of the defenders of Fort Mack—their lack of proficient sharpshooters, or in other words a capable pitching staff. This line of talk has been handed out by the allied forces since the beginning of the campaign last spring. "The Athletics have no pitchers" could be heard several times a day all along the circuit of activities. It was repeated so often that the Mackmen themselves began to wonder what sort of a pitching staff they had.

But the talk of their not having any real flingers has not affected the fighting spirit of the Athletics. Pitchers or no pitchers, the defenders of Fort Mack have kept right on fighting, defeating the enemy in almost every daily skirmish and piling up enough victories to give them a commanding lead in the pennant struggle.

While it cannot be said that the Athletics have a copper-riveted cinch on the flag at the present time, it is hard to see where any other American League team can take it away from them. A few weeks ago General Carrigan and his Red Sox battalion were picked as the parties most likely to make a successful attack on Fort Mack. The Sox brigade made considerable noise in its mad rush to the front, but since their efforts were checked at the second trench their maneuvers have been somewhat of the "back-up" variety.

Some of the war correspondents figured that Field Marshal Griffith and his Washington troops were heavy enough to put the Athletics to rout and capture the Mackmen's stronghold up there. With the great gunner Johnson on the firing line, ably backed by a corps of well trained athletes, it certainly looked like the foxy Field Marshal had the goods. Still, looking like the goods does not suffice in the matter of winning pennants. You have to deliver.

At other times during the present campaign the fans have watched the forced marches and resultant victories of Major Jennings and his fighting Tigers and of Colonel Callahan and his White Hosed warriors. Also have the fans lamped the broadsides fired at Fort Mack by the gallant crew of St. Louis collegians under the command of Rear Admiral Rickey, chief of the Mississippi clam division.

In fact, all of the contenders in the American League pennant war, with the exception of the Nap Zouaves and the "Seventh" Highlanders, have at different times displayed rare fighting ability.

The Naps and the Highlanders, forming the rear guard, have been of little help to the allied forces in the assaults on Fort Mack. Since early in the campaign the rear guard has been so far in the rear that communication has been cut off. Deep regret is felt in New York and Cleveland over the sad plight of the gallant Zouaves and brave Kilties. It has been rumored that some one in sympathy with the Mack cause turned the hose on the rear guard's ammunition before hostilities opened last spring.

In summing up the situation, experts on pennant warfare are of the opinion that the allied forces of the American League are doomed to defeat. The experters declare that old Fort Mack can withstand any kind of an old shot the allies can deliver and that the Athletics will carry the day, and also carry a hunk of world's series money. The chatter of the experts certainly listen good at the present time.

General McGillicuddy has under his command what is technically known in pennant warfare as some ball team. Among the General's class fighters are: E. Collins, chief of the board of strategy, "Home Run" Baker, "Hot Stuff" McInnis and J. Barry, of the heavy artillery division. Murphy, Oldring and Strunk, patroling the outposts; Lapp and Schang, supervisors of sharpshooting, and first-class gunners Plank, Bender, Shawkey, Bressler, Pennock, Wyckoff and Bush.

GOT LOTS OF FISH.

Fred Firstbrook, of East Second street, went fishing Thursday in Princess Bay, and returned home with a nice mess of weakfish. He went out in a rowboat and was kept busy as the weaks were biting good in that vicinity Thursday, and all of the anglers made large catches.

RALPH DE PALMA WINS ELGIN LONG AUTOMOBILE CLASSIC

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 22.—Ralph De Palma, hard pressed by Gil Anderson, won the Cobe Cup automobile race yesterday, finishing the 305 miles in 4.05.01, an average of 73.6 miles an hour. Anderson finished 44 seconds later, followed by Mulford in 4.08.16, and Oldfield in 4.15.23.

De Palma was the winner of the event in 1913, when his average speed was 66.8 miles an hour. His fastest lap yesterday was 6.05, an average of 82.5 miles an hour. Only nine of the twenty-two drivers who started the race were on the course at the finish.

BAYONNE Y. M. H. A. TEAM RECEIVES LOVING CUP

For annexing the championship of the Y. M. H. A. Baseball League, the Bayonne association has been given a silver loving cup. The Hudson county aggregation went through the season without losing a game. North Hudson was second. The other teams that competed were Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Plainfield, Perth Amboy, Jersey City and Paterson.

A special meeting of the executive council will be called soon to finish work left uncompleted at the recent Paterson meeting. The meeting probably will be held in this city.

WESTFIELD ATHLETES PLAN AN ATHLETIC CLUB

A meeting was held recently for the purpose of organizing an athletic club. There were about thirty members present and much business was discussed. Albert Quipp acted as president and A. Tompkins as secretary. The next meeting will be held at one of the member's home. Tomorrow the West End baseball team will cross bats with the Netherwood A. C.

The following games are to be played: Scotch Plains at Westfield, August 28; Eagle A. C., of Elizabeth, at Westfield, Labor Day; West End at Scotch Plains, Labor Day; West End at Netherwood, September 16; Dunellen F. C., at Dunellen, September 23.

ROD AND REEL

The fish are still biting good at Morgan Station and large catches of weakfish, croakers and fluke are being caught daily. Most of the fish are large ones.

There are plenty of fish for the anglers in the old grounds just below Seidler's Beach, weaks being the variety that are caught in the largest numbers.

Reports from Barnegat Bay are that loads of weakfish and bluefish are being caught. The latter are smaller than usual while the weaks are good sized.

One man landed a ten and one-half pound carp in the Rockaway River, yesterday, and also made several catches of perch and catfish.

Reports from Asbury Park are that the striped bass fishing along that section is rather slow at present, although there are many out on the beach every night.

The trout fishing in upper New York is nothing to brag about at present, although fishermen are getting a few every day. The streams have been fairly full of water until a week ago, but the trout can only be picked up in the deeper parts that are difficult to reach.

There is an unusual number of men fishing the surf this year for fluke and it seems that the more fishermen the more fluke there are about to catch. The waters of Sandy Hook, both outside and in the ocean and in the bay just inside of the Hook are overrun with them. Boys, fishing the Shrewsbury River, catch as high as fifteen on a tide and the rod and line fishermen, casting into the surf at Highland Beach, have no trouble in getting a mess. The Long Branch fishing pier and the pier at Asbury Park are both good places for fluke fishing.

Fishing along the shore from Long Branch to Asbury Park is better than for several years. Croakers, kingfish, weakfish and fluke are plentiful, and an occasional striped bass is being picked up. Good catches are being made from the piers as well as from the surf.

DOUBLE HEADER AT WOODLAND GROUNDS

Saurer Will Meet the South River Nine Tomorrow and Two Local Teams Play.

Two good games will be played in this city tomorrow afternoon at Woodland Park. Manager Brit Martin has signed up the South River nine to appear here and they will give the Saurer team a good run for the game. Conshay or Dixon will probably do the twirling for the locals and Alberts will be on the receiving end of the battery. The regular lineup will be used. The game will start at 3:30.

In the other game of the afternoon two local teams will play a preliminary. The Plainfield A. A. and the Highlander team will get into action at 2 o'clock sharp and this should also be a good game. The former aggregation has been playing some of the fastest teams in Newark, while the Highlanders have made a reputation in this city. Maiden and Moulton will be the points for the Plainfields and Denny and Kyle or Dodd will be the points for the Netherwood aggregation. The probable lineup for the Saurer team is as follows, Harriman, 3b; Jaeger, ss; Alberts, c; Martin, 2b; Garretson, 1b; Dixon, rf; Miller, cf; Wilson, lf; Conshay, p.

The teams in the preliminary encounter will face each other as follows: Highlanders: Kyle, 3b; Hoffmeister, 1b; N. Luthman, 2b; T. Denny, ss; Dodd, c; J. Denny, p; Stebor, lf; Hanzel, rf; P. Luthman, cf. Plainfield: O'Leary, 2b; H. Rosenson, rf; B. Rosenson, ss; Pollack, cf; Hirsh, 1b; Moulton, c; Maiden, p; Richardson, 3b; Canter, lf.

SECOND GAME FOR RUSTLERS.

The Rustlers, of the borough, will play the strong St. Joseph's team, of Bound Brook, at that place tomorrow afternoon. The locals will have practically the same team they had last week but they will have to play some fast ball to keep in the same class with their opponents as they are rated as one of the fastest teams in this vicinity. McFadden, the Dunellen twirler, will do the twirling and Teeling will work with him. The local batters will probably find the former a hard one to hit. Denny will probably do the mound work for the Canucks. Abrams will told down an outfield position.

MICHIGAN ELEVEN OUT.

Ann Harbor, Aug. 22—Light football practice has started at Michigan University. Twelve men are working out on Ferry Field daily, ten of them being summer school students. Hughitt, varsity quarter; Lyons, McHale, Bailon and Gale are the "M" men on the list.

QUESTION PACKERS IN FOOD RISE INVESTIGATION

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The actual questioning of packers in the local Federal investigation into the unwarranted rise in the cost of foodstuffs has started. Harry Wilkins, head of the Beef Department, and E. C. Shepard, head of the Cured Meat Department of the Cudahy Packing Company, were interrogated by Assistant District Attorney Hopkins. That important information was secured was indicated by the fact that all books and papers of the company were impounded for further examination Monday.

PRESIDENT WILSON REFUSES TO TAKE TRIP ON MAYFLOWER

Washington, Aug. 22.—President Wilson took an automobile ride shortly after 5 o'clock this morning. This is the first time the President has taken his ride at such an early hour. Efforts to have him take a week-end cruise on the Mayflower failed, although the yacht today had steam up and was in readiness to clip her cable and sail at a minute's notice. The President feels that he should remain in Washington.

W. F. ALLTON, OF BROOKLYN, AT NETHERWOOD HOME

The service at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home tomorrow afternoon will be of special interest. The speaker will be W. F. Allton, of Brooklyn, a very prominent lay worker in one of the large city missions of Brooklyn, who has the reputation of being a very earnest and interesting speaker to young people, and no doubt he will have a message that will be alike helpful to young and old. The special music will be under the direction of Mrs. Hadley, who has devoted much of her time to this phase of the work this summer. There are only three remaining weeks for the work at the Home, and at its close it will have been one of the most successful seasons in the history of the work.

The public has been very generous in responding to the calls for help, and thus made it possible to bring out to the country more mothers and children, and bring into their lives much of the sunshine and happiness that they otherwise would have missed. The public is invited to this and all the remaining services of the Home, and it is hoped that there will be a large number in attendance at this service on Sunday. The meetings during the coming week on Tuesday and Friday evenings will be in charge of the Epworth League of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church and Mrs. Robert Love.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The second of the open-air meetings to be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the intersection of Front and Church streets. Rev. Dr. Robert F. Y. Pierce will give one of his interesting chalk talks and the Dutch Arms Band will furnish music.

Rev. J. W. P. Collier, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, has announced his subjects for tomorrow as follows: Morning, "The Important Choice;" evening, "The World-wide Invitation." Immediately after the morning service, the class meeting will be held.

The local Flower and Fruit Guild will receive contributions of flowers, fruit and delicacies at the W. C. T. U. rooms at the usual hours Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning, the gifts to be used for distribution among the shutins of the city.

Rev. Elliot, of Orange, will preach tomorrow at both morning and evening services at the Ebenezer Baptist church.

SUCH IS BASEBALL.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 22—Two twirlers pitched no-hit ball yesterday in the Southern Michigan League. Bravener, of the Mount Clemens club, accomplished a feat seldom recorded in baseball when he went eleven hitless innings against Battle Creek. Russel Robbins, of the Saginaw club, shut out Jackson without the semblance of a hit. Umpire Blake was choked into insensibility and severely beaten by a crowd at Bay City, which resented a decision at the plate in the game with South Bend.

DEATH OF MRS. AYERS.

Mrs. Samuel Ayers, of 22 Harmony street, died this morning after a short illness, at the age of fifty-six years. Aside from her husband, she is survived by several children. The funeral services will be held from the late home Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The interment will be made in the Methodist cemetery.

SENATOR PIERCE ENDORSED.

The endorsement last week by the Cranford Republican Club, of the condidacy of Senator Calrton B. Pierce, of Cranford, while perhaps a mere formality, was nevertheless timely and deserved. Senator Pierce has no Republican competitior for the Senatorial nomination, and therefore needs no special effort in his behalf at the primaries. However it is not too early to direct attention to Senator Pierce's qualifications to hold the position to which he again aspires, or to point to his accomplishments as a legislator. The fact that State Senators are only elected once in three years, makes the office all the more a coveted prize. It will no doubt be strenuously sought for by the Democrats in the November election. But Senator Pierce ought to win again if efficient services and results count for anything with the voters of Union county.—Summit Herald.

COUNCILMAN CALKINS IN TOWN.

Councilman Leighton Calkins, candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor, was in town over night and until noon today. He has been spending August at East Gloucester, Mass., and motored down from that place to Plainfield, taking four days for the trip. With Mrs. Calkins he will return to East Gloucester today. He is looking very well, and feels much improved in health, having been tired out when he went away because of the strenuous work which he did as councilman during the past winter. He will return to town within a few weeks.

SEN. ACKERMAN AT HONOLULU.

Former Senator and Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, who have been in Japan and China for several weeks, are now on the way home. According to a cablegram received by friends, they are sailing for this country on the Steamship Siberia, which flies the American flag, and arrived in Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, yesterday. The exact date of their arrival in Plainfield has not been set. The Daily Press on Monday will print a long letter from the Senator, describing some of his experiences in China and the Far East.

IN SILK ASSOCIATION

The Berkelden Silk Mill, of this city, was one of the seventeen firms elected to membership in the Silk Association of America at the special meeting held yesterday. The local concern has its factory on Washington avenue and is engaged in the manufacture of broad silks. S. M. Rosenthal is the president.

place. All telephone communication was cut off for several hours due to breaks in the wires. In the Watchung Valley a heavy rain fell but little damage was reported.

At noon yesterday the temperature was 86 degrees but after the storm the mercury dropping to 7 degrees. In the early morning the temperature was 70 degrees. Prior to the storm the humidity averaged 70 per cent. The wind at noon was northwest with a velocity of seven miles an hour. Today much relief has been felt. The air is cleared up and the temperature is decidedly lower.

Westfield came in for its share of the effects of the storm, the lower end of Elm street, sections of Broad street, and portions of Westfield avenue being flooded. The new edifice of the Methodist church was struck but little damage was accomplished by the bolt of lightning.

$12,535 WORTH OF PERMITS GIVEN

New Work Under Way This Month Will Probably Reach $90,000.

TWO NEW RESIDENCES

One Business Building and a Garage Are Included In Structures For Which Chief Doane Has Given Permits.

One business structure, two dwellings, and one garage is the sum and substance of the building activity in this city during the week. The aggregate cost of these proposed buildings is estimated in the vicinity of $12,535, bringing the total cost of new buildings for which permits have been granted thus far this month up to $31,500, and for alterations $20,000 thus making a total of $51,325. With several further buildings in view, the operations for this month should aggregate from $90,000 to $100,000.

Several buildings are in sight as indicated in other columns of this page and many of the contractors feel that they are justified in believing that sufficient work will be started before the cold weather sets in to keep the building trades craftsmen busy on inside work for some length of time into the winter. Permits granted during the course of the past week are:

SECOND WARD.

John Thorpe and Charles Smith are to jointly erect a one family dwelling on South avenue, west of Leland avenue, at a cost of $3,500. The structure will have a frontage of twenty-four feet and a depth of thirty feet, being two stories and attic high. The base course and foundation will be of concrete and the framework of oak and chestnut, while the roof will be of shingles. A hot air heating system is to be installed. W. H. Clum is the architect, Frank Sheriff the mason contractor, while the owners will care for the carpentry work.

Catherine Vail has been granted a permit for the construction of a two and half frame dwelling at 1329 South avenue, suitable for one family. The building will have a frontage of thirty-two feet and a depth of twenty-six feet. The framework will be of hemlock, with a singled roof. A hot water system will furnish heat. The cost is estimated at $3,500.

Gordon and Van Tyne, of Davenport, Ohio, are the architects, Joseph Creager the mason contractor, while Bicknell and Bicknell of Watchung, have been awarded the contract for the carpenter work.

THIRD WARD.

Emma C. Kimball, of New York city, is to erect a hollow terra cotta block garage at the rear of her property, located at 930 Madison avenue. The building will be twenty-two by twenty-four feet. The estimated cost is placed at $535. George Studer has the contract for the entire work.

FOURTH WARD.

The building on West Front street for which a permit has been granted to E. R. and G. B. Naylor, is described in another column.

REALTY TRANSFERS

The following realty transfers from this end of Union county were among those recently filed with the registrar at Elizabeth:

Rebecki Lander to Marcus Goldfars, southerly side Sixth street, 265 feet southeasterly of Franklin place, Plainfield, $1.

Kuppenberg to Rubin Resnick et ux., Third street, 220 feet northeasterly of Plainfield avenue, Plainfield, $1.00.

William H. Wright, sheriff, to William Abbott, easterly side Hillside avenue, 240 feet southerly of Putnam avenue, Plainfield, $200.

William H. Wright, sheriff, to John Ross, southwesterly side Summit avenue, 341 feet of Park street, Westfield, $4,000.

Realty transfers of the surrounding towns as recorded at the Middlesex county seat at New Brunswick recently are as follows:

Jens Miller has bought of Paul Miller house and lot in Oakdale Park, Piscataway township, and sold same to Arthur F. Randolph.

Plainfield Suburban Realty Co., to Mrs. Sophia Polk, 3 lots Mountain View Park, Piscataway township.

Albert H. Peal bought of the Stelton Land Co., four lots in Piscataway township.

William B. McLain Realty Co., sold to John N. Birnbaum a Lincoln Estate lot.

Ernst Rebentisch bought of the Equator Building and Development Co., an Equator Park plot, Dunellen.

Jacob S. Harrison sold to Philip Kessler two lots, Plainfield Terrace.

Harry Kirshenbaum has bought of the Wm. B. McLain Realty Co., a lot in the Lincoln Estates.

William H. Laird has bought of Hudson Union Realty Co., 57 acres of land on the road leading to South Plainfield in Piscataway township.

REPLACES OLD STATE SCHOOL BUILDING CODE

New Set of Rules Has Become Effective Within Last Few Days.

Trenton, Aug. 22—New Jersey's new school building code, believed by the State's educational authorities to be unequaled among similar regulations throughout the county, became effective last week. It replaces the set of rules adopted in August of 1912, by the State Board of Education and was drawn up to meet the objections of the country school districts which claimed the old regulations prevented the erection of certain sized school buildings that were not fireproof.

The new code applies only to new buildings and additions to old structures. A false impression as to this gained ground in the school districts, and the Department of Public Instruction desires that it be plainly understood that the new rules do not apply to old buildings. Under the new regulations, classrooms can now be lined with windows from the left side and rear, providing the required amount of glass is placed in these windows. Laboratories and libraries may be lighted from windows placed in any part of the room or skylights may be used. Considerable latitude is also added in the matter of installing ventilators.

In order to meet the objections of rural districts, the new code provides for the erection of two-story buildings that may be of frame, but the halls, doors, etc., must be of fireproof material. Under the new set of regulations three-story buildings that are erected in the future must retain the fireproof features. Basement heights have been increased in the new code from six to seven feet. The new code is also amended so as to permit frame buildings two stories in height, having as many as eight rooms, providing stairs and corridors are fireproof. The code has also been changed so as to allow the construction of buildings with eight classrooms on the second floor with two stairways, one at each end of the building. The old code required that such construction have three stairways.

The new code was drawn up by a special committee of the State Board of Education, consisting of Melvin A. Rice, Dr. William G. Schauffler and former Senator Frelinghuysen, assisted by John P. Murray, another member of the Board, and Inspector of Buildings McDermott.

FIFTEEN PER CENT. INCREASE IN NATIONAL BUILDING

According to the current issue of Construction News, building construction in the United States increased fifteen per cent. during the month of July over the same month of last year. Only twenty-five of the cities investigated showed decreases, and those widely scattered sections.

Five cities of New Jersey were included in the investigation, with the following results: Passaic, gain of fifty-six per cent.; Elizabeth loss of two per cent.; Paterson, loss of nine per cent.; Bayonne, loss of fourteen per cent.; Newark, loss of ten per cent.

Dun's Review conducted a similar investigation in seventy-five cities throughout the entire country, twenty-five of which showed a decrease in operations. Trenton, of this State, was included in this list, and showed an increase of $131,480. Cities in the northwest show the greatest increases in both of the lists referred to.

EFFECT OF WAR ON REAL ESTATE FELT BY SOME

How far the European war will affect the realty market and the building world of this vicinity cannot be estimated at this time, as the war is yet young, and one cannot foresee how far the war itself will go.

Ernest D. Mulford, of one of the Elizabeth realty concerns, has the following to say on this timely subject: "I believe that as the days roll by, the war news will cease to cause such great excitement as is always manifest at the outset of a conflict, and that in time things will settle down to normal. There are many families seeking houses to buy and flats and apartments to rent, and all are ready to do business when they are shown the property that suits them as to location and price."

Despite Mr. Mulford's opinion that the war will not greatly embarrass realty conditions, many builders and speculators feel that stories of suffering and bloodshed in the public print and uppermost in the minds of all readers of the current events, tend to create a feeling of unrest which is detrimental to their enterprise.

The builders of the cheap and moderately priced houses will feel the strain probably more than dealers in the expensive residences and apartment houses. The reasonable priced homes always have found purchasers among the thrifty German-Americans, real estate men aver, and with the fatherland in trouble, few will expend their years' earnings for a dwelling, especially if there are prospects that the Kaiser will need the services of those who left Germany for other shores.

MARCHANT BROTHERS TO HAVE MORE STORE ROOM

Among the building operations anticipated for early fall is the extensive addition being planned for Marchant Brothers' milk depot on Watchung avenue. The plans for the proposed extension are now well under way, and actual work on the construction of the improvements will be started shortly after the plans are completed. Excavation of the cellar for the new portion of the building has been under way for some time, Mobus Brothers having the contract for this work.

The addition will give to Marchant Brothers approximately double the amount of their present floor space, much needed on account of the increase in their business. The addition will occupy a vacant lot which was at one time occupied by the old B. P. O. E. clubhouse. While the details of the new building have not, as yet, been finally decided upon, they will be completed within a short time, and bids will be asked for. It is estimated that the building will cost several thousand dollars. J. Fred MacDonald is the owner of the property.

FEW CONTRACTS FILED OF LOCAL INTEREST

Building throughout the county remains brisk, and from present indications will remain so until late in the fall. Many buildings are being planned, and should a fair portion of these be enclosed before real cold weather sets in, the craftsmen should be kept busy well into the winter. Among the proposed buildings now under consideration which will undoubtedly be started this fall, will be a new High School at Summit, a Y. M. H. A. building at Elizabeth, a $9,000 municipal building at Garwood and a new M. E. church at Roselle Park.

The real estate market of the county, however, remains stagnant, with but little life. Not in several years has real estate experienced so little activity.

During the past two weeks, thirty-one building permits have been filed with the county clerk at Elizabeth, calling for the expenditure of a sum aggregating in the vicinity of $80,763. The following contracts have been filed from this end of the county:

Harry Taub with Bloom Constructing Co., plumbing work, new building, West Front street, Plainfield, $3,000.

R. L. McIntosh with John L. Miller, plumbing work, remodeling building, Dudley avenue, Westfield, $135.

Same with A. Hunt, painting work, $154.

Same with Poston & Apgar Co., carpenter work, $1,370.

Louis Gordon with Hoffman & Wachter, plumbing work, new building, Garwood, $300.

NEW REALTY DEVELOPMENT.

A realty exchange occurred this week in which George Sarson, of Washington, N. J., takes over the property at 1348 West Front street, opposite the plant of the Saurer Motor Truck Company, in exchange for about thirty acres of land on East Front street, which goes to the E. and E. Realty Company. The realty concern has announced that they will develop their recently acquired property, putting through new streets and laying the tract out in building lots next spring. This tract of ground in the East End of the city is in a rapidly growing section of the city, the majority of the dwellings erected during the course of the past two or three years having been constructed in that locality. The exchange was made through V. W. Nash, Jr.

LARGE FARM SOLD.

A New York real estate firm has sold to a client for Henry W. Rogers, of Washington Valley, his farm of sixty-five acres. The farm is improved with a large house and outbuildings. It has been stated that $30,000 was paid for the tract. The name of the buyer was not made public.

BUSINESS BUILDING FOR THE WEST END

$5,000 to Be Used to Build Home For Hardware Concern.

The West End of the city is to have another commercial building on West Front street just below DeKalb avenue, according to a permit issued during the past week to E. R. and G. B. Naylor, of 1001 West Front street. The structure, which is to have a frontage of thirty-six feet and a depth of one hundred feet on the first floor, will be constructed of cement hollow block, and will be modern in every way. The plans, drawn by G. B. Naylor, show the architecture to be strictly up-to-date, and is arranged so that both floors may be utilized in caring for the wholesale hardware and plumbing supply business, which is to occupy the building upon completion. The second floor will not take in the entire length of the building, but will run back but seventy-five feet. The estimated cost has been placed at $5,000.

The base course and foundation will be of concrete, with the superstructure of the cement blocks. The roof will be of rubberoid, while a steam heating system of a modern type is to be installed. The building will undoubtedly be the forerunner of other business structures in that rapidly growing section of the city, where the influx of population has been the means of building up a large territory. While the operations there may be somewhat lax until such times as the shops of the West End resume normal conditions, a business section on a small scale is scheduled to come sooner or later.

G. B. Naylor, who is the architect of the building, will care for the carpenter work, while the mason contract has been awarded to W. G. Clawson, of Dunellen.

$9,000 APARTMENT HOUSE TO BE BUILT BY BLOOM CO.

Among the plans and specifications approved by the State Board of Tenament House Supervision recently, were those by Nathan Bloom, calling for the construction of two two-story frame buildings which are to be erected at 605-607 West Fourth street. These buildings will cost in the vicinity of $9,000.

At the time these plans were passed, plans for other tenements were passed calling for the erection of a total of fourteen new buildings in various parts of the State, the aggregate cost of which will be in the vicinity of $128,000, while alterations on six other buildings were passed, on which $5,100 worth of improvements will be made.

Mr. Bloom had the cellars for his building on West Fourth street excavated some time ago, and has been awaiting the action of the State Board. These buildings will occupy the last vacant lots on West Fourth street east of Grant avenue, going to show that the Third Ward has not been far behind the other wards in the supply of new buildings in recent years. The Bloom Construction Company, of which Mr. Bloom is the head, has at present a two story building in the course of construction at West Fourth street and Plainfield avenue, with stores on the first floor, and apartments on the second. The building which is of concrete block up to the second floor, will be completed this fall. The work on the new apartments will be started shortly. In erecting these structures, Mr. Bloom is keeping apace with the demand for modern dwellings in this section of the city, which has been growing rapidly for some years past. Mr. Bloom is also interested in the erection of the eight houses now going up on West Front street and Giraud avenue, on the old Harburger tract.

JUST NOTES

The following sales in nearby towns are reported by the New York Suburban Land Company: At Garwood, a plot 40x100 in Pine avenue to John S. Lamb; a plot 60x100 in Willow avenue to William H. Hunt; a plot 40x100 in Hemlock avenue to Henry Braden, and a plot 60x100 in Hemlock avenue to George B. Stafford.

Only one sale was made in Westfield, a plot 40x100 in Trenton avenue to R. Landecker.

Plainfield is not the only city in North Jersey interested in the erection of a new school building. Summit, this county, is planning for a new High School building.

The deed transferring the old Janeway property on Livingston avenue, New Brunswick, to the Y. M. C. A., of that place, has been filed with the Middlesex county clerk. A new building, with all modern improvements, is expected, although it is doubted whether the building will be started before spring.

Schwed Brothers, of East Front street, are having minor alterations made about their store, among which are new floors for their show windows.

The New York Central Railroad Company has announced plans for another large structure for the Grand Central Terminal zone, to be in harmony with the terminal's architecture, and so constructed that ten or twelve stories can be added. Plans have been filed with the building department, and the estimated cost is $500,000. The structure will occupy the block bounded by Lexington avenue, Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth streets and Depew place. It will face the Grand Central Palace. A four-story building is planned, which can be raised if renting conditions demand it. Warren & Wetmore are the architects.

When a railroad files plans for a $500,000 building, indications must be bright for business picking up in the near future.

Among the new buildings planned throughout the county is a three-story hotel building to be constructed at North avenue and Alden street, Cranford. S. R. Droescher and J. W. Heins are the owners of the property on which the structure is to be erected.

IN THE SUBURBS

North Plainfield.

The Standard Investment and Real Estate Company awarded a general contract during the course of the past week to J. Newton Apgar, for the erection of a two and a half story frame dwelling on Duer street.

Dunellen.

Building operations in the borough of Dunellen manage to keep all local building craftsmen at work. This place is the one spot in the immediate vicinity where building activities have maintained an even pace all season, without the usual ups and downs. Aside from the Lincoln School, the largest building now under way is the four-family brick house being erected on Bound Brook road by Walter Clawson for Frank Jaruszwoski.

Samuel Smith has under construction a frame dwelling on Columbia street for Charles Smith. It is expected that the house will be ready for occupancy by Labor Day.

Another business building is to be erected on North avenue for Kuldoshes Brothers, Charles Wrage having the general contract. The business section of Dunellen has been steadily gaining.

Lincoln and Middlesex Borough.

O. A. LaPointe has been awarded the contract for the construction of a six-room frame dwelling of the bungalow type for R. C. Hart, of New York. Work on this building was started during the course of the past week.

Two lots and a six-room house at Mountain and Voorhees avenues, belonging to Charles Wuelfing, was sold this week through the agency of O. A. LaPointe to Catrone Consellettri. The consideration was $1,800.

South Plainfield.

Judge Smith has sold the Palmer property during the past week to Charles Thornton. The purchase price was not made known.

D. C. Thompson has started work on two dwellings on Lakeview avenue, while the Merchants and Traders Realty Company have started two additional dwellings on the south side of the Lehigh tracks. The contracts for the latter dwellings have been awarded to William Burd, of Plainfield. Anna Burcanno is having a dwelling erected on the Oak Tree road. This will be of the bungalow type.

TEA-ROOM STARTED.

The work on the tea house at Washington Rock was started this week. The excavation for the building has been completed, and the foundation started. Stahl & Kinney, of the borough, are the contractors. The building, which is of the bungalow type, will include apartments for the caretaker as well as the tea-room.

$3,000 BAKE SHOP.

Nathan Lewis, of West Third street, has contracted with the National Contracting Company for the construction of a new bakeshop and oven at 511 West Third street. The estimated cost is placed at $3,000. The mason contract has been sub-let to Cormack Caulfield, of this city.

CHAPTER XI.

A Test of Courage.

I THINK sometimes when a man suffers his mind is apt to go back over his life and linger on some terrible hardship he has experienced, and that by making a comparison between the present suffering and that of the past he finds some consolation. It is no uncommon thing to hear a man or woman say, "If I could go through that I surely can stand this present trouble."

A similar comparison confronted me in the forest when mental torture threatened to drive me back to civilization before my time was up. It was about an experience I had undergone many years before in the northern Maine country, and the remembrance of it on those lonesome times made me realize that my lot at present was far less hard in comparison.

I, too, said to myself, "If I could endure that night I can surely win this battle with my mind." The recollection of that adventure in the canyon eighteen years before aided me greatly in this respect.

At that time I was in northern Maine. One morning I was called upon to prepare for a sixty mile ride, being told at the same time that a young woman was to be intrusted to my care.

It was the latter part of January, and from six to ten feet of snow covered the ground. That very morning it was snowing, but it was a light snow, and the air was unusually warm for that time of the year.

After we had ridden for about twenty miles the snow turned to rain, and the horse began to slump badly.

Presently we entered a canyon where a ledge overhung the path. To the left was a river, which, because of the light snow, had overflowed its bank and undermined the deep snow.

I stopped the horse in order to let him rest a moment. We started forward again, and just as we came to the lowest part, close to the river, the horse broke through the surface of the snow into the water, dragging the sleigh with us in it after him.

The water was up to our waists, and it was bitter cold. It was a wild sort of country. Just above our heads, hanging from the ledge, were tons of icicles, measuring anywhere from 75 to 100 feet long. It is easy to imagine what would have happened to us if they had chanced to fall.

Taking off my fur coat, I jumped into the slop up to my waist and took the girl on my back. After falling down several times I managed to make my way with her to solid ground a bit higher up on one side.

It stopped raining and began to get very cold. I looked back at the horse and saw that he was struggling hard to get on solid ground. He didn't seem to gain an inch. I went back through the slop and, after cutting the harness away from the rig, tried to lead him across the space of slush and snow. In the struggle the sleigh was smashed.

My legs were almost numb, and I jumped up and down as I tried to help the horse.

It was dark by now, and soon the moon came out.

To make matters worse the ice began to cram down the river, and I had to push and crowd away the big cakes which threatened every minute to sweep the horse's feet from under him.

If the horse could only go twenty-five feet he would be all right. I pushed down the snow and ice and endeavored to make a clearing for the animal, and I worked till I could scarcely stand up. Many a time I had to hang on to the horse's neck to keep myself from falling.

Then I heard the girl cry, and I went to her. She could not stand, she was so thoroughly chilled.

To keep her blood moving fast I thrashed her in good shape. She would cry with the pain.

Finally I stood there wondering what I should do. I said to myself that the nearest house was four miles away. I knew that I could get there myself, but by the time I returned the girl would be dead and probably the horse. I could not carry the girl. I had not even the strength to drag her.

By this time ice had formed about the horse, and I had to break it away all around him. I hung on to the horse's neck and gazed at the moon in despair. I cursed that moon. I cursed everything in the world.

"Nothing I have ever attempted has come out right," I cried. "I have been up against it and have had to struggle all my life. This is my last struggle, and I don't care.

"I'll stay with the horse," I continued to myself. "What is the difference?"

Continually slipping and crashing down, the horse struggled forward. When he fell I would pull him up again. Then I would hear the girl cry again.

Once when I reached her side and spoke to her she did not answer. I lifted her up, but she fell back flat. Then I beat her as if I were mad and dragged her about, tearing her clothes. Then she moaned and screamed, and I knew that she was still alive.

This exercise with the girl didn't rest me any, and before I made another journey to the horse I was forced to get my breath.

Again I was forced to break away the ice. The horse's legs were numb, and I had to beat him to keep him struggling.

I was suffering excruciating pain, and I know it made a different man of me.

With a superhuman effort the horse got within ten feet of sure footing. I knew that everything hung on the next struggle, and I wondered if the animal and I were equal to it.

First I went back to the girl and beat her some more. Pulling her out into the snow, I took my robe away from her and left her half dead.

Using this robe as a footing, I made ready for the final struggle with the horse. I knew it was the last, because I realized the animal wouldn't last through another one. Neither would I.

The struggle began with a thrashing of hoofs and a lashing about. Suddenly the horse gave a mighty plunge, and his forward feet struck the solid ground. He stood there trembling.

The horse was entirely free now.

When I got my breath I went fearfully to the side of the girl.

"I'm all right," she said faintly. "Don't wait for me. Go along. Leave me here. I'm not suffering any more."

I dropped her back and went after the horse.

First I would rub the limbs of the girl, and then I would start doing the same thing to the horse until I couldn't rub any more.

Sample of Knowles' Writing With Burnt Sticks on Birch Bark.

Finally I made an attempt to throw the girl across the horse's back, but to save my life I couldn't lift her up.

After trying half a dozen times I managed to sling her across, and for an instant I thought the animal was going to cave in under her.

I steered him by the rough places, for I knew if he slumped it would be all off. For about a mile our sorry trio continued until we reached a point where a narrow gauge logging railroad crossed the footpath. I knew that it would be easier going between the rails of this track, so I led the creature on to the track, taking care that he did not stumble and fall.

We were still three miles from the nearest house, and it was growing colder every minute.

Then, all of a sudden, I discovered just in time an opening bridge ahead of us, over which the horse could not possibly cross. It certainly seemed as if fate were blocking me at every point.

As I stood there I heard away in the distance the sound of a train coming. In the night the engineers and firemen of these trains do not look out of the cab windows, because they do not expect to see anything on the track in winter. I tried to lead the horse off the track, but he would not budge an inch.

I saw that something had to be done at once. I grabbed the girl, dragged her off the horse's back and laid her down beside the track.

Walking along beside the horse during the last hour had given some of my strength back, and when the animal would not move a second time I began to push him with my shoulder. The train was quite near now, and in my frantic efforts to get the horse off the rails I reached down and grabbed his right foot and threw my whole strength against him. Down he went with a crash beside the track, and I held him down by the head so he could not get up.

How I wanted that train to stop just then! I began to shout. As the train came nearer my yells were lost in the roar of the engine.

It slid past us, and no one knew we were within a thousand miles.

It was useless to attempt to cross that bridge—in fact, it could not be done. I left the horse and started through the snow by the side of the track to see how far away the road might be and discovered it was only about thirty-five feet distant.

Heaven knows it was near enough, but there was a six foot alder brush which we would have to go through, and the snow had loaded this down with a ten foot deep covering. I began to dig an opening and after laborious work tunneled a place through which the horse could go to the road.

Upon reaching the girl I found her numb and still. I began beating her again, dragging her about on the track and bumping her over the sleepers.

Then I left the girl again and fought with the horse. I finally got him through the deep snow to the tunnel and out on to the road. As soon as this was done I went back to the girl and carried her to the horse and managed to get her once more on his back.

I don't remember much that followed for a spell, but I do know that I suddenly looked up and really saw the house just ahead.

I kept rubbing the girl's limbs and telling her we were there and encouraging her until we reached the yard. There was a light in one of the windows. I staggered up to the door of the house, fell down on the steps and rapped. The door opened and a man appeared. I could just talk, but I could not stand.

"Take this woman into the house, and the horse into the stable," I gasped. "Bandage up his legs and stop the blood. Don't ask me any questions. I'll tell you later."

The girl was quickly taken into the house. I felt relieved. My job was done. I relaxed.

The man began to ask questions.

"Don't ask me anything. Leave me alone for an hour," I begged. I did not want them to touch me at all.

"Won't you have a glass of cider?" the man asked quietly.

I didn't answer, but he disappeared and came back shortly with a dipperful of the sour stuff. It was a big two quart dipper, and it was full. I grabbed it from his hand and drained it to the last drop. The dipper fell from my hands to the floor, and I sank down in front of the fire.

We had reached that house after seven hours of torture and cold.

While the girl had frozen the side of her face, one hand and the sides of her feet, she recovered. She was covered with black and blue places where I had beaten her and dragged her about.

The horse came through all right.

With the exception of a badly cut up pair of legs I was as well as if nothing had happened the next morning.

* * * * * * *

When I entered the wilderness on Aug. 4, 1913, I placed entire dependence upon my knowledge of the woods, which I had gained from practical experience. In the preliminary catechizing of myself I could think of nothing that would block me in the undertaking.

I had never read any books on the primitive man or the primitive life. I simply knew what I had been forced to do in the past, and I felt that such knowledge would carry me through, as proved to be the case.

A knowledge of woodcraft can never be gained through the reading of books. While certain methods can be described in this manner, the reader will never grasp the true spirit of the subject unless he has the practical experience to go with it. A little of this practical experience goes a long way.

If a man is really interested, his year by year contact with the woods will aggregate a considerable amount of knowledge. While he is in the forest a man is not making a study of nature through the medium of type set pages, but he is gradually absorbing the real fundamentals through the great big open book of nature—the one natural textbook, written on the mountainsides, the trees, the surface of the waters, and in the thicket, by the greatest author of them all—the Almighty.

In attempting to give you a little insight into the fascination of woodcraft I will begin by touching upon the various trails which are to be found all over the woods.

There are many kinds of trails—natural game trails and those made by man. However, all trails are very much alike. In every instance a trail, whether it be made by man or animal, follows through the wilderness, over streams, along the line of least resistance.

When a man builds his camp in a virgin country he makes his trail to the spring along the easiest way. If an animal had come there years before and started from the site of this same camp he would have made a trail to this same spring exactly the same as the man made it—simply because it was the easiest way to make it.

The spotted or blazed trail, like the others, follows this line of least resistance. The blazed trail is not a trampled trail. It is a trail made by spots on the trees with an ax.

Swinging to the right or left as the land may go, but always keeping one point of the compass in mind, the man in making a blazed trail marks a spot or a blaze on a tree with his ax. From the last blaze he looks ahead, singles out another tree, and when he reaches it makes another blaze there. On he goes through the forest, making a spot here and there in this manner.

Even the amateur can easily follow a blazed trail. When he comes to a spotted tree all he has to do is to look ahead to the right or left until he sees another blazed tree. Upon reaching that he goes through the same performance. Thus he goes from tree to tree all the way along the trail.

To return to the natural game trails. These trails are worn through the process of one animal after another drifting along over the same ground. They use the same route through the forest because that is the easiest way to go. The woods are full of these trails.

FASHION HINT

By JUDIC CHOLLET

Overwaists make an important feature of late summer and autumn fashions, and this one is both exceptionally pretty and exceptionally practical.

It is entirely separate from the blouse beneath, and consequently it can be worn or omitted, as liked, while it also can be made available for other combinations.

As shown here it is made of rose colored taffeta, while the blouse is of white organdie.

The blouse is in the Japanese style, with tucks over the shoulders to provide becoming fullness.

For the medium size the blouse will require three and one-half yards of material twenty-seven inches wide and the overwaist one and three-fourth yards thirty-six inches wide.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8349, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

NO LOOKING BACK IN PLAINFIELD.

New Evidence Constantly Being Published.

Since the long succession of Plainfield reports were first published in the local press there has been no looking back. Plainfield evidence continues to pour in, and—better still—those whose reports were first published many years ago, verify all they said in a most hearty and unmistakable way. Read the experience of Mrs. E. Dorflinger, of 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, N. J. She says: "The first symptoms of kidney trouble was a dull, heavy pain in my back and head. This was followed by a tired, languid feeling and I knew that my kidneys were gradually giving out. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and getting a box at Randolph's drug store, I began using them. Before long I improved and I continued taking Doan's Kidney Pills until I was cured. I hold just as high an opinion of them now as when I gave my former endorsement recommending them. The cure they made has been permanent."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Dorflinger had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

Some Cookery Suggestions

PUTTING UP PEARS.

ONE of the most popular fruits in the list for putting up is pears. Pickled or preserved they are especially popular.

Slice the Fruit.

Ginger Pears.—Put three pounds of sugar, one-half cupful water and the juice from three large lemons into a preserving kettle. When the sugar is dissolved add four pounds of sliced pears, one-half pound of ginger root scraped and cut in thin slices and the thin yellow rind of one lemon. Cook slowly for one hour uncovered. Can while hot.

Use Plenty of Spice.

Sweet Pickled Pears.—Peel and quarter pears and boil until tender, but not broken. Drain and lay on platters to cool. For six pounds of the fruit allow three pounds of granulated sugar, a quart of vinegar, a teaspoonful of cloves and two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon. Put the spices into a cheesecloth bag and drop into the vinegar and sugar. Boil to a thin sirup, lay in the pears and boil for several minutes longer. Pack the pears into jars, fill to overflowing with the boiling liquid and seal.

Keep In a Stone Jar.

Spiced Pears.—Wash one-half peck of seckel pears, prick with a fork and cook until soft in boiling water, to cover. Take out, put in a stone jar and pour over them the following sirup: Mix one pound of white sugar, one and one-half cupfuls of vinegar and one and one-half tablespoonfuls each, of whole cloves and stick cinnamon, broken in pieces. Bring to the boiling point, then let simmer three minutes. Cover jar and let stand two days. Drain sirup off, bring to the boiling point, let simmer three minutes and pour over fruit; repeat. In the jar keep a muslin bag, in which is tied two tablespoonfuls, each, of whole cloves and stick cinnamon.

A Favorite Recipe.

Preserved Pears. — Take twelve pounds of pared, cored and halved pears, eight pounds of sugar, four cupfuls of water, the juice of four lemons, rind of two lemons cut into strips and two ounces of ginger root. Drop the pears in cold water as soon as ready. Boil together the sugar, lemon juice, peel and ginger root for half an hour. Then put the pears in the sirup a few at a time and cook about a quarter of an hour. Take out and arrange in glass jars. Then boil the sirup until thickened, and pour over the fruit. Seal at once.

He Was Whining.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Trapper Who Was Kind To the Dog.

"WANT to hear a story about a trapper in the woods and a dog?" asked daddy one evening.

"Oh, goodie!" cried Evelyn, while Jack said: "Tell it, daddy. We boys are getting up a wild west show."

"Well," said daddy, "this isn't anything you'll want to try in that show. I can promise you. It shows how a trapper was kind to a dog once and how the dog rewarded him long afterward.

"It happened a great many years ago, right in New York state, and when the woods were a great deal thicker than they are now and they covered most of the country. There were just a few settlements of white men then, and they were long distances apart. Most of the people who lived in them were Indians.

"This trapper was a great big, strong man, who was well known through the state. He would set his traps and catch mink and foxes and other fur bearing animals and sell the pelts in Albany, to which he would travel through the forest. There were no railroad trains in those days, you know—just stagecoaches—but this trapper went most of the way on foot.

"One day this trapper was going to his traps to see what he had caught when all of a sudden he saw what he took at first to be a little black bear, but on getting nearer the trap he heard the little creature whine, and, lo and behold, it was a poor little black dog that had been caught by a hind leg in the steel trap, and he was whining with misery. He had strayed away from his home evidently.

"At first the trapper thought the little dog's leg was broken and that he would have to shoot him to put him out of his misery. But he soon saw that the leg was only wrenched, and he took the dog with him and nursed him and made him well and strong, and the dog was his constant companion and would go with him everywhere he went.

"One day this dog appeared in a camp of woodchoppers and acted in the strangest way, barking and yelping and catching their coats in his teeth and trying to get them to follow him. Some thought him mad and were going to shoot him, but one bright fellow said:

"'Can't you see? Somebody is in trouble, and the dog wants us to come. Let us follow him and see what is the matter.'

"They did so, and the dog led them far into the woods. And there was the trapper, caught accidentally by the foot in one of his own traps, and he couldn't open it. If the dog had not been with him and ran for help he would have starved or been eaten by a bear maybe.

"Good night, kiddies, and pleasant dreams."

YOU HAVE EARNING CAPACITY. HAVE YOU SAVING CAPACITY?

During the past year, you have earned $1,000, possibly $5,000, possibly more. How much have you saved? You want to save, but unfortunately the incentive is lacking. Here our 4% Saving Bond Plan comes to the rescue. It presents a definite goal, it provides a regular time for making deposits, it prods you if you fail to make these deposits regularly.

Determine the amount you can spare conveniently, $1 to $25 monthly, and after making 38 payments, you may withdraw all you have paid in, plus 4% interest.

Descriptive circulars may be obtained on request. If you start NOW, interest will start September 1st.

PIRATES STILL FOUND

Preparations On River Boats In China to Protect Passengers and Officers—Y. M. C. A. Doing Great Work.

Making a comparison of conditions in the Far East, with those which he found on previous visits, Former Senator Ernest R. Ackerman writes entertainingly to the Daily Press about his present trip. He says the mark of progress in Japan has been insignificant as compared with that in China. The letter which is unusually interestin, is as follows:

Pekin, July, 1914.

Plainfield Daily Press:—

It seems to be doubtful if one per cent of the people living in the United States realize what a tremendous change is coming over the Far East and this despite the fact that missionaries and Y. M. C. A. and Bible Society leaders are continually telling us what strides are being accomplished in their particular line of activity.

An interest in Far Eastern questions for a score of years (during which time several visits to the Orient have been made) has enabled the writer to see and compare the visible marks of progress that are evident on every side. Your readers are all aware that hardly more than half a century has elapsed since Commodore Perry's successful mission to Japan was concluded, and yet the march of progress that is evident there will be but insignificant compared to what is going to happen in China. That great country is just waking up, and while embryo revolutions may start and "White Wolf" depredations temporarily retard improvements in certain localities, yet these are but flies on the rims of the wheels of progress and emancipation which are rapidly turning around.

I well remember when the small local line of railroad connecting Woosung and Shanghai was torn up by indignant Chinese because they believed it interfered with the peaceful repose of the souls of their ancestors whose uncovered coffins by the thousands lay in the adjoining fields. An hourly service is now patronized almost in subway fashion and transports thousands of Chinese travelers between those two points.

It is in the northern part of China that safely to passengers seems to be assured, while in the Kwangtung Province in which Canton is situated matters are as much unsettled as they were a score of years ago. When first visited Canton I was impressed with the apparent insecurity of life as far as the safety of passengers was concerned on the steamboats plying the Pearl River, for when we went to the stateroom we were shown a Winchester rifle loaded and a smart looking sword which we were told to make use of if occasion demanded, while hose was very much in evidence, through which hot water could be directed against rebellious coolies or pirates shipped as coolies.

There is an immense Chinese passenger traffic between Hong Kong and Canton by the river boats, which are similar to those going to Albany or Newburg, although not quite so large, and while this route has been in operation for nearly fifty years it has never been entirely free from attacks by pirates.

It is a pleasant sail of seven or eight hours, according to the boat selected, up the Pearl River to Canton but the pirates die hard, and only in April of this year was an almost suc-

KNIGHTS' CARNIVAL OPENS DOORS TONIGHT

Annual K. of C. Affair Here With Big List of Unusual Attractions.

With a whole train load of amusement devices, the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows arrived in town yesterday, and are today busy at the lot at Grant Avenue and Front street erecting the shows. The various attractions will be thrown open to the public tonight, with many prominent local men, members of the Knights of Columbus for whose benefit the week's carnival will be given, acting as ticket takers, and assisting in other ways. As in past years, the Knights have secured the strongest group of shows on the road to attract the pockets of Plainfielders, as the Jones aggregation has no superior in the fifty or more carnival companies now on the road. In fact it is seldom that a city as small as Plainfield attracts such companies, as they usually appear in the largest cities, going from here to Trenton and Philadelphia.

The Johnny J. Jones Shows can truthfully be said to be a combination of all the most desirable features of the old line circuses, the more modern wild west shows, Coney Island attractions, museums and vaudeville features and, in fact, every novelty known to the amusement world. To have succeeded in the minutest detail in accomplishing this purpose surely marks the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows as the greatest show combination on earth.

Every one of the big features attractions is worth the nominal price of admission charged and in addition the management offers what is known throughout the show world as positively the biggest free act ever presented by any combination of any kind. It is none other than the renowned Thomas and Margaret Quincy in a double diving act, superior to any other act now before the public. Mr. Quincy has long been conceeded the champion high diver of the world, and holds three scores of medals in championship high dive, and fancy swimming contests. Miss Margaret Quincy, his partner, also possesses many medals for her prowess in aquatic feats. The closing feature of their act is a double dive, Margaret 60 feet, Mr. Quincy from the lofty height of 90 feet simultaneously.

Lovers of the circus and wild animals show have not been neglected by the management of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition Shows and one of the biggest acts of the program is culled from the biggest circus of the world. This wild and trained animal exhibit features Charles Hustin, the boy trainer who is as courageous as he is youthful. Among the beasts under the young man's charge is a lioness who has been abandoned by all other trainers as too ferocious for show purposes. Young Hustin seems to possess a hypnotic influence over this creature, for while she has often made attempts to attack him, he has always managed to subdue her without serious injury to himself or any of the other animals in the cage.

It is frequently necessary for Hustin to employ his revolver and whip in conquering the lioness while Captain Curley Wilson, director general of the show, stands around armed with a pike and revolver ready for action in the event of the animal securing the upper hand.

SKULL MYSTERY STIRS POPULACE

South Plainfielders Unearth Head of a Woman In Swamp.

MURDER SUSPICIONS

Village Gossipers Rumor Attack On Upper End of Park Avenue Several Days Ago—More Suspicious Search Woods For Remainder.

Rumors that have been current in South Plainfield for the past week of a cold-blooded murder near the Lehigh Valley Railroad tracks on Park avenue, Saturday night, led to the unearthing of a head in the swamp on the Oak Tree road. Chief Hamilton, Officer Walter Guernsey and Justice of the Peace Kaine were in the party that made the discovery and today a posse of South Plainfielders are searching the woods in the belief that the remainder of the body has been secluded in another spot.

Information gained from a half-intoxicated Polish man led to the gruesome discovery. The investigators came upon Joseph Monscow in his home in the Polish section of South Plainfield and found that he was under the influence of a talkative drunk. Queries put to him by the police officers resulted in the information being obtained that a boarder in his house had found the head of a human being in the woods nearby and not knowing what disposition to make of the object concluded it best to bury it. The posse searched the portion of South Plainfield which their informer had indicated and in a short time dug up the skull of a woman with an abundance of hair on it.

The head was taken to the home of Justice Kaine, where it remained until the arrival of Coroner Harding, of New Brunswick, yesterday. When interviewed by a Daily Press reporter this morning, Coroner Harding expressed a belief that the head had been secluded at that spot for a number of years, possibly forty or fifty, and he declared that it bears no weight in the solution of the mystery that has been bothering South Plainfield residents for so long.

Coming at a time when the villagers were stirred up over the rumors, the discovery caused considerable excitement in that municipality. A party of searchers formed a posse and set out early this morning to make a thorough canvass of the woods, not convinced that the mystery is probably unsolvable. It is the supposition of the county authorities that it is a relic of the primitive burying customs of people who lived there a half-century ago.

Rumor had it last week that two men had been slain on Park avenue, but nothing definite could be learned regarding this report. Details were meagre and the source of the information could not be verified.

BOY SAVES COMPANION FROM DROWNING AT DUNELLEN

Leonard G. Huff, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Huff, of North avenue, Dunellen, saved eleven-year-old Weiner Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Snyder, of the same place, from drowning at the risk of his own life. Young Snyder and Huff, together with twelve other boys were swimming at Debele's, a so-called swimming hole in Green Brook. Snyder, who cannot swim, waded out to a depth that was over his head.

His companions at first thought he was fooling and paid no attention to his yells. When he failed to come up, however, after sinking for the third time, all became panic stricken, save Huff. With rare presence of mind he immediately dove from the bank, where he had been standing, to the place where he saw Snyder disappear.

The young hero quickly appeared with the victim. Huff and his companions applied the method for resuscitating that all Boy Scouts are familiar with, with success and young Snyder was able to walk home with a little assistance. Huff will undoubtedly receive a medal from the local organization of Boy Scouts for his deed.

TEMPERATURE REPORT.

SCHOOL BUILDING MAY BE DELAYED

World Wide Financial Stress Caused By War May Affect Plans.

BONDS CANNOT BE SOLD

Erection of Evergreen Avenue Structure Would Provide Work For Local Men—Conference Between School Board and Council Likely.

Whether or not the world-wide financial stress caused by the European war will affect the plans for building the Evergreen Avenue School in Plainfield this winter, has been the subject of considerable local discussion.

As many of the members of the School Board and the Common Council are at present on vacations the matter cannot be taken up officially until next month by which time it is probable that the situation in the American money markets will be more definitely developed.

At a recent meeting of the building committee of the Board of Education the situation was discussed, and the feeling was that the erection of the Evergreen Avenue School should commence as soon as possible in order to take advantage of the very much lower construction cost which will obtain in all lines of the building trades this winter.

The absolute and immediate necessity of more school accomodations in Plainfield, and the strong popular demand for proper quarters for the children, particularly shown by the recent petition of the residents of the Netherwood section, makes the building of new schools in Plainfield a civic necessity. As the schools are built from the proceeds of bond sales whose payment is distributed over long periods of time, the saving in taxation during the present year, should the erection be postponed, would be less than can be saved on construction cost, by building this year when prices are low.

To build immediately would have the additional advantage of providing steady employment for many local workmen during a year when the problem of unemployment in Plainfield and elsewhere is apt to be particularly acute.

It is a fact, however, that for the next few months the sale of bonds by either the city of Plainfield or any other municipality will be specially difficult. Until the stock exchanges open again, there is no way of accurately predicting what will be the effect on the local money market of having the principal European nations, as they will inevitably do, sacrifice their American securities in our markets to get the gold necessary to carry on the wars in which they are engaged. It will undoubtedly, in the opinion of all informed bankers, raise the average interest rate materially, all over the world, and some of the results of this increase of interest rate will be felt in Plainfield.

The school bonds first contemplated were to bear 4½ per cent. interest. In view of the present disturbed conditions, the Board of Education will, before actively pressing their sale, confer with the finance committee of the Common Council to determine when and how these bonds may be marketed, and whether any modification of the interest rate originally contemplated is necessary for their sale.

Under the law, the city is bound to furnish the money to build the school, as the Board of School Estimate has already approved the project, but in fairness to the public as well as in courtesy to the Common Council, the Board of Education wish to do everything possible to enable this needed public project to be carried through with the least possible cost and difficulty to the local taxpayers.

The Board will therefore invite a conference between the city officials and their own finance committee early next month, the result of which will be announced in these columns.

OFF FOR CONVENTION.

Harry S. Feller, president of the State Y. M. H. A., of New Brunswick, and Samuel Rothberg, of this city, left yesterday for the annual convention of the Pennsylvania State body being held for three days at Shenendoah. The State body of the neighboring State will name two fraternal delegates to attend the convention of the New Jersey association to be held at Trenton next month.

STREET MEETINGS GALORE HERE OVER THE WEEK-END

Political street meetings reigned in Plainfield, Saturday evening, when delegations from the Suffragist headquarters held full swing at Second street and Park avenue, while candidates for Republican nominations held forth at Madison avenue and Front street.

John H. Cose, of this city, candidate for sheriff, presided at the latter gathering, introducing the speakers of the evening. William T. Madison and A. A. Woodruff, both of Rahway, were the first to address the gathering which included several hundred men, as well as a large number of women. These speakers spoke along general lines, and especially in favor of those candidates who reside in Rahway.

Sheriff Wright was the next speaker, and spoke in his own behalf as a candidate for the nomination for county clerk. He reviewed briefly his administration in the office he now holds, and promised a business administration should he be re-elected.

Dr. William T. Stuchell, also of Rahway, candidate for the nomination of Congressman, was the principal speaker of the occasion, and spent most of his allotted time in giving personal views on national questions. He reviewed briefly the history of tariff legislation in this country and its effects on business and industrial conditions of the nation.

STREET CORNER LOITERERS TREATED TO A GOOD SCARE

In an effort to break up street corner loitering in the vicinity of Grant avenue and Second street, Patrolmen J. Brower, McIntyre and Flatley, Saturday afternoon, rounded up five disorderly characters who were arraigned before Judge DeMeta in the city court, this morning. The men, when apprehended, were "rushing the growler" and the coppers confiscated the portion of the amber fluid that was left when the raid was made.

Each of the defendants was fined $10 with the option of spending forty days in the county jail when arraigned this morning. This sentence was later suspended to be enacted on future appearance in court. The men were John Lyons, William Whittpenn, George Moore, James Welsh and George Green.

ABUSIVENESS COST CONROY $5 IN THE BOROUGH COURT

Edward J. Conroy, of Steiner place, started to celebrate on his seventy-five year old father, at his home, Saturday night, the result being his arrest. Police headquarters was notified of the disturbance, and Chief Marshal Weiss made a personal visit to the household, and told Conroy to behave himself, but the latter still held to the opinion that he had a right to beat his parent if he felt so disposed. Conroy remained somewhat restless, and made a break to "beat up" the chief, and the apprehension followed. When arraigned this morning before Recorder Hand, a fine of $5 was imposed.

Washington, Aug. 24—Under the German Crown Prince, the German army operating in Lorraine won a notable victory today over the French, according to a wireless despatch received at the German embassy here. The Germans claimed to have defeated and utterly routed five army corps at Dietenofen, north of Metz. The casualties were not given. The despatch reads, "The army of the German Crown Prince has won a decisive victory northwest of Dietenofen over five French army corps. The retreat of the French on Verdun has been cut off. The French troops were repulsed over the River Meuse in complete rout, the Crown Prince's army giving chase, took many prisoners and it is declared the French troops are no longer able to face the terrific fire of the German infantry."

London, Aug. 24 (Central News Cable).—The French Embassy here issued an official communique today stating that a great battle between the French and German troops has commenced along the whole front. Up to the present neither side has gained any advantage.

The Russian success at Gumbinnen, East Prussia, has been confirmed, and the Russians have entered Insterburg, directly to the west of Gumbinnen. The Germans, however, claim that they gained a victory there.

It is reported that Emperor Francis Joseph, of Austria, who has been ill for some time, is now in a critical condition.

The Press Bureau of the war office and admiralty announced today that the British expeditionary forces were engaged all yesterday and after dark with the enemy in the neighborhood of Mons, France. The British troops held their ground.

An official announcement says that the cruiser Kaiserin Elizabeth, of the Austrian navy, which for some time has been lying in the harbor of Kiao Chau, under protection of the German guns at the fortress there, has been ordered to disarm and send her crew to Tientsin.

German troops are again making an offensive movement against the French occupying Muelhausen and the vicinity according to a despatch from Basle, Switzerland, which quotes reports received from upper Alsace.

That the Austrian battleship Zrinya, which was reported sunk recently in the Adriatic by a French fleet, may be safe is indicated in a report given out by the war office news bureau.

Paris, Aug. 24 (Central News Cable).—The following official announcement was made here today: "The great battle between the greater part of the forces of England and France against the bulk of the German army continues today. The mission of the English and French is to hold virtually the entire German army in Belgium while our Russian allies continue their successes in the East."

A rumor is in circulation here this morning that the Germans have occupied Nancy. This town is not fortified. The report lacks confirmation.

The Russians have occupied territory fifty miles wide on the German frontier.

In order to prevent them from falling into the hands of the Germans 300 locomotives from the railroads of Belgium were brought into this city today.

The French war office issued an announcement last night admitting that Luneville, France, also in the department of Meurthe-et-Noselle, was occupied by the Germans. Nancy is on the railroad line and about twenty miles to the northwest of Luneville.

The Matin says Gen. Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, has ordered that all prisoners who are found to have "dumdum" bullets in their possession shall be court martialed. The Matin demands that all officers who are shown to have been guilty of cruelty instead of being treated as prisoners of war shall be tried and executed.

The Servian troops no longer need fear the Austrian territory situated to the north of them. This guarantee of safety results from the Servian's immense victory over the big Austrian army.

A warning issued early today by the German Prefect of Upper Alsace, declares that any citizen hiding a Frenchman, taking part in the fighting, or pillaging the bodies of the dead, will be instantly ordered shot by the commanding officer. The order also warns, says a correspondent of a Paris newspaper, that not only will citizens assisting in the fighting be shot, but their local burgomasters will also be executed, and the localities in which the interference was made demolished.

An official statement issued today by the war office says that the Germans are continuing their march westward toward Ghent, East Fandere, in their endeavor to reach the French frontier.

The official statement adds that the German offensive operations at Lorraine have been arrested by the French army, no attack having been made by the Kaiser's main forces again the French advanced positions.

An official statement issued today says that the Russian army has achieved a new success by overwhelming three German army corps and capturing numerous guns, a tremendous quantity of war material and many prisoners. The statement does not give the location of this latest success of the German forces.

(Central News Cable.)

Tokio, Aug. 24.—The Yamato, in an extra edition today, says that the bombardment at Tsing Tau by the Japanese fleet has commenced. This message was passed by the censor of the Naval department. Tsing Tau is the seaport of Kiao Chau, the German concession.

For the past 24 hours there has been no communication between Japan and China, and this has given rise to the belief that the cable running between Shanghai and Nagasaki has been cut.

Three squadrons are being directed against the German province of Kiao Chau and the German warships in Eastern waters. Vice Admiral Tomosaburo Kato was today appointed commander-in-chief of the first squadron which will carry out the main offense movement against Germany. Vice Admiral Sadakichi Kato will command the second and Rear Admiral Tsuchiva the third. News of the progress of the Kiao Chau expedition is withheld.

Nish, Servia, Aug. 24 (Central News Cable.)—It is officially announced that the victorous Servians continue to pursue the enemy past Gadas and Shabata, the latter place having been the scene of the recent big battle between the Servians and Austrians in which the latter suffered huge losses. The Austrians it is added have been repulsed beyond the Drina River and Losnitza and Lochnitza, are now in the hands of the Servians.

Rome, Aug. 24 (Central News Cable.)—Fishermen arriving at Ravenna and Ancona, on the Adriatic State that Saturday night the entire Austrian fleet of 40 units was observed proceeding to the South. It is thought that the big fleet was despatched in the hope of liberating Cattaro, the Austrian port in the Dalmatian coasts, from Bombardment by British and French fleets in conjunction with Montenegrin land batteries.

Cattaro has been under fire for the past week or more and in some circles the British and French naval

FOUND ARTICLES NO CHEAPER IN NEWARK THAN IN PLAINFIELD

While contemplating the purchase of a shirt I noticed the advertisement of J. R. Blair's store on Park avenue in a recent issue of the Daily Press offering the $1.50 grade Arrow shirts for $1.15. As I had business in Newark the following day I thought it a good idea to purchase my shirt in Newark thinking that I could get it at a much lower figure than if I made the purchase in Plainfield. So to satisfy my curiosity I looked over the advertisements of a Newark paper and found that the Newark stores were exploiting the grade of shirt I desired and also the Manhattan shirt at $1.15 for the $1.50 quality.

Now why should I take the trouble and my time (which was limited), and purchase my shirt in Newark when I could get the same standardized goods, same quality, and a large assortment to select from at precisely the same price right here in Plainfield and be sure of courteous treatment.

On Saturday August 1st, I purchased a $1.50 Arrow shirt from J. R. Blair for $1.15 making a saving of 35 cents, exactly the same amount I would have saved had I purchased the shirt in Newark plus my time and trouble. I have inclosed Mr. Blair's adv. complying with the rules of the contest.

It is true I could have bought a shirt at a cheaper price in Newark, but I could do the same thing in Plainfield and meet the Newark prices too, but it would be an inferior grade shirt.

The retailer's price on trade-marked goods is set by the manufacturer, I have recently learned, and when the retailer desires to make a "cut" he has the privilege of cutting to a certain fixed figure and he is supposed not to go below that figure. This is proof that Plainfield merchants can compete in price and quality of goods with the larger cities and you can save money, time, and carfare by doing your shopping in Plainfield.

'TWAS SOME DEBATE.

The Rail Birds' Association, formed at the outbreak of the present European conflagration, was called to order at 8 o'clock on Saturday evening by Secretary William McMahon. Mounted on a soap box, procured from in front of George T. Schenck's grocery store without Mr. Schenck's permission Secretary McMahon prefunctorily informed the members of the association, who lined the railing of the Central Railroad park, that Michael A. Gallagher taking the affirmative and John Logan, Sr., the negative, would debate to the finish or until one or the other acknowledged himself bested, upon the much discussed question of whether or not Germany is to blame for the present war. Two short men immediately jumped into the arena. Mr. Logan, stocky, clean shaven, curly haired and snappy eye, opened the debate by saying, "I claim that Russia, not Germany is to blame for the present war." "Mr. Logan you are wrong," yelled the insignificant looking but silver-tongued Gallagher, who although an extensive owner of Dunellen real estate can be accurately described to any outsider, who may be looking for him as the short slim man humbly garbed in a blue serge suit blue flannel shirt and a derby hat, of ancient make, tilted forward at an angle of forty-five degrees, under the rim of which two black eyes are constantly furtively roving. "Yes you are wrong," reiterated Mr. Gallagher," and inside of an hour I will make you acknowledge that Germany and not Russia, as you contend, should be the defendant before the Tribunal of Almighty God for the wholesale murder that is now being committed upon the European continent." The words waxed hotter and hotter and only the presence of the soap box prevented the debate from ending in a fistic encounter. The box, which acted as a safety valve for feelings of personal enmity, was being kicked back and forth between the two like a rugby football.

At the end of the second hour with neither contestant showing any signs of the white feather, the debate suddenly switched from the subject at issue into personal channels and the soap box having been reduced by that time to splinters, Secretary McMahon stepped between the two contestants and with uplifted hand declared the affair a draw. After the seconding and carrying of a motion made by H. R. Cooke to the effect that George Schenck be reimbursed for his soap box, the meeting adjourned.

The condition of Mrs. Lewis D. Walker, of New Market road, who is in the Muhlenburg Hospital, at Plainfield, continues to show steady improvement as her many friends will be glad to know.

STYLISH RELIABLE

SELF ESTEEM

"No man can have more self esteem than his suit will permit," once drawled Mark Twain. A hobo may have brass and nerve, and usually does, but never self esteem.

That feeling of superiority only comes with the sweet sense of knowing that your coat fits "right" in the back.

"Why do you pay so much for your shirts?" Beau Brummel was once askt. "No one knows they're so expensive."

"But I do," replied the Beau.

And the moral is this: A man is never taken AT his best, unless he is taken IN his "best."

commanders have been credited with the intention of taking and holding the place as a naval base.

A despatch containing reports of German victories was received here today from Berlin. The army commanded by Grand Duke Albrecht, of Wurttemburg, it was said, had defeated a French army at Neufchateau capturing many guns, flags and prisoners. Among the later are reported to be several generals. The French are said to be pursued vigorously by German armies under Prince Rupprecht, Crown Prince Wilhelm and Grand Duke Albrecht. The army under the first named having captured 150 guns at Luneville, Blamont, and Cirey in the French department of Neurthe et Moselle, while the army commanded by the Crown Prince pursued the French beyond Longwy. It is also said that the Germans are west of the River Meuse and are advancing against Maubeuge, having defeated an English brigade of cavalry.

The Russian embassy today confirmed the reported Russian victory at Gumbinnen, in East Prussia, where the German army corps were put to flight, the Germans retreating in disorder.

It was also stated that further resistance on the part of the Germans is impossible, as Russia is penetrating Germany with a force seven times greater than the Germans can put into the field. The Russian force, it is said, plans to advance on Berlin by forced marches.

The departure of Prince William Frederick, of Albania, from Durazze, is denied here, but his family sailed from that port.

Telegrams from Nish, the capital of Servia, state that the rout of the Austrians in the battle that for days has been waged along the River Drina, is complete, and that the Austrian army has lost its food, wagons and ammunition in the fight. Forces of Bosnians fired upon the Austrian troops as they retreated and hurled bombs at them. All Bosnia ad Herzegovina are reported in pursuit.

The Avanti has advises saying that Greece has sent troops to the aid of Servia.

New York, Aug. 24 (Central News.)—Count Von Bernstorf, the German Ambassador at Washington, was a passenger today on the incoming Noordam. "The English cut the cable that connected Germany with a neutral country to keep out the truth," said the Ambassador. "I am sure that the fair minded Americans will understand this act of England. The situation in Germany is excellent. The whole nation from the Emperor down to the last unskilled laborer are as one man fighting to defend their country against the frivolous and unwarranted attack. I am confident that Germany will emerge from the conflict victoriously. There is a feeling of patriotism and loyalty to the fatherland today ten times greater than there was in 1870."

The Ambassador said that he hardly believed the report that General Von Emmich has committed suicide. "Why should he commit suicide?" asked the Ambassador, "he stormed a modern fortress with three infantry brigades. He was wounded in the leg, but as I understand it, not seriously." The Ambassador said that there was no truth in the cable report that an attack had been made upon the life of the Crown Prince. The Crown Prince he said, was now at Metz with his regiment. The Ambassadors wife is a Red Cross nurse at Munich and his son is with the Guards. All of the Embassys secretaries are at the front.

The steamer Principe Di. Udine, of the Lloyd Sabaudo, arrived here today under charter by a committee of Americans headed by R. A. C. Smith, dock commissioner of New York; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, and Frederick W. Vanderbilt, bringing 239 returning Americans tourists from Italy. The Udines charter was $100,000 for the voyage, which was guaranteed by the committee.

In most discussions of the prospects of re-opening of the New York Stock Exchange, which were reiterated on Saturday, owing to the appointment of a sub-committee in London to consider the advisability of opening the London Stock Exchange, the main apprehension has related to the prospective heavy amount of foreign sales to be met. Leading bankers say that these considerations leave out the added probability of domestic liquidation. In all of these matters there is little but conjecture to work upon.

Washington, Aug. 24.—In spite of criticism at home and abroad thte United States will carry out its program to purchase merchant vessels and establish a great fleet of overseas ships for the advancement of American trade.

The foregoing in effect was the declaration made by President Wilson to newspaper correspondents at the White House today. The plans already announced, he said, would not be modified in any essential so far as he was concerned.

The President declares that the only proposal that had come to him from private capital to take the burden of purchase off the shoulders of the government was received from a private corporation. This corporation, he said, announced its willingness to undertake the acquisition of the necessary ships provided the government would guarantee the bonds of the organization.

"There was little to choose between the proposal and the government's purchase of the vessels outright," the President added, "except that the latter method appears much more preferable." The President denounced as absurd the claim that the government's activity in ocean traffic would discourage private ship enterprise. He pointed out that it was the governments intention to send its own merchant vessels into lines of trade that have been abandoned by private enterprise because of existing conditions. It is the belief of the President that there will be little if any interference with American merchant vessels carrying food stuffs to the nations of Europe now at war.

The govenment today ordered the Tuckertown wireless station closed.

The ground on which the Tuckerton wireless station was closed, was said to be a violation of the operating company of permission granted it to conduct experimental work. The Tuckerton corporation never has taken out a license under the permission of the Commerce department. It was given three weeks in which to try out its instruments before beginning the actual inauguration of regular service. It has been operating on this permit since without warrant.

The United States Steel Corporation, the Standard Oil Company and the United Fruit Company have notified the government of their intention to put their fleets under the American flag, under the new law extending home registry to foreign built craft.

In a communication to National Banks that are not members of National Currencyy Associations made public today John Skelton Williams, controller of the currency says, that the Secretary of the Treasury will exercise the discretion granted by the Aldrich Vreeland Act, and refuse to issue currency to banks direct. He says that if banks want the emergency notes they should join the nearest association and if there is not one in their territory they snould set about organizing one at once.

Washington, Aug. 24.—In an intensely human letter received by friends here, Miss Lida Priest, an instructor in the Hebrew Technical School for Girls in New York, tells of the economies practiced by the frugal French since the outbreak of the war. Marooned in Paris with a number of other American school teachers and educators who were spending their holiday in Europe, Miss Priest managed to get passage and now is believed to be on her way home. She wrote: "At my hotel, a small private house, no man is left, and the house is locked up at 8 o'clock. We are saving electricity, going without hot water and eating plain bread without butter. The French are wonderful. The partings are terribly sad, for they are so quiet. Order reigns everywhere, but though the houses are decorated as if for a holiday, the faces of the people are pale and melancholy. No more do the people have to pay rent, for no longer do many receive wages, and every man, rich or poor, must give up his horse, cart, his automobile. Although I should not have chosen this time as a means of rest now I am here, I am very glad of the opportunity to see these wonderful preparations for war. I shall appreciate the paintings of Meissonier and Detaille more than ever. If I find a chance to get to England, I shall have to leave my trunk, as the railroads refuse to carry them, and passengers will be allowed only light hand luggage. My steamer rug is ready to be strapped on my back. I have two pasteboard boxes filled with necessaries so that I could get away in an hour's time—the hour to get from the express office to my hotel and back to the station. We have to walk everywhere, not only to save money, but because auto buses no longer run, very few trams, only one line of the Metro, and taxis are too expensive, and used mostly for government service."

Amsterdam, Aug. 24 (Central News Cable).—An American, who failed to escape from Venviers when the Germans occupied that city of nearly 50,000 persons in the province of Liege, Belgium, and remained for three weeks, has returned here and vividly pictures the occupation by the invaders.

"The Burgomaster," he says, "was arrested and the Germans, upon their arrival, told him he would be shot if hostile acts were perpetrated by the population. All the windows in the city were obliged to be closed at night, lamps were lighted and the intense heat made sleeping suffocating.

"There were two sentinels at every hundred yards in the streets.

"Enormous masses of Germans continually passed through Verviers. On Sunday last at least a hundred thousand men traversed the town, thus emphasizing the immensity of the German forces in Belgium.

"The Germans paid for everything in cash. The attitude of the citizens was not unkindly. There was a marked difference in the peace and war attitude of the German officers and men. The haughty peace behavior was dropped in favor of good comradeship.

"Many British and American citizens are still held up in Verviers in severe financial straits including a director of Barclay's Bank. A reputed millionaire, whose credit and notes were useless, told me when I left that he had only twenty francs in cash.

WAR NEWS IN BRIEF.

Japan.

The Japanese government has formally declared war on Germany. Immediately after the issuing of the imperial rescript Japanese military and naval forces were ordered to move against Kiaochow. Count von Rex, the German ambassador to Japan, has received his passports and will sail for America either on Thursday or Saturday. German interests in Japan will be looked after by the American ambassador. The Japanese are said to have no illusions about the strength of the German fortified port of Tsingtao, and it is estimated in Japanese official circles that it will take three months to reduce the forts. The action of the Japanese government is said to meet with great favor among the people. The Austrian-German Kaiserin Elizabeth is reported to have left the German port, and it is said that she will take refuge in a neutral port and disarm.

Belgium.

The line of the great battle which has been in progress on Belgian soil for the last twenty-four hours extends from south of Ghent southwestward to Hal and southeast to Charleroi and Dinant. The French troops have taken the offensive against the Germans and have attacked a large force of the kaiser's army at Charleroi with the object of compelling the Germans to halt their advance toward Dinant and to compel the abandonment of the German maneuvers to the north against Lille. Reports from Paris indicate that the French have slightly the advantage. The forts at Liege and Namur are both said to be holding out against bombardment by German artillery.

Russia.

The Russians report a complete victory after six days of desperate fighting in the first great battle in the east Prussian scene of operations. The fighting began on Thursday, when the Russians attacked the German First division, which had delivered several unsuccessful attacks on Eydkuhnen. The forces on both sides were gradually increased until the Germans finally had three army corps engaged, one corps being hurriedly called back from Lyck. There was fierce fighting at Gumbinnen, when the Germans turned the Russian right. The Russians succeeded in frustrating this attempt and, taking advantage of the concentration of the Germans to the northward, made a direct vigorous assault, in which they captured many guns.

France.

The war office reports that the French army in Lorraine after being violently attacked by the Germans was compelled to retreat, leaving a number of prisoners and guns. An official communique says that the German Zeppelin No. 8 has been destroyed by French shells between Celle and Badonviller, in Neurthe-et-Moselle.

Italy.

Italy is rapidly mobilizing, and it is probable that the army will be completely mobilized by Aug. 27. Austria is declared to be exerting all possible pressure to force Italy to enter the war on the side of the Triple alliance, but France and Russia, to counteract the Austrian solicitations, have sent Theophile Delcasse, French minister of war.

London, Aug. 24.—Following a declaration of war against Germany, Japan ordered her warships to attack Kioachow at once.

The imperial rescript officially inaugurates hostilies in the far east as a result of Germany's failure to reply to the Japanese ultimatum.

The proclamation of the emperor sent a thrill through the country. Japan's entrance upon the fulfilment of her obligations to her ally, Great Britain, responds to the popular will from one end of the land to the other. Cheering crowds assembled before the buildings occupied by the department of foreign affairs and the administration of the navy. The popular manifestations, however, do not approach the enthusiasm which preceded the war with Russia.

Count von Rex, the German ambassador in Tokyo, has been handed his passports. He probably will leave here for America, either on the Minnesota, Aug. 27, or the Manchuria, two days later. The American ambassador will represent Germany. The diet has been convoked in special session for Sept. 3.

The Austrian cruiser Kaiserin Elizabeth, which latterly was at Tsingtau, the seaport of Kiaochow, is reported to have left.

She perhaps will go to a neutral port and disarm. It is believed this action will keep Austria out of the war in the orient, although unforeseen circumstances may force Japan to change her policy in this regard. No action yet has been taken relative to Austria, and the foreign office has explained that Japan will remain friendly to Austria unless Austria adopts an attitude which it regards as offensive.

Pleased at America.

It is reported here that Germany has been trying to transfer the German railroad in Shantung, China, to America. Tokyo believes, however, that the United States, pursuing the policy of neutrality outlined by President Wilson, will not accept the offer.

President Wilson's announcement of American neutrality has greatly pleased the Japanese.

Conferences have been held daily by the cabinet, the privy council and officers of the army and navy. The cabinet has arranged war regulations which will be gazetted tomorrow. The naval commander in chief has not been announced, but probably either Vice Admiral Shimamur or Vive Admiral Kamimura will fill that position.

The newspapers express surprise at the extent of American suspicions regarding Japan's motives in issuing the ultimatum, but leading writers express a firm confidence that a better understanding will be had with the people of America.

Premier Okuma states that documenary evidence will show that England not only requested Japan's assistance, but approved her entire program.

Great Battle Raging.

London, Aug. 24.—It is evident that the German advance to Ostend and the North sea by way of Ghent was a mere feint to conceal stronger southern movements, having for their objective the invasion of northern France. Ghent and Ostend may be occupied now, but news of the actual occupation came along in advance of that event.

The French minister of the interior declared that a big battle has begun, but there is no news of its progress.

All we know is that Namur has been heavily invested for Charleroi, and it is reported from several sources that it is believed the line of battle extends southeast from Marbeurge toward Lille. Both the places are south of the French front.

Draw a line about at Walcourt through Charlerio, west of Hal, through Ninove, curving to the west opposite or almost opposite Ghent, and you will have an idea of the probable attempted advance of the Germans through Lille, with perhaps (censored) threatening Paris.

A Times extra says for the moment that the German invasion of Belgium prospers. No word escapes about the intentions of the allies, while the Germans are marching through Belgium as if on parade, flaunting their success in cafes and boasting they will hack their way into France through the gap between Lille and Mons.

The rapidity of the Russian invasion is explained in special correspondence from St. Petersburg. Russia's 30,000,000 horses and motor cars were all requisitioned, while money flows like water. The troops are paid in advance, and the morale is thus improved.

In a Times extra it is reported from Rotterdam that late Saturday afternoon the news from Kobendaal was that soon after leaving Brussels, apparently for Ghent, the Germans suddenly turned southwesterly to Lille. This move and the march to Valenciennes the Germans regard as a strategic surprise for the allies, who will be obliged to change their front.

I consulted a neutral military expert. His opinion is that the allied army has prepared a smashing blow; that a huge battle will occur shortly. From Ostend two German columns are marching south toward Valenciennes, one by Ninove, Grammont and Lessines and the other by Hal, Brainelecomte and Mons.

Uhlan patrols have blown up a portion of the station and killed two cyclises at Tielt. Nine hundred German prisoners, 700 soldiers and 200 civilians, have been sent to France. The transport left Ostend at midnight.

French Fall Back.

Paris, Aug. 24.—The Temps prints a summary of the war situation, which says:

"Our troops in Lorraine, who were violently attacked by far more numerous forces, have fallen back, leaving prisoners and some guns in the enemy's hands. We unhesitatingly affirm that there is nothing serious, nothing disturbing in any form, in this movement. The chief German forces are in Belgium. If we are victorious in the great battle which has already commenced there the Germans who will have penetrated Lorraine will be rapidly withdrawn. Even an unfavorable result of the first battle need not discourage us.

"Germany and Austria are completely encircled and must succumb. Any victories they might win today would have no tomorrow."

A dispatch to the Havas agency from Ypres, Belgium, near Bruges, affirms that Brand Whitlock, the American minister to Belgium, who accompanied the burgomaster to meet the Germans who were entering Brussels, informed the commander of the German forces that the United States had charged him to take Brussels under his protection and insure the observance of the laws of war.

It is announced that France and England have decided to advance 500,000,000 francs ($100,000,000) to Belgium. France and England will share this expense in equal parts.

War Scenes In Belgium.

London, Aug. 24.—The Times' Brussels correspondent in a long descriptive story of the invasion of Belgium says among other things:

"Upon returing to England, after living three weeks amidst war, I was struck by the contrast between the atmosphere of London and that of Brussels a week ago. The Strand had its usual Saturday afternoon crowds. Posters proclaimed that business was going on as usual. Everything was calm. Scores of young fellows were proceeding to the first of the football matches. These were not players, but simply spectators.

"Within the last few weeks young men of this same class in Brussels have been leaving their homes and kindred by hundreds and flocking to the colors.

"I wondered whether the British public already had awakened to the true significance of the inferno of which at this moment Belgium is the center.

"The socalled German culture of the past forty-four years has been suddenly swept away and the wanton, ruthless ravages of the Germanic hordes will live in the minds of future generations and embitter the relations of the people.

"Ten days ago Tirlemont was a pleasant Flemish town. Today it is a heap of smoking ruins. All accounts agree that there was no necessity for the bombardment. The invaders apparently were bent upon battle practice. As the terrified populace rushed from their homes they were made game of by the German cavalry. Fathers escaping with their families and trying their best to shield them were shot down before the eyes of their beloved ones. Mothers carrying their babies were belabored with lance and sword.

"I saw one little flaxen haired girl of eleven staggering blindly forward, her eyes and cheek laid open by a lance thrust. A peasant woman told me her husband had been killed by the German cavalry and two of her children, both under nine years old, had been trampled to death by their horses. Her other two children had been lost."

WANT SOUTH BOUND BROOK POSTOFFICE ABOLISHED

Bound Brook, Aug. 24.—For a number of years there has been agitation on the part of some of the residents of South Bound Brook to do away with the postoffice there, provided that the free delivery of mail can be obtained from the Bound Brook office. This agitation has finally been brought before the attention of the public in general, when the Borough Council of that place decided to have a survey of the town made, partly for the purpose of numbering the buildings, which is one of the requirements of the government before a free delivery system can be established.

A petition signed by more than 100 citizens has been forwarded to Washington asking that the South Bound Brook postoffice be abolished and the mail be served by carrier from the Bound Brook office.

All of the citizens, however, are not in favor of abolishing the office and a remonstrance has been signed by a number protesting against this action.
